3 PRISONERS ESCAPE COLLINS BAY PEN

SCHOOL DAYS COMING UP—It's an unpleasant thought for many boys and girls but school opens a week today. Public and high school students are winding up their two months of holidays this week and many are spending that time making preparations for the return. The biggest task the high school students are faced with is collecting their text books. Lists for each grade's text books are available at the schools and students, many who will be beginning high school this term, are busy getting their lists and then buying their books. Melville and Bill Chamberlain, R.R. 7 Peterborough, (left and right, above) don't seem too happy, about returning to school as school secretary, Mrs. Doreen Wade, gives them their list of books. Melville is just beginning high school while Bill is entering Grade 12.

Roadblock Set Up Near Pt. Hope

Armed Police Patrol Highway 2 After 4 Cars Stolen

BELLEVILLE (CP)—Armed police set up roadblocks and patrolled all main highways in Eastern Ontario today in the hunt for three short-term prisoners who escaped from Collins Bay Penitentiary Monday night by sneaking away from a work party.

Ontario provincial police said they were on the trail of the wanted men after four cars were stolen in a series of thefts from Kingston to Port Hope.

Although the escapees—James McCooey, 22, Percy Coe, 30, and his brother, Joseph, 21—have not yet been sighted, police believe they may be heading for Northern Ontario where they lived.

The fugitives, not considered dangerous, vanished shortly before dusk while working on a farm near the penitentiary, about three miles from the main Kingston prison, which houses long-term prisoners.

Police here said the trail of stolen cars stretched about a 100 miles. Three were found abandoned early this morning. Officers picked up three razors in one of the cars.

The first car was stolen from a nylon factory parking lot in Kingston late Monday night. Provincial police are searching the Cannifton area for the Kingston cars.

Shortly afterwards, a jeep was taken from a garage in Cannifton and driven to Belleville where it was left on a lonely street. Then a salesman's car was taken. Another vehicle was reported missing.

Cobourg provincial police said they found a car stolen in Belleville in Bailieboro about 9 a.m. today and a Balieboro car stolen.

But there was no clear tie-up between these thefts and the Collins Bay trio. None of the Kingston cars they said, were found in Belleville or Cannifton to provide a link in the events.

However the police have a road block on Highway 2 and are checking cars and trucks. They are also checking through their area.

Provincial police, attached to Peterborough headquarters are not taking an active part in the hunt, but are on the alert.

Police said they have blocked all highways leading to Northern Ontario, where the fugitives were sentenced for breaking and entering. The Coe brothers received two years and six months each and McCooey two years and three months. All were sentenced at Haileybury.

Meanwhile, police continued to search the Kingston area for any sign of the convicts. They threw a cordon around the Lemoine's Point district, five miles southwest of Kingston, shortly after the break was discovered.

Police here said the men apparently broke through this early ring.

Prominent Photographer, Wife Arrested On Charge Of Abducting Woman's Daughter

TORONTO (CP). — A prominent photographer, John Steele, and his wife were arrested on Monday night and accused of abducting Mrs. Steele's daughter by a previous marriage. The daughter is missing.

Police said they picked up the couple after a five-week search across Ontario. Warrants for their arrests were sworn out July 24 after the disappearance of 10-year-old Vernon Dia Dinsdale, daughter of Mrs. Steele and her former husband, Delmar Dinsdale.

The girl was taken from her grandmother's farm in Meadowvale, about 20 miles north of Toronto. She had been staying with her father.

Police said Vernon was taken from the farm home by a woman while a man prevented the grandmother from interfering. There was no attempt to take Vernon's four-year-old sister Sharon.

The grandmother said at the time Vernon was taken that a man whom she did not know came to her front door and asked to use the telephone because his car had broken down.

"I asked him to come in," she said. "Then I heard screams in the kitchen. Vernon was crying, 'Don't take me. Don't take me,' and I could hear a scuffle."

Report Russians Set Off New Atomic Explosion On August 23

WASHINGTON (AP)—Russia has produced another atomic explosion, the government announced Monday night, and evidence thus far available to United States experts indicates it was not a hydrogen blast although perhaps of considerable power. The date was Aug. 23, the atomic energy commission statement said, and "the explosion was in the same range of energy release as our recent Nevada tests, and would appear to be part of a series." "If this proves to be the fact," the commission added, "No further announcement will be made unless intelligence indicates information of greater interest."

There were blasts of varying power in the 11-shot series which the United States conducted last spring at its proving ground in the Nevada desert, and to which the AEC compared the latest Russian effort.

LARGEST SET OFF

The last one, on June 4, was generally described as the largest atomic explosion ever to be set off in the United States proper. It was estimated to be the equivalent of 50,000 tons of TNT, or about 2½ times as powerful as the bomb dropped on Hiroshima shortly before the end of the war with Japan.

Effects of the U.S. blast on June 4 were seen or felt up to 500 miles from the test site.

This was the second U.S. disclosure in less than two weeks that the Russians had produced an atomic explosion. The earlier one on Aug. 19, seven days after it occurred, gave a measure of official American confirmation to Moscow's claim that Russian scientists had touched off a type of hydrogen bomb.

The AEC said then there was evidence of both fission and thermonuclear reactions—the latter being a scientific term for the intense heat produced in the fusion process of the dread hydrogen bomb.

Monday night's announcement spoke only of "a fission explosion . . . in Russian territory." Conventional A-bombs made from uranium employ the fission, or atom-splitting, process.

NO WORD FROM MOSCOW

There was no immediate word from Moscow on the latest test, unlike the situation following the explosion of Aug. 12. Then the Moscow paper Pravda first broke the news to the world, and the official United States announcement followed a few hours later.

The AEC termed that Russian explosion similar to one the U.S. had produced at Eniwetok in the Pacific more than two years ago.

In addition to the two Russian blasts last month, the United States has announced that it detected three others. It has never said categorically, however, whether it disclosed all the explosions it detected.

The exact method used in detection is secret, but it is known to include among other factors the sampling of the upper air for the radioactivity produced by any atomic explosion.

Crash Lands Supersonic Jet, Flight Delayed

TANGMERE, England (Reuters) Crack British test pilot Neville Duke crash-landed his supersonic jet fighter on one wheel here today soon after taking off in an attempt to break the world speed record set in July by an American.

Duke was forced to make an emergency landing because the undercarriage of his red, swept-wing Hawker Hunter did not retract properly. The plane was slightly damaged but he stepped from the cockpit unhurt.

The mishap forced the 31-year-old Second World War fighter ace to postpone for another day his attempt to crack the 715.69 m.p.h. record established July 17 by Lt. Col. William Barns of the U.S. air force in an F-86D Sabre jet, over California's Salton sea.

General Deplores Low Morale

WASHINGTON (CP) — Gen. Matthew Ridgway, new U. S. army chief of staff, has warned of lowered morale in the armed services.

Gen. Ridgway told an informal press conference Monday that he deplored the lowering of morale. He sensed, he said, widespread public criticism of the armed services and planned a study to determine why the nation was not according the highest respect, if not affection, for the people in uniform.

The general said that since he had been abroad on NATO and UN commands he had no personal knowledge of morale, but it had been reported to him as being at a low ebb.

Reports to him since he took over the army's No. 1 spot two weeks ago indicated the low morale was due to two main factors—a growing tendency on the part of the public to discredit the armed forces and their leaders, and a gradual nibbling away of the benefits of the serviceman, particularly fringe benefits, such as medical attention and commisary privileges.

Uncover Red Plot To Wreck W. German Election

BONN (AP)—The West German government said today it has uncovered a Communist plot to wreck next Sunday's national election by destroying voting stations throughout the country. Top Red agents have informed the government that the Communists plan to send squads of riot-trained toughs to attack election officials, destroy ballot boxes and frighten away voters. These informants were captured by West Germany's crack border police during the mass invasion of West Germany by Communist agents and saboteurs during the last three days.

The federal press office announced the details of the plot.

More than 1,000 of the Red toughs, many of them fresh from Soviet training schools, were grabbed Monday by the green-uniformed, rifle-carrying border patrolmen.

This pushed the number arrested since Sunday to more than 4,000, the federal interior ministry said today.

IN STATE OF ALARM

Backed by more than 100,000 regular police, the border force will remain in a state of alarm until the voting ends Sunday night, the ministry said.

West German officials charge that the Red agents are being pumped into the country to stir up riots during the final election rallies this week and on Sunday, when some 25,000,000 voters go to the polls to elect a new Parliament.

They said the invasion was elaborately planned by the East German Communist security police. The agents were equipped with false papers, bales of Red propaganda, West German money and maps showing where to assemble in West Germany. More than 130,000 marks ($30,940) has been confiscated from agents in lower Saxony alone.

TO GATHER IN RUHR

Most of the agents were told, the interior ministry said, to gather at various points in the industrial Ruhr, the main battleground of the election campaign in which the Communists are calling for the defeat of pro-Western Chancellor Konrad Adenauer.

Using fierce dogs and searchlights, the motorized border police caught 200 agents trying to skip across the frontier Monday night. Eight hundred were arrested on trains arriving at the border.

Bonn officials stressed that it is impossible to seal off the heavily wooded, 600-mile frontier separating East and West Germany even with the 10,000-man federal border police fully mobilized.

They said hundreds of Red agitators still may be slipping through at isolated points.

UN Ordered Take Back Four Employees

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—A United Nations high tribunal ordered the UN today to restore jobs to four employees and pay damages totalling $122,500 to seven others. All were fired because they refused to answer U.S. government questions about alleged Communist ties.

The four-member international board, highest appeals court for the UN staff, held that for an employee to invoke the U.S. constitution in refusing to answer such questions did not violate any UN staff rules. Some of the employees had invoked the Fifth Amendment which allows them to refuse to answer on grounds of possible self-incrimination.

But the tribunal upheld the firing of nine others—seven involved in Communist inquiries and two for non-political reasons—because they were "temporary-indefinite" employees whom the UN secretary-general could dismiss if he thought such action was in the interests of the international organization.

PERMANENT CONTRACTS

Ten of the 11 granted reinstatement or damage had permanent contracts of employment.

The 11th employee, Ruth Crawford, former information officer for the UN international children's emergency fund, had admitted a year's membership in the Communist party, terminating in 1936, but was fired by former secretary-general Trygve Lie because she refused to tell the Senate, internal security sub-committee who invited her to join the party in 1935.

The appeal of still another "permanent" employee, Eugene Wallach, a language services stenotypist, was referred back to the staff joint appeals board for an

Tell Policemen Strike Treason

MONTREAL (CP) — Police director Albert Langlois today told Montreal policemen, threatening to strike for higher pay, such action would be "treason."

The head of the city police force of 2,100 men made the statement in an appendix to his orders of the day which go out to all stations.

Mr. Langlois drew attention to provincial legislation banning strike action by any employees maintaining an essential public service such as police protection and fire-fighting systems.

Last week officials of Montreal police brotherhood announced that the 2,100 detectives and policemen would strike unless their pay is increased to Toronto levels.

Referring to the provincial law banning strikes by policemen, Mr. Langlois said a policeman's refusal to "obey the law" would be considered an "act of treason . . . and a serious breach of discipline, making dismissal justifiable."

Rain In Northern Ontario Helps 1,300 Firefighters

TORONTO (CP)—Rain-laden clouds rolled eastward across Ontario's parched and fire-swept timberlands today, bringing fresh hope to 1,300 firefighters battling 128 forest fires in the province. Heavy downpours were reported in the Sudbury district early this morning and were moving towards blackened areas of North Bay, where at least eight fires are raging unchecked in jackpine and hardwood stands. Firefighters in the Sudbury area, where hundreds of men waged an all-night battle against 10 fires, said it was a welcome relief and figured it may help them stamp out the one blaze burning unchecked through mixed woodland.

The Ontario department of lands and forests said 10 new fires, nine started by lightning and another by careless campers, broke out Monday night. Some of them are out of control.

Although only showers were forecast for the stricken areas, district foresters said there were indications that heavy rainfalls may be general throughout the north

...ED HEAVY RAIN

Dark clouds swept from Sudbury over North Bay shortly after dawn this morning and one forester said:

"This may be just the thing we've been hoping for. We need a heavy rain badly. Hundreds of men have been on the fire lines all night. They have been holding their own, and that's all."

Firefighters, weary and smoke-blackened after days of fighting, continued to operate from small planes, helicopters, bulldozers and trucks to extinguish one of the worst fire outbreaks in Ontario's history.

The blazes have raged over thousands of acres of rich timber left dry by a severe heat wave and have caused the deaths of three persons.

Faint Radio Signals Give Hope For 6 On Lost Plane

ROBERVAL, Que. (CP)—Faint radio signals from the interior of Quebec's huge Ungava wilderness gave hope today that occupants of a missing plane are safe. Three aircraft took off from here in clearing weather to search for the pontoon-equipped Norseman, missing a week.

The plane, owned by Mont Laurier Airways, carried two crew members and at least three passengers. Presence of a reported fourth passenger was not certain, an airways official said.

The Norseman with technical men aboard, was flying from Fort Chimo, on Ungava Bay, to Roberval, in the Lake St. John district about 150 miles north of Quebec.

Passengers reported aboard were identified as Dr. H. Theinhaus, German geologist; K. Koetan, Dutch engineer, and Victor Abel, engineer for Fenimore Iron Mines Company. The European technical men had been inspecting holdings of the Fenimore company.

The crew members were identified as pilot R. J. Mullin of Kenora, Ont., and flight engineer R. Everitt of Montreal.

The plane carried camping equipment and provisions.

Two RCAF Lancasters and a plane of Mont Laurier Airways took off for the search.

The dimly heard signals were believed to have come from the wild, lake-dotted region between Fort McKenzie and Nitchequon, which is about half the 1,000-mile flight the plane had undertaken.

Drivers Fired Without Reason

BRANTFORD — (CP) — Several drivers employed by the Jones Transport Company here charged they had been fired by the firm without reason and began picketing the company's yard Monday night.

The company declined to issue a statement, but it was learned that some drivers who went on what the firm termed "a wildcat strike" were not taken back when other drivers were.

The drivers had automatically ended their employment when they asked for and received their unemployment insurance books.

The company's drivers are not taking a direct part in the general transport strike since they have an agreement with the firm until Sept. 17, but several drivers stopped work recently as a gesture of support for the truckers' strike.

Reasonable Way

Judge Advocates Instalment Paying Of Court Fines

TORONTO (CP)—Chief Justice J. C. McRuer said Monday a system for paying fines by instalments is a reasonable way to avoid one punishment for the rich and another for the poor.

Appearing before the legislature's select committee studying reform institutions, he said the system used in England has cut the prison population by 25 per cent.

"It might be expensive to set it up, but it would be cheaper in the long run," he said. "In many cases today, the prisoner is in jail because he is poor. The man who is well off and can afford the fine pays it and is free."

INTERESTED IN IDEA

Committee members said they are interested in the idea and that they may make a recommendation when they report to the provincial government.

Chief Justice McRuer said the present division of authority between governments in the administration of penal institutions is a stumbling block in the path of justice. Penitentiaries were run by the federal government and reform institutions by the provincial government.

"It is difficult to administer penal institutions under the divided authority," he said. "A prisoner is sent to one place or the other depending on the length of his term, not on the basis of character, as it should be. Reform institutions and penitentiaries should be brought under one jurisdiction, either federal or provincial."

PROFESSIONAL OFFICERS

The chief justice said he strongly favors creating a system of professional probation officers to help former offenders keep out of jail and to get those in jail out in such a way that they won't go back.

Prisoners who are not reformable should be in an institution providing a maximum of security, such as an island in the lower St. Lawrence river, he said.

The committee left Monday night to visit jails at Port Arthur, Fort William and Kenora.

Fear Disease Follows Storms

ROBSTOWN, Tex. (AP) —Flood dangers subsided with receding water today but threats of disease lingered after 10 days of south Texas cloudbursts.

Thousands forced from their homes remained in emergency shelters again Monday night as health authorities gave 1,600 typhoid innoculations and warned residents of this wide Gulf coast area near Corpus Christi to boil drinking water.

Monday was the first day since Thursday that heavy downpours skipped this flood-plagued city and nearby Sinton. More than 2,500 were chased from their homes during the downpours.

Robstown city officials said it would be some time before the city is free of flood waters, but the main residential district and the business district was slowly drying out last night.

Health and sanitation remained the greatest problem. Officials said that since flood waters covered about 1,000 pit privies in the town's outskirts, all flood water must be assumed to be contaminated.

No damage estimate was available.

OTTAWA (CP) — Married soldiers going to Europe this fall will be able to send for their wives and families, at government expense, as soon as they have found suitable accommodation.

Manslaughter Hearing Postponed Indefinitely

CORNWALL (CP)—Preliminary hearing of manslaughter charges against two drivers in a bus-truck crash which took 20 lives near Morrisburg July 31 has been postponed. It had tentatively been scheduled to open Friday.

Crown Attorney R. P. Milligan said Monday no new date has been set. That would depend on return to Morrisburg of district coroner Dr. C. A. Louden, who will testify at the hearing.

Charged are Lorne Chesebrough, 28, of Kingston, driver for Colonial Coach Lines, and Max Roodman, 41, of Toronto, driver of a truck which, police say, was struck by a Colonial bus before both vehicles plunged into the Williamsburg canal. Twenty passengers were drowned, 17 escaped.

Paralyzed Woman Gives Birth To Triplets

OWLING GREEN, O. (AP)—A 28-year-old woman whose legs have been paralyzed since she was 12 gave birth to triplets Monday.

Hospital authorities reported Mrs. Della Gean McKenzie and her children all in good condition.

The mother and her 26-year-old husband Paul, a factory worker, said they were "too flabbergasted" to name the children yet.

One boy and one girl each weighed three pounds, 14 ounces. The third child, a girl, had not been weighed but her weight was guessed at about three pounds, six ounces.

Mother In Iron Lung Has Baby Boy

PORT ARTHUR (CP)—A healthy six-pound baby boy was delivered early today in an iron lung to a mother paralyzed up to the neck by polio.

Mrs. Marvin Rowe, 26, of Port Arthur, was stricken with polio one week ago and has been in an iron lung at the Isolation Hospital here since.

The difficult delivery was performed by Dr. C. E. Baker.

Dr. Baker said that Mrs. Rowe could not be removed from the ung for fear she would suffocate. He had to manipulate long forceps through the portholes of the lung.

"It wasn't easy," he commented.

It is the first iron lung birth recorded at the Lakehead.

The baby, taken to Port Arthur General Hospital, is doing fine. Condition of the mother is unchanged.

Gloucester Colonel Freed By Reds

Held 19 Months In Solitary Confinement

PANMUNJOM, Korea (Reuters) Lt. Col. James Carne, commander of the British stand on the Imjin river in April, 1951, told reporters after his return to freedom here today that the Chinese Communists had held him in solitary confinement for 19 months after his capture because of his "hostile attitude."

He said that during his solitary confinement he lived in a small guarded house, sleeping on the floor and receiving the rations of an ordinary Chinese soldier.

The 45-year-old colonel jumped from a truck here today after 28 months imprisonment saying: "It feels great to be back."

Carne was smoking a pipe and smiling as he was welcomed by senior officers of the British Commonwealth Division in Korea and Gen. Maxwell Taylor, 8th army commander.

Commenting on the famous last-ditch battle in April, 1951, Carne said: "I hope I never have to fight a battle again like that one. But let me tell you if I had I would keep the same men."

PRAISES SPIRIT

He praised the fighting spirit of the gallant Gloucestershire Regiment.

He said he hid for several days before being captured when the remnants of the battalion left the hill.

Carne described the conduct of his men on the march to the prison camp, and the little he had seen of them in the camp itself, as "good—a splendid example of British spirit."

The colonel looked fit and well, wearing a flannel-peaked cap and carrying a bundle, as he got off a Russian-built truck.

When the Communists overran the Gloucesters' position after desperate fighting the wounded Gloucesters asked him not to leave them to the mercies of the Chinese. His characteristic reply was: "not on your life."

FATE UNKNOWN

Only 40 to 50 of the first battalion came through the battle to return to the Allied lines.

For three months after the battle, Carne's own fate was unknown, until the Communists announced he was a prisoner. He was the highest ranking British officer to fall into their hands.

He was awarded the Distinguished Service Order in July, 1951, while a prisoner, for leading his battalion in an attack on a key Communist position some time before the Imjim battle took place.

In the prison camp Carne tried his hand at sculpture, and carved several regimental emblems. He brought some of his handiwork home.

Canadian To Attend Conference

Will Discuss Details Of Peace Parley Pearson Indicates

OTTAWA —(CP)— George Ignatieff a counsellor at the Canadian embassy in Washington, is to attend a meeting called for this afternoon by the United States to discuss the time and place of the scheduled peace conference with the Communists; External Affairs Minister Pearson said Monday.

Announcement of the meeting, to which the U.S. has invited 15 United Nations countries which contributed forces in Korea, was made Monday in Washington.

State Secretary John Foster Dulles will represent the U.S. at the meeting, to be held at the state department.

CAN SET UP ARRANGEMENTS

Mr. Pearson said in a telephone interview that under a resolution endorsed Friday by the UN general assembly the U.S. was empowered to set up administrative arrangements for the scheduled peace conference.

Under the Friday resolution, Canada, as a participant in the Korean war, may send a representative to the Korean peace conference and she has indicated she will do so.

Who will go has not yet been announced but government officials say it will depend on the level of representatives sent by the big powers. Thus, if the U.S. and Britain send ministers to represent them, Canada likely will do the same.

Avalanche Swept Climber Away

RAWALPINDI, Pakistan (Reuters)—Dr. Charles Houston, leader of the unsuccessful American expedition to K-2 (Mount Godwin Austen), told Monday how a member of the party was swept to his death by an avalanche after a howling 13-day storm at the 26,000-foot level forced abandonment of the final assault.

Arthur Gilkey, 26-year-old New York geologist, had been crippled by blood clots in his leg, Houston said. Tied up in his sleeping bag and fastened to two ice axes, Gilkey was left on a slope after some of the other climbers had fallen. An avalanche carried him away while the rescue of the others was going on, the expedition leader said.

Houston, a veteran Alpinist who took part in two previous attempts on the 28,250-foot Godwin Austen, world's second highest mountain, said the 13-day storm atop the peak was the worst he had ever known. He said he thought no other mountaineering expedition had ever stayed so long at such a height.

Houston and other members of the expedition arrived here Sunday by air from Skardu, in Kashmir. They reached Skardu Saturday after their 170-mile trek back from the world's highest unclimbed peak.

Uses Air Gun To Catch Butterflies

PLACENZA, Italy (Rueters)—Paolo Cavanna, part-owner of a motorcycle repair shop here, is a modern-day Pied Piper—of butterflies.

He has developed two inventions which he claims are the first improvements in the art of butterfly catching in hundreds of years.

The first is an air gun to replace the traditional butterfly collector's net.

It shoots a cloud of paralyzing gas a distance of 30 feet. Fired at a butterfly in flight, the gun brings it senseless to the ground. A motionless butterfly is paralyzed where it perches.

Cavanna's second innovation is a whistle which emits a high E-flat note.

When he blows his E-flat, Cavanna claims, butterflies gather about him.

Sometimes, he says, hundreds of them follow him for hours.

When he sets off for the mountain pastures where he does his hunting, women from nearby villages call their children indoors as he passes.

They say he is possessed by an evil spirit.

Prices Irregular On Stock Exchange

TORONTO (CP)—Prices settled into an irregularly mixed pattern in early afternoon stock market trading today. Trading slowed to a crawl following Monday's sharp set-back.

Speculative interest was notably lacking. Moderate activity in Calder Bousquet, New Larder U and Nesbitt Labine resulted in penny gains. Gunnar also firmed but Nudalama and Goldfields eased.

In industrials, papers faded slowly but foods, banks and manufacturing companies tended higher. Gains of around $1 were chalked up by CIL, Ford A, Loblaw B and Lawson and Jones B. On the downside were General Motors, Disher Steel and International Paper.

Falconbridge, Hudson Bay, Quemont and Waite Amulet all shared in the advance in base metals, Noranda and International Nickel continued soft.

The western oils list had an irregular look as Federated, Commoil and Central Explorers went forward but Britalta, Kroy and Peace River slipped. In golds, gains for Giant and Little Long Lac were balanced by losses for Dome and Lamaque.

Omemee Man Places Third On Wheat Entry

TORONTO (CP)—The putt-putt of ancient machines mingles with the many other noises of the Canadian National Exhibition today to mark Automotive and Electrical Day.

Relics of as far back as 1902 were to parade in review before the thousands expected for the CNE's fourth day.

Some 158,500 persons, about half of them youngsters, swarmed through the groups Monday, taking advantage of the nickel values offered only on Children's day.

The Ontario government plans to spend $59,500,000 on Ontario schools next year and another $9,000,000 for universities, Education Minister Dunlop said Monday.

Speaking at a CNE directors luncheon, Mr. Dunlop said Ontario will have 1,000,000 students waiting to start school by this time next year. There now are 900,000 students in Ontario schools.

NEED COMPETITION

The minister said some educational areas—not Ontario—tend to take the hard work and competition out of school work. This, he said, can never be done until the hard work and competition are taken out of life.

In agriculture judging, Norman Schmidt of Mildmay swept to another victory in wheat, oats and barley sheaf events. A consistent winner at the CNE, Schmidt has entered prize grain for more years than even the judges can remember.

In the wheat championship, Louis M. Wilson of Oakville took second honors and Weslie Wilson of Omemee, third.

R. L. Trolove of Burkes Falls placed behind Mr. Schmidt in barley judging and Weslie Wilson was second in oats.

Veteran exhibitors George Reeves of Islington, Fred Goring of Scotland, Ont., and E. H. Reeves, Islington, shared top honors in the commercial vegetable judging.

A newcomer in the vegetable and agricultural industries, H. Robinson of Norwich, Ont., took fourth place.

In the Ontario Fruit and Vegetable Growers' Association competition the Toronto branch and the Brantford group took top awards.

$35,000 Fire Razes 3 Houses

LIMOGES (CP)—A $35,000 fire Monday razed three houses in this village 25 miles southeast of Ottawa. It was apparently started by the sun shining through a garden window onto some paper.

Destroyed were a combined home and grocery store owned by Hilaire Lemieux, the home of Joseph Daze, which housed the village postoffice, and a two-storey house owned by Hormidas Leduc.

Mrs. Lemieux was rescued by Viateur Couture and Lucien Savage, who ran through the flames, dropped the woman from a window into the arms of friends below and then leaped themselves.

DISCOVERS TROUBLE

After being held up by unsuitable weather for several days, Duke took off from this RAF base soon after 8 a.m. today.

The Hawker Aircraft Company's chief test pilot was only airborne a few seconds when he discovered that his undercarriage had not retracted properly. He immediately gave up hope of making his record bid and headed for the Hawker airfield at Dunsfold, 23 miles away.

Once over Dunsfold, he circled for about half an hour to use up his fuel to lessen danger of fire. He also threw his sleek little fighter all over the sky in a vain attempt to lock both legs of the undercarriage.

When he finally streaked in for a landing, the unretracted undercarriage leg immediately buckled. One wing was slightly damaged as the plane hit.

Father Told Son Buried

TORONTO (CP) — A Toronto packinghouse worker said today that three days after he was advised his son had been committed to a mental hospital he drove there and found the youth dead and buried.

Sebastian Dudziac ssid he learned last Thursday that his 20-year old son, Joe, picked up by Toronto police on a vagrancy charge last week, had been sent to the Ontario Hospital at Whitby, 35 miles east of here.

He drove to the institution to see how he was coming along and officials told him Joe was buried.

"I can't understand how he could have died so suddenly and be buried in such haste," the father said. "I wasn't even shown a death certificate. Just a note on a piece of paper, after he was buried like a dog."

Joe, a baseball player who had signed a professional contract and played with Dothan (Alabama) Eagles in the Wiregrass Baseball Association, was arrested Aug. 19 at Maple Leaf Stadium after he started tearing off his clothes.

He was charged with vagrancy and remanded for a mental examination in Don Jail, in East Toronto.

Mr. Dudzic said he had received no word on the examination a week later. He went to the jail and was told Joe had been sent to Whitby.

Elaine McFadden, 7, was saved from drowning Sunday by her father, Jerome McFadden, 92 Sophia St., with the help of two of his sons, Jerome and Pat, Sunday afternoon.

The father and his children were out along the canal near the high bridge on McFarlane St. Young Elaine, who couldn't swim, was kneeling beside the water, lost her balance and toppled in fully clothed.

Her father jumped in to her rescue with all his clothes on and helped by his two sons, pulled her out.

The youngster suffered shock and bruises but apart from those was none the worse for her experience.

Boy, 3, Hit By Car Injuries Not Serious

Three-year-old Allan Lowes of 367 Rogers St., son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Lowes, was treated at St. Joseph's Hospital Monday after he was struck by a car at the corner of Hunter and Rogers Sts.

The boy escaped the accident with abrasions, cuts and brush burns and was released from the hospital after treatment.

John Vernor, 64, of 320 Boswell Ave., had been driving east on Hunter when the accident occurred. de said the boy ran out from the north side of the street without looking and hit the left front side of his car.

Braking to a stop, the motorist rushed the boy to St. Joseph's Hospital, only one block away, where his injuries were described as not serious.

PC Dennis Traynor investigated the accident.

Pilot Takes Plane Up To Record 83,235 Feet

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A U.S. Marine Corps ace credited with downing 18 enemy planes in the Second World War has flown higher than any man in history. He has zoomed a rocket plane up to 83,235 feet. Lt.-Col. Marion Eugene Carl, 37, disclosed at a press conference Monday that he set the unofficial altitude record Aug. 21 in the navy's D558-2 Skyrocket, a rocket plane built by Douglas Aircraft Corp.

The mark exceeds the Skyrocket's own previous record of 79,494 feet, established by Douglas test pilot Bill Bridgeman Aug. 15, 1951.

TRIED FOR SPEED RECORD

Col. Carl also disclosed that he attempted unsuccessfully Monday to break the aircraft's speed record of 1,238 miles an hour, also set by Bridgeman.

The tall, handsome colonel has made four flights in the Skyrocket, all from Edwards air force base, 70 miles northeast of here on the Mojave desert.

He says he "flew a little faster than 1,000 miles an hour in my attempt this morning."

During the record altitude flight, Col. Carl said, the Skyrocket was dropped from the belly of a B-29 Superfortress at an altitude of 33,500 feet.

"I was perfectly comfortable in the pressurized cabin and in my pressure suit. The outside temperature was minus 70 at 55,000 feet and minus 57 and 58 at 80,000."

Nations Unite In Cancer Fight

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Tangible contributions are being made by countries all over the world towards what is hoped will ultimately be a cure for cancer, Dr Ivan Smith, director o fthe Ontario Cancer Foundation clinic said today.

Dr. Smith said that at the international congress of radiology in Copenhagen, from which he just returned, unusual interest was displayed in the development and use of the cobalt bomb.

"We feel that cobalt has real advantages in the treatment of deep-seated cancer. It has broadened our hope in the management of certain deep seated lesions and in many of those previously managed by other forms of radiation," he said.

However, Dr. Smith said, early diagnosis still stands out as the most important weapon in cancer control.

SITUATION SERIOUS

An official with the lands and forests department said here:

"The situation is still serious. Firefighters gained a little ground in the last 24 hours. We don't know how bad the 10 new fires are but we are rushing men and planes to the areas of Pembroke, White River, Cochrane, Chapleau and Sudbury. Forest rangers said they could see huge clouds of smoke billowing from the wooded areas. Thick underbrush was sending the flames along swiftly.

North Bay, 28; Sudbury, 11; White River, 3; Pembroke, 32; Sioux Lookout, 5; Kapuskasing, 1; Cochrane, 6; Chapleau, 3; Gogama, 6; Swastika, 3; Parry Sound, 15; Lindsay, 7; and Tweed 8.

DAMAGE IN MILLIONS

At least 22 blazes are raging out of control. Most of them are in the Pembroke and North Bay districts, where fires have left millions of dollars worth of timber nothing but charred stumps.

One blaze in the McCalum township area of North Bay has destroyed 2,500 acres of mixed timber and is sweeping over acre upon acre by the hour.

Nearly 800 men, in planes and on trucks, are battling the North Bay fires. Seventeen planes and many bulldozers shuttled men and supplies throughout the area during the night. The planes, some operated by the air force, dumped water bags on the flames as ground firefighters pumped and carried pails of water from nearby lakes.

"It is hard and slow work," a forestry official said there. "The flames spread quickly through the tinder-dry forests and we need men on the job 24-hours a day."

Some planes and men were rushed to the Pembroke area late Monday night when the new outbreaks started. The forestry districts of Fort Frances, Kenora, Port Arthur, Geraldton and Sault Ste. Marie sent their best men, planes and equipment to the more southern and eastern sections to lend a hand.

OUTBREAK NEAR BORDER

Some Ontario firefighters were sent to help stamp out a blaze in Manitoba Monday night. The outbreak is near the Ontario-Manitoba border. Under mutual agreement, the provinces tackle fires close to their boundaries.

Meanwhile, hundreds of firefighters were still battling outbreaks in the woodlands of Western Quebec, along the north shore of the Ottawa river, and in areas north of Montreal. At least 60 fires were burning in the western Quebec district.

other hearing. He had appeared before a federal grand jury investigating subversion. The UN in announcing his firing said he had not given a complete account of former employment as required by UN regulations.

Of the 11 employees in whose favor it decided, the tribunal ordered four reinstated in their jobs, money damages of $7,000 to $40,000 to six others who do not want to go back to work for the UN, and $10,000 damages and salary until her pension begins in 1955 to Jane Reed, 58-year-old library staff worker.

A spokesman for UN secretary-general Dag Hammarskjold said he is studying the whole decision, and particularly the order to reinstate the four employees. If he refuses to restore their jobs, they can demand further damages.

The high tribunal is headed by Mrs. Paul Bastid of France. Other members are Lord Crook, Britain; Sture Petren, Sweden, and, as an alternate, Omar Loutfi, Egypt.

They were elected by the 60-nation general assembly. Their decisions, reached at conferences in Geneva, Switzerland, were made public here today.

They awarded the largest damages—$40,000—to Jack S. Harris, 41, former trusteeship division expert on Africa and a U. S. army agent with the wartime OSS.

FIELD LIMITED

The tribunal justified the high damages to him on the grounds that he had joined the UN at the special request of trusteeship division director Ralph Bunche, he had been dismissed from a job paying $11,690 a year, and his professional field was limited.

In addition to Harris and Miss Reed, damages were awarded to:

Leon Elveson, library clerk, $7,000 damages; Frank Carter Bancroft, documents control, $12,000; Julia Older, documents control, $27,500; Sidney Glassman, economic stability division, $20,000; Joel Gordon, economic stability division, $6,000.

The board ordered reinstatement of Miss Crawford, Eda Glaser, a clerk-typist fired by Hammarskjold after she refused to fill out a U. S. state department loyalty questionnaire; Hope Eldridge, statistical expert in population, and Alex Svenchansky, a Russian-speaking expert in the radio division.

No Heat Relief Sighted For U.S. Yet

CHICAGO (AP)—A stubborn heat wave rounded out a week-long grip on the eastern half of the United States Monday with still no relief in sight.

As on preceding days, the heat shattered long-standing records, caused vegetation to do a slow burn and, directly or indirectly, led to scores of deaths.

The hot air, well entrenched from the central plains to the Atlantic and from the Great Lakes to the Gulf of Mexico, has yet to meet its match in a husky, cool air mass. The weather bureau says no crucial meeting of opposing air masses—a usual forerunner to cooler weather—is in sight.

9 DIE FROM HEAT

In a seven-hour period in Chicago, where the temperature reached 99.1, nine persons died of heat exhaustion or heart ailments aggravated by the sticky weather.

One of the hottest spots in the U.S. was Fredericksburg, Va., where the temperature rose to 106, the highest recorded in the city's history.

In Washington, D.C., more than 20,000 federal workers were sent home in mid-afternoon when the temperature reached 99.

New York City had a 97 reading.

Accident Victim Condition Sinks

Condition of Edward Radford of Hastings took a turn for the worse Monday at Civic Hospital, hours after he was injured in an accident near Campbellford.

The accident took the life of his wife, 70 year-old Mrs. Beatrice Radford, while two youths, Douglas Radford and Walter Fisher, both 18, were also injured.

Civic Hospital authorities described the elderly man's condition as critical today. He had been in satisfactory condition when first taken to the hospital Sunday night with a fractured leg.

He is an employee of the W. P. Plant sawmill and foundry in Hastings.

Goes To Meet Russian Wife After 7 Years

MONTREAL (CP) — Alfred C. separated from his Russian-born wife nearly seven years by the Kremlin, went to Montreal airport today to meet her and the six-year-old son he has never seen.

He took with him a toy airplane and a football for the youngster. Hall, deputy United Kingdom information officer in Ottawa, arrived in Montreal several hours before his wife and son, Nicky, were due by plane from London.

Relaxation of restrictions by Moscow government allowed Mrs. Hall to leave Russia to join her husband.

"Reports I have been getting from London indicate my mother and sister have been loading the boy up with toys, and too many aren't good for him," said Hall.

He said he is sure Nicky will like Canada and will form Canadian friendships quickly.

Mr. Hall met his wife while she was studying English at Moscow University and he was stationed in the Russian capital as a member of a British diplomatic mission.

The Halls were separated when the Russians refused to issue an exit permit for Mrs. Hall at the time her husband was transferred. The visas for her and Nicky were issued only a fortnight ago.

Awaiting arrival of the plane, Mr. Hall would not talk about a gift he had purchased for his blonde wife. She flew from Moscow to the Russian zone of Berlin Saturday wearing a grey suit and white hat Hall had sent her. They have been able to correspond freely through the United Kingdom embassy in Moscow.

Mr. Hall rented a cottage for September in the Gatineau district north of Ottawa and said he will take his family there so they can "get away from everything" for a month.

He said Nicky has done a lot of fishing close to Moscow and probably will find the Gatineau river just as suitable as a fishing place.

Summer Theatre Closes With Hit "Moon Is Blue"

The comedy, sentiment and smartness of "The Moon Is Blue" got a sincere and light-hearted showing from the Queen Mary stage Monday evening and swept the big audience into paroxysms of laughter and titillation. It is the last Summer Theatre production of the season, and a good one. The three principal actors—Joan Blackman, Harry Geldard and Peter Mews were delighting. Peter Mews, back for his only Peterborough appearance this season, was warml applauded on his first entry.

What made "The Moon Is Blue" a tricky play for Ontario and American movie censors are some of its lines. Baldly read they may seem more pregnant than they are.

BROADWAY SUCCESS

What has made it a Broadway success is, I suggest, not the sophisticated, smart dialogue, but the sentimental pedestal on which it puts young American womanhood. Innocence, even in Brooklyn, is a traditional American ideal. The harried American urbanite still cherishes a vision of dolls who are not molls; of modesty becoming Mom; and of successful young big city men chaste though chased, pure in their love at first sight and hallowing a cabin in the Maine woods.

Maybe all this happens only once in a blue moon, but Americans like to believe in it (they buy it so much in movies and magazines). The play's fabric really indicates that the moon is made of green cheese. Its secondary title should be "Oh Virtue Rewarded."

WIT AND SENTIMENT

The play won hearts and applause because it is a clever confection and was beautifully played. Many of the lines scintilate — for instance, the pat curtain line at the end of Act 1—it brought the house down. The wit and frolic are wrapped up in sentiment—atop the Empire State building in the opening scene and brought full circle to that heaven again in the final scene. These are heart-throbs.

The rest of the play, taking place in a swish New York bachelor apartment, is a prattling prance between the guileless, questioning, innocent Patty O'Neill and the charming, wealthy reprobate David Slater. Between them is sincere and decent young Donald Gresham (the architect owner of the apartment), the butt of Slater's sallies and of Patty's chatter and love.

NEWCOMER

Patty is played by a delightful newcomer from Montreal and Toronto — Joan Blackman. Miss Blackman, pert and demure, is entrancing to behold and sounds as ingenuous and 21-ish as she is supposed to be. It is a big role, with cascades of lines.

Harry Geldard is fully convincing as the man-about-town-and-women. He times his quips and arched eyes with aplomb and causes a great deal of adulterated fun.

Peter Mews plays the clean-minded young man Donald at a deliberate pace, quietly tuning the role below the hectic pitch of the other two. The playwright does not deal kindly with the part in the middle of the play; Mr. Mews has long periods of standing about merely saying, "Will you go away." He and the girl have some charming passages, bluemooning.

An Irish New York cop, father of the innocent girl, makes a knock-down entry midway — Michael Sadlier gives the punch. Mr. Sadlier directed the play.

Sets are good; so is the lighting.

To repeat: this is your last chance to see lively theatre at the Queen Mary this season. So absorbed and entertained was the first-night audience that not a person stirred from his seat until the very last of many curtain-calls was taken and the house lights went up.—T. J. A.

New Water Skis Eliminate Many Cold Dips

CORNWALL, Ont. (CP)—Water skiing provided many an unappreciated dunking for Robert Riddell of Cornwall—he just couldn't seem to stay afloat. So he recently built his own special type water skis which pretty well eliminate the chances of nose dives.

Building the skis took just one day of work at his cottage near here.

The new ski now has patents pending in Canada and Riddell has also applied for a United States patent on his invention.

Difference between the "old" type water skis and Riddell's is that his are of pontoon construction. They won't sink. If a "pontooner" takes a tumble he can hang on to the new skis. Also, there is no stumbling with crossed skis as the two pontoons are anchored together.

Both length and width of the skis are similar to the standard variety.

Main advantage seen by their inventor is that the skis are light in weight, which means they can be used with a less powerful motorboat than required for ordinary type water skis. Accordingly the user can go faster, adding to the thrill of the sport.

To add to the feeling of security the new skis have small rubber boots attached into which the skier inserts his feet. This stops skidding.

MAKES THE FUR FLY—Probably the world's only cat to fly faster than sound is Zero, six-toed alley cat mascot of the 62nd Fighter-Interceptor Squadron at O'Hare International Airport, Chicago. She made her supersonic flight in an F86-D Sabrejet, piloted by Maj. Richard Garrett, squadron commander.

Bootleg Bottle Costs Man $108

William Smith of Hope township pleaded guilty to drunk driving and was sentenced to seven days in jail and his car impounded for three months. On the same charge Bob McMasters of Cobourg also went down for seven days. There were accidents involved in both cases.

Tom Munro, Halidmand township paid $100 and costs on a charge of illegal possession. Police nabbed him after he came out of a house on D'Arcy streets here with a bottle of liquor on Saturday night. Munro said he paid eight dollars for the 26-ounce bottle of whiskey.

Police found Charles Johnston of Huntsville asleep on park bench Saturday night with a part bottle of wine on him. He paid $10 and costs. Hollis Taylor of Akron, Ohio, was fined $10 and costs in absentia on a charge of taking pickeral below the legal limit. Game overseer Vic Harris found him in possession of an 11½ inch pickerel at Rice Lake.

Paul Smith, Hastings man, who police said failed to heed a previous warning about faulty lights, paid $3.00 and costs for driving with one headlight and $50 for driving while impaired.

Destroyer Daring Helps Aftermath Of Earthquakes

By PHILIP TOYNBEE

IN ATHENS (OFNS)—It was the time of aftermath—the aftermath of earthquake. There were two of us, a friend and I, both disreputable and slovenly. We had been among the Greek Islands for two nights and a day, aboard a coaster and then tramping the damaged land; and so we were a little apprehensive when we presented ourselves at British Naval Headquarters, in the ruined port of Argostoli.

Arriving at the headquarters, a fragile hut on piles above the blue water, our apprehension was not diminished at the sight of several almost immaculate naval officers, whose white shirts, white shorts, white knee-socks and white shoes were scarcely tinged by the grey rubble-dust of the ruins. In addition to the nervousness begotten of our grotesque appearance, there was the familiar malaise of the journalist arriving as a spectator on a scene of busy and courageous operations.

Yet nothing could have been more courteous than our reception. We were immeddiately invited on board the destroyer Daring and urged to make it our headquarters for as long as we wished. The little green tent which had been rigged for us in the dust by our Greek Army friends seemed an unbearable alternative to this sudden vision of luxury. So we made our excuses to the Greeks and went on board.

WORK DONE

Daring had arrived three full days before we did, and already the greater part of her work had been done. All her two hundred tons of emergency supplies had been landed long ago; the main roads of Cephalonia had been blasted into, providing some sort of precarious passages to the villages; wounded had been saved from the ruins. We went on board in the first faint air of relaxation, of cool, mereiful drinks quaffed in the ward-room, of reminiscence, of speculation on the next port of call. The officers and ship's company evidently had the pleasant sense of a job well done, and all were hoping they would be allowed to sail for Athens the next day, instead of being ordered directly back to Malta.

The Greek General Officer Commanding had been informed of this universal desire, and at a conference the next morning, he solemnly asked the British admiral if Daring would complete her invaluable help by evacuating seven stretcher cases to Athens.

Permission was granted, of course, for Captain Gick of Daring is as wily and tenacious in negotiations as he had proved himself competent and courageous in operations. So a well-satisfied ship weighed anchor at Agostoli just five days after it arrived there.

EASY AIR

What impressed me most about this, my first journey on a British warship, was the easy relaxation which was made possible by an extreme, traditional and scarcely-considered efficiency. On deck small groups of sailors sat about singing to mouth organs and a violin; in the ward room officers lay back in easy chairs, reading the illustrated papers; even on the bridge there was nothing to tell that this was the centre of command except for an occasional request down the speaking tube for a minute alteration of course.

My companion was a lover, and old inhabitant, of Greece, and from the bridge he pointed out to us Missolonghi, Lepanto, Corinth and Mount Parnassus. Finally, he gave a short address to the crew on Greece, on Corinth Canal,on what they would find in Athens. Suddenly a warship's voyage from an earthquake had turned into an old-fashioned Hellenic cruise.

Meanwhile, to add a final note of ease, we were spasmodically listening-in on the ship's wireless to the last splendid hours of the Oval Test Match. The winning hit in this most exciting cricket match between England and Australia, was made just as the tug which was to hold our bows straight through the deep, narrow cut of the canal came alongside.

Daring was the largest class of ship capable of passing through the canal, and the operation was a delicate one. In an instant the atmosphere changed. Orders succeeded one another from the bridge as we nosed our way between the three-rundred-foot walls, sometimes with no more than nine feet to spare on each side of us. But once in the Aegean Sea, Captain Gick conducted us at a throbbing twenty-eight knots on our way to the pleasures of Athens.

LAVISH PLEASURES

And those pleasures, in which my friend and I undeservedly shared, were as lavish as any of the crew can have hoped for. Greek and British cars streamed down to the Piraeus, and crew and officers were feted in Athens for three happy days.

On one occasion when a British sailor was urged to rash action by the unexpected potency of the local Ouzo, the Greek police who conducted him back to his ship insisted that they had nothing to say against him but had thought that he might be glad of a lift. The sailors are back in Malta now, but they will have much to remember from their multi-colored visit to Greece. I shall have much more to remember of the gaiety, the charm and the kindness of the British Navy.

Want Potato Import Quota

VICTORIA (CP) — A British Columbia government - supported brief calling for import quotas on United States potatoes will be sent to Trade Minister Howe and Agriculture Minister Gardiner from the B.C. Federation of Agriculture.

C. E. Walls, secretary manager of the federation who drew up the brief, said Monday B.C. growers are hard hit by a surplus of potatoes in the U.S.

Mr. Walls said a meeting in Vancouver Saturday called by the B.C. department of agriculture and attended by delegates of the provincial marketing board, B.C. vegetable marketing board and the federation, decided to ask the cabinet ministers to draw up quotas immediately.

Potatoes are selling for half of last years' price in the United States, Mr. Walls said, and these potatoes are coming onto the Canadian market and depressing prices in the Canadian potato industry.

Mrs. Marion Beatrice Smith, of London and Bournemouth, England, stipulated in her will that the money be used to maintain the ship Northern Cross, which she gave to the diocese in 1934, and to provide a replacement if needed.

Mrs. Smith died last April, leaving £130,549. She also madea £5,000 bequest to the diocese of the Arctic for maintaining a mission at Cambridge Bay.

1878 Cornerstone Reveals Names Of Old Residents

MILLBROOK — (ENS) — Workmen repairing St. Thomas' Anglican Church parish hall recently discovered the cornerstone August 12, 1878.

Among the names listed as being present at that ceremony were those of the Earl of Duffering, governor-general and the Hon. D. A. McDonald, Lieutenant-governor of Ontario.

ONE STILL LIVING

Only person still alive who was listed on the document in the box is Miss Alice Turner, now 96, and living in Victoria, B. C. She is a sister of Dr. H. A. Turner of Millbrook and a daughter of the late Dr. Henry Turner.

Miss Turner, listed as a teacher in the Sunday School, at one time served as church organist, and organized the St. Thomas' Women's Auxiliary. In Vicoria, where she later lived with her father before his death, she organized the first W. A. of Christ Church Cathedral.

In the box as well were found copies of the newspapers of the day: the Millbrook Messenger, Port Hope Times, Canadian Illustrated News (Montreal), Toronto Mail, Montreal Weekly Witness, Peterborough Review, Toronto Globe, Montreal Journal of Commerce, The Dominion Churchman, Toronto. All documents and newspapers are in good shape.

Handsome copperplate handwriting on the document listing the names is believed to be the work of Major R. Howden, a great-uncle of the foreman in charge of the building gang which discovered the box, T. A. Campbell.

Major Howden is listed as a member of the building committee. Mr. Campbell's father's name —George Campbell— appears as deputy-reeve of Cavan. George Campbell served as an MP in 1892.

LAID CORNERSTONE

George Needler, who laid the cornerstone as superintendent of the Sunday School, owned and operated a mill where the one belonging to Attwooll and Sheppard now stands.

Listed as one of the Sunday school teachers at the time was Walker Needler, a son of George Needler.

Others named are Alexander Ferguson, reeve of Cavan; William Hunt, a deputy reeve; William Vance and George Forster, church wardens, R. J. Armstrong, George Needler, C. H. Winslow, and W. L. S. Jackson, sidesmen.

Rector was the Rev. T. W. Allen, later Archdeacon Allen, who served the parish of Cavan for 57 years. Archdeacon Allen was the father of Harry Allen who celebrated his 92nd birthday earlier this month.

R. J. Armstrong, the sidesman, was known in the village as "Steam Bob" Armstrong, as he operated the first steam mill in the village. It was situated on the west side of the railway station.

Remainder listed are: Miss Annie Kells, organist, A. Wood, William Vance, George Needler, Walker Needler, Mrs. Turner, Mrs. Tiffin, Mrs. Gardiner, Mrs. Vance, Miss Kells, Miss Maggie Armstrong Miss Beaty, Miss Geoghegan and Miss Turner, teachers, R. J. Armstrong, George Forster, William Vance, A. Wood, R. Howden, building committee; W. Pendry, contractor.

PETER McCLELLAND, age 19, graduate of Cobourg Collegiate, has been advised that he is the winner of two Queen's University scholarships, one the Knight Scholarship in Biology, worth $915 and the other the Douglas Scholarship in General Proficiency, also valued at $915. In graduating this summer, he had nine first class honors out of nine examinations tried. He will take commerce and finance at Queen's. He is the son of Mrs. T. H. McClelland, local school teacher, and the late T. H. McClelland who was assistant principal of Cobourg Collegiate at the time of his death some years ago.

Fin-Loose Fish Getting Around

MONTREAL (CP)—Now comes the story about the foot-loose—or is it fin-loose?—fish.

The Quebec biological bureau of the game and fisheries department is learning about these wanderers through tags worn by the fish and returned by anglers.

A. Marleau was fishing in Montreal harbor when he hooked a 19-inch, two-pound dore which had been tagged in Vermont and wandered into Montreal by way of Lake Chaplain, Missisquoi Bay, the Richelieu river and the St. Lawrence.

A tag returned by George Vanston of Mallorytown, Ont., showed he caught a six-pound sturgeon near there which had been released eight years earlier at Ile Juillet down the St. Lawrence. It had grown from 30 to 42 inches in length.

The bureau also has record of three fish that stayed near home. Fernand Bruelle of nearby Beloeil station went fishing in the Richelieu river and caught three tagged dore. All had been released a year before in Missisquoi Bay.

Lakefield Chamber Plans Parade To Fair

LAKEFIELD (ENS)—Plans for a mammoth parade for Fair Day were made at the August meeting of the Lakefield Chamber of Commerce, held in Memorial Hall. President Donald Hendren was in the chair and there was a good attendance present.

Prizes will be given for the best decorated float, motor-cycle and car, as well as for both girls' and boys' bicycles. The oldest couple in the parade will also receive a prize. The parade will form at government dock and move off at 1 p.m. It is hoped that the citizens will co-operate by joining the parade.

Charge Workers Get Below-Prevailing Rate

HAMILTON (CP)—Charges that workers on a defence housing project in Burlington and Nelson are being paid "far below the prevailing rates in Hamilton district" in charge of arrangements is headed by Mrs. William O'Brien, secretary of the Chamber, who will be assisted by Harold Hamblin and W. A. Killoran.

It was decided that the Tourist Information Booth would close for the season on September 15.

Tomorrow's Doctor To Help Patients Live Better Life

By BOB JOYCE

MONTREAL (CP) — Canada's deputy minister of health has suggested the doctor of tomorrow will be more concerned with helping his patients to live a better life than with finding ways to enable them to live longer.

G. D. N. Cameron, speaking Monday night at the opening of the 19th International Physiological Congress, said the time is ap[illegible] to lengthen life," the deputy minister said. "But perhaps it is time that the emphasis is put rather on better life."

Mr. Cameron, welcoming the delegates on behalf of the Canadian government, said holding the convention in Montreal is "a tribute to Canadian medical science."

2,000 DELEGATES

The convention is being attended by some 2,000 delegates from 42 countries, including Poland and Soviet Russia. Among top scientists present are Dr. Charles H. Best of Toronto, co-discoverer of insulin with the late Sir Frederick Banting and president of the congress; Sir Henry Dale of London, chief of Britain's wartime cabinet's advisory scientific council, and Dr. C. M. Bykov of Leningrad, regarded as the leader of Russia's 10-man delegation.

During the five-day session the physiologists, who specialize in finding out what goes on inside animals and human beings, will attend symposia by top men in their field.

Many will also present highly technical 15-minute papers on such abstruse subjects as the osmotic pressure of blood in the renal papilla and what morphine does when it is injected into dogs, monkeys and rats.

MAY LOSE JOBS

At Monday night's opening meet[illegible] tee, told delegates the general assembly will decide Wednesday whether he and six other membrs of the committee will lose their jobs this week.

The assembly, meeting in private will consider whether to found a new international body, the International Union of Physiological Sciences, to take over organizing of the congress from the committee and co-ordinate and supervise research.

The move, suggested at the last conference in Copenhagen in 1950, may be made, Dr. Adrian said, because physiologists at present have only "the rudiments of an international organization." The existing committee has "uncertain powers and only comes to life" at congress time.

The new body would be affiliated with the International Council of Scientific Unions and the United Nations educational, social, and cultural organization.

Predicts Tokyo Flight With Only One Stop

kyo flights with only one stop were predicted today by Sir Miles Thomas, chairman of the ritish Overseas Airways Corporation.

Sir Miles told a luncheon here that Britain was leading the way in aviation and declared:

"I can see the day coming when we shall get to Tokyo with only one stop at—at Edmonton."

Mrs. A. Beausoleil

Requiem mass was celebrated this morning at St. Peter's Mathedral for Mrs. Antoinette Beausoliel, who died at her residence, 315 Murray St., on Saturday.

The Rev. L. M. Dubbery celebrated the mass, while Rev R. J. Garvey conducted graveside services at St. Peter's cemetery.

Pallbearers were Clarence Brooks, James Deck, Leo Tobin, Sr., Leo Tobin, Jr., Everitt Douglas, and Max Reid.

Crazy Ontario

Every 234th person in this fair province of Ontario is crazy. That is a minimum figure, for it refers only to the mentally deficient or mentally ill who are in or under the direct supervision of Ontario's mental hospitals. There are others who are quietly attended to at home, or whose insanity has not been officially discovered. There were 19,643 patients of all classes of mental impairment under the supervision of the Ontario Hospitals on December 31st, 1951. Of these 17,852 were actually inmates of the hospitals. The Province has sixteen such hospitals, and needs more, for the sixteen are over-crowded and many persons who should be admitted are unable to get in for lack of room. The sixteen Ontario Hospitals are, by the way, at the following places: Aurora, Brockville, Cobourg, Fort William, Hamilton, Kingston, Langstaff, London, New Toronto, Orillia, Penetang, St. Thomas, Smith Falls, Toronto, Whitby, and Woodstock.

* * *

Our figures are out of date because the Ontario Department of Health is so busy, slow or fumbling that its annual reports are presented to the public in printed form two years late. The report on the Ontario (Mental) Hospitals for the year ending 1951 was issued only a couple of months ago.

* * *

The figures are shocking, and each year they get worse because each year there are more admissions than there were the year before. There were 612 more patients in the hospitals in 1951 than in 1950. Twenty years ago—twenty years before 1951, the year of the present annual report—there were 10,488 patients in Ontario mental hospitals; in 1951 there were 17,852. The increase is not due chiefly to the increase in Ontario's population during that period. In 1931 there were 306 insane people in the mental hospitals for each 100,000 of the Ontario population; in 1951 the rate was 388 for each 100,000.

* * *

Many of the hospitals exists as places for treatment of mental illness. There were 7,653 inmates suffering from schizophrenic discorders (dementia praecox), 1,116 suffering from manic-depression. However, the second largest class of inmates had mental deficiencies, for which there is no cure at all, and the best that can be done for these unfortunate ones is to teach as many as possible to look after themselves and do whatever productive work they can. There were 4,305 mentally deficient inmates, and, in addition, 625 epileptics with mental deficiencies and 600 psychotic cases with mental deficiencies. The mentally ill and deficient required the services of four thousand five hundred men and women, employed full-time.

* * *

Mental disorders and deficiencies are an increasing problem in Ontario. The development and expansion of mental health clinics and consultant phychiatrists' services are making diagnosis and early treatment more readily available. These however, do little to remedy the condition of Ontario society in which the mental health of far too many people deteriorates. Another problem is the care of old people in mental hospitals aged 65 or over. The third, and most depressing, problem is society's attitude towards, and care of, congenital idiots. Orillia hospital for mentaly deficient children now has inmates old enough to draw the old age pension. They have grown old in that children's institution. It is right and kind that these unfortunates hopeless idiots should be so preserved?

Disagreement Between the U.S. And the U

A serious rift developed between tain and the United States over constitution of the political conference to deal with the Korean peace. Britain thought that India should be included; the United States thought not. The U.S. won the point.

The issue may not have been as important as the way in which the U.S. went about presenting its case. A new York Times correspondent writing from London appraised the situation thus:

"What troubles the British the most is that they feel that forces they do not entirely understand and of which they are fearful, caused the United States representatives in the United Nations to present their opposition to India's participation in the Korean conference in a way that prevented a quiet solution of an important difference. The Britons insist that they received no inkling of the United States position in time to modify their own, and they hint strongly that they would have been prepared to give way in the interests of harmony."

However the situation is glossed over now, the spectacle of the special U. N. General Assembly being riven by dissent, not over a question of peace or war, but over the composition of a conference, has not been an elevating one. It has brought out into the open the fears and suspicious of a large part of the world that the United States has become too heavily committed to South Korea's President Syngman Rhee and his country. It seems also to many people that the U.S. is not entering the forthcoming political conference in a mood to negotiate.

It was the first time that the Western allies took opposite sides in a public debate. The American delegate, Mr. Henry Cabot Lodge, seems to be too categorical and intransigent in his methods for the delicate diplomacy necessary in such a situation. The Soviet delegate, Mr. Vyshinsky made hay and won some sympathy from others when he reminded the "pro-Americans" that they had not won the war and that they were not dealing with a vanquished people. "You did not win", he said "you did not break the iron will of North Korea. And now you think that with this scrap of paper (the fifteen-power resolution on the composition of the conference) you can make these people accept everything. Where are you gentlemen, down to earth or up in the clouds, where people have been known to break their necks?"

The whole matter is paradoxical, as the Saskatoon Star-Phoenix points out. The U.S. objected to the inclusion of India because it was not a participant in the war. Mr. Lodge said that non-belligerents should have no voice in the peace conference. The British Commonwealth argument is that the conference should not be restricted to belligerents, otherwise U.N., which is supposed to be bringing about the peace, will be represented only by those who engaged in the war and therefore might be neither dispassionate nor objective.

The Saskatoon paper remark:

"For the UN Assembly is really faced with a paradoxical situation. While there was fighting in Korea the UN was, in the physical sense at any rate, a belligerent. Now that the fighting has ended the UN is by way of being both belligerent and a peace-maker. Or, to put the situation in the probable perspective of the Communist Chinese and North Koreans, the UN is both a participant in the war and a judge over the settlement."

The U.S. is in a predicament, which is pointed out by Mr. Haffner in his article in the next column, and a rift over the composition of the conference will not make the path to peace easier. The difference of opinion is less important than agreement on a common purpose in the Far East. This one conference is not going to settle the affairs of the eastern half of the world. India herself does not seem disturbed because she has been left out of the conference.

Forest Fires

Forests are always dry at this time of year and danger of fire is constant, but owing to the prolonged dry heat of the last week the forests are now like tinder. The number and extent of forest fires last week and on the weekend have shown how real is the danger. Great stands of valuable timber have been lost, even the thin soil on which they grew has been destroyed. Ontario's Algonquin Park has suffered, and camps and cottages have been in danger.

Premier Frost's stern warning is timely and proper. "I understand at least two of the major fires in Algonquin Park, one of the continent's beauty spots, were started by careless campers. An investigation has already been started and the persons responsible will be prosecuted to the fullest extent". As Premier Frost remarked, "the woods belong to all of us". We fully approve of his point of view: "The government does not intend to stand idly by when much of our heritage is being destroyed by human carelessness". The warning is double-barrelled: the risk of fire which the dry hot spell has intensified; the risk of fine (and imprisonment) if carelessness starts a fire.

The hazard is not only in wide stretches of forested country; small woodlots near cottages, tree-lined routes into them, and the even grass, bushes and fences bordering highways can be inflamed by a careless toss of a live cigarette or match from a passing car. The fact is that today anywhere in the Province an open flame is dangerous. Special care is required if Ontario is not to take fire.

NOTE AND COMMENT

A Montreal firm has made 2,000 buoyant swimming suits this year and expect to extend its production and sales next. The suit has built-in panels of kapok, to make it and its wearer float. The manufacturers say that milady's visible assets are not depreciated. All the same, we withhold our appreciation of kapok bulges on the side just above the waistline. There are enough natural ones on the beaches already.

Rhee Calls The Tune

By SEBASTIAN HAFFNER

BEHIND the obscure-looking wrangle in the United Nations over the invitation of India to the Korean Peace Conference looms the stark question of peace or war.

The United Nations debate has brought into the open the real reason for America's intransigent opposition to Indian participation in the conference: it is the threat of President Syngman's Rhee's South Korean Government to boycott the conference if India is invited. America is, at present, either not able or not willing to separate her course from that of South Korea; she does not contemplate either going ahead without South Korea, or exerting pressure on South Korea to follow America's lead. Rather, it is America who, for whatever reason, at the moment follows where South Korea leads.

◇ ◇ ◇

FACED with the choice between President Rhee's South Korea and many of her other allies— Britain, Canada, Australia, New Zealand, Western Europe and so on — America is choosing South Korea.

◇ ◇ ◇

NOW, it is an indisputable and publicly established fact that South Korea wants war. Hardly a day passes without President Rhee or some member of his Government openly declaring that it is the South Korean intention to break the Armistice and "march north," before the end of the year. Nor is the war which President Rhee's South Korea desires merely the limited war in Korea which has just been terminated by the Armistice. For President Rhee's aim is the unification of all Korea up to the Yalu River under his authority; and it has been conclusively proved by three years' fighting that this aim cannot be realised by limited war, but only by an unlimited war against China, which in turn would be likely to lead to world war.

◇ ◇ ◇

ONE CAN UNDERSTAND, though not excuse, President Rhee's reasoning in wanting world war. His interests and responsibilites are— in his own mind, at any rate — limited to the one issue of Korean unity under his own leadership. The fate of the rest of the world does not interest him; and if the whole world has to go through the catastrophe of an atomic world war so that Korea can be united under Syngman Rhee, then Syngman Rhee is quite prepared to let the whole world pay this price for the realisation of his life's aim. All this is clear-cut and simple. What is not clear-cut and simple, but highly mysterious and difficult to understand, is the American attitude.

◇ ◇ ◇

WHY does America, slavishly and at the price of destroying the world-wide alliance system she has built up since 1947, follow the lead given by such a self-proclaimed and confessed warmonger as Syngman Rhee? Two explanations are possible. One would be that America herself has decided on war and regards Rhee— and perhaps Chiang Kai-shek the only other head of a Government (Nationalist China) in the world who has a definite and clear-cut interest in war— as her only true ally in such a policy. The other would be that America, fearing war and seeing that Rhee is bent on it, sees no other way of controlling Rhee than by appeasing him.

◇ ◇ ◇

IT IS STILL very difficult to accept the the first explanation. It is true that American anti-Communism has now reached a pitch of intensity which makes it difficult for American diplomacy to deal in an objective and business-like manner with Communist Governments, and which could, theoretically, furnish the ideological and propagandistic basis for a warlike crusade. It is also true that the American determination not to recognize the Government of China bars, as long as it persists, any rational approach to a peace settlement in the Far East.

◇ ◇ ◇

BUT on the other hand, nothing would be more generally and profoundly unpopular in America than a gratuitous renewal, let alone an extension, of the Korean war; and when the issue was in the concrete terms presented to America in the MacArthur crisis two years ago, America did make a definite decision against war— even in circumstances where provocation was far stronger than it is now. It is true that since then the American Government has changed; but the basic national character has not changed, and it needs more than a change of Government to turn a basically peace-loving and easy-going nation into an aggressive power, bent on war and conquest. In any case, if the present American Government wanted war, why should it have signed the Korean armistice?

◇ ◇ ◇

UNFORTUNTELY, the alternative explanation of American policy —that it is being dragged along in the wake of Mr. Rhee despite its own intentions— is only a very little more reassuring. An explanation often offered in private conversation by diplomats is that America needs to gain time: that Rhee, unless humoured and appeased now, would break the armistice at once. However, appeasement, as is only too well-known, may easily have an effect opposite to that which is intended: instead of calming and diverting the would-be aggressor, it may encourage and embolden him. What reason is there to believe that in six months President Rhee will be less aggressively inclined than he is now —especially if in the meantime he has received such ample proof that America does not dare to defy him, let alone forcibly to control him?

◇ ◇ ◇

IF AMERICA is ready now to estrange all her allies, to offend a great Asiatic power like India, and to break up the long and patiently-wrought unity of the democratic world rather than call Mr. Rhee's bluff and allow him to boycott the Korean Peace Conference, will she be more ready to call his bluff if and when Mr. Rhee breaks the Armistice, "marches north," and presents American with the alternative of either marching with him or seeing him destroyed, and South Korea conquered, by Communist North Korea and China?

Mr. Fixer-Upper Himself

Letters To The Editor

WHO WAS P. M.

Sir: I noticed where you asked a question in the Saturday issue.

Would it be the late Prime Minister of Great Britain, Mr. Austin Chamberlain?

Yours truly,
MRS. C. W. LYNCH,
Hastings, Ont.

Ed. Note: The rhetorical question was contained in the following paragraph reprinted from another newspaper:

"A questionnaire at Leeds University, England, showed that 25 per cent of 1,000 students did not know who was Prime Minister of Britain at the time of the Munich crisis. Guesses included Churchill, Ramsay MacDonald and Lloyd George. What's yours?". . . Any other guesses?

APPROVED COTTAGES

Sir: I read in your paper, August 28th, a letter signed Tourist re cottages and cabins in Hastings. I wish to state that if Hastings village is meant, the statements made by "tourist" is very incorrect. I, and a number of people here have cottages and cabins in A1 condition which always have been approved by visiting inspectors, but I have yet to meet the owner of any of these summer places to receive a slip from inspector. Visitors should be very sure of statements made before making such.

A. DUPUIS

Hastings.

DOGS AND GARBAGE

Sir: Please allow me a little space in your paper to voice my opinion as a taxpayer.

My first beef as a taxpayer is in regard to the bylaw referring to dogs, and garbage. According to fore-mentioned dogs are supposed to be kept tied up between March and October or something similar. But put garbage out any night at present and all next morning what has happened to it? Or does it walk out of the pail?

Phone the dogcatcher and complain and maybe he would give you the same answer as I got. He doesn't work after six and you must give the name of the owner of the dog. Try to catch the dog that is upsetting the garbage pail and get the name off his tag (Nine chances out of ten he hasn't got a tag). So the other day the sanitary inspector puts his two cents worth in the paper and says: keep garbage covered away from dogs and kids. I wonder if he sits by his garbage can all night to keep dogs away, or does he take his garbage to the city hall to stop it. After all we are paying enough to have such service.

Well I guess I might as well sign off as this thing could go on for hours but I still say that if a man is paid to look after dogs he should do his duty no matter what the time is. Not being a dog owner myself I don't see why I should pick my garbage up off the street every time I put it out, and the neighbour's dog upsets it. I don't like stench and flies any more than anyone else.

A TAX PAYER.

HOMELESS, SHAKEN GREEKS

Sir: The lot of Greece is singularly a tragic one. It is a mixture of glory and pain, a peculiar composite of sacrifices and great achievements. It is a lot which continuously fills the Greek history with pages written in blood. This same lot, however, bestows upon the Greek people, at the same time inexhaustible patience and almost superhuman power to withstand these successive blows, and survive triumphant.

This last catastrophe which the earthquakes brought upon the beautiful islands of the Ionian sea comes to add its terrible burden upon Greece, who was trying to recover her balance from the terrible blows which she suffered for ten years by the Fascists, the Nazis and the Communists.

Now, however, that the fury of the earthquakes has spent itself, leaving death and ruins in its wake, the rehabilitation of the islands must begin. The ruined towns and villages must be rebuilt and life come back to the dead islands.

This task, however, is too heavy for Greece alone to accomplish without the wholehearted support of her friends everywhere. The task of rehabilitating all those thousands of homeless, if left to Greece alone, would prove ruinous to her general economy.

Greece asks for no charity. What is she asking for is to incite in her friends everywhere the warm feeling of mutual solidarity, which, after all, taking into consideration the sacrifices borne by Greece for Democracy, is due to her.

Information Office, Greek Embassy.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Behold, a virgin shall conceive, and bear a son, and shall call his name Immanuel. (Isa. 7: 14.)

◇ ◇ ◇

And in the sixth month the angel Gabriel was sent from God unto a city of Galillee, named Nazareth, to a virgin espoused to a man whose name was David; and the virgin's name was Mary.

And the angel said unto her, Fear not, Mary: for thou hast found favour with God. And, behold, thou shalt conceive in thy womb, and bring forth a son, and shalt call his name JESUS. He shall be great, and shall be called the son of the Highest: and the Lord God shall give unto him the throne of his father David.

And Mary said, Behold the handmaid of the Lord; be it unto me according to thy word. And the angel departed from her. (Luke 1: 26, 27, 30-32, 38.)

◇ ◇ ◇

And she brought forth her firstborn son, and wrapped him in swaddling clothes, and laid him in a manger: because there was no room for them in the inn . . . And the child grew, and waxed strong in spirit, filled with wisdom: and the grace of God was upon him. (Luke 2: 7, 40.)

◇ ◇ ◇

And Jesus, when he was baptized, went straightway out of the water; and, lo, the heavens were opened unto him, and he saw the Spirit of God descending like a dove, and lighting upon him: and lo a voice from heaven saying, This is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased. (Matt. 3: 16, 17.)

And Moses called all Israel, and said unto them, Hear, O Israel, the statutes and judgements which I speak in your ears this day, that ye may learn them, and keep, and do them. (Deut. 5: 1.)

History Of Lacrosse In City Outlined To Rotary Club

How, and in what year lacrosse got it's start in Peterborough was outlined Monday to members of the Rotary Club by Bob Peirson, president of the Peterborough Lacrosse Club.

Box-lacrosse first got it's start in Canada in the early 1930s through Connie Smythe, who introduced the game in the hope of making lacrosse as popular a sport as hockey, explained Mr. Peirson.

FIRST IN 1932

It made it's first organized appearance in Peterborough in 1932. All the games at that time were played at the Brock Arena. But due to financial difficulties the team broke-up at the end of the season and didn't operate again until 1937, when the executive of the old club and players built the first Lacrosse-Box in the city. In those early days of lacrosse there was usually a crowd of more than 2,500 at each game.

In 1939 the team moved up to the Junior B ranks and in that year lost out to East York in the semi-finals. During the war years most of the local players were lost to the services and in 1945 when the players returned, they found the box had been torn down.

The club was re-organized again in 1946 and played all their home games at Omemee in the Intermediate group.

BUILT NEW BOWL

In 1947 the executive of the club decided to build another lacrosse-box. It was finally completed in May of 1947 at a cost of $12,000 and again the team was being reorganized. Also in 1947 the team rose from the Intermediate group and played in the Junior B circuit.

The lacrosse box, which is now known as Miller Bowl was enlarged in 1948, when dressing rooms were added. That year they played Senior B Lacrosse and won the Senior B championship. The following year the club jumped to the Senior A ranks, but lost out in the semi-finals, both in that year and in 1949.

The executive of the club decided in the spring of 1951 to convert the box into the shape of a horseshoe and also imported seven Senior A players. That year they won the Eastern Championship and went out west and won the Mann Cup. Again in 1952 they retained the cup, downing Vancouver in four straight games in Maple Leaf Gardens, in Toronto.

Manager of the team, Bob Curtin also addressed the luncheon meeting and explained that it had cost $141,000 since 1947 to bring lacrosse to Peterborough and the gate receipts to date total $130,500.

Super-Stacks

THE S.S. "UNITED STATES", new speed queen of the Atlantic, boasts the largest stacks ever built; the forward stack is 55 feet high, 60 feet long. Made of aluminum, they are assembled with 65,000 aluminum rivets. Reputed to be the safest vessel ever built, the liner contains more aluminum than any other single structure on land or sea. This light, strong, fire-and-weather-resistant metal is used for lifeboats and bulkheads, decks and elevator doors and a hundred other items.

In naval vessels, too — such as the fourteen minesweepers now being built for the Canadian Navy — aluminum is being used more extensively than ever before. Aluminum Company of Canada, Ltd. (Alcan).

U.S. Professor Reinstated

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP)—The Harvard Corporation, governing body of the university, has reinstated Dr. Helen Deane Markham as associate professor of anatomy, saying it cannot find proof that she "is today under Communist domination."

The board said evidence before it creates "in our minds a suspicion that she may well be," but "we are not willing to base a finding of grave misconduct . . . on mere suspicion."

However, the corporation said in an announcement Monday night, "as matters now stand" she will not be reappointed when her present term ends next June 30.

Mrs. Markham said she had not received official notification from Harvard and declined other comment.

Mrs. Markham was suspended with pay July 17 after she had twice refused to answer questions about alleged Communist ties before the Senate internal security sub-committee. At that time the corporation said "we can no longer reasonably believe that she is free from Communist domination."

TTC Disapproves Of Meters On Main Streets

By FORBES RHUDE

Toronto transportation commission, which provides street-car and bus service to Toronto and vicinity, doesn't like parking meters on main streets. Of such installations in Toronto, it says:

"It seems a negation of the axiomatic principle that the primary function of a highway is to move goods and persons and that unless this objective can be reasonably attained, the use of the highway to store vehicles is indefensible."

The August letter of the National City Bank of New York comments:

"A bearish interpretation of the Korean truce would assume that maintenance of business activity is dependent upon continuation of non-productive expenditures. This assumption will not stand analysis.

"Business depends: in the end, upon the enterprise and ambitions of people; upon their willingness to work in order to raise their standard of living; upon research and technological progress; upon saving and investment; upon good management of public and private affairs; upon co-operation and understanding to maintain fair and equitable terms for the exchange of goods and services; and, finally, upon peace, order and stability."

Secret Service Head Retires

LONDON (Reuters)—Sir Percy Sillitoe retired Monday night from his post as head of M. I. T., the ritish secret service.

He had been due to retire at the end of last year but was persuaded by the cabinet to continue in office for another six months so that he and his security staff could see the Coronation through safely.

Since his appointment in 1946 Sillitoe has travelled widely through the world placing his experience in security and counter-espionage work at the service of Commonwealth and friendly governments.

His most recent visit was to Kenya to devise new methods of tackling Mau Mau terrorism.

No Man Can Withstand Full Treatment Of Red Brain-Washing

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON — (AP)—The man who brought the term "brain-washing" into the English language said Monday he thinks people should have far more sympathy for the victims of Communist mental and physical bullying. Edward Hunter, who wrote the book "Brain-Washing in Red China," said of the soldiers and civilians who have been given the full treatment by the Reds: "They are sick, and they should be treated as if they were sick. And I don't think they should be condemned any more than you should be condemned if you picked up a polio germ and I didn't.

"Those soldiers (who didn't succumb to brain-washing) say their pals double-crosesd them. But they themselves, if the pressures had been stronger, would have done the same thing."

UNJUSTLY BLAMED

Hunter said he realizes some were willing, even eager, to tattle to the Communists. But he is sure many have been blamed unjustly.

For, after interviewing scores of those who have been brain-washed, Hunter is convinced no man, if he is given the full, no-holds-barred treatment, can stand up forever. "Eventually," Hunter said, "he will be forced to 'confess.'"

Hunter has been putting the finishing touches on a new edition of his book which is to be reissued next month.

It was 4½ years ago, while he was a newspaper man in the Far East, that he first heard a young Chinese use the term "shi nao," or brain-washing.

Gradually, Hunter said, he began to realize this was a pattern followed by the Communists everywhere. And so he put this subtitle on his book: "The Calculated Destruction of Men's Minds."

Tries To Avert Railroad Strike

By NORMAN WALKER

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government stepped in today to try to head off a railroad strike planned for Sept. 10, possibly the first of a series of forthcoming rail walkout threats.

Today's meeting called by the national mediation board concerns only a dispute between the carriers and the conductors' union, but all the major rail unions are drawing up new demands.

The 35,000 - conductor group scheduled its walkout Sept. 10 in behalf of a longstanding demand for pay rates graduated according to the power of locomotives on trains the conductors man.

Engineers and firemen already have such a pay system, giving them higher pay on trains with more powerful engines.

The mediation board called in representatives of the union and of railroad associations to try to get the strike called off pending efforts to work out a solution.

Meanwhile, nearly a score of other rail unions plan to make new demands for pay raises and other benefits.

Practically all the unions have been under a moratorium against making new labor cost demands on the carriers. This ban, which under previous agreements has applied to some workers for nearly three years, expires Oct. 1.

The conductors contend their contract allows negotiation on their graduated pay rate demand despite the moratorium, but the carriers disagree and have declined to negotiate on the issue.

Some indication that the unions are angling for a fat settlement this fall came from the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, biggest of the "operating unions" whose members work on moving trains.

The BRT's 14-man wage-rules committee, meeting in Cleveland, has just recommended that the unions shoot for a pay boost of 47½ cents an hour, equal to $3 a day, and also seek longer vacations.

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP)—San Juan longshoremen threw a picket line around their own union office Monday. Believes Press Should Police Own Offenders

ITHACA, N. Y. (AP)—The judge who barred reporters from the Jelke vice trial holds that it is up to the press itself to "police the offenders" against journalistic canons of decency and responsibility.

Judge Francis L. Valente of New York City's general sessions court Monday night cautioned the New York State Society of Newspaper Editors that "our history is studded with instances where unbridled excess has brought legal and legislative restraints."

The judge did not refer directly to the trial of Minot F. "Mickey" Jelke. During portions of that proceeding, he kept reporters out of his courtroom on the ground that publication of the testimony was likely to impair public morals.

CITES CANON

Valente cited one of the canons of journalism adopted in 1923 by the American Society of Newspaper Editors, that "a newspaper that supplies incentives to base conduct such as are to be found in details of crime and vice canot escape being convicted of insincerity while professing a high purpose."

He told the editors that "some few of your members are exclusively concerned with their rights, with a complete disregard of the corresponding obligations, that go hand in hand with these rights."

"The responsibility to curb and correct is yours and the alternative is, I repeat, outside regulation, which we are all in favor of avoiding," Valente said. "In brief, I believe you capable of keeping your own house in order."

New Insulin Drug

Driver Forced Into Wrong Lane Found Not Guilty

Facing charges of dangerous and careless driving, George Bond, 29, of Port Hope, walked out of magistrate's court Monday after one charge was dismissed and a second withdrawn.

The charges were laid after an accident on the Chemong Rd. July 18 in which Bond's 1953 convertible crashed head-on with another car, injuring 11 persons. The other vehicle was driven by William Leishman, 36, RR 6, Lindsay.

According to PC Emmett Crough of the OPP, the two cars were found in the east lane of the highway with Bond's vehicle pointing south and Leishman's, north.

LIGHTS CIRCLED

On the witness stand, Leishman said the lights of Bond's vehicle seemed to circle around from his left before the two cars struck. A passenger of Bond's, William Craig, 30, of Toronto, agreed with another driver, Robert Brady of 687 Donegal, who said Bond turned to the left after reaching the intersection to avoid a northbound car.

Bond said he had been returning from Chemong and had stopped at the intersection. As he started ahead again, a northbound car veering left toward Lindsay crossed over into the west lane of the road.

This action by the other driver forced Bond into the east lane into the path of Leishman's car. They were so close together that neither could avoid an accident.

Bond was the only defence witness and on his evidence, Magistrate E. A. Gee dismissed the careless driving charge. The dangerous driving count was dropped at the request of Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, QC.

Kilt Needs Ten Yards For "Proverbial Waggle"

In a recent edition of "This Is Britain," BBC reporter Robert Dunnett interviewed Kinloch Anderson, a famous kiltmaker, who said that between seven and 10 yards of material are needed to make a kilt, for unless the pleats are deep there is none of the waggle which is one of its big attractions.

The kiltmaker lays his length of cloth on a bench and then plans the pleats so that the design of the tartan when it is pleated looks the same as it does when unpleated. This is a difficult job, for he has to make sure that the reds, blues and greens come in their right order, and that the size of the pattern still remains the same. The job is done by very careful measurement, working sometimes to as little as a sixteenth of an inch in accuracy.

The cloth is marked with chalk, and when the pattern is set up it is very lightly sewn, for not only has the kilt to be pleated, but its size must be exact, and the next problem is to get it to fit the man who will wear it. After this setting up and sizing has been done, the monotonous job of sewing the tremendous number of seams begins. Canvases are then put in to hold the pleats in position, the finishing touches are added and a very fine piece of craftsmanship is complete. The best bit of all, said Anderson, was to see the garment in use, swinging and giving that swing that can be got only in a kilt.

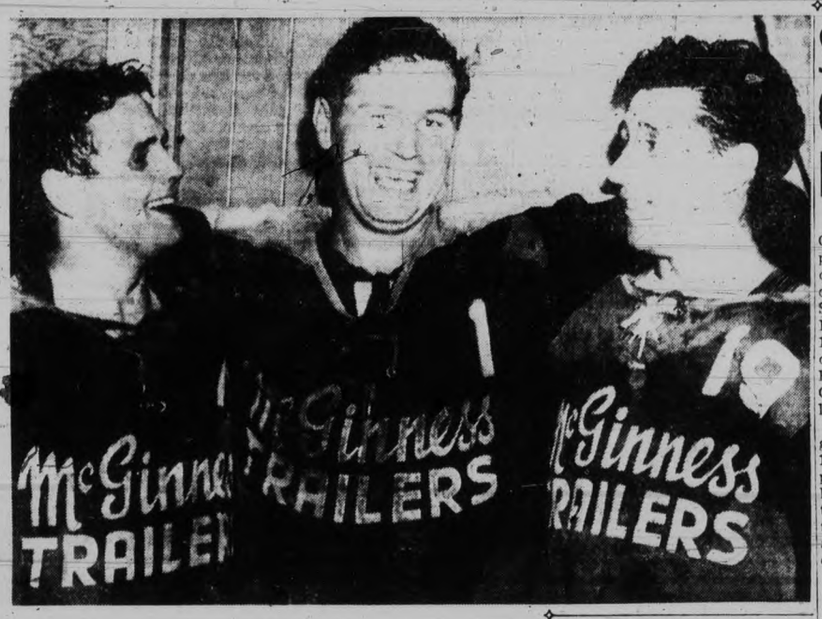
TRAILERMEN CAPTURE EASTERN CANADA TITLE



EASTERN CANADA CHAMPIONS, that's what the Peterborough men are for the third straight year in senior "A" lacrosse. Bob Thorpe's team with a fourth quarter outburst won the fifth game 9-4 Monday night and swept the final series four games to one from the St. Catharines Athletics. The Trailermen (top photo) take a breather in the dressing-room to pose for a group picture. Shortly after they left for a victory party at the club president's home, Bob Peirson. Winning the Eastern Canada title is now a habit with Curly Mason, Lloyd (Moon) Wootton and Rusty Slater (left to right, middle photo), who starred in the victory. The genial coach, Bob Thorpe (right, lower photo), gets a proud look from his wife as he poses for news photographers.

Confusion Reigns In Dressing Room After Petes' Win

"This could be habit-forming," someone yelled across the Trailermen's dressing-room Monday night after they had won their third successive Eastern Canada lacrosse championship.

It was quite unlikely that anyone even heard that remark. In fact it's quite unlikely that anyone heard anything that was said in the dressing-room for 20 minutes after the game. Everyone, players and well-wishers, jamming the small quarters, were all trying to talk yell and laugh at once.

SLIGHTLY WORRIED

It was a far different situation than existed before game-time. Slightly worried after their loss Saturday to the Athletics the Trailermen were still worried before the game and during it until midway through the fourth quarter. When the final whistle blew, the 4,200 people began to cheer and the Trailermen's feelings went to the extreme.

The Trailermen rushed Moon Wootton in the Peterborough goal, hugging and kissing the big genial gent. They all went joyously around hugging each other. They were joined by the sad Athletic players who congratulated them and wished them the best of luck in the final series.

Then started the happy pushing and shoving through their loyal fans in the dressingroom and the mad confusion once inside the clubhouse.

It wasnt until a hundred hugs and 20 minutes later that the Trailermen quieted long enough for a few dressing room photographs by Toronto and Peterborough news photographers. Then the yelling commenced once more.

For a second time they were hushed long enough several minutes later for a team picture, followed by a victory party at the home of Robert Peirson, club president.

It was after the team picture was taken that the victory celebrations quieted down long enough to let Mr. Pierson briefly outline the Mann Cup preparations.

Mr. Peirson said the Trailermen would pick up possibly two players for the trip west. One will quite likely be Kenny Croft of the Orillia West Yorks; the other hasn't been named. Denny Peterson, Mimico star who signed this season with the Trailermen but was ineligible to play will not go west but will be available for the Trailermen next season.

The club president also, pointed out that only Jerry Fitzgerald won't make the trip to British Columbia. A teacher at Scarborough Collegate, the big defenceman will be forced to forget the trip this season due to the opening of school next week.

Hockey players, Ike Hildebrand and Don Ashbee, will make the trip to the west for the finals. Hildebrand will likely see action in the first three games and Ashbee in the first four, before reporting to hockey training camps.

Mr. Peirson said the Trailermen will leave Malton airport at 8:40 p.m. Saturday, September 12 ,and will arrive in British Columbia at 8 a.m. Sunday. They will open against the British Columbia winner on September 14.

Petes Take Fifth Game 9-4 With Fourth Quarter Rally

The Peterborough Trailermen are in the Mann Cup finals once again. For the third straigh year they won the Eastern Canada senior "A" lacrosse championship Monday night and there fore earned the right to represent the East against the West for the cup, symbolic of lacrosse supremacy in Canada. For three-quarters they held a slight edge over the St. Catharines Athletics and then the Trailermen increased the margin slowly in the fourth quarter for a 9-4 victory to win the best-of-seven championship series from the Athletics four games to one. The Trailermen will now head west to play likely either Vancouver or Victoria in the Canadian finals.

This fifth game was probably one of the best lacrosse games seen in the Miller Bowl since it was erected after the Second World War. It featured stellar goaltending, great defensive play and fast-moving offensive patterns for the capacity crowd, estimated at close to 4,200.

After a very disappointing performance in the fourth game, won by the Athletics 14-6 on Saturday, the Trailermen Monday returned to the same form which won them the first three games.

STIFF DEFENCE

The Trailermen threw up a stiff horseshoe pattern defenec around goalie, Lloyd (Moon) Wootton. With sharp jerky checks they kept the Athletics well out, forcing them to resort to long shots, easily handled by the Moon.

Wootton who played one of his rare poor nights Saturday came back Monday night to play stellar goal. Whenever the Athletics did break the Trailermen's "Iron Curtain," the Moon came through with slightly sensational stops.

When in possession of the ball, the Trailermen with a slow, methodical passing network squarmed in on the Athletic defence which was stiff and difficult to crack. The Trailermen kept moving the ball slowly until a player broke in close for a good shot at goalie Doug Favelle.

PULL AHEAD

For three periods the Trailermen and the Athletics played the slow cautious lacrosse, but when the Petes pulled ahead 6-3, both teams quickened the tempo. In this faster, more open lacrosse, the Trailermen bested the Athletics to run the score up higher.

Both teams kept their distance from the penalty box. In fact there wasn't a penalty handed out by referees, Lou Murphy and Piper Bain, until early in the third quarter when Russ later caught Ham Nelson across the face with a check. This penalty was followed up by a slashing penalty to Jack (Curly) Mason, who also crashed into Nelson.

During both these penalties, for the four minutes, the Trailermen such as Jerry Fitzgerald, Nip O'Hearn, Ross Powless and Ike Hildebrand, killed time very effectively, keeping the ball moving backwards and forwards amid the Athletics.

Despite their efforts to hold the ball, the Trailermen did lose it several times during those minutes. But Wootton came through with his usual great stops to outguess the Athletics.

IKE OPENS SCORING

Faking neatly, Ike Haldebrand standing on the Athletics' goal-crease, didn't give Doug Favelle a chance as he opened the game scoring on a pass from Bob Thorpe midway through the first period. Derry Davies came back to tie the score four minutes later when he scored on a long, low shot after Jim Bradshaw had scooped up a loose ball in the corner for a passout.

A minute before the quarter ended, Wootton helped put the Trailermen ahead 2-1 when he snared a loose ball, passed to Jerry Fitzgerald, who passed to Ross Powless in the clear. Powless counted with a hard drive from 20 feet out.

Nip O'Hearn with a neat solo effort slipped around Bob Melville, his check, late in the second quarter, and easily beat Favelle for a 3-1 score. But Max Woolley a minute later brought the Athletics one closer when given a breakaway on a long pass from Favelle.

Woolley grabbed a Doug Smith pass at the four-minute mark of the third, beat his check, O'Hearn and tied the score at three-all. But Slater, in shifty footwork, shuffled past Ted Howe 56 seconds later and once again gave the Trailermen the lead 4-3.

Don Ashbee provided the assurance goal for the Trailermen early in the fourth when he broke from the corner and scored from in front with a short shot. Fitzgerald followed up quickly with the sixth goal on a one-man charge through the Athletics.

For the remaining seven minutes the Trailermen threw all caution into the wind and broke quickly up the box. Curley Mason whipped home the two final Trailermen goals before Al Frick s the Athletics' fourth with only 23 seconds left to play.

GRANT'S SPORT CORNER

By DON GRANT

HANK GORDON AND NEW PINS

Do you have troubles counting in bowling? Five-pin bowling that is. No, Elmer, not back alley bowling but the five- and ten-pin type which is becoming one Canada's fastest growing fall-winter-and spring sports. Anyone that bowls in a league will verify this statement. Only a few bowlers can keep score accurately. Most people have trouble keeping track of the strikes, spares and especially the jumbled value of the pins.

But things will be different this year. They've introduced a new system of valuating pins which should make scoring easier, make scores higher and what is more important, the system of scoring for five pins will be the same across this Dominion.

Anyone who has bowled in the West during the last few years will recall that the pins were numbered differently than here in the East. Their corner pins were one and two (left and right), centre pins, four and three, and the head pin, number five.

We easterners had our pins numbered four-five at the back, two-three in the centre and one for the headpin.

Whenever the East and West met there was this old bother of pins. Last year at the Canadian tourney, the bowlers agreed to count both ways, and there were many differences of opinion of both ways, finally resulting in the new system.

The Canadian Bowling Association which was formed recently by cross-country bowlers, has adopted the new numbering. All alleys have pretty well adopted it and that scoring will be the only one recognized by the CBA.

The new way has the back pins numbered, two, the centre pins three and the head pin, five. A bowler must knock down the left two-pin, in past year the four-pin.

Besides giving Canada a uniform counting system, the new way will also make scoring easier. The pins can be paired off in fives or separated in tens. At a glance the scorer will be able to count.

What is more important to our Cousin Weakarm (low-average bowler) is that the new system is expected to result in higher individual scores.

Just how will it do that?

Well, take for instance, a bowler who leaves the head pin standing after two balls. That's something quite frequent with so-so bowlers. Under the old way, the bowler in that situation was automatically awarded the single point. But under the new way the bowler must use the third ball and knock the pin down before it counts.

Therefore more people will be attempting to hit the head pin from the start and eventually they will be connecting more consistently, getting more strikes and spares.

A few bowlers have tried the new way since the Playfair alleys opened last week. Clarence (Toots) Collins reports that the scores have appeared higher.

Toots, just offhand, said there would probably be between 1,200 and 1,500 people a week taking part in the sport at Playfair. Since there's four more alleys at Duffus' this means there's about 1,600 to 2,000 bowling there a week. In other words, taking in all four alleys (the smaller YMCA and Knights of Columbus alleys included) there are easily 3,000 people bowling each week in Peterborough.

And someone said hockey and curling were Canada's largest sports!

Here's good luck to your bowling.

* * * * * *

Before signing off for this week, Stan (How Are Things) McBride, came through with a few football comments. They're quite juicy, too.

The first is that former Queen's University and PCVS football stag, Jack Sisson, may appear in the Orfuns' lineup this year. Apparently the club is attempting to get Sis to commute from the Ontario College of Education (Toronto) along with Blair Thomson.

If Jack comes down for the games, it might also mean that Gene Robillard, former McGill star, may also see action in Orfun games. He's also interested in the Peterborough football setup.

Boy! Won't the Orfuns be potent if these lads show up?

Seabrook-Bill's Get Wins In Civic League

Civic league activity at the East City Bowl Monday night saw two peppery contests before a fair-sized crowd. The first, a keenly-fought duel betwen Ray Harrison's crack Seabrook Electric squad, and Burt Rowe's hustling police nine, ended 11-7 for Seabrook's. The second contest was an 8-2 triumph for Bills' (Monaghan Road) crew over Chum Gillespie's Bell Telephone lads.

As a result of Monday night's games, Bob Welch's lunchmen have 11 wins against three losses, to perch alone in second place in the league standing close behind Foresters 11—1—1 (tie); Seabrook's in third spot with 10 wins, four losses; and Bell fourth at nine wins, four defeats and a tie.

SCHEDULE ENDING

The regular schedule ends Friday night when Fairviews oppose Foresters, and Post Office play Sunshine Dairy. Playoffs will commence next week and final standings will appear Saturday with playoffs plans.

Clare Conroy, brother of Eldon (star brother combination) took the hill for Seabrook's in the opener, opposing Orville Wainman until the fourth; then Art Phillips to the finish, to edge out a clean cut verdict as the boys fought zestfully to a hurricane finish.

In the nightcap, star flinger Ellis Peters of Bill's, twirled fine ball to gain a decision over Bell's ace, Bud Guerin, in an exciting battle. "Petie" allowed three hits, fanned seven; while his tall opponent was nicked for 11 bingles. The Lunch nine leaned hard on the melon in the pinches. Each team erred once.

Duet to a serious accident to one of his players, and a minor mishap to another (rendering both out for the season) Manager Welch asked for one replacement before game time and league manager Fred Maybee ruled Cack Pagett eligible for this game. The latter played a star role.

Mt. Pleasant Victors In Second Of Series

Mount Pleasant defeated Outboard Marines 7-5 at Quaker Park Monday night to take a 2-0 lead in their best-of-five Industrial Fastball League finals. The third game is at 6.15 p.m. Thursday on the same diamond.

Jamieson went the route for the villagers, keeping 10 hits pretty well scattered and receiving good support from his mates. Halliday started for Marines, giving way later in the contest to Corrigan. The Outboards had one more bingle than the winners but left a lot of runners stranded. They scored two runs in the second and three in the fourth, while Mt. Pleasant got one each in the second and seventh, and five in the eighth. Teams:

Marines: Gordonier, 1b; White, rf; Blakely, rf; Downer, 3b; Corrigan, ss, p; Morgan, 2b; Halliday, p, ss; Mongraw, c; Fennell, cf.

Mt. Pleasant: Jamieson, p; Dracup, 3b; Mitchell, 1b; Byers, 2b; C. Bryans, rf; Hickson, lf; Crary, ss; Hope, c; McKnight, cf; Wells, cf.

Umpires—Robson, White and Shine.

McCloud and C. Richmond of Lindsay 6-3, 6-3, consolation, Maibund and Towes of Toronto beat N. Clark and L. Skitch of Lindsay 9-7.

Ted Williams Jinx For Cleveland, Boston Wins 6-4

By BEN PHLEGAR, Associated Press Staff Writer

Just when it looked as if Cleveland Indians might really be started on a desperation dash toward the American League pennant along came Ted Williams. Almost everybody has been conceding the flag to New York Yankees for quite a spell. But the Yanks have shown a tendency to stumble and after the Indians scalped them in three straight last week some folks, including Yankee manager Casey Stengel, foresaw trouble in the race for the wire.

It was generally conceded that nothing short of a sensational winning streak would bring the Indians anything like close. Hopes were still rising Monday night in Cleveland as the Tribe took a six-game winning streak into battle with Boston Red Sox.

Boston pushed over single runs in the second and third innings and Cleveland answered with a tally in the sixth. Then the Sox put two men on base in the seventh and Williams promptly parked one into the upper right field deck of Municipal Stadium. It was his seventh home run in the four weeks since he's been out of the U.S. marine corps.

Boston went on to win 6-4, pushing Cleveland 10½ games back of the Yankees who weren't scheduled. The likewise idle Chicago White Sox hold down second place, 8½ games behind New York. Mathematically Cleveland could still make it with 25 games left to play. But terrible Ted from Boston has made it that much harder.

The other American action Monday night was confined to the second division. Bobo Newsom won his 200th American League game, a 10-4 decision for Philadelphia Athletics over Detroit. Only 11 other hurlers ever have won that many in the American League. Detroit won the first game of the twi-nighter 9-7, and Washington edged St. Louis 4-3.

In the National League Brooklyn's homer-happy Dodgers whipped St. Louis 6-3, Cincinnati won a pair from Philadelphia 12-6 and 7-5 and New York smothered Chicago Cubs 13-4. Milwaukee and Pittsburgh had the day off.

The Brooklyn victory moved the Dodgers 10½ games ahead of Milwaukee with 24 games remaining.

Newsom is the only American League pitcher ever to win 200 games and still have a losing record. His over-all totals for the circuit, dating back to his first appearance with St. Louis in 1934, are 200 victories and 208 defeats. In his 20 major league seasons he also has won 11 and lost 13 in the National League.

Brooklyn hit three home runs against the Cardinals—two by Duke Snider who raised his month's total to 15, only one short of the National League record, and one by Gil Hodges. Roy Campanella set a National League record for runs batted in by a catcher when he hammered across a pair, giving him a total of 124 for the season. The old mark was 122.

CURRY INKS CONTRACT

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League announced Monday that Floyd Curry has signed his contract for the coming season. Curry, a right-winger, will start his fifth full season with Canadiens this year. Already signed are Doug Harvey and Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion.

Red Wings Edge Springfield In 9-8 Triumph

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Rochester Red Wings took a firmer hold on the International League leadership Monday night—defeating Springfield 9-8, while Montreal edged second-place Buffalo 8-7.

The third straight setback for the Bisons enabled the Wings to extend their lead to 2½ games. Montreal is in third place, 3½ games back of the leaders.

First baseman Charley Kress' 23rd home run of the season snapped a tie in the ninth inning that gave Rochester their seventh straight victory. Springfield rallied for three tying runs in the top of the ninth, before Sheldon Jones threw the home run ball to Kress.

ROYALS EXPLODE

At Buffalo, the Royals exploded for five runs as 11 men came to the plate against four pitchers in the seventh to shatter a 3-3 tie. Rocky Nelson and Don Hoak put the Royals in front by slashing homers in the opening frame. Nelson's 23rd round-tripper of the year tied Buffalo's Jack Wallaesa for the league lead. Frank Carswell and Buddy Hicks powered homers for the losers.

Baltimore Orioles defeated Syracuse Chiefs 6-3 on Russ Kerns' three-run homer in the eighth. The Orioles got to Duke Markell for four runs in the same inning, breaking a 2-2 tie.

Gordon Urges Re-appraisal Of Regulations

VANCOUVER (CPz — Donald Gordon, chairman and president of Canadian National Railways Monday called for a re-appraisal of regulations governing railways.

In an address prepared for delivery before the Vancouver board of trade, Mr. Gordon suggested the problem would be approached in terms of minimum, not maximum control. No regulation should be applied until the need for it has been demonstrated, he said.

"It must be remembered that the foundation of the present code of regulations was laid down half a century ago, at a time when the railways had a virtual monopoly in land transportation. The essence of the approach which was then adopted was that intervention and detailed regulation would provide a substitute for the missing element of competition."

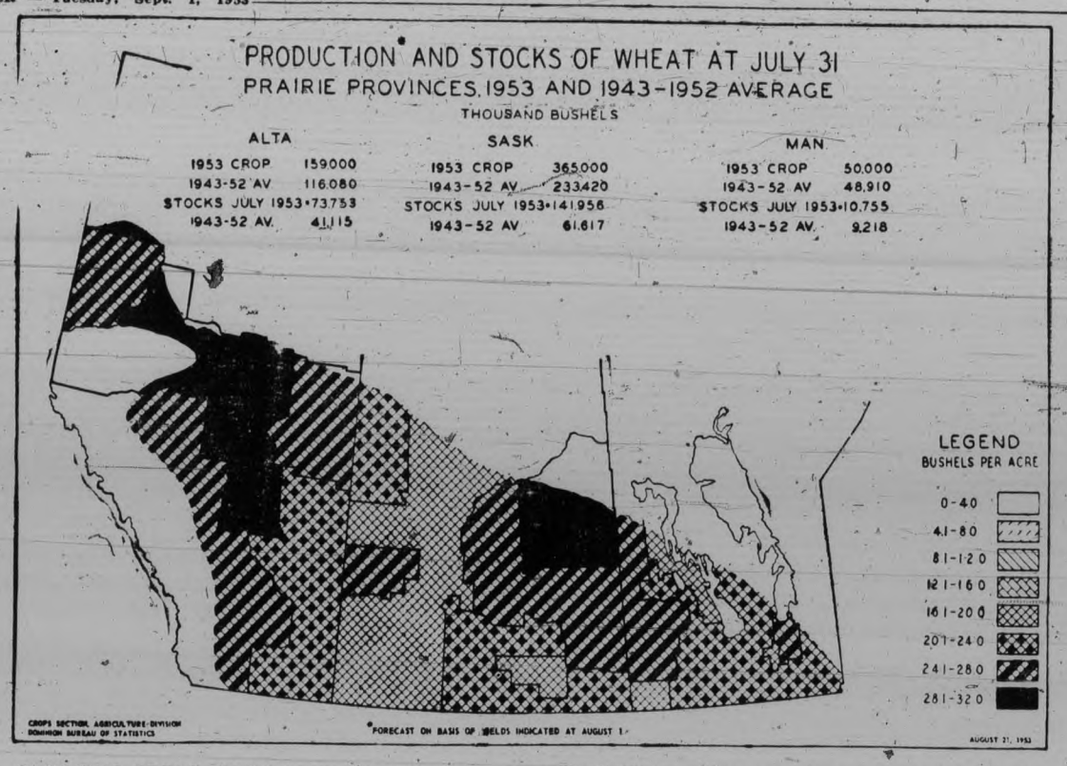
Citing examples of regulatory authority involved in construction of a new rail line, Mr. Gordon said: "There are certain requirements to be met with regard to bridges and ditches, fences and culverts, overhead clearances and side clearances; and whether it involved power lines, pipe lines or highways, the board (of transport) must approve any proposal for crossing the right-of-way above ground, underground and on the surface."

WATCH PREFERENCE

Regarding the setting of freight rates, Mr. Gordon said: "A department store can reduce the price of one line of goods without the necessity of readjusting the prices of related articles. But if the railways take similar action it might be regarded as undue preference, in which case the board must decide how it is to be straightened out."

There was no suggestion that all regulations be swept aside.

"I recognize that safety standards must be laid down and enforced and that public convenience and necessity deserve to be protected. Moreover, I think it is an entirely satisfactory arrangement that an independent semi-judicial body such as the board of transport commissioners should be the arbiter of what constitutes the public interest in matters of this kind."



CANADA'S BREAD BASKET—Canada is bursting at the seams with grain, mostly wheat, much of it carried over from last year's record crop. Another 574,000,000 bushels is ripening on the fields of the prairie provinces to add to the storage problem. Largest producer is Saskatchewan with an estimated 365,000,000 bushels. Alberta has an estimated 159,000,000 bushels and Manitoba 50,000,000. In this graph by the crop section, agriculture division, Bureau of Statistics, estimated acreage and yield per section is outlined.

Soda Fountains On Way Out Survey Shows

OTTAWA (CP)—Drug store fountains appear to have had their heyday in Canada.

The bureau of statistics reported Monday there were less than half as many drug stores with soda fountains in 1951 as there were in 1941. On the other hand, the number of drug stores without fountains increased.

This information, and more like it on other retail outlets, was issued today based on reports from the 1951 census.

Canadians seem to have bought many more household appliances and other modern conveniences in the 10-year period than ever before. The census showed increases in the number of automobile dealers, furniture stores and appliance stores.

SIZEABLE DECLINES

"In the food and beverage group the decade brought sizeable declines in the numbers of bakery stores, confectionery stores, milk dealers, egg and poultry stores, fruit and vegetable stores, meat and fish markets, while the number of combination grocery and meat stores climbed by 88 per cent to 11,460 in 1951 from 6,101 in 1941," the report said.

"In the automotive group," it continued, "all the main types of retail establishments increased in number in the 10 years, except filling stations, which fell to 8,394 from 10,130."

There were more men's and boys' clothing stores in 1951 than in 1941, but fewer custom tailors. In the women's department, the report showed more ready-to-wear shops, more furriers, but fewer millinery stores, lingerie and hosiery stores.

In the building materials and hardware group, all main types of retailers were more numerous in 1951 than in 1941, except lumber, coal and wood dealers. They declined in numbers.

3,000 Workers Decide Not To Strike Now

ARVIDA, Que. (CP) — Approximately 3,000 employees of the Aluminum Company of Canada's huge plant in this northeastern Quebec centre decided at a mass meeting Monday night not to strike and to accept improved company proposals.

The employees voted 55 per cent in favor of accepting a wage increase of 17 cents an hour which makes the basic minimum wage $1.42 an hour and the maximum $2 an hour.

The increased pay rates, equal to approximately $5.70 a week, are retroactive to Nov. 1, 1952.

Three hundred employees on a night shift still have to vote but it was not believed their vote would influence the general decision.

Villeneuve Victory Confirmed By Recount

ROERVAL, Que. (CP)—A judicial recount of votes cast in Roberval constituency in the federal election Aug. 10 confirmed the victory of Georges Villeneuve, Liberal candidate, over Progressive-Conservative Paul Spence who sat in the last Parliament.

The recount before Mr. Justice G. F. Gibsone of Quebec Superior Court showed 8,641 votes for Mr. Villeneuve and 8,447 for the former member for Roberval.

Order Miners Pay Rent Or Quit Houses

TIMMINS (CP) — Hallnor Gold Mines, one of four companies closed by striking miners in the Porcupine mining area here, Monday ordered seven workers to pay their rent on Hallnor houses by Thursday or get out.

The order came from mine manager W. J. Marshall who said August rents are due on seven homes owned by the company and built on Hallnor property. Hallnor workers were among 950-odd members of the United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL) who walked out six weeks ago for higher wages.

Mr. Marshall said statements were sent to the strikers Aug. 10 saying that rents were due. The miners made no attempt to pay, he said.

Union officials said Monday that steps are being taken to protect the families. They did not elaborate.

Other companies hit by the walk out are Broulan Reef, Preston East Dome and Delnite Mines.

2 High-Ranking Officers Freed By Reds

PANMUNJOM (AP)—The Korean war prisoner exchange moved into its fifth and possibly last week today as two high-ranking Allied officers came back among the 400 men returned from North Korean prison camps.

The Communists promised to hand back another 100 Americans Wednesday, as well as 200 South Koreans for a total of 300—the smallest daily total since the dramatic swap started 28 days ago.

Today there were 100 Americans, 25 British, 20 Turks, five Australians and 250 South Koreans in the freedom-headed group.

Riding happily into Panmunjom on open trucks were two Allied officers, both with many months of Red captivity behind them.

One was Lt.-Col. James P. Carne, commander of the first battalion of Britain's gallant Gloucestershire Regiment, which was all but wiped out when cut off in the Imjin river battle in April 1951.

Carne, puffing a pipe, hopped off a Red truck and told Allied officers who greeted him "it feels great to be back."

FREE AMERICAN COLONEL

The other top-ranking repatriate was an American, Lt.-Col. Paul V. Liles, who spent almost three years as a prisoner of the Reds.

He told a grim tale of systematic Communist pressure on prisoners to make them sign confessions and make propaganda broadcasts. Liles said he and a group of prisoners who had been nearly starved to death were forced by the Reds to broadcast over Pyongyang radio. He said the alternative was a 100 mile march over frozen highways —"tantamount to a death sentence."

With the exchange moving into its final days, the Reds as of today had returned 2,927 Americans of the 3,313 they originally said they held. The Communists have since indicated they hold more and have promised to repatriate all who want to go home. They have given no figures, however.

It is believed the Reds are still holding at least six Canadian prisoners, but there has been no indication when they will be released. Ten more than the 14 Canadians the Communists originally said they held captive have already been released.

Now at home in Canada are 11 of the 24 Canadians who have been repatriated. They arrived by air from Tokyo in Vancouver last Saturday. Eight others, more recently freed, are expected to arrive at Vancouver Wednesday.

350 WAITING

One American released today said about 350 Allied sergeants, mostly Americans, were still awaiting repatriation at Kaesong, the Red holding point just north of Panmunjom.

The returnee, Master Sgt. Robert Barkovic of International Falls, Minn., said he did not know the number of enlisted men or officers left because they were kept in compounds apart from non-commissioned officers.

Sgt. William F. Border of Jersey City, N.J., who also was freed today, estimated between 500 and 800 UN captives were still at Kaesong, not including 40 others being held at a special compound.

He said the 40 had been accused of "propaganda crimes" and would be among the last to be repatriated.

In all, 11,416 of the 12,782 Allied PoWs the Reds originally listed have been freed, leaving 1,366 still to be returned, by Red count.

North Korea's Pyongyang radio said today that Allied "war criminals" convicted by Red military courts would be released along with other Allied PoWs.

Pyongyang said a "releasing ceremony" was held Monday near Panmunjom during which the PoWs—their number was not given —were told they would be repatriated.

The UN command returned another 2,400 Communist PoWs today, raising to 62,817 the number of North Koreans and Chinese sent back to Red rule.

That leaves about 11,000 Reds still to be returned and UN sources said they expected to wind up their part of the exchange by Sunday.

INDIAN TROOPS ARRIVE

Meanwhile, the vanguard of 5,000 Indian troops who will guard Allied and Communist PoWs refusing repatriation were taken by helicopter from Inchon harbor to "Indian Village" in the demilitarized zone five miles southwest of Panmunjom.

The British transport Empire Pride arrived at Inchon today with nearly 1,700 Indians.

U.S. Army and Marine helicopters carrying the Indians to the neutral zone bypassed South Korean territory, thus meeting a condition laid down by President Syngman Rhee for use of Indian troops in Korea.

More than 400 were airlifted this afternoon. Normally, incoming troops move north by land, but the threat of bloodshed was made by South Koreans if the Indians touched South Korean soil.

In all, 5,000 Indian troops from four regiments—the Jats, the Dogras, the Kumaani and the Rajputana Rifles—will arrive here during the next two weeks from four troopships.

Brothers Admit Caused Ruckus

Brother acts were prominent in magistrate's court Monday when two sets of brothers appeared before Magistrate E. A. Gee to plead guilty to minor charges.

The Golloher brothers, Douglas and Donald, both 23, of 137 Stewart St., faced charges of obstructing an officer and creating a disturbance, Douglas with obstructing and Donald with creating.

PC Sherman Keliele was the officer in question and according to a report by Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, QC, the officer was arresting Donald for annoying some pedestrians on Saturday night when Douglas stepped in.

Douglas should have remained out for he was fined $15 and $2.50 costs while Donald escaped with only a $12.50 fine.

LEFT SCENE

Charged with failing to remain at the scene of an accident on August 16, William F. Drain, of Lakefield, was fined $25 and $13.50 court costs. No one was injured in the accident. A charge of being intoxicated against Garnet Drain, also of Lakefield, arising out of the same incident, was dismissed.

Charged with a second offence intoxication count, Oscar Calbury, 50, of Nepheline Mines, was fined $50 and $2.50 costs and given the option of 30 days.

Also charged with being intoxicated, Dudley Schilling, 38, of Curve Lake, paid a fine of $10 and $2.50 costs.

Alderman Asks Stores Violating Bylaw Be Fined

If any stores in the city stay open beyond the legal time limit for doing business, Ald. Norman Graham thinks they ought to be fined.

At Monday night's council meeting Ald. Graham asked Mayor Hugh Waddell to see that the bylaws governing shopping hours are enforced.

He was referring to the recent announcement of a group of 14 women's wear stores of their intention to remain open for business Friday nights, starting September 11.

City bylaws 2864 and 4356 require women's wear stores, like all others, to remain closed in the evenings.

James Fraser, Secretary-Manager of the Chamber of Commerce, has announced that "we will see to it, as a Chamber of Commerce, that a charge is laid against every store open on the evening of September 11."

INTEND TO OPEN

The group, known as the Women's Wear Associates of Peterborough, definitely intend to remain open, Leonard Pulver, their spokesman, told the Examiner recently.

Before they could do so legally, the appropriate bylaw would have to be amended. This would require a petition to city council, signed by two-thirds of the operators of women's wear stores in the city. Mr. Pulver said a petition had been drawn up and signed by "a large majority" of women's wear store proprietors.

City Clerk E. A. Outram told The Examiner that so far no such petition with the required number of signatures had come into his hands.

"I understand that no representation has been made by this group to have the bylaw amended," Ald. Graham told council Monday night.

ASKS ENFORCEMENT

"I'm going to ask His Worship to see that the bylaw is enforced. If they stay open, the penalty should be put to them—not just once, but every night they stay open."

The bylaw provides for a fine ranging between $25 and $100.

There was no comment from other council members on Ald. Graham's request.

Recommend County Accept Low Tender For Causeway

The tender of Armstrong Brothers, of Brampton, lowest of 16, for the construction of the Gannon's Narrows bridge, was recommended for acceptance to the county council by its roads committee Friday. The essential features of this bid were these prices; rockfill excavation, 97 cents a cubic yard, and top clay dressing, 50 cents a cubic yard. The cost of the rockfill is actually one cent per cubic yard less than the corresponding item in the expenditure on the Chemong Lake bridge four years ago. The clay top price is the same as the surface material on the other causeway.

Reeve Willard Waterman, of North Monaghan, presided at the meeting of the committee which recommended that Warden Leason call a special meeting of the council to accept the Armstrong Brothers' terms. This meeting will be Friday at 11 a.m.

HIGHEST TENDER

The highest tender of the sixteen quoted $2.46 a cubic yard for the rockfill and $1.25 a cubic yard for the clay top. The bid that was next to Armstrong's in order of attraction was received from Diamond Construction Co. at $1.16 for the rock and 50 cents for the clay.

Considering the increased costs during the last four years since the Ennismore work was done, the committee was quite happy about the Armstrong tender. The rockfill at Ennismore was 98 cents a cubic yard and with a comparatively short haul.

In anticipation of the Gannon's work the county bought a field of rock about two miles north of the Narrows in Harvey township.

Estimated cost of the proposed fill and bridge is $203,000, in detail as follows:

Rockfill	$89,600
Top clay	$2,500
Guard rails	$4,950
Extra opening the bridge	$6,000
Contingencies	$850

And, the $99,000 from the Federal government for the main bridge in the causeway.

COST TO COUNTY

The cost of this bridge to the county ratepayers has been stimated at $34,300, with the major part of the cost being borne by the Ontario Department of Highways.

It is expected that the county council will accept the Armstrong Brothers bid and that the work will be undertaken this fall and carried through the winter to completion.

ARTHUR LOW

Arthur Low Wins Scholarship

A Peterborough student, Arthur Low, has been awarded an admission scholarship by the University of Toronto.

Although amount of the award is not known, it is one of four Reuben Wells Leonard scholarships for schools not situated in Toronto. It is understood that Low's marks were highest among the four winners.

A graduate of PCVS, Low obtained eight firsts and one second in his departmental examinations this year. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Low, Brock St.

PIER COST $6,668.73

The job of repairing a pier of Wallace Point bridge will cost the councils of Peterborough county and Northumberland-Durham $6,668.73. Their joint committee received only one tender that of R. A. Blyth Construction Co., and has recommended that it be accepted.

Stephanie Stuart Junior Champ In Ski Jumps

Stephanie Stuart brought Peterborough its first Canadian water ski championship Monday when she won the junior girls' jumping event at the Canadian National Exhibition. In the overall Canadian closed championship (which includes jumping, slalom and trick skiing), Miss Stuart placed second to Carol Ann Duthie, who added that closed championship to her Mexican, Ontario and Eastern Canada titles.

A member of the Peterborough Water Ski Association, Miss Stuart won the jumping event with total points of 111. Janette Lindell of Ottawa placed five points behind, and then in third place was Miss Duthie with 101 points.

SECOND IN TOTAL

Miss Stuart, daughter of John Stuart, placed in all the other events, being second in the trick riding to Miss Duthie and then fifth in the slalom. Her points in the three events placed her well ahead of other competitors, but she was still 265 points behind Miss Duthie, who totalled 1,420 points in the over-all championship.

Another district skier, Altamae Thomas of Bobcaygeon, was high up in the junior events. She placed a fourth in the slalom events and then third behind Miss Duthie and Miss Stuart in the trick riding.

Another Bobcaygeon skier, Gus McIntosh, rated as one of Canada's best senior skiers, won the senior men's trick riding title, easily outdistancing all other competitors with a total of 536 points. His closest competition was provided by Charlie Blackwell with 485 points and by Don Williams of Toronto with 440.

McIntosh failed to place in the top three in the slalom events. Graydon Elliott of Toronto won that title, followed closely by Dave Hyman of Ottawa and Bob Broad of Toronto.

A men's overall champion was not declared because all the events were not held Monday. They are being completed today.

Start Rebuild Boat Plant In Lakefield

Factory Burned In April; Residents Buy Bond Issue

Lakefield Boat Co. is rebuilding its plant. The new building, of cement blocks, will be slightly larger than the one that burned last April 14, and is expected to cost about $50,000

Paul Richer, general manager of the company, said Monday that production in the new plant should be 30 per cent higher than their production was in the handsome white shingle building that became a tangled mass of wreckage in a few hours last spring.

A start on pouring foundations was made this week, while work of cleaning up the wreckage continued.

The new building, to have several thousand more square feet of work space than the old, will employ about 40 people.

DEBENTURES ISSUED

Citizens of Lakefield—some of them, at any rate—will have more than a civic interest in the new building. Lakefield Boats have floated a debenture issue, which is being taken up fairly readily by people of the village.

Mr. Richer said he was more than glad to see this reaction. It was that sort of feeling that made the company want to stay in the village.

Work on the cement block walls is expected to start some time next week, and Mr. Richer hopes the building will be ready to move into by November. It would not be completed by then, but far enough so to move in.

All new machinery has been purchased, and altered installation of it will make the production line more efficient, it is expected. A monorail system will carry the boats from the main building to a permanent paint shop at the rear, eliminating painting of boats outside the building.

Paving Contract Almost Finished

Warren Bituminous Paving Co. are finishing today the resurfacing of Aylmer St. north of Charlotte St. They also have a short block of work on Parkhill Road from George St. west to Benson Ave., near the C. N. R. crossing.

The company has completed the base for the paving of Monaghan Road from Frank Street, north, fronting the Canadian General Electric Co. It is ready for the class "A" gravel, which is followed by a priming, and after setting for a few days, the bituminous top is laid. This final stage will be in progress by the end of this week.

Meanwhile, the new pavement on Monaghan Rd. south from Braidwood Ave. has been in use for the last two weeks. In appearance it is notable improvement to that new section of the city and enchances the appearance of Kenner Collegiate Institute. Its lawn is becoming established. Abutting property pays part of the cost of the new pavement, but on the other hand there is an attractive improvement in the new street that should be reflected in the value of property.

Life Begins At 82

Mrs. Elizabeth Lockhart of Peterborough took her first ride in an airplane on Sunday at the age of 82. Flying over Gold Lake with her nephew, Ralph Goodfellow, the old lady was "too thrilled to be scared". She had been visiting relatives in the Mississauga Lake district over the weekend.

School Bells Toll For 8,500 Next Tuesday

Ask not for whom the bells toll, students. They toll for you.

Open season on public, separate and high school students starts for the 1953 term next Tuesday. About 8,500 pupils are expected to report for classes.

Largest single group — about 5,000 — is expected to report to the 13 public schools in the city. Two thousand more will be at the separate primary and secondary schools, and about 1,500 at PCVS and Kenner Collegiate.

Increase in public school attendance will be about 300, while high school attendance should be up by about 150, K. S. Wightman, superintendent of schools, expects Primary and secondary separate school attendance is expected to increase by more than 450. Of this total 256 are accounted for by the inclusion of St. Anne's Separate School on Benson Ave., under the wing of the city separate school board. Until this year it was situated outside the city in Smith township.

In the southend St. John's school has been equipped yith two new rooms to bring the total to 10 and increase its capacity.

Two new public schools — Armour Heights and Cameron St.— will handle a major part of the increase in public school attendance, while an addition to Confederation school will also help out. Increased high school attendance will be mostly taken up at Kenner Collegiate, which opened last fall.

Mr. Wightman said that work on the new school for the Queen Elizabeth subdivision should start sometime this fall, since there will be a definite need for the school by the 1954 term.

Registration at high schools last term was between 1,300 and 1,400, while public school registration amounted to about 4,800. Primary separate schools had 1,168 pupils, while St. Peter's High School had 375.

And as the pupils string back to classes, the chant of "no more pencils no more books, etc." will be a faded memory.

McGinness Workers Seek Certification

Application for certification in the International Association of Machinists, American Federation of Labour, has been made to the Ontario Labour Relations Board on behalf of employees of McGinness Trailer, it was announced Monday.

According to Dan Dean, special representative of the IAM, a substantial majority of the 45 McGinness employees have signed membership cards in the union.

Second Lot Bought For Parking

Space Now Planned For 147 Cars On King Street

Accommodation for 147 cars will be provided on a city parking lot 220 feet wide from King St. to Sherbrooke St. west of George St.

Sufficient property for parking 67 cars opposite the Colonial Coach Lines terminal was purchased by the city two weeks ago from the medical Centre for $20,000. City council Monday night authorized the purchase from Mary E. Patterson, also for $20,000, of the additional lot, with accommodation for 80 more cars. It faces Sherbrooke St. and adjoins the back of the first property bought.

Conversion of the property to a parking lot will entail demolition of four residences on the property fronting King St. and a terrace on the property to the south.

The project is expected to get under way next spring.

The problem of finding new parking facilities in the downtown area has been under study for some time by city council, its special traffic committee and the city planning committee.

Certain other locations were investigated but there were certain difficulties in acquiring them and none was considered any better than the one decided upon.

As with the parking lot in the old market square, the new parking lot will be equipped with meters.

HEAT CURLS LEAVES

Even the leaves of the trees looked parched and weary on a comparatilvely cool stretch of road east of Wallace Point Monday afternoon. At least it felt cooler in the vicinity of the swamp bordering the river, but the trees were listless and evidently hoping for an expanse of clouds with about 24 hours of steady rain.

Husband's Place In Kitchen Beside Wife

EDINBURGH (Reuters)—A husband's place is in the kitchen right alongside his wife, the eighth International Congress on Home Economics has decided after a week-long conference here.

For 40 hours a week, the breadwinner can remain safely at his job, but when he is home he has no right and no reason to sit in the easy chair while his wife wears herself out with the household chores, said the conferees.

The 1,300 delegates are returning home to 46 countries from Edinburgh, where they discussed how to free the housewife from the constant drudgery of homemaking and how to raise the status of housewifery as a profession.

The only answer to the first question is to enlist husbands and children as helpers, the conference decided.

The second question was answered with a resolution appealing to "all who have influence on public opinion" to show that the job of homemaking is in no way inferior to most other occupants open to girls.

DOROTHY DIX:

Phone Call Leads To Wife Improving Her Appearance

By DOROTHY DIX

DEAR MISS DIX: Last week I received a very disturbing phone call. A man who identified himself as a mutual friend said he had seen my husband out with another woman. When questioned about it, my husband told him I had become too matter-of-fact in my attitude towards our marriage. A few hours later I called the friend back for more information, and he denied ever having called me, saying he had been home all day with his family, which fact was later verified.

I have never learned who the first caller was. However, the call did lead to my making an analysis of my husband and me. I am absolutely convinced that my husband isn't seeing anyone else but I do acknowledge the truth of my attitude. In five years I have gained 25 pounds, use make-up only when I go out, have let my hair become streaky, and do forget that my husband might like some affection. Now, should I tell him of the phone call or try to forget it? AGNES R.

SELF-IMPROVEMENT COMMENDED

ANSWER: Your caller certainly was a helping hand in disguise, and it honestly seems as if that's just what he was trying to be. Husbands and wives often need to be jilted into a better appreciation of each other, and that is apparently what your anonymous friend accomplished in your case. Don't tell your husband of the call, but do continue with your ideas of self-improvement. You say that your husband has been tremendously pleased by the small things you've accomplished in one short week, so keep them up. Your increased attention to him, your efforts to improve your appearance, your evinced desire to spend more time with him—all have made an impression. Surely you cannot doubt the fidelity of a husband who is so obviously thrilled with your aim to please.

Look upon the mysterious phone call as the blessing that may have averted serious trouble in your household.

DEAR MISS DIX: A week ago on a class picnic, I went for a walk with one of the boys. We were gone quite a while, and indulged in petting. Since then when I see him on the street, he scarcely notices me. T. T.

ANSWER: You have learned a bitter truth the dificult way. Boys do not respect, or like, girls who are too easy with their kisses. Not only have you lost this boy's respect but he's quite likely to spread the news around among his pals that you are not a "nice" girl. Be more careful. A lost reputation is most difficult to regain.

Baek from the dead in the continuing prisoner-of-war exchanges at Panmunjom, the 23-year-old Galena Park soldier was reported killed in action, May 18, 1951.

Today, his 23-year-old wife, Mrs. Agnes Dixon of Lagrange, N. C., has a one-year-old son by her second husband, Pte. William S. Sasser of Lagrange. The boy was born seven months after her second marriage was annulled.

The sister, Mrs. Lorean Storey of Galena Park, said Monday night, "I feel sure Walter knows that Agnes married again, but I don't know if he is aware that she had a child."

TOLD HIM EVERYTHING

"I've told him everything in many letters," the sister continued, "but I don't know if he got all the letters. He has never mentioned the child to me in any of his letters. He did say he would do whatever Agnes wanted to do."

Mrs. Dixon, in Lagrange, refused to talk last night to Atlanta, Ga., newspaper men. Mrs. Storey said her sister-in-law revealed no plans to her in a letter she had from North Carolina last week.

"But she did say she was very anxious to see Walter," the sister said.

Mrs. Storey said Agnes legally cannot divorce Dixon until he returns to the United States. The couple were together but five days after their April 5, 1950, marriage, Mrs. Storey said, when he was ordered to the coast and about a month later shipped to Korea.

Reported killed in action about a year later, it was not until late in 1951 that the Communists released his name as a war prisoner.

Expect Trouble Over Conference Site

By JOHN SCALI

WASHINGTON (AP) — Western diplomats today forecast new troubles with the Communists over selection of the time and place for a Korean peace conference.

These diplomats said it was virtually certain Communist China and North Korea would reject whatever site and date the United Nations' side first proposes.

Geneva was regarded as the most likely UN choice for the spot to try to convert the Korean cease-fire into a lasting peace by diplomatic negotiation.

The date most prominently mentioned was Oct. 15. Under terms of the Korean armistice agreement, the political conference with the Communists must begin by Oct. 28—90 days after the truce signing.

FAR FROM CERTAIN

Geneva's selection as the conference site seemed far from certain, however. A move to pick a Far Eastern site was reported underway by some diplomats on the ground the Communists would never consent to go to Europe to discuss Asia's problems.

South Korea's ambassador to the United States, Dr. You Chan Yang, gave new notice his government will not agree to any conference in India, Ceylon or Indonesia.

Yang predicted in an interview that the Communists would counter with one of these three places, and said they are "absolutely unacceptable" to South Korea.

The problem of choosing a time and place for a political conference came up for UN discussion today at the state department.

Diplomats of the United States, Canada and 14 other Korean war allies gather at a meeting arranged by State Secretary Dulles to consider the issue.

South Korea was not invited to this initial meeting since it is not a UN member. But the UN delegates were expected to invite a Korean representative to sit in almost immediately since the UN general assembly formally designated South Korea as one of its representatives in the talks with the Communists.

SUGGESTS SAN FRANCISCO

Ambassador Yang, who probably will represent South Korea along with Foreign Minister Yung Tai Tyun, suggested San Francisco as the conference site.

"Since it is the seat of the birth of the UN, it would be an ideal place for my government," he said. "Further, it would have the proper facilities available to insure full news coverage and that's a very important factor."

South Korea, he said, has no objection to Geneva, and "is ready to meet immediately with the Communists to begin talks aimed at unifying North and South Korea."

British diplomats, who previously had indicated they favored Ceylon as a conference place, said today they would go along with whatever spot the Communists could be persuaded to accept. British officials said they would prefer to see the conference begin about Oct. 1 rather than nearer the Oct. 28 deadline, as most U. S. officials believe necessary.

Sattelites Out Of Step On Kremlin Death Mystery

By DON DALLAS

LONDON (Reuters) — A five-year-old Kremlin death mystery took an odd turn Monday night when all the satellites were out of step with Moscow in commemorating the event.

Five years ago Andrei Alexandrovich Zhdanov died suddenly in Moscow at the age of 54 and apparently at the height of his power.

Zhdanov was then reckoned No. 2 to Stalin. He was Russia's culture chief, the founder of the Cominform, and an apostle of militant expansionist communism.

A medical bulletin signed by several Kremlin doctors said he died from heart disease.

With his death, Georgi Malenkov, Vyacheslav Molotov and Lavrenti P. Beria all moved one up: One nearer the succession to Stalin.

ACCUSED DOCTORS

In January this year a group of Russian doctors, mostly Jewish, were publicly accused of having hastened Zhdanov's death by faulty diagnosis and treatment. They were also accused of plotting to kill other party and army leaders.

In April this year, one month after Stalin died, an announcement by the Soviet ministry of internal affairs (then headed by Beria) said the accused doctors had been freed. The charges against them were said to be false. "Unlawful" interrogation methods were said to have been used.

In July Beria was denounced as an "enemy of the people" and an "imperialist spy," he was stripped of all offices in party and state. The announcement, however, made no reference to the Zhdanov affair.

IGNORE ANNIVERSARY

Monday night Moscow radio completely ignored the Zhdanov anniversary. In past years Zhdanov had been built up in a big way with commemorative articles about the part he played in building up "socialism" in the U.S.S.R. and in his relations with "fraternal" Communist parties of other lands.

But in contrast, monitors here reported, the news bulletins of Soviet satellite countries were almost entirely devoted to commemorating Zhdanov. Radio reports showed that the press of those countries also carried long articles about Zhdanov.

Clearly Malenkov ordered this commemoration to stop this year. It is in line with his policy of playing down the memory of Stalin and with his denunciation of "the cult of the individual." It may also be in line with his personal feelings about the late Zhdanov.

But clearly, too, these instructions have not reached satellite capitals.

Don't Know Views Of Red China

Typhoon Now Heads Towards Red China

TAIPEH, Formosa (AP)—A typhoon with winds of 120 miles an hour roared into the Formosa channel today and headed toward Red China.

The big storm was expected to hit the mainland in the vicinity of Amoy, across the channel from Formosa.

McMILLAN—In loving memory of my mother, who passed away September 1st, 1948.
It's lonesome here without you, mom,
and sad the weary way;
For life is not the same to us,
Since you were called away.
If we had all the world to give,
We'd give it yes, and more.
To hear her voice and see her smile,
And greet her at the door.
So you, who have a mother cherish her with care;
You'll never know a heart-ache
Until you see a vacant chair.
—Always remembered by daughter Jean.

Your Feet Act As Support, Lever, Catapult

You're strolling along, minding your own business. Suddenly someone calls your name, you turn, and he tosses a 75-pound medicine ball at you, John Pfeiffer writes in Coronet. This would be one practical joke that you couldn't laugh off. The ball would certainly knock you flat on your back, and you'd be lucky if you got away with nothing worse than a few broken fingers.

Fortunately, catastrophes of this sort are rare. But every day of your life you're standing up to far more severe punishment—and the miracle is that you don't even notice it.

HEAVY IMPACTS

Every time you climb a flight of stairs or, for that matter, every time you take a walk your feet are subjected to sledge-hammer impacts that would wreck other parts of the body. If you're a housewife, it's not unusual for you to walk 12 miles or so a day. That means you take about 27,000 steps. Now, for an important fraction of a second during each step, your full weight, say, 120 pounds, rests on the ball of one foot. In other words your feet have to take a daily total of 3,240,000 pounds in jolts! If you're a man you have a somewhat easier time of it. But the jolts are harder because you weigh more and the strain is still measured in hundreds of tons.

Even greater forces are released in running. According to one estimate, when you sprint to catch a bus, each stride places a force equivalent to ten times your weight on your ankles, arches and toes. You can imagine what tremendous stresses are involved when a sprinter propels himself forward at the start of a 100-yard dash or a basketball player leaps for a shot at the basket.

The human foot is a living shock absorber. It is also one of the most ingenious and versatile devices ever evolved serving as a five - in - one system — support, lever, hydraulic jack and catapult, as well as cushion. Furthermore, the entire works is amazingly compact. No other part of the body contains as many different structures in so small a space.

Nature has successfully crammed an intricate multi-purpose mechanism into a space no bigger than that of a candy box. The moving and supporting parts are 26 neatly intermeshed bones — driven by millions of muscle fibres, nourished by a maze of bloodvessels, co-ordinated by the electrical signals of threadlike nerves. The power supply consists of great contracting muscles in the calf and upper leg.

Simply holding ourselves upright represents a major feat of human engineering. You stand on gently cured arches—natural suspension bridges that can support several hundred times their own weight. You can keep your balance because you weight is distributed with mathematical exactness. The load is divided up, pound for pound and place in strategic locations.

Each arch contains, among others, five slender cones comeced with the toes. The business ends of these bones make up the ball of your foot and carry their share of the burden. If you weigh 144 pounds, for example, the bone attached to your big toe takes 12 pounds of the load and the bones attached to your smaller toes take six pounds apiece (your heels bear the rest of your weight).

ROLE OF TOES

Your toes have nothing to do as long as you simply stand still. They hang in mid-air and when you stand in bare feet, a piece of cardboard can be slipped under them, without touching. But they preserve your equilibrium the instant you start moving. Turn on your ankles and reach to the right. Your weight shifts toward the big toes of your left foot and the little toe of your right foot.

It's amazing how the parts of the foot work together when you walk. Your arch acts as a lever, lifting your weight much as a screwdriver lifts off the top of a paint can. The lifting is done gradually, until you are about two inches above normal height.

Now you're in a state of delicate balance, like a car perched on the top of a roller coaster. Your foot has to let you down slowly, or else you would lose your balance and fall. Also, you would land on your heel with a jarring thud if your feet didn't include special emergency devices.

Nature hasn't finished tinkering with the human foot. There are signs that short metatarsals are on the way out, which means our remote descendants may have less foot trouble. Also, the little toe and the one next to it seem to be disappearing. Man is getting lazier, more push-button conscious, and spends more time in a sitting position.

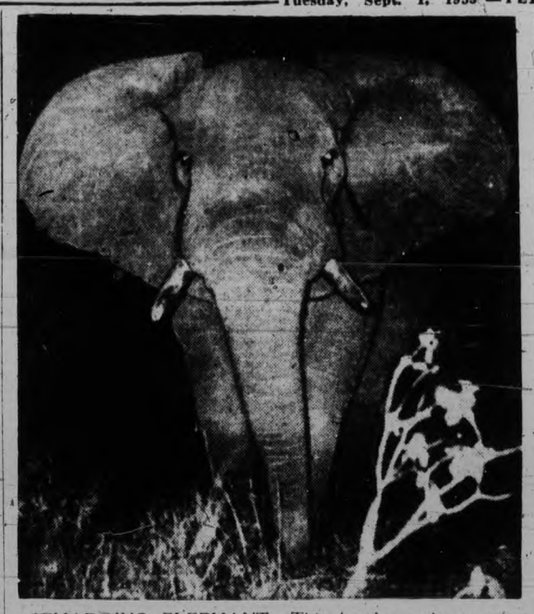
We may wind up as three-toed creatures in a hundred thousand years or so. Meanwhile, sensible shoes are the best way of doing right by our changing feet.

Chinese Make Third Given Citizenship

OTTAWA (CP)—Nearly one-third of the 9,061 non-British subjects who received certificates of Canadian citizenship in 1952 were Chinese, the bureau of statistics reported today.

The bureau said 3,021 Chinese received citizenship certificates in 1952. They included 1,206 who migrated to Canada prior to 1921.

Persons of Polish origin were the second largest group. They totalled 1,517 and were followed by United States nationals who numbered 64.



CHARGING ELEPHANT—This head-on picture of a mad elephant was made by an intrepid photographer accompanying game wardens in South Africa's Kruger National Park recently. This elephant and others broke through an enclosure of the Letaba camp reserve to feed on palm trees. The photographer remained just long enough to make this dramatic shot from a distance of 25 feet and then immediately made his departure.

Mountie Writes Book About Life In Service

OTTAWA (CP) — An honest-to-goodness Canadian Mountie decided one day that he should write an honest-to-goodness book about life in the service.

That was seven years ago, shortly after Sgt. Oscar Olson's horse had dumped him roughly to the ground. Today, fully recovered from an injury received at the time, he is the proud author of a 300-page novel.

The book, soon to be published in Canada and the United States, is entitled "Mountie on Trial." That wasn't the original title. Sgt. Olson first decided to call it "White Snow" but his American publishers thought it should have a name with more punch; one more appealing to the movie-makers.

BIG FRAME-UP

"Mountie on Trial" is the story of a constable who was framed into the penitentiary by his unfaithful wife and her lover. The rascals planted stolen bonds in his desk drawer. These were discovered by the Mountie's superintendent, and up the river he went for several years.

Released from prison, the Mountie decided to "get his man," or, rather, his wife's man. The chase led through some of the wildest country in the great northwest, country in which Sgt. Olson himself served many long months.

It took Sgt. Olson seven years to complete his novel, rewriting it eight times. He says the actual research for it, however, took 24 years—the 24 years he has been in the RCMP.

"To find out what my 'Mountie on Trial' really had been up against when he served his penitentiary term," Sgt. Olson said, "I went through St. Vincent de Paul near Montreal and made a study of life as men-in-cage live it."

REAL ATMOSPHERE

Taking pains to create authentic atmosphere for his fanciful plot, the sergeant even took the weather into consideration. When it rained outside, he wrote those portions of the book in which the weather matched; when there was a blizzard, he wrote of days and nights of searching in the white snows of the Yukon and Northwest Territories.

"That way," he says, "it gave me more of the feel of the characters as I went along. The ring of real life came more truly when the weather outside was the same as that required in the book's various episodes."

"Mountie on Trial," which has been "cleared" by RCMP headquarters, is to be published both in regular book form and for the popular "pocket book" editions.

Sgt. Olson was born on a Saskatchewan homestead 46 years ago. He joined the RCMP at the age of 22 and, in succeeding years, served in many parts of Canada. His present duties are with the force's headquarters in Ottawa.

And how does the Mountie like life as an author? Fine, he says. In fact, so well that he already has begun work on his next novel, an Indian tale of Western Canada.

Wholesale Prices Eased In July

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's wholesale price structure eased slightly during July with the index declining one-half a point to 221.2 from 221.7, the bureau of statistics reported today.

The yardstick, based on 1935-39 prices equalling 100, showed some weakness in agricultural, wood, textile, non-ferrous metals and chemical products. Iron prices remained steady, while prices for non-metallic products increased slightly.

Italy Given Stern Warning

LONDON (AP) —Marshal Tito's government today formally accused Italy of frontier provocations and warned that Yugoslavia will "discard all responsibility" for what might happen if the incidents continue.

A stiffly-worded note delivered in Rome today protested "energetically" against what it called "the armed demonstrations of the Italian units along the Yugoslav-Italian frontier."

The note, as summarized in a Belgrade radio broadcast, also expressed expectation that the Italian government will renounce such methods so that these acts might not become a precedent in the further relations between the two countries."

Gov't Requests Reich Party Be Outlawed

BONN (AP)—The West German government announced today it will ask the federal supreme court to outlaw the Nazi-like German Reich party.

This party, led by ranting Hitlerites, is sparking a resurgent Nazi drive for votes in the Sept. 6 national election.

The federal cabinet headed by Chancellor Konrad Adenauer unanimously decided that the party's "aims and officials and the behavior of its membership" violates the constitution.

The cabinet reached this decision after studying material on the party submitted by the lower Saxony state government and the federal office for the protection of the constitution.

The cabinet instructed federal Interior Minister Robert Lehr to file suit against the party immediately before the Supreme Court. Only last October this court banned the socialist Reich party, another Nazi-like group.

The court is not expected to rule before the election in which the German Reich party is campaigning to elect candidates in six of the nine states, ut any candidates the party elects to Parliament can be removed if the court rules that it is unconstitutional.

Quesnel River Returns As Salmon Stream

VANCOUVER (CP)—As a result of years of research and conservation methods, the Quesnel river system in central British Columbia has been restored as a major sockeye salmon spawning stream, says H. R. MacMillan, recently back from an inspection of the area.

Mr. MacMillan, a member of the international salmon fisheries commission, paid tribute to the work of commission scientists and referred to their achievement as a "modern miracle."

He says the Horsefly river now is alive with many thousands of spawning sockeye in an area that a few years ago was practically written off for future salmon production.

Up to 1909 the Quesnel system was a major sockeye spawning grounds for the Fraser river and that year more than 4,000,000 spawning fish were counted.

In the next cycle, 1913, because of placer mining in the Quesnel and a big slide at Hell's Gate, the run was virtually non-existent. Now the total run is well on its way back to the 1909 figure.

Results of an experiment conducted by scientists at Horsefly lake hatchery were impressive. Small fingerlings raised there were flown to another tributary stream and released. When these marked fingerlings returned to spawn and die four years later, they disregarded the stream where they had been planted and continued to the hatchery where they were born. "Thy even tried to fight their way up the water-pipes into the hatchery."

Chilled Sea Water Replaces Ice In Transporting Fish

VANCOUVER (CP) — Use of chilled sea water in place of ice to transport fish has produced favorable results here.

Pacific Fisheries Experimental Station officials say the new method may prove of major importance to the fishing industry.

Scientists installed special tanks in Captain Ellis Morney's commercial troller Kath-Ell, designed to store freshly-caught fish at a temperature of 30 degrees F., in sea water chilled by a condensing unit.

These compartments replace the conventional fish-pans. The new system can be installed in wooden fishing craft without insulating the hull. It also eliminates carrying and handling of ice, reducing operating and labor costs.

Fish are dressed as soon as possible after being caught, rinsed and placed in the sea-water tank. During the experiment an equal amount of fish from each catch was iced and stored in the refrigerated hold.

When the first lot was landed, the plump, wholesome, fresh-looking appearance of the spring salmon from the sea water tank could scarcely be distinguished from freshly-caught fish. The skin was without bruises, which often are present when ice is used.

In one test fish that had been stored in refrigerated sea ater 19 days were preferred by 96 per cent of the tasters.

Bombers Knock Out Stamps 16-10 To Take First Place

EDMONTON (CP) — Winnipeg Blue Bombers still are the team to lose and Saskatchewan Roughriders the team to win in the young Western Interprovincial Football Union season.

Bombers, rated the best in the West this season, marched into first place in the league standings on home ground Monday night, defeating Calgary Stampeders 16-10.

At Regina, the Roughriders lost out 19-17 to Edmonton Eskimos, the second setback for the Riders in two games, leaving them in the same position as last season when they wound up in the league cellar.

Calgary and Edmonton each have won one and lost one for a tie for second place.

FIGURES STRONGLY

Flying wing Bud Korchak figured strongly in Winnipeg's victory as he piled up 10 points from a touchdown, a field goal and two converts. Winnipeg's other points came from a major by end Neill Armstrong and a rouge on Johnny Bright.

Pete Thodos scored all Calgary's points, two unconverted touchdowns.

Ten of the Wnnipeg points came in the fourth quarter. It was the same for Edmonton, trailing 13-12 at the end of the third. Slippery Oklahoman Billy Vessels ran back 95 yards for a touchdown and the winning points. Riders appeared to have Edmonton and its split-T formation on the run until Vessels took off.

Other majors were scored for Edmonton by Rollie Miles and end Frank Anderson. Wilbur Snyder converted all three. Esks' other point was gained from a rouge on Ken Charlton.

BRILLIANT RUNNING

The game was featured by brilliant running, one for 109 yards by Riders' Herb Johnson who went all the way from his own one-yard line after taking a kick by Rod Pantages. Johnson added another major in the fourth quarter. Mac Speedie scored for Riders in the third.

Frank Tripucka, who handled the quarterback chores for Saskatchewan, booted two converts. He completed 22 of 32 passes for 189 yards. Edmonton came through with nine out of 17 for 179 yards.

Winnipeg was good on 13 out of 23 passes and Calgary five of 13. Winnipeg gained 119 yards through the air; Calgary 72.

Calgary lost fullback John Henry Johnston early in the second quarter. He was given a match penalty for slugging Norm Hill.

George Young Appears In Midway Show

TORONTO (CP)—George Young, who as a youngster made the Canadian National Exhibition swim the greatest single attraction at the show, is back at the fair—but this time in a midway show.

The first marathon swim at the "Ex" in 1927, a tough 21-mile course in icy water, was sponsored by William Wrigley, Jr., of Chicago and the news that George would take part drew a huge crowd. The year before, Wrigley had offered an award for a Catalina channel swim off the coast of California near Los Angeles.

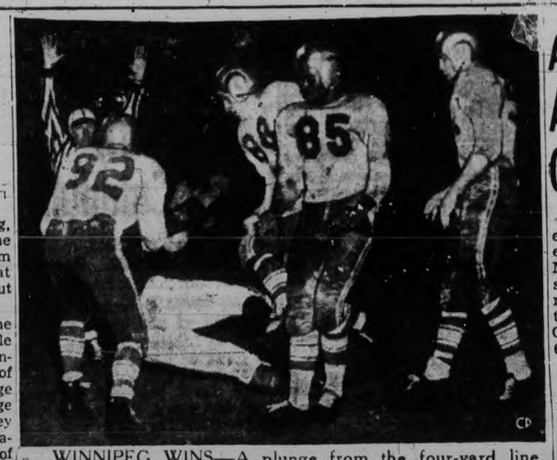
George, an unknown kid living in Toronto, rode a second-hand motorcycle across the continent to take part and won the race.

SPECIAL STYLE

The cold water in the first exhibition swim was too much for the "Catalina Kid." Ernst Vierkoetter of Germany came first.

In later years, George won the shorter marathon and then won year after year in the shorter matches.

He used to train in Muskoka and his smooth swimming style became the ideal for hundreds of thousands of youngsters. He swims with the same precision in the midway tank at this year's Ex.



WINNIPEG WINS—A plunge from the four-yard line puts Len Meltzer (on ground) across in a fourth-quarter touchdown to give Winnipeg Blue Bombers a 7-6 victory over Edmonton Eskimos in the official opening game of the Western Inter-provincial Football Union at Winnipeg. Watching are Edmonton's Ray Willsey (92), Steve Mendryk (88), and Rolie Miles (85).

Saunders Welcomes Athletes To Toronto

TORONTO (CP) — Robert H. Saunders, chairman of the Canadian Olympic training plan committee, Monday welcomed to the Canadian National Exhibition the numerous athletes from across the country who'll compete in the Canadian interprovincial track and field championships Friday and Saturday.

Saunders said the plan, which this year includes a four-day coaching clinic, will be carried on yearly. The clinic is being held under Don Canham, University of Michigan track and field coach, and Bruce Humber of Victoria.

Saunders said: "We're hoping to have the 1960 Olympics in Canada, possibly in Toronto and maybe even on the CNE grounds." He added: "If we don't get them in 1960, we'll go after the 1964 games and keep going until we get them."

CHATHAM BANTAMS WIN

CHATHAM, Ont. (CP)—Grabbing a 7-2 lead in the first three innings, Chatham Bantams Monday withstood a London rally in the closing innings to hang up a 9-8 victory and eliminate the Forest City nine from further contention in the Bantam A OBA playoffs.

The victory gave Chatham the series two games to one. Chatham now will compete in the OBA bantam tournament next weekend.

Vernon Leading Batting Race

NEW YORK (AP)—Washington's Mickey Vernon and Red Schoendienst of St. Louis Cardinals—both second in their respective circuits a week ago—have swooped back into the lead in the topsy-turvy major league batting races.

With the teams in the final month of play, Vernon displaced Al Rosen of Cleveland Indians as the American League's top batter with a .328 average. In the National League Schoendienst boosted his average to .340 to regain the front-running position from Monte Irvin of New York Giants.

Vernon, who won the batting crown in 1946, went 11-for-30 and gained three points. Rosen meanwhile slipped from the top spot to second at .325. Figures include Sunday's games.

Schoendienst and Irvin, both seeing limited action because of ankle injuries, exchanged places in the National League hitting list. Irvin went 1-for-2 for a one-point boost but he relinquished his lead and trails Schoendienst at .339.

A couple of crafty southpaws, Preacher Roe of the Dodgers and Ed Lopat of the Yanks, sport the best won-lost pitching records. Roe heads the National League hurlers with a 9-2 mark and Lopat is junior circuit's top moundsman with a 13-3 slate.

42 Rugby Candidates Have Lengthy Drills

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Johnny Metras sent 42 perspiring and aspiring football candidates through two lengthy drills Monday as the University of Western Ontario opened pre-season drills in a blazing 90 degree temperature.

Another 20 to 25 candidates are expected to report in the next couple of days to bring the training squad to full strength.

Graduation and ineligibility have caused Metras no end of worry. Lack of depth in the backfield has been emphasized with the loss of such stalwarts from last year's championship team as Ray Truant, Jimmy Carroll, Cam Church, Bud Obal, Blair Thomson and Syl O'Hara.

Rail traffic Tied Up

ALTIMORE (AP) — A power failure plunged the Pennsylvania station here into darkness Monday night and bottled up mainline traffic for more than two hours. The station master, said the power loss prevented the operation of two switches, tying up four northbound and four southbound trains. Service was restored and traffic resumed about 2½ hours later.

BROCKVILLE (CP)—Robert H. Perkins, 72, of nearby Glen Buell was fatally injured Monday in a collision between a tractor and station wagon. Beaumont Kelly of Athens, Ont., and Hyle Newsom of Plum Hollow, were injured. Mr. Perkins was operating the tractor.

TORONTO (CP)—A field of 240 golfers, 55-years-and-over, trudged over two Toronto golf courses Monday in 89-degree heat in the opening 18-hole round of the 31st annual Canadian Senior Golf Association championship.

One half the field played over the par-71 York Downs club and the other half over the par-70 Rosedale course. The players switch courses today for the final round of the 36-hole event.

At the Rosedale course Art Vigneux of Toronto Mississaugua fired a 78; Dr. George Laing of Windsor Essex, defending titleholder, 79, and A. L. Code of Perth, Ont., 80.

Italy Denies Troops Violated Border

ROME (AP)—Italy has "categorically" denied a Yugoslav charge that Italian troops violated the Yugoslav frontier north of the disputed port city of Trieste. An Italian foreign ministry spokesman termed the accusation "absurd and fantastic."

Though tension apparently was lessening between the two countries, reports from Belgrade said President Tito's government would make a formal diplomatic protest to Italy today over the alleged incident.

(The New York Times reports in a dispatch from Belgrade that Yugoslavia planned to repudiate provisions of the Italian peace treaty that call for the establishment of a "free territory" of Trieste under United Nations sponsorship. Italy, the United States, Britain and France already have renounced this part of the treaty.

(Times correspondent Jack Raymond quoted a Yugoslav spokesman as saying his government was returning to its 1946 claims for the incorporation of the entire free territory and the city of Trieste into Yugoslavia. The spokesman added that "we certainly will not go to war to fulfill" these claims, the report said.

(In 1948, the United States, Britain and France called for the restoration of the entire area to Italy.)

ANNOUNCED BY RADIO

The frontier violation charge was announced Monday night by Belgrade radio after a week-end of stress sparked by Italian fears that Belgrade planned to annex the Yugoslav-occupation zone in divided Trieste. Tito's government since has denied any such intentions.

The broadcast claimed that 23 Italian soldiers armed with automatic weapons had crossed about 164 feet into Yugoslav territory near Nova Gorica and deployed in "fighting order." The intruders, the radio continued, returned to their own soil "only at the second summons of the Yugoslav frontier patrol."

Other Italian troops, the broadcast claimed, carried out manoeuvres along the border. Italy moved two divisions toward the Yugoslav frontier north of Trieste Sunday but claimed their shift constituted only "routine exercises."

CALMER VIEW

Italian government circles appeared to be taking a somewhat calmer view of the situation following the Yugoslav denial of any annexation plans.

In London, an Italian embassy spokesman said British foreign office officials had expressed the view that Tito's government does not really intend to annex the Trieste zone. The informant asserted the London government had informed Italy it had asked Belgrade for assurances that Yugoslavia would not make such a move.

A British foreign office spokesman said his government "hopes confidently that moderate counsel will prevail."

Turk Broda Signs Contract With Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP)—Big Turk Broda, lining up his second season of hockey since retiring as netminder for Toronto Maple Leafs, Monday inked a one-year contract as coach of Ottawa Senators of the Quebec Senior Hockey League.

The turk said he currently weighs "210 pounds, soaking wet."

Broda won't play for Ottawa, T. P. Gorman, Senator owner, said. His contract, for an undisclosed sum, covers coaching duties only.

He replaces Johnny O'Flaherty, who has gone to Sault Ste. Marie.

Disappearance Caused Crisis,

LONDON (Reuters) — Anthony Rigden, British airman whose mysterious disappearance in the Suez Canal zone caused an Anglo-Egyptian crisis last month, has been formally charge with being absent without leave, the RAF said Monday night.

The 21-year-old airman was arrested by Paris police last week and brought to Britain Saturday Details of his disappearance and how he got from Egypt to Paris still are being withheld.

When Rigden vanished from a hostel in Isamlia seven weeks ago. British authorities charged he had been abducted by Egyptians. The town was tightly cordoned and security checks were carried out in the area. The Egyptians responded with charges that the British "engineered" the affair.

French police said Monday that Rigden had been picked up in Paris after being recognized from newspaper photos. They said he had been living in a small latin quarter hotel.

Egyptian newspapers jibed at the British Government Monday and demanded an immediate official apology.

LONDON (Reuters) — Princess Margaret will be honorary president of the British Dairy Farmers Association for 1954, the association announced today.

Browns Fighting To Get Kissell

OTTAWA (CP) — Cleveland Browns of the United States National Football League Monday served an amended statement of claim on John Kissell, star Ottawa Rough Rider tackle.

The Browns seek to get Kissell back and prevent him from playing with Riders, but their legal action was stalled last Friday when their statement of claim was made ineffective through a technicality. The Browns claim Kissell jumped a prior contract with them.

Kissell's lawyers, Sam Berger and Donald R. Snipper, have 10 days to prepare their case, which now cannot be heard at the assizes opening Sept. 14 without special permission.

There were indications the statement of claim will be a legal football. Berger said he will have to study the amended statement "very closely. If it contains all the information we consider necessary in order to prepare a defence, it will be accepted. If it does not, we will move again that it be amended."

Committee Plans To Confer On Threatened Policemen's Strike

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal's executive committee—a six-man body supervising the big city's day-to-day business — will meet later this week over the tough problem of a threatened strike of Montreal policemen and other municipal employees.

While any strike action by employees of a "public service" such as a police force is banned by a Quebec province law, St. Jean Paul Lapointe, president of Montreal Policemen's Brotherhood, announced last week Montreal detectives and policemen will strike unless they get higher pay.

Monday it was reported a total of 11,000 municipal employees—police force members included—may strike.

Both policemen and firemen want the same rates of pay as Toronto policemen and firemen.

The Police Brotherhood says Montreal's first-class police constables are paid $2,973 a year compared with $3,755 paid in Toronto. The city says first-class constables' pay here is $3,439 a year.

The firemen's Union says men with five years' experience receive $3,480 in Montreal while the Toronto wage for the same class of fireman is $3,742.

Guy Madison Up To Ears In Westerns

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—For a guy who couldn't get an acting job three years ago, Guy Madison is doing all right.

In fact, he's up to his pistol holsters in work, and he doesn't seem to mind it. He remembers the lean days when no one would hire him.

The last time I talked to Guy was when he was working on "The Charge at Feather River." The future was still in doubt for him. He had made a solid hit with his Wild Bill Hickock series on TV, but he was still an unknown quantity at the box offices.

OPTION PICKED UP

The issue has now been resolved. "Feather River" shot to the top of the theatre polls when it was released. Now Madison's option has been picked up and he is slated to head 'em off at the crossroads in five more films. He is now making a big-budget epic called "Rear Guard."

I asked if he minded being typed in horse operas, a fate which seems apparent.

"I don't think I'll necessarily be typed in westerns," he replied. "I believe I could make all kinds of action pictures. Later on I might even try something different. But I don't mind action. I like working outdoors better than making pictures on stages."

"Besides action—pictures are good discipline. You have to stay in shape for them. If you let yourself get fat, you're in trouble.

MOVED TOO FAST

He admits that he moved "too far too fast" during the early phase of his film career. A bobby sox favorite, he was pushed into leading roles that were beyond his capabilities. After a few flops, he found himself out in the cold. That's when he gambled his future on westerns.

He now has as much work as he can handle. Warners is grooming him as the likely successor to John Wayne and Randolph Scott and is lining up a number of action vehicles for him. Guy also plans to shape up his own picture-making company.

He has a respite from his TV chores until next March. He'll resume the westerns then. Filming them in color so they'll be ready for tinted TV. His fall schedule includes recording 40 radio shows for the Wild Bill series.

PRIVATE ENTERPRISE—With officials, bankers and a chef (left) slaving over a hot stove in Brussels, Belgium, U.S. currency and banknotes are dried out after their long underwater submersion. The notes were part of the cache recovered by an Italian salvage crew who worked on the sunken "Flying Enterprise"—the ship whose disaster brought out the heroism of her captain, Kurt Carlsen, when she sank off the English coast in January, 1952.

Cables Strung For Large Power Exchange

TORONTO (CP)—Cables were strung Monday between the Detroit Edison Company Delray power plant and the Ontario hydro Keith generating station in Windsor in preparation for what is believed to be the largest international power exchange in the world.

Ontario hydro chairman Robert H. Saunders said Monday night he hopes power will be flowing into Ontario within a few days. The Detroit company has received permission from the federal power commission for the exchange.

Mr. Saunders also said that because water storage on the Ottawa river has shown no improvement hydro has called back into regular service two package unit steam plants at Toronto and Thorold. He said he hoped the exchange with the Michigan system would end the province's present power supply problem and provide the necessary protection for water storage.

The cables across the Detroit river were slung Monday from twin 302-foot towers. Coast Guard boats halted all river traffic while the cables were hoisted 183 feet above the water.

A second system of cables will be strung between Marysville, Mich. and Sarnia. Each system will have a capacity of 150,000 kilowatts. In the first weeks of the exchange, Mr. Saunders estimated between 16,000 and 20,000 kilowatts will be coming into Ontario.

Believe Lake Levels Can Be Regulated

MONTREAL (CP)—The international joint commission in a statement Monday said there is "every expectation" that levels of Lake Ontario can be regulated so as to benefit property owners along the Canadian and American shores and navigation and power interests.

The commission met in special session to deal with the matter.

The governments of Canada and the United States asked the commission June 25, 1952, to investigate the matter and "make recommendations as to whether measures can be taken to regulate the level of Lake Ontario so as to reduce the extremes of stage which have been experienced in recent years."

COMMISSION SATISFIED

The statement said in part:

"The commission announced that it was satisfied, from the technical evidence which had been submitted to it, that completion of the works for power generation in the International Rapids section of the St. Lawrence river, which were authorized by the international joint commission Oct. 29 last year, will make it possible not only to regulate the levels of Lake Ontario so that lakeshore owners on both sides of the boundary will be in no worse position than in the past, but in fact there is every expectation that the levels of the lake can be regulated in such a way as to benefit both the property owners along the shores in Canada and the United States and the other important interests of navigation and power."

Canada's Best Planes In National Air Show

TORONTO—The greatest concentration of airpower ever displayed for Canadians will highlight the National Air Show, a Sept. 19 presentation over the waterfront at the CNE.

More than a dozen types of aircraft used by Canada's armed forces will fly in the giant show.

The Royal Canadian Air Force is providing its 445 All-weather Fighter Squadron, flying twelve of the new Canadian-made FC-100 twin-jet fighters.

Six T-33 Silver Dart jet trainers from the RCAF station at Trenton will carry out a formation flypast.

A group of Harvard trainers from RCAF, Centralia, will perform formation aerobatics.

A Flying Boxcar will drop cargo by parachute in a display of techniques developed in Korea.

Britain's de Havilland Comet, operated by RCAF Transport Command, will salute the crowd in a low-level flypast.

The F-86 Sabre, veteran of combat over Korea, will sweep over the CNE waterfront in a demonstration of speed and manoeuverability.

Two types of aircraft used by the Royal Canadian Navy, Avenger sub-hunters and Sea Fury fighters, will also fly in the National Air Show.

3 Masked Men Rifle Shop

TORONTO (CP) — A Ukrainian mother and her young daughter were forced to lie face down on a bed Monday while three men, masked and armed, rifled a safe in the family's jewelry shop and escaped with $10,000 worth of jewels and watches.

Mrs. Natalie Wasyl, 24, and her daughter, Mary, 7, were alone in the store when the three men walked in. They held handkerchiefs over their faces. One of them pushed a gun into Mrs. Wasyl's stomach and told the two of them to lie down in the rear living quarters of the store on Dundas St. W., in downtown Toronto.

The men took three boxes and filled them with watches and diamonds. They escaped in a blue car parked near the store.

Police discounted a theory of Mrs. Wasyl's that a woman, who came into the store about 20 minutes before the holdup and asked to see an engagement ring, was an advance guard. The woman left without buying a ring.

Recount Gives Hanna Majority

EDMONTON (CP) — Edmonton alderman R. F. L. Hanna, a Liberal, was officially elected to the House of Commons for Edmonton-Strathcona Saturday following completion of a judicial recount.

Orvis A. Kennedy, national organizer for the Social Credit party, had asked for the recount, but Friday conceded the election to his Liberal opponent.

Mr. Hanna had a final lead of 151 votes over Mr. Kennedy. Election-day counting gave him a lead of 174 votes.

Lay Kidnapping Charge

TORONTO (CP)—Police Sunday night arrested Mr. and Mrs. John Steele on a charge of kidnapping, laid last July 24 following the disappearance of Vernone Dinsdale. The girl is the daughter of Mrs. Patricia Steele and her former husband, Allan Dinsdale. The child, who has not yet been located, was staying with her grandmother, Mrs. S. Dinsdale of Meadowvale, at the time of her disappearance.

Move Huge Crop

LEAMINGTON (CP)—Two hundred carloads of tobacco, worth from $5,000,000 to $10,000,000 moved out of this town last week because the warehouse in which it was stored had become unsafe. The warehouse, owned by Jess Sherman and sons, was propped up with supports and the roof, which had fallen in, raised. In less than a week contractors had the building safe for workmen to haul the tobacco out.

Pleads Guilty To Theft

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—Jonah Elliott, 18, of Cape Crocker Indian reserve near Owen Sound, pleaded guilty Monday to stealing $575 worth of goods from cars that stopped at a tourist centre. He was remanded in custody.

British Scientists Approve Fluorides

CHICAGO (AP)—The Journal of the American Dental Association said today the practice of adding fluorides to public water supplies to help prevent tooth decay has received the support of a team of British scientists.

The Britons made a three-month investigation of the fluoridation of water in the United States and Canada.

The Journal, in an editorial, said the investigators had urged that Great Britain consider adding the chemical to drinking water. It also said they had concluded that the use of fluorides would "without doubt" reduce the rate of tooth decay materially and that there was no evidence that use of fluorides at recommended levels would cause any harm to the health of consumers.

Keep Schools Closed

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—Ninety-thousand Newfoundland school children Monday were granted an extra two weeks' vacation because of the worst polio outbreak in the province's history. There have been six deaths from the disease. Health Minister Philip Forsey announced that the schools, originally scheduled to open Tuesday, will remain closed until Sept. 14.

C. A. B. Changes Name

JASPER, Alta. (CP)—The Canadian Association of Broadcasters, the voice of private radio in Canada, decided Monday to change its name in recognition of the advent of television in this country. At a special meeting, C.A.B. representatives voted to change their name to "The Canadian Association of Radion and Television Broadcasters."

Two Drowned At Lighthouse

PORT STANLEY (CP)—A seven-year-old boy saw his twin brother and a companion slip from the lighthouse pier and drown at this Lake Erie summer resort Monday night.

Mrs. John Paul Devaux, 24, and Robert Ernest and Billy Apfelback were walking along the pier ahead of a party of new Canadians when Mrs. Devaux and Robert plunged from the narrow apron around the lighthouse into the water.

Police, firemen and volunteers recovered the body of Mrs. Devaux of St. Thomas, a bride of three months. Search for the body of Robert, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Apfelbeck, of St. Thomas, was discontinued shortly after midnight.

Mayor Tossed In Lake

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—Mayor John Franklin of St. Catharines said Monday he won't go boating again this season. He was out on Lake Erie when his speedboat bucked a wave. The mayor was thrown in the water, got caught in the propeller and suffered cuts and bruises. After being treated at a nearby cottage, the mayor went home.

Missing Six Found In Arctic

EDMONTON (CP)—Two Roman Catholic missionaries and four Eskimos lost in the Arctic wilderness since Aug. 12 have been found.

The RCAF reported Monday night a Canso aircraft had sighted the party of six on the Arctic coast while flying on a mission out of Vancouver. The amphibian aircraft found the group about 70 miles east of Reed Island, in the Coppermine district of the Northwest Territories.

The missionaries have been identified only as Father Metayer and Father Tardy. No addresses were available.

An RCAF official said the Canso was unable to land but dropped all its emergency rations, enough to last five men two days.

Operations To Resume At Coal Colliery

GLACE BAY, N. S. (CP)—Operations will resume this week at Dominion Coal Company's 1-B colliery here, officials announced Monday.

By Saturday the company expects to have rehired about 225 of the 1,100 men employed at the colliery when it closed two months ago for mechanization.

Officials said further rehiring will depend largely on the showing in this section. The company said the mine was losing money before the closure.

TIME RUNS OUT—Herb Martin's time for keeping an eye on the town clock in the market hall building has run out. The genial lawn bowler, curler and watch repairman has been looking after the clock for 23 years. He's now retiring. In the watch repair business since 1898, Herb has wound up hundreds of watches and clocks in his work, but the town clock is the largest. Once a week through the 23 years Herb has wound up the clock. On hot days like today it takes a good 45 minutes to complete the chore. Alexis (Lex) McCormick will take over this timely job.

Big 3 Ask Russia For Parley

West Seeks Decision On Elections For All of Germany

LONDON (AP) — The Big Three allies called on Russia today to join an early four power conference of foreign ministers on the future of Germany and Austria.

Idntical notes were sent by the United States, Britain and France suggesting the high level talks to work out:

1. Arrangements for holding Free German-wide elections as an essential first step toward restoring German unity and agreeing on a final German peace settlement.

2. Final agreement on the long promised Austrian treaty of independence on which Russia has been stalling.

REJECT RED PROPOSAL

Informants said the Allied notes rejected Soviet Russia's proposal to set up a provisional all-German government which would participate in a German peace conference to be held within six months. The Soviets suggested also that free German-wide elections should follow the peace conference.

The American, British, and French notes made it clear that the Allies believe the Soviet proposals for holding elections after a peace settlement put the cart before the horse.

The informants said the Allies proposed the ministers meet about mid-October in Switzerland. The lakeside town of Lugano near the Italian-Swiss frontier is understood to have been suggested as a meeting place.

ANSWER RED QUERIES

The Allies were answering a series of Soviet communications on Germany and Austria received during August.

The call for four power talks comes only four days before West Germany goes to the polls in a vital general election.

The Russian proposals on Germany were generally interpreted by Western diplomats as designed in part to influence voting in the West German elections against the parties behind Chancellor Konrad Adenauer.

As for Austria, the Russians last week-end turned down an invitation to sit in a lower-level conference of four power deputy foreign ministers to draft a treaty.

Loss Of Hope Brought Death To Many PoWs U.S. Doctor Tells After Release By Reds

FREEDOM VILLAGE—(AP)—"I saw many men die for no apparent reason," the doctor said.

"They had premonitions they would die.

"A fellow would tell his friends, 'Don't bother to wake me in the morning. I am going to die.'

"I examined them. I could find nothing organically wrong. Yet the next morning they would be dead."

These were the men who lost hope in the Communist prison camps in the terrible winter of 1950 and in the first half of 1951. They thought they had nothing to live for.

Capt. Sydney Esensten of Minneapolis, Minn., an army doctor who was released today after 33 months in Red prison camps, described his efforts to save them.

Sometimes, Esensten said, Communist doctors did their best to save the lives of dying prisoners. But often they were more interested in teaching communism.

Esensten said many of the Americans who died in prison camp 5, Pyokton, suffered from malnutrition but did not die of starvation.

Communists To Release Six Canadian Prisoners; Brings Total To 30 Freed

PANMUNJOM (CP)—Six Canadians will be among 300 Allied prisoners released tonight by the Communists in the 30th day of the current Korean prisoner-of-war exchange, the Communists announced Tuesday night. With their return, the total number of Canadians repatriated in Operation Big Switch—the current post-armistice exchange which began Aug. 5—will be 30. At the start of the operation, the Communists promised to return only 14 Canadians.

At the beginning of the exchange, 18 Canadians were listed by the Canadian Army as prisoners and 27 as missing, believed to be prisoners.

Twelve of the men listed as prisoners and 12 listed as missing have been freed by the Reds. According to the army this leaves six prisoners and 15 missing unaccounted for.

Tuesday, another 100 Americans rolled through Freedom Gate, bringing to more than 3,000 the number of U.S. soldiers freed by the Communists.

75 CONFESSED

A returning officer said 75 Americans who "confessed" to germ warfare charges under relentless Red pressure would be repatriated soon. He said the men, mostly officers, were at Kaesong, the Communist holding point north of Panmunjom, and all expected to be repatriated.

An American corporal, said to be marked for death by other returning prisoners because he betrayed them to the Reds, was reported to have disappeared from a Tokyo army hospital. The soldier, identified only as "Slick," was freed three weeks ago and had been sent as a medical case to the hospital.

The UN command, in an unusual announcement, accused the Communists of rigging interviews between Allied PoWs and visiting Red Cross teams. The announcement quoted a returned Australian officer as saying the Reds told him that he would not be repatriated unless he gave "proper answers" to Red Cross workers.

Smiling and apparently in good health, 41 officers and 59 sergeants made up the 100 Americans returned Wednesday. They brought to 3,027 the number of Americans freed so far. The Reds held up delivery of the Americans until after 150 South Koreans were returned.

High Winds Pose Serious Problem For Firefighters

TORONTO (CP)—Firefighters battling more than 100 fires across Northern Ontario's rich timberland faced a new menace Tuesday night when winds ranging up to 30 miles an hour threatened to fan many of them out of control. Although the situation took a serious turn along the 1,200-mile front from Manitoba to Quebec, Ontario Department of Lands and Forests are hopeful they can bring the blazes to a standstill. The 1,300 men fighting the blazes need rain to help them, but only scattered showers were predicted for today.

In Quebec, a fierce bush fire threatened the parish grounds and a new school in St. Pierre de Charlesbourg, four miles north of Quebec City, before it veered off and was brought under control.

About two square miles of cut over spruce and fir timberlands were burned over north of St. Ferreol, 35 miles northeast of Quebec City, and more than 150 men fought the fire, which raged out of control. Another forest fire at St. Donat, 90 miles north of Montreal, was partially contained.

New States Policy Apparent In Legion Address

ST. LOUIS (AP)—U.S. State Secretary Dulles solemnly warned the Communist world today that Red Chinese aggression against Korea or Indo-China might provoke war by the West against China itself. In doing so, he appeared to be laying down a new government policy of telling potential aggressors in advance where the United States will fight to protect its security. The Chinese Communists must now realize, he said, that "they could no longer count" on the "privileged sanctuary of Manchurian air and supply bases in the event they renew aggression against South Korea.

As for Indo-China, the secretary noted in a foreign policy speech prepared for the American Legion convention that Communist China is training, equipping and supplying Communist rebels in Indo-China.

Dulles then declared:

RISK INVOLVED

"There is the risk that, as in Korea, Red China might send its own army into Indo-China. The Chinese Communist regime should realize that such a second aggression could not occur without grave consequences which might not be confined to Indo-China.

"I say this soberly in the interest of peace and in the hope of preventing another aggressor miscalculation."

Dulles told the veterans the Korean war has taught the United States "a lesson which we expect to apply in the interest of future peace." The lesson, he said, is this:

CLEAR INTENTION

"If events are likely which will in fact lead us to fight, let us make clear our intention in advance; then we shall probably not have to fight."

Looking ahead to the Korean peace conference with the Communists, Dulles again served notice that "we shall not sit in it indefinitely" if the Reds show bad faith.

"We are always ready to negotiate in good faith," he said, "but we expect good faith to be mutual. We shall not lend ourselves to Communist manoeuvres designed to win their end through guile.

THINKING FLEXIBLE

"If . . . the conference is serving no useful purpose, we shall expect to withdraw from the conference."

Dulles assured the legionnaires the United States would seek at the peace parley "no pretext for turning Korea into a U.S. base on the Asia mainland." He said the American goal is a united, free Korea, and that on details U. S. thinking is flexible.

Dulles made it clear that the United States would be willing to talk about Indo-China, if the Chinese Communists desire it, at the Korean peace conference.

Porter Orders Inquest In Whitby Death

TORONTO (CP) — Attorney-general Porter today ordered an inquest into the death of Joseph Dudziac, 20, who died last week at the Ontario Hospital at Whitby, 22 miles east of here.

The inquest will open Sept. 8 at Whitby.

Sebastian Dudziac charged Tuesday that his son was buried without the father being informed of the son's whereabouts, death or burial.

Tuesday night Health Minister Phillips said he was satisfied there was no neglect at the hospital and that as far as his department was concerned there was no need for an investigation.

The son was arrested after he began tearing off his clothes at a ball game at Maple Leaf Stadium Aug. 19. He was remanded to Don Jail for a mental examination.

FATHER NOT TOLD

His father said he wasn't told of the result of the examination. When he went to the jail he was informed his son had been moved to Whitby. When he visited Whitby, he said, he was told his son had died and been buried.

The hospital suprintendent, Dr. R. H. Fletcher, said the youth died of virulent pneumonia. He added that Joe wasn't able to speak from the time he arrived and that no papers accompanied him from the jail and none arrived afterward.

A separate investigation was started today by the Ontario de-

Airliner's Plunge Into Alps Kills 42 Passengers, Crew

NICE, France (AP)—An Orient-bound French airliner crashed in flames late Tuesday night on the side of a 10,000-foot Alpine peak, killing France's most famous violinist, Jacques Thibaud, and 41 other persons. The giant four-engined Air France plane was on a regularly-scheduled flight to Saigon and Hong Kong when it smashed near the towering summit of Mont Cemet, in southeast France 100 miles north of this Riviera resort. Rescue workers who reached the scene after toiling more than five hours up the steep mountain slopes reported there were no survivors among the 33 passengers and nine crew members. Wreckage was scattered over 1,500 feet.

Air France officials could give no cause for the crash, which occurred an hour and a half after the big plane left Paris. They said messages from the pilot had reported all was well and weather good.

BELOW FREEZING

Rescue crews reported the temperature on the mountainside was below freezing, but the weather otherwise was perfect.

Airline officials said the passengers included four Indo-Chinese, one Swiss and a man believed to be a German. The rest apparently were French. Among the passengers were a baby and four other children.

With Thibaud were his daughter Suzanne and his accompanist, Rene Herbin. They were en route to Japan for concerts.

Thibaud was the second great French violinist killed in recent years in an Air France crash. The brilliant young woman player, Ginette Neveu, died in 1949 when another French liner crashed into a mountain in the Azores while en route to the United States.

The crash occurred at 11:30 p.m. (6:30 p. m. EDT), 20 minutes before the Constellation was scheduled to make its first stop here at Nice.

Weatherman Predicts More Of 90-Degree Heat Wave

TORONTO (CP)—Southern Ontario's heat wave will continue, the weatherman said today, but there may be a temporary respite. The Dominion weather office here said that cooler air, which advanced rapidly across Northern Ontario on Tuesday, is pushing slowly southeast, to bring scattered thunderstorms to southern regions this afternoon and tonight.

"However, the relief will be short-lived," the weather office said. A low pressure area moving east from the Rockies will cause a return of warm air into Southern Ontario tonight.

BACK IN 90s

Temperatures in the 90s were again predicted for Thursday.

The late-summer hot spell has scorched Ontario crops and cut attendance at the Canadian National Exhibition here by 46,500 over the comparable period of last year.

The heat, spreading into Ontario, Quebec and the Maritimes from the sizzling United States, has kept temperatures in the mid-90s for nearly a week. Out West, temperatures have been cool, in the 60s and 70s.

A top of 95 degrees is forecast for Windsor, St. Thomas, London, St. Catharines, and Hamilton, with a probable maximum of 90 at [illegible] late this afternoon and tonight may bring temporary relief.

Cooler air has moved into northwestern and northern sections of the province, where highs today are forecast as 75 at White River, Kapuskasing and Moosonee and 80 at North Bay, Sudbury and Earlton.

The hot spell that moved into the Great Lakes area from the still-sizzling United States midwest is spreading into Quebec.

The Atlantic provinces also are perspiring. Halifax Tuesday reported a high of 83 degrees, Charlottetown 75, Moncton 78 and Saint John, N. B., 77. However, St. John's, Nfld., had a relatively cool 63.

St. Laurent Predicts Growth To 40 Million

TRURO, N. S. (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent said here Tuesday that farmers should prepare to provide daily bread for a population of between 35,000,000 and 40,000,000 in Canada by the end of the century.

Making a surprise three-hour stop at this railway town to open the Central Nova Scotia Exhibition, Mr. St. Laurent said there is plenty of room in Canada for the great population increase.

Bears Ninth Child

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—Mrs. Joan Libby, 23, gave birth to her ninth child in a Springfield hospital Sunday. Mrs. Libby was married in 1945 when she was 15 to Carl Libby, a farmer. "We'll probably have more babies," Mrs. Libby said. "Large families are fun."

Graydon "Satisfactory"

TORONTO (CP) — Hospital authorities said Tuesday that Gordon Graydon, 56-year-old foreign affairs expert for the Progressive Conservative party, is in "satisfactory condition." He underwent a stomach operation last Tuesday. Mr. Graydon represents Peel riding in the House of Commons.

Custodian 23 Years

Herb Martin Winds Clock At Market Hall Last Time

Official custodian of the Market Hall town clock for the past 23 years, Herb Martin, of 289½ George St., will retire at the end of September from his weekly chore of winding Peterborough's official timepiece.

Herb has been winding and repairing clocks since 1898, when he first started in the clock repairing business, with the late Alec Gibson on Hunter St. Since then he has repaired practically every type of clock made, the four-faced market clock at Charlotte and George Sts. being the biggest.

INSTALLED 75 YEARS

As far as Herb can remember the clock was installed in the market hall about 75 years agd.

The market hall clock is the only big clock of its size left in Peterborough today with a wooden face. The hands of the clock are painted black. They are made out of galvanized iron and the big hands are six feet in length and the small hands five feet.

The clock has to be wound once a week. During the summer time it takes Herb about three quarters of an hour to wind it, due to the hot weather and 15 minutes in the winter. It takes exactly 220 turns to wind the striking side of the clock and a 100 turns to wind the time side.

The numerous complaints heard from people that the hands of the clock show several different times at once is easily explained. It is due to the wearing of the

ConcentrateHunt Near Port Hope

KINGSTON (CP)—Police hunting for the three convicts who escaped from a Collins Bay penitentiary work squad Monday night, today concentrated their search on areas north and west of Port Hope, and on routes leading to Northern Ontario.

It is thought that four cars stolen between Kingston and Port Hope Monday night were taken by the convicts. Cars stolen at Belleville and Cannifton have been found but two others stolen in Kingston and Ballieboro have not yet been recovered.

Provincial constables attached to headquarters in Peterborough all have a description of the car reported stolen in Bailieboro Tuesday morning and are on the alert for it.

When it has been located, it will give police a fresh clue about the direction in which the convicts are fleeing.

The escaped men are Joseph Coe, 21, his brother Percy, 30, both of Haileybury, and James Anthony McCooey, 22, of Fort William. All three were sentenced at Haileybury on charges of breaking and entering.

Montreal Crash Kills Three, Injures One

MONTREAL (CP)—Three persons were killed Tuesday night and another injured when a car spun out of control on a narrow road near suburban Laval West and smashed into a tree.

The dead were tentatively identified by morgue officials as:

Gaston Bernard, 25, of Montreal, Berthelemy Breton, 25, of Ste. Marguerite de Dorchester, and Miss Lucienne Laflamme, 19, of Ste. Rose.

Injured in the crash was Fernand Laflamme, brother of the dead girl, who was brought to hospital here with minor cuts and a broken ankle.

May Start Work Before Appeals

OTTAWA (CP)—Transport Minister Chevrier said there is a possibility work may be started on the power phase of the St. Lawrence seaway before appeals against the licensing of New York State as the United States power authority have gone through the courts.

On Aug. 15, four appeals were taken against the decision of the U. S. federal power commission's decision to name New York as the U. S. power authority.

Mr. Chevrier, in an interview Tuesday, said:

"If the Ontario hydro and the New York state power authority feel there is a good chance of the federal power commission refusing a rehearing as asked by the appeals, and that the courts will deal likewise with the appeals should they be taken there, then they may proceed with the construction."

He added that the two power authorities believed there is a good chance of both the FPC and the New York Court of Appeals and the U. S. Supreme Court throwing out the appeals.

The appeals to the FPC would probably be dealt with by Sept. 13, he added. If they are unsuccessful the appellants could appeal to the New York Appeal Court and finally the U. S. Supreme Court.

Photographer's Wife Freed On $1,000 Bail

TORONTO (CP) — Mrs. John Steele, radio script writer who was charged with abducting her 10-year-old daughter, was remanded Tuesday until Sept. 22 on $1,000 bail.

A similar charge against her photographer husband was dropped.

The couple appeared in court at nearby Cooksville after their arrest Monday night. The police had searched for them for five weeks. The girl, Vernon, Mrs. Steele's daughter by a previous marriage, is missing. She was awarded to her father, Delmar Dinsdale, in a divorce action last year.

Police said Vernon was taken home in Meadowvale, 20 miles northwest of Toronto.

Nationalists, Darens Battle Burma Troops

RANGOON, Burma (Reuters)—A combined force of Chinese Nationalist guerrillas and Karen rebels today battled Burmese government forces 80 miles east of Rangoon, the Burmese war office reported.

The attacking force, 300 strong, launched a two-pronged assault on the town and airstrip of Thaton Monday night, the war office said. The Karen rebel tribesmen seek an independent regime.

Ike Hints Aid Ready For Iran

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH

FRASER, Colo. (AP)—President Eisenhower has assured the new Iran government "sympathetic American consideration of its urgent appeal for financial aid.

In another move obviously designed to win Iran to the Western world, and away from any alignment with the Soviet Union, the president Tuesday night made public a message to Premier Zahedi of Iran promising immediat study of that nation's economic crisis.

Eisenhower, in a message dated Aug. 26 in reply to Zahedi's of the same day, told the premier:

"In an effort to assist you in dealing with your immediate problems, I have authorized my ambassador to Iran to consult with you regarding the development of our aid programs there.

"I recognize that your needs are pressing. Your request will receive our sympathetic consideration and I can assure you that we are ready to assist you in achieving the aspirations of your country which you have outlined."

Campaign Ends In Ruhr

West German Election In Home Stretch, Ready Plans Against Red Terror Attacks

By BRACK CURRY

BONN, Germany (AP)—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer and 4,039 other West German candidates roared into the political home stretch today as the government readied top secret plans against Red terror attacks on next Sunday's crucial elections.

Both Adenauer and his chief opponent, Socialist Erich Ollenhauer, headed their campaigns for the key Ruhr industrial section. Its vote could decide whether the West - allied Chancellor's three-party government coalition beats back the strong threat of the isolationist Socialists to control Parliament's new lower House.

The huge field of candidates is campaigning for 484 legislative seats. The others must decide whether the majority will be filled by persons pledged to Adenauer's program to rearm Germany in alliance with the West or to the Socialist platform of going it alone between East and West.

Resigned to the certain voting defeat their relatively few cohorts in West Germany face, the Kremlin's East German satellites have poured thousands of Red agents across the winding 600-mile east-west frontier.

After nabbing some 4,000 of the Red agents, Adenauer's government said they were pledged to a terror campaign of political killings and attacks on voting booths.

The government's tough border police already were fully mobilized against the invasion, but officials said thousands were believed to have slipped through.

At least three nabbed agents told police they had been ordered to kill West German political leaders. Others said they were told to storm voting booths, destroy ballot boxes and frighten voters away from the polls.

The government kept secure its plans to combat those who had slipped through.

Despite the reported murder plot, the 77-year-old Adenauer took his special campaign train into the big Ruhr state of North Rhine-Westphalia. That state will elect 136 delegates, almost a third of the lower House.

Ollenhauer today invaded Hannover, the capital of the state of Lower Saxony and a stronghold of the Nazi-like German Reich party which Adenauer's government is moving to outlaw.

Work Only Cure For Canadian Olympic 'Stars'

TORONTO (CP)—Work, work, work—that's the medicine Don Canham, University of Michigan track and field coach, prescribes as a cure for Canada's ill-showing in international athletic competition.

Canham, director of the Canadian Olympic Training Plan being held at the Canadian National Exhibition, today told Canadian coaches and athletes from nine provinces that Canadians don't work hard enough in training.

They use "correct training procedure but not nearly enough of it," Canham said.

The COTP, in its third day, also heard from Jim Morrow, president of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada. Morrow stressed the importance of out-and-out amateurism and outlined the functions of the union.

The training end of the COTP winds up Thursday. Climaxing the show will be the interprovincial track and field team competition which starts with discus and javelin events at Maple Leaf Stadium. The remaining competitions are at the CNE grandstand Friday and Saturday.

The youth's father said today he still intends to press for an exhumation order despite the ordering of an inquest.

NOT SATISFIED

"I am not satisfied about pneumonia killing my boy; he was in such good health before this happened," the father said.

J. A. Graham, executive assistant in the department of reform institutions, said usual committal procedures were rushed in the case "because of his violent condition and the fact he obviously needed immediate care."

He said the committal order was signed by Dr. G. A. McLarty, Don Jail psychiatrist and acting jail physician, and also by a doctor from Riverdale Isolation Hospital.

Polio Toll Increases To 36 In Manitoba

WINNIPEG (CP)—Death of a 28-year-old Portage La Prairie woman has raised Manitoba's 1953 polio fatality count to 36.

Health officials Tuesday reported the death of Alberta Webster in a Winnipeg hospital and also listed 32 new cases, bringing the case total to 1,262.

Dr. M. R. Elliott, deputy health minister, said that in discussions with hospital authorities and Dr. J. D. Adamson, chairman of the polio advisory committee, "we believe the trend is downwards in spite of the daily reported figures."

RAINLESS FOR MONTHS

Some parts of Northern Ontario have been without rain for almost a month and about 15 fires break out every day in the tinder-dry forests. Tuesday, men extinguished 23 small fires, but 22 others burned unchecked through jackpine and hardwood stands. Temperatures soared into the 90s.

Some of the fires have been attributed to human carelessness, including two of the nine new fires reported Tuesday. One official of the lands and forests department said:

"What can you do with fools who throw cigaret butts out of car windows, drop lighted matches on trails or leave camp fires burning? Everyone responsible for causing a forest fire can be prosecuted for it, but they still do it."

Worst hit area was the North Bay district where nine fires were out of control. Two more were unchecked in the Pembroke area. E. L. Ward, regional forester at North Bay, reported 1,600 acres blazing at Gladman township, near North Bay.

Many areas are still under a travel ban and officials said they don't know when the ban will be lifted. Mr. Ward said: "We are having a tough time. The fires spread rapidly through mixed timber and thick underbrush. We need a break, a lot of rain."

Some rain fell in the Sudbury area early in the day, but not enough to stop the advance of several fires.

Hundreds of men, planes, bulldozers and trucks are being moved to danger spots.

Experienced men from the forestry districts of Port Arthur, Fort Frances, Kenora, Geraldton and Sault Ste. Marie were used to fight new outbreaks in other parts of the province.

From Jan. 1 to Aug. 31, the department has fought and extinguished 1,034 fires which have burned over more than 45,000 acres of bushland. Officials estimate that at least 80 per cent were caused by human carelessness.

Milk Board Has Session On Strike Crisis

TORONTO (CP)—A special session of the Ontario milk control board was held today to decide whether the board will intervene in a threatened strike of milk delivery men.

Meanwhile, James Hoffa, international vice-president of the Teamsters' Union (AFL-TLC) indicated there won't be a strike until Friday at the earliest unless the milk drivers' union defies its parent body.

He said that the strike permission the Toronto local is waiting for won't come until a special representative has been sent into this area to review the situation.

Refusal of union negotiators at last-ditch talks Tuesday to consider any reduction in home deliveries ended direct negotiations with the Toronto Milk Distributors and left the situation in the hands of the milk board.

The wage dispute between the Toronto Milk Distributors' Association and the Milk Drivers' Union (AFL) hinges on the 13 dairies' insistence that they cannot put up wages without advancing the retail price of milk, now 22 cents a quart delivered, or eliminating Wednesday deliveries. The 1,700-member union opposes milkless Wednesdays.

Union members have voted in favor of a strike and asked permission from the union's international headquarters in Washington to call one. Negotiations between the union and the dairies broke off Tuesday.

COULD HALT STRIKE

The milk control board, whose representatives attended talks between the disputants last week, has the power to order a price advance or introduction of the five-day week.

J. E. Houck, manager of the distributors' association, said Tuesday the dairies "stand ready and willing to meet the union or any independent arbitrator or the government."

He also said farmers supplying the Toronto milk market stand to lose about $55,000 a day in the event of a tie-up.

The strike, which would cut off the supply of milk to virtually all the 1,300,000 residents of the Greater Toronto area, would be the second general milk delivery stoppage in Toronto's history. The only previous one lasted 30 hours in the spring of 1951.

cogs in the wheels and to the wind shaking the hands. Another reason is in the winter when there is a lot of rain and slush. The hands get frozen together.

The old market clock says Herb serves more people in Peterborough than other clocks, especially the new one in the City Hall. For you can see it from four sides, compared to the clock in the tower of the city hall, which only has one face.

ONE BREAKDOWN

The only serious breakdown that Herb has experienced since he has been caretaker was last winter, when the cable of the bell broke. When the cable was replaced it was found that the shoring that supported the bell was completely rotted away and had to be replaced. The bell has only been ringing again for the past month. The clock has been overhauled once by Herb, back in 1943. It took him a week to do it.

The winding of the town clock to Herb has been interesting work. His worst experience concerned with the clock was when two girls from PCVS wanted to be shown the clock, to write an essay about it.

Getting the girls up to the tower was no problem recalls Herb, which is 95 feet high. But coming down was a different story. When they started down one of the girls froze with fright, due to the hight. It took them nearly an hour to get the girl down. That was the last time Herb showed the clock tower to anyone.

The only other incident that Herb can recall was when the trap door of the bell loft accidently fell to the street, but luckily no one was hit by it.

Besides repairing watches and keeping the town clock going, Herb is an avid lawn bowler [illegible] is a life member of the Peterborough Curling Club and the Peterborough Lawn Bowling Club.

This season he will finish 35 seasons of lawn bowling and in March 45 seasons of curling.

New custodian of the Market Hall town clock will be Alexis McCormick.

COOL IN WEST

In contrast, much of the west is experiencing cloudy and cool weather. Tuesday's highs were 78 at Winnipeg, 76 at Regina, 64 at Saskatoon, 60 at Edmonton and 66 at Vancouver. Farther north, Dawson had a high of 51, Yellowknife 58 and Churchill 49.

Gamekeepers in Gatineau Park northwest of Ottawa have been knocking holes in beaver dams in tributary streams to free some water to ease the forest fire threat and raise lake levels during the hot spell. However, busy little beavers, working at night, plug the holes up again.

As the heat wave continued over southern Quebec and Ontario and over most of the interior U.S. east of the Rockies, it parched many farm crops already suffering from lack of summer rain.

Farmers say the heat and drought have almost burned out the tobacco crops in many areas of Norfolk county north of Lake Erie. The blazing sun also is bringing about the too-hasty ripening of peaches in parts of the Niagara district and of tomatoes in southwestern Ontario.

Man Sues Self, Awarded $4,249

MONTREAL (CP)—Delphis Choquette of Alexandria, Ont., sued himself for damages and won under a Superior Court judgment that came to light Tuesday.

Mr. Justice Hector Perrier ordered the Liverpool and London and Globe Insurance Co. Ltd., to pay $4,249 to the plaintiff, who was also defendant, together with court costs.

The court established that Delphis Choquette was a passenger in a car owned and driven by his brother, Joseph, when it collided with another car near Dorval, Que., Oct. 31, 1946. Joseph was killed and Delphis injured.

Delphis entered action for damages against his brother's estate, of which he was a trustee and thereby a co-defendant.

In turn, as a trustee of the estate, he sued the insurance company, with which his brother held a policy, for recovery of damages assessed against them in a previous decision by Mr. Justice Roger Brossard.

Mr. Justice Perrier upheld the ruling of Mr. Justice Brossard, against a convention of the insurance company that the same person could not at the same time be a plaintiff and a defendant in a case.

U.K. Pilot Breaks Speed Record

TANGMERE, England (Reuters) British test pilot Neville Duke smashed the world air speed record Monday on warm-up runs, but it may not count as an official mark, the Royal Aero Club said Tuesday night.

The club said that subject to confirmation, Duke averaged 722 miles an hour on the four required runs compared with the 715.69 MPH official record established July 17 by Lt.-Col. William Barnes of the U.S. Air Force in an F-86D Sabre jet over California's Lake Muroc course.

Under international rules, however, a plane must average at least one per cent faster than the existing mark to qualify for a record. In this case, it would take a speed of 723 MPH to break Barnes' record officially.

Duke, 31-year-old Second World War flying hero and Britain's chief supersonic test pilot, had no idea during the trial runs Monday that he was breaking a record in his swept-wing Hawker Hunter jet.

Communists

In all, the Communists turned back 100 Americans and 200 South Koreans Wednesday. Today the Reds promised to deliver 89 Americans, 200 Koreans, and five British in addition to the six Canadians.

Including Wednesday's delivery, 11,716 Allied prisoners have been freed. Before the exchange started, the Reds said they held 12,782 PoWs, but have since indicated they would return more than that number.

One American returned Wednesday learned for the first time that he had won the nation's highest award—the Congressional Medal of Honor—for bravery the night he was captured two years ago.

Lieut. James L. Stone of Hot Springs, Ark., sat with tears in his eyes as he was told of the award by Brig.-Gen. Ralph Osborne, 8th army officer in charge of repatriation.

His voice choked with emotion, Stone told the general, "I don't know what to say. I don't think I deserve that. I don't think I should have it."

Stone was captured Nov. 23, 1951, during a fight in which he led his platoon in valorous stand against waves of attacking Chinese. Although wounded, he stood fast with his men until he lost consciousness.

Army authorities said "Slick" had been absent without leave for five days and military police had been ordered to arrest him.

"Slick" originally had been scheduled to leave for the U. S. on a troopship from Inchon after his repatriation, but he reportedly was warned that other prisoners had vowed vengeance.

He asked to see an army chaplain. The chaplain called in medical officers and "Slick" was sent to the Tokyo hospital.

Some Americans imprisoned with him for two years said "Slick" sold out to the Communists for better treatment by informing on fellow PoWs.

Rescue workers set out immediately from the winter sports town of Barcelonnette and other surrounding communities for the scene of the tragedy, near the French-Italian border.

The 72-year-old Thibaud, a child prodigy who gave his first concert at the age of eight, was recognized as France's leading violinist. He had toured the United States many times following his first appearance there in 1903.

In addition to his appearances as a soloist and with symphony orchestras, before the Second World War, Thibaud made a series of chamber music recordings with French pianist Alfred Cortot and Spanish cellist Pablo Casals which are now collectors' items.

Fresh Reinforcemnts Join Forest Fire Crews

NORTH BAY (CP)—Reinforcements today joined the 1,500 firefighters pitted against 61 forest fires around North Bay, Temagami, Parry Sound and Algonquin Park.

Despite high winds and bone-dry bush, a regional forester at North Bay said fire fighters are holding their own against all but seven of the fires, one in Algonquin Park and the others in the North Bay-Temagami district.

The fire in Algonquin Park, jumped Tuesday night from 400 acres to 1,400.

The largest fire, some 2,200 acres at Red Cedar lake in the Temagami reserve, was held by 230 men working to the point of exhaustion as the wind repeatedly threatened to whip flames through the fire lines.

Sugar Comes Off U.K. Ration After 15 Years

LONDON (AP)—Sugar comes off the ration in Britain this month after 14 years.

The ministry of food said today the exact date would be announced latgr but it definitely will be "in the second half of September."

Freeing of sugar leaves only butter, margarine, cheese, bacon and meat on ration.

Only butter (three ounces a week) is hard to get for the British housewife. However, many expensive imported cheeses are plentiful off ration.

For the last two months meat has been on free sale throughout the country, although technically still rationed.

Mother In Iron Lung Has Baby Boy

PORT ARTHUR (CP)—A healthy six-pound baby boy was delivered early today in an iron lung to a mother paralyzed up to the neck by polio.

Mrs. Marvin Rowe, 26, of Port Arthur, was stricken with polio one week ago and has been in an iron lung at the Isolation Hospital here since.

The difficult delivery was performed by Dr. C. E. Baker.

Dr. Baker said that Mrs. Rowe could not be removed from the ung for fear she would suffocate. He had to manipulate long forceps through the portholes of the lung.

"It wasn't easy," he commented.

It is the first iron lung birth recorded at the Lakehead.

The baby, taken to Port Arthur General Hospital, is doing fine. Condition of the mother is unchanged.

U.S. Dollar At Discount

MONTREAL (CP) — The U. S. dollar was at a discount of 1 5-32 per cent in terms of Canadian funds at noon today. Tuesday's sterling $2.71⅞, against $2.71½.

Simonds Scores Magazine For Rapping 27th

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's top soldier, Lt.-Gen. Guy Simonds, Tuesday sprang angrily to the defence of the army he commands.

After listening to reporters question Field Marshal Sir John Harding, chief of the imperial general staff, about a Maclean's Magazine article criticising the Canadian 27th brigade in Germany, Gen. Simonds stood up.

"We in what you call the top military brass are used to criticism. But this article is an attack on the rank and file of the Canadian Army. It is absolutely deplorable."

The army chief of staff was referring to a story by Lionel Shapiro in a recent issue of the national magazine. The article commented unfavorably on the military efficiency and general behavior of the 27th brigade.

In the future, Gen. Simonds said, it would be better if all such criticism were directed at the high command rather than at the army as a whole.

Field Marshal Harding, meanwhile, had high praise for the brigade. He said he was surprised to hear of any criticism of it, adding:

"If I were going to war, I'd be happy to have the brigade in any group which I might have the privilege to command."

Here for a 13-day tour of military installations across the country, Sir John recalled that about a year ago the brigade took part in manoeuvres under his command. At that time, he said, "they came through with flying colors. Their military efficiency was of a very high order."

And what about their alleged misconduct?

DOUBTS CHARGES

Sir John said that if there had been anything of a serious nature in this regard, he would have heard about it.

But he said no reports of bad breaches of discipline in the 27th brigade had come to him.

Gen. Simonds, obviously irked at the line of questioning, said nothing until after a lengthy lull. Then, with obvious feeling, he launched his attack on the magazine article.

Reminded that at least two other correspondents had criticized the 27th brigade, the chief of staff said both of them also had some words of praise for the unit.

The two other correspondents are Bill Boss, Canadian Press war correspondent, and Ross Munro of the Southam newspapers.

Gen. Simonds said he had read articles by the three correspondents "and they don't jibe at all."

The Boss articles had said military efficiency was high although many problems existed, including restrictions placed on the troops by the Canadian command.

These restrictions, the chief of staff said, were imposed originally because the troops were "green." They had been eased somewhat since then. He noted that Boss had praised Canadians for their military efficiency and smart bearing on and off parade.

"If a correspondent goes out of his way to find bad things, of course he can find them."

Huge Stockpile

Expect Government To Hold 40,000,000 lbs. Of Butter

OTTAWA (CP)—Of one thing the Canadian housewife may be sure: There likely will be lots of butter in Canada next winter—more than she will require.

The federal government, a big buyer and seller through its price-support program, may end up next spring with a substantial jump in its unsold stocks.

Though the government keeps its buying figures under wraps, some dairy men estimate the government may have already built up a stockpile of perhaps 50,000,000 pounds—a big jump on the 30,000,000 it held last year.

And if current production trends continue, it appears likely the government may have about 40,000,000 pounds of unsold butter on its hands at the start of the new butter-producing year next May.

That would represent an investment of about $24,000,000 of the taxpayer's money. The stockpile would be twice as big as the approximately 19,000,000 pounds the government had at the end of the butter year last spring.

Contributing to the big jump in supplies is the fact that production has climbed and the fact that the government still hasn't disposed of most of that 19,000,000-pound surplus.

Production during June jumped to 47,000,000 pounds from 42,000,000 last year. In July it increased to 41,800,000 from 39,000,000.

All told, Canada's creamery butter output during the 1953 calendar year may rise to about 310,000,000 pounds, compared with about 280,000,000 last year.

Consumption also has increased at about the rate of 1,000,000 pounds a month, but hasn't kept up to production. Stocks on Aug. 1 totalled 77,186,000—sharply higher than the 59,215,000 on Aug. 1 last year.

U.S. Heat Wave Shows No Sign Of Relief In East

CHICAGO (AP)—A prolonged heat wave, following weeks of hot and dry weather, showed no signs of a let-up today in wide areas in the eastern half of the United States.

The damage from the summer's unseasonable weather, with no heavy rains in many areas, was widespread.

The death toll from causes attributed to the current heat wave mounted to at least 50. Thousands have been treated for heat prostration.

Damage to crops in several states appeared soaring into the millions of dollars.

Some cool air moved into northern parts of Minnesota. It was expected to move slowly across northern sections of Wisconsin, Michigan and Iowa by Thursday.

STAYS HOT

But hot and humid weather was predicted for today and Thursday for areas south and east of the slowly-advancing cooler air mass.

Temperature records toppled again Tuesday in nearly every section of the swelter-belt. It was the same in many cities as it has been for more than a week—readings in the high 90s and in some cities above 100.

Hottest cities Tuesday were Louisville and Jackson, Tenn., with 103 while Chicago's 101 marked the eighth straight day of temperatures above 95.

HEAT KILLS TWO

In St. Louis, two members of the American Legion collapsed and died during the 10-hour parade as temperatures soared to 101. About 150 other paraders and marchers were overcome by the heat.

Of the 50 deaths attributed to the heat, there were 12 in Chicago in a 12-hour period, the hottest Sept. 1 on record. The death toll in Illinois was 14.

Seventeen persons died in Pennsylvania from heat exhaustion or heart conditions aggravated by hot weather. There were six in New York; three in Texas; two each in Michigan, Missouri and Massachusetts, and one each in Indiana, Maine, Wisconsin and Maryland.

Most major cities in the eastern half of the country have new records for consecutive days of high temperature and readings for the date for the last several days.

West Virginia is suffering the worst drought since the early 1930s.

Southwestern Missouri was reported suffering its worst drought on record and pastures were reported virtually "non-existent."

Steel Men See U.S. Production Cut By 10%

NEW YORK (AP)—Prominent steel men predict United States steelmaking operations will slip to about 90 per cent of capacity by the end of the year, Iron Age, national metal-working weekly says today.

The publication says the steel men predict the decline to continue into 1954. Lowest estimates for steelmaking rates that year were 85 per cent of capacity.

"The pulse beat of the scrap iron and steel industry is growing more labored as the Iron Age no. 1 heavy melting scrap composite dropped to $40 (a ton) from $41.67 last week and $43.17 the week previous," the publication adds. "'Down' sentiments depress the scrap market and buyers' reluctance to place substantial orders has breached price fronts of all scrap centres."

Towering scrap piles put the consumer in a good position to curtail buying until his output picture clarifies, it adds.

But future business prospects were given "a vote of confidence" by 13 dominant industries in steel and metal - working which responded to a survey it conducted, says Iron Age.

"Many top-level industrialists," the publication adds, "significantly regarded as inevitable the easing of record production in late 1953 and 1954 as a return to a more normal market in which solid profits could be made, high operations could continue."

Good news for the consumer lay in opinions garnered by the survey that increasing competition and high-initiative salesmanship are sure to deter price increases, Iron Age says.

The survey ranked sales outlooks for nine of the 13 industries as "good," two as "fair" and two as "dim."

The coal industry was in the "dim" group.

Oasis From Heat

COBOURG (ENS)— Tourists stopping at the Chamber of Commerce travel bureau here report that this town is about the coolest they have encountered during the current hot spell. The town is always somewhat damp and this tends to create currents of cool air. As a result the day never ends without a cool breeze. During the past few days the crowds at the beach have been about the largest on record.

Cigarettes Blamed For Fires On Bridge

CAMPBELLFORD (ENS) — The fire department was called out shortly after noon Tuesday to extinguish a fire on the town bridge.

This alarm marked the second trip to a fire on the bridge within five days and the third in less than a month.

Firemen believe the fires are caused by pedestrians or motorists tossing away lighted cigarette butts. The cigarettes sometimes land in cracks in the boards and the tinder-dry planking smoulders until it bursts into flame.

No serious damage has resulted from any of the three recent fires.

Bridges Urges Revised Security

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senator Styles Bridges (Rep.-N.H.) called today for adoption of a revised concept of U.S. military security, based primarily on Russia's claimed possession of the hydrogen bomb.

Bridges, who heads the Senate appropriations committee and is a member of the armed services committee, said in an interview that present military policies should be re-examined thoroughly to determine if they are outmoded by developments.

"We are facing the possibility of a new type of warfare where the building up of land armies may be obsolete. In my view, we should speed up our atomic program, increase our retaliatory striking force and put more emphasis on civilian defence."

Bridges said he hopes the new joint chiefs of staff, headed by Admiral William E. Radford, will put steam behind the construction of interceptors, fighters and guided missiles to guard U.S. cities. The joint chiefs have promised a full review of all U.S. military policies.

Foundry Co. To Expand

SARNIA (CP)—A million-dollar addition to the Holmes Foundry Company plant on Exmouth street was announced Tuesday by vice-president W. B. Millholland. The new section will eventually be used for "tooling up" for projected new Ford models. The company is a feeder plant for Ford Motor Company of Canada.

Quebec Actress French-like But She Does Not Speak It

By MARGARET LANCASTER

Twenty-year-old Joan Blackman, one of the three principals in "The Moon is Blue" at the Summer Theatre this week, is a Montrealer who doesn't speak any more French than most Peterborough girls.

Though she has lived in the bilingual city all her life, Miss Blackman has adhered to the language of her ancestors, adopting only the few stock phrases of French that she might use in greeting her neighbors. "Didn't you have to study French at school?" we asked. "Oh, yes, but—" she replied, with a toss of her head.

Nevertheless, Miss Blackman's physical description fits to perfecton that of the traditional French beauty. Her jet black hair is worn long, without curls. Her eyes are guarded by very long lashes and their expressions emphasized by heavy black brows. In addition, she is petite, slim and vivacious, in love with art and all artists.

Michael Sadlier "found" this young actress for his last play of the season through a Toronto agency. She has been in Toronto for several months appearing on television. For three winter seasons past she was in a television soap opera called "Laura", out of Montreal, and she was surprised and very pleased to be told by fellow boarders at Peterborough YWCA that they had liked her in this but did not take so kindly to her successor.

Miss Blackman has been acting on the stage since she was 10 years old. Her wide knowledge of plays and of the actors and actresses who have played them is rather startling in one so young, and more particularly so when she goes on to say "I played so-and-so in that." Her previous experience has all been in Montreal legitimate and summer theatres.

Movie Maker Robbed At All-Night Party

CANNES, France (AP)—French police reported today that 25,000,000 francs ($71,400) in French and foreign currencies was stolen from the Riviera home of retired U. S. movie producer Jack Warner during an all-night party.

The police said Warner was not present. He left for Rome last week, they said, leaving his 18-year-old daughter at the villa at nearby Antibes.

According to the officials, the money was missed early this morning after a party at the house which lasted almost until dawn.

Safety Measures

MONTREAL (CP)—After a coroner's jury recommended that police test brakes on all vehicles involved in accidents, coroner R. L. Duckett said "it is unfortunate juries have to suggest such measures. It means someone has died to bring them to mind."

Juin Asks Share For Europe In A-Information

PARIS (AP)—Marshal Alphonse Juin today called on the United States to share atomic information with European allies. He also urged creation of German divisions to help guard Europe.

The outspoken French general made his two controversial statements at a meeting of correspondents who regularly cover S. H. A. P. E. (Supreme Headquarters Allied Powers in Europe.) Juin is Allied commander-in-chief in central Europe.

Juin said the U. S. need not disclose its bomb manufacturing secrets, but added: "What the military people want to know is the effect of the shell, of the new weapon, and if it can be kept at their disposition.

NOT MUCH HIDDEN

"Personally," he said, "not much is hidden from me. But there is still a little feeling of constraint, even so."

Juin said the U. S. Atomic Energy Act would have to be changed to permit disclosure of the kind of information he wants, but said something could be done in this direction.

As for rearming Germany, a politically explosive subject in France, Juin said a military contribution from Germany to the defence of Europe is "absolutely necessary."

"The German problem must be solved," he declared. "We need German divisions in one form or another."

$1,500 In Silver Stolen From Silver Miller

COBALT (CP) — Thieves stole high grade silver worth about $1,500 from the silver miller mine Tuesday. The silver was taken from inside the mill at the mine's Brady lake property, about five miles east of Cobalt.

Police said four men were working in the mill all night, and it is not known how the thieves managed to get the two heavy bags of silver out of the mill.

Says Stole Gas To Travel

Charged with stealing five gallons of gasoline from the Wilson Brothers Sawmill near Apsley Saturday, Ted Nesbitt, 31, of Apsley was given a two-year suspended sentence by Magistrate W. R. Philp today when he pleaded guilty to the charge.

The accused explained that he had no job and in order to get to [illegible] he stole the gasoline. Restitution was made to the sawmill operators. Arrested by OPP Constable Jack McKendry, Nesbitt was also ordered to pay $2.50 court costs.

Also appearing before the magistrate today, Arthur King, 50, no fixed address, pleaded guilty to a third offence intoxication charge laid Tuesday night.

Admitting previous convictions on March 7 and October 6, King was sentenced to three months definite and one month indefinite in the reformatory. Mimico will be recommended by the cadi.

2,231 Idiots

Yesterday we remarked on the large percentage of Ontario people who are mentally ill or defective, many of whom are inmates in one of the sixteen Ontario mental hospitals maintained by the Province. The most depressing one of these to view is the "Ontario Hospital School" at Orillia, an institution for mentally defective persons. This hospital admits only children and adolescents who are hopelessly insane, children born defective (for example, with mongolism, cranial anomalies, familial idiocy.) According to the last published annual report on the Ontario hospitals, Orillia housed 2,231 idiots. The anguishing fact of Orillia is not only the number of inmates, but their age.

* * *

Keep in mind that this institution admits only children and a few adolescents. Then consider that only 848 of the 2,231 unfortunate inmates at the end of the year 1951 were under fifteen years of age. The rest of the 2,231 were growing old in the asylum. There were 365 aged between fifteen and nineteen (a few of them recent admissions) but all those aged twenty or more have been perpetual inmates, some of them from infancy. In that hospital for mentally deficient children there were 1,018 persons twenty years of age and older. Among them were three old men aged seventy or more, sixteen old women of similar age, 38 men and women aged between sixty and seventy, 78 between fifty and sixty, and several hundred more aged between thirty and fifty. Most of these adults are complete imbeciles and have been in the Orillia mental hospital since they were youngsters.

* * *

This seems senseless and even cruel. There in Orillia are more than two thousand persons who can never be cured, some of whom can never even learn their own names or to wash themselves. Others are taught with patience to do some simple little actions, like sweeping a floor or walking down stairs or using a spoon. But none of them can ever lead a normal life and many are so defective in mind that they merely exist, knowing nobody and nothing. They go to Orillia as children and there they stay. Some die before they become physically adult. Others live to be eligible for the old age pension.

* * *

These people are in Orillia through no fault of their own. Their terrible flaw was not of their making. They are maintained and kept alive also through no wish of their own. In these hopeless cases are the skill of doctors, the devotion of nurses and other attendants, and the money of relatives and the Province not misplaced, a cruel kindness? Is society just which supports the empty, unlit life in the Orillia hospital?

* * *

It is believed that most of the inmates at Orillia are not unhappy. (Many of the poor unfortunates have not enough wits to know whether they are happy or unhappy.) It may be not unkind to keep them alive; on the other hand it would not be unkind not to keep many of them alive, and certainly, it would be kinder to society and humanity if somehow these congenital imbeciles did not exist. What man describes as the laws of God hold all human life sacred, no matter how scarred or grotesque that life, unless it takes other life. Mercy killings are not sanctioned by the State or by most religions. So the Orillia hospital exists, with its 2,231 childish idiots growing old by edict of the law, the saving skill of doctors, the care of nursing attendants. Is God not thus mocked?

Traffic Cops Aloft

There is naturally a good deal of hot air about, in print and otherwise, these days. We shall add no more of our own than necessary to keep the pot boiling, and herein offer some cool comment of the Ottawa Citizen having to do with air cooler than that hovering around our office. It ought to be cooler, at 11,000 feet. We allow ourself to wonder, with the Citizen, whether traffic squads will soon be summoned to control congestion in the clouds, what with more and more aircraft being aloft. Traffic cops in the clouds, like policemen at busy intersections.

The Ottawa paper, which seems to know a good deal about these airy matters, says that actually there already is a good deal of air traffic control: "Rare are incidents such as the one over Michigan City, Indiana, recently in which two American airline passenger planes brushed each other at 11,000 feet. Air collisions are rarer still and when they do occur, they can usually be attributed to necessarily hazardous military manoeuvres.

"In Canada, Department of Transport air regulations make it obligatory for all pilots to file a flight plan in bad weather—and in practice, most pilots follow the department's suggestion to file one even in good weather. For flights on travelled airways, the plan contains such information as the type of plane, point and time of departure, estimated elapsed time of the trip, number of persons aboard and an assurance of filing an arrival report. Certain altitudes are set for defined east-west and north-south routes. In bad weather, pilots must keep in radio check with range stations along the route and many receive instructions from these stations. Military planes, when flying these controlled routes, must comply with the department's regulations.

"Landing at airports follows the same strict pattern. Pilots must keep in touch with airport control towers in good weather and bad, join right or left-hand circuits as instructed and come in to land.

"From the mass of regulations on the books and those being added—inclusion of altitude on the department's flight plan within the next month, for example—it is obvious that pilots don't escape control when they wing into the wild blue yonder. Subject to supervision by a chain of ground-based supervisors, a pilot who observes the rules should virtually qualify as a traffic cop himself."

Punch and The Humane Educationists

A British organization known as the Humane Education Society, if it has its way, will remove a famous character from the boards. The society, according to its secretary, feels that "Punches clout their Judies too vigorously and too often before impressionable audiences". To put it another way, Punch should refrain from slapping Judy around—and then he wouldn't be Punch—or else "a generation of youngsters (will grow) up believing it is all right to knock their wives about and who can blame them?"

This sort of reform effort recurs periodically. We recall once that some earnest group became fearfull of the effects of the rhymes of Mother Goose on the generations most likely to be offered such jingles as entertainment. the effort of these groups, as far as we noticed, was not successful, and we do not think that those who would ban or bowdlerize Punch will succeed, either.

It is possible that conduct seen on stage or screen may inspire imitation among certain members of the audience, but we firmly believe that in such cases predisposition exists. If the entertainment world were to ban everything that would be criminal or deplorable if imitated, it would be an act of self-mutilation. Must we conclude that regicide became more common because of Macbeth, that the putting away of wives was given strong impetus because of Othello? Gaslight, or Angel Street, is still shown, but we have yet to hear that a generation has been inspired by it to the psychological torture of wives. The last mentioned, of course, has barely had a generation in which to get in its work, but even if it were to span half as many centuries as the others, we doubt that its effect would be noticeable.

Frankly, we doubt that any baneful influence is exercised by such characters on stage, screen or in literature. There is truth in the contention that there are more offences of the kind committed by such characters nowadays than in the days when the characters first appeared. But there is a very simple reason for this. There are more human beings.

Capital Gains

The ways Canadians get and spend money have certain distinctive features different from those of other countries. For instance, the cost of most goods in Canada is the highest in the civilized western world. Another feature is that the taxes Canadians pay, directly and indirectly, are among the highest in the world. The third feature—a redeeming one if you happen to be a lucky person and find an oil well or diamonds in the city [illegible] has no capital gains tax, unlike the U.S., Britain and other western states.

The other day a Chicago man named Herbert J. Idle, who is a hydraulic engineer, won a long quiz contest, over which he had laboured for more than two years. The prize money amounted to $307,500. Mr. Idle got the cheque but the money was capital gain. What he had left after paying taxes on it was $72,245. If Mr. Idle had lived in Canada, and won the money in Canada, the whole sum would have been his for keeps. The only tax would have been annually on income which the $307,500 earned if he did not spend it all or did not keep it in an old sock.

Last month in Montreal professional golfers contested for big prize money; the winners of this had to pay tax on the prize money, not as capital gain but as income earned in their professional capacity. We may remark, however, that the rate of tax was not as high as the capital gains tax exacted from Mr. Idle in Chicago. The U.S. Treasury is making sure that that gentleman does not become a member of the Idle Rich.

THE AMERICAN SCENE

Still Madly For Adlai?

By ALASTAIR BUCHAN

IT is no reflection on President Eisenhower or on the Republican victors of last year's election to say that it is extremely plassant to have Mr. Adlai Stevenson, the defeated Democratic candidate for the Presidency, back in the United States again. He slipped quietly into New York last week after his six months' world tour, made some gentle and humorous remarks to the Press, and took himself off to his home in Chicago, in order, as he said, "to earn a living." This, one might add, is not strictly necessary. Although he was an able lawyer before he went into politics, he has a private income of about 50,000 dollars a year.

✧ ✧ ✧

MR. STEVENSON, although he was so decisively beaten in the Presidential elections, still has a considerable personal following. He received the third largest vote in the history of the American Presidency, and although the public opinion surveys show that President Eisenhower's personal popularity is as great as ever, the number of those who are still "madly for Adlai" is also high. It has been his campaign speeches, and not those of his successful opponent, which have been a best seller for four and a half month on end, selling the high number — for a book of that kind— of 35,000.

✧ ✧ ✧

YET Mr. Stevenson's future is unsettled There is no certainty that the Democratic Party will nominate him as its candidate in 1956. Defeated candidates are often suspect in the eyes of professional politicians. Nor is it at all sure that he desires nomination. He is too adult and sophisticated a man to put the love of power and political office above the pleasures of a free and private life; he is one of the few politicians in American history who has been genuinely reluctant to accept his Party's nomination. Although the chairman of the Democractic Party, Mr. Stephen Mitchell, was Mr. Stevenson's appointee, and has been showing great energy and ability, it is still by no means established that he has full control of the Party machine, particularly in the big cities where the Democrats' strength traditionally lies, but where the machines are, with the exception of Philadelphia's, still run by the old type of Democratic boss. However, one of the most powerful of the city bosses, Jake Arvey, of Chicago, is a great admirer and protagonist of Mr. Stevenson.

✧ ✧ ✧

BUT Mr. Stevenson has no ready-made platform from which to command attention. When a Party is out of office, its natural sounding-board is in Congress, where it can oppose and attack the Administration on specific issues. There are a number of Democratic Senators, including Senator Kefauver of Tennessee —who was defeated for the Democratic nomination last year— Senator Stuart Symington of Missouri, and Senator Richard Russell of Georgia who have already shown by their actions that they are probable contenders for the Democractic nomination.

IT has been suggested that if Mr. Stevenson really wishes to get the Democratic nomination in 1956 he would be well advised to run for the Senate next year; but this can only be done if Senator Paul Douglas of Illinois (Mr. Stevenson's home State), who will be up for election next year, decides as it has been rumoured that he will, to retire from politics and go back to his professorship of economics. Mr. Stevenson has made it clear that he would not enter into a fight for the Democratic nomination to the Senate seat with Senator Douglas, who is an old friend of his, and that if Senator Douglas wishes to seek re-election he will not oppose him.

Mr. Stevenson's political future depends therefore, on a number of factors. His first major speech will be in Chicago on September 14, and probably he will make two more later in the year. From these it will be clearer whether he still has the same following as he had in the elections. If he can help the Democrats to make decisive gains in next year's election to Congress —gains they are likely to make anyway— then it will become increasingly harder for any of his rivals to deny him the Democratic nomination in 1956, whether he spends the intervening two years in the Senate or not.

✧ ✧ ✧

AMONG all the people who may be looking forward to the publication in mid-September of Dr. Kinsey's book "Sexual Behaviour in the Human Female," one organisation that most definitely is not enthusiastic is the Kinsey Distilling Corporation of Philadelphia. When the doctor's book on the Human Male came out five years ago this highly respectable old firm found that its sales suddenly boomed, but that it also got a lot of strange and confusing publicity. It received hundreds of requests for free copies of the book. Many of them, written on whisky-stained paper, were accompanied by labels soaked off Kinsey whisky bottles, since a rumour had gone round the taprooms of America that a Kinsey label was good for one copy of the Kinsey report. It also got a lot of scathing letters from teetottallers, accusing it of capitalising on sex in order to sell whisky. This time the firm is ready to meet the challenge and has a [illegible] which says: "Please, we are Kinsey the distiller, not the Kinsey the author scientist."

ONE of the strongest complaints that one heard regularly, in the immediate post-war years, about exports of British goods to the United States was that Britain had no idea of how to wrap and package merchandise so as to make it attractive to the American customer. Biscuits and cakes, sweets and chocolates, toys and ties, all carried—said the critics—the same stereotyped, colourless wrappings or designs which their makers had employed for twenty years or more. What was permissible in appealing to a quality market in England was not good enough for the American mass market.

This lesson seems to have been well learnt, and British goods in the shops over here—and particularly foods —look much more attractive than they did. In fact, one of the leading package designers in the United States has recently admitted that in biscuits— the Americans call them crackers—British design and packaging is now far ahead of American.

✧ ✧ ✧

ONE of the joys of the United States is that one can stop at any little eating place or drug store, and be certain of a reasonably good and inexpensive meal. The curse of them is the "juke box," a machine much beloved of the young, which contains records of all the popular tunes of the moment, and which can be played by inserting a nickel. The result is that one's meal or cup of coffee is accompanied by the moanings of Eddie Fisher or the sibilants of Rosemary Clooney at full volume. But every irration has a counter-irritant, and a new record has just been produced called "Three Minutes' Silence." This simply has blank grooves. And by inserting a nickel and pressing the right button one can ensure silence for long enough to enable the hot dog or hamburger to get down the digestive tract without disturbance.

SEEKS INFORMATION ON DOG

Sir: Would you allow me a few lines in your column to make an appeal for a lost pet?

Over a week ago, my seven-year-old black Pomeranian dog was lost in the vicinity of Burleigh Falls. A notice was inserted in the Lost and Found columns of the Examiner.

I feel that no one would intentionally keep Skippy as she was wearing a tag with her owner's name and Peterborough address engraved. If she has met with an accident I would appreciate any information to relieve my worried mind.

WHY SHOULD LACROSSE CLUB SOLICIT MONEY?

Sir: The current appeal by the Peterborough Lacrosse Club for funds to send their team out to Vancouver to defend the Mann Cup prompts a loud and vehement "how come." It seems preposterous that the merchants and private individuals should be asked to contribute to a cause such as this.

To begin with, it is common knowledge that the Trailermen Lacrosse team is an out-and-out professional organization. If it isn't, then why are their directors forced to solicit additional funds at this time in view of the fabulous gates they have been attracting at Miller Bowl all season. The recently concluded playoff series with Orillia and St. Catharines proved a financial bonanza for the organization with approximately 20,000 paying customers on hand.

The lacrosse team operates under the smallest possible overhead. They possess a long-term lease on Miller Bowl which necessitates only the payment per year of the minimum of taxes or $1. All year long their regular crowds have averaged 2,000 per game. They realized a substantial sum from the sale of lucky draw programs, about 1,000 per game at 10c each [illegible] the number sold. In addition they realize the profits from the concession booth at Miller Bowl and you may be sure this is a considerable sum. Over the season their receipts from all these avenues are tremendous.

In the spring with the players the setup is strictly professional. Each player is paid a substantial bonus to sign a certificate (the better ones). Then all through the season, each man on the team is on a most rewarding weekly salary. In some cases the players are paid an additional bonus for the number of games they play. Surely there is nothing more professional than this.

All the players on the regular Trailermen team, with one exception, are imports to Peterborough. The ONLY reason they are playing lacrosse here is that the lacrosse pay is better than in Mimico, Fergus, Hamilton, or St. Catharines. The moment the season is over most of them leave the city and are not seen again until next spring. Local players are sometimes dressed but very seldom used. In some cases, such as Arnold Dugan, Jim Heffernan, and Bill Killingbeck, local boys had to leave the city to get a fair "shake" in lacrosse.

Mr. Editor, I don't see Conny Smythe appealing to the Bay St. brokers to send the hockey Leafs to Boston for a Stanley Cup play-off series; neither does Jack Kent Cooke canvas the Yonge Street merchants for funds to send the baseball Leafs to Baltimore for an important set of ball games. I don't recall the Toronto Argonauts appealing to the citizens of Toronto for money to fly the football team to Calgary and Edmonton to play exhibition games. But the executives of our lacrosse club are different. Where do they get the idea the merchants and private individuals of Peterborough should "kick in" to send a group of high priced professional lacrosse players on a glorified three week holiday to Vancouver. Can you tell me if this seems logical?

Recently the Peterborough Ornamental Swimming Club brought this city much desirable fame and publicity. They travelled to Florida and won in synchronized swimming over the best the United States had to offer. These girls didn't get any financial assistance from a public canvass. They paid their own way as they are strictly amateurs. Last Fall the local football club appealed to the public for money to travel to Winnipeg for a Dominion final game. The money was promptly forthcoming —and rightly so as local citizens came through for the boys who loved to play the game for fun. These boys were amateurs in very sense of the word. Apparently the lacrossers figure the George St. merchants all wear bright red suits and are adorned with long white beards and just love to play Santa Claus—for professional athletes.

I should think the lacrosse executive should be extremely hesitant about appealing to the public for funds for this trip. In view of the fact that the Canadian Lacrosse Association takes care of their travelling expenses and their accommodation while out west, it would seem their lusty gate receipts would stand the strain of their incidental expenses on this trip.

Your very truly,
EXASPERATED MAIN STREETER.

UNFAVOURABLE IMPRESSION MADE BY CHAMBER OFFICERS

Sir: Our family moved into your county this year and as we have never seen a boat go through the Lift Lock, we drive by them in your city every time we come to Peterborough in hopes of watching them work. This past week we heard that your newspaper printed that the Lift Lock would be in action for the benefit of the A. C. W. W. who were on tour through this section of our country.

Happily a few women and children planned to go to Peterborough to see this Man-made Wonder of the World. However, first we went to meet some of the Ladies of the A. C. W. W. at one of their stops, and while talking with them one of the official officers of Peterborough's Chamber of Commerce came up to us and got into the conversation. When I mentioned that a carload were going on into Peterborough, he at once informed us that because the buses of A. C. W. W. were late they would not [illegible] to see the beautiful city of Peterborough. In a very few words he made me feel as if we would be very much unwanted and out-of-place in Peterborough at that time. We did not go and the children were disappointed and ladies hurt at the snubbing we had received.

First of all I would like to say the Associated Country Women of the World held their Conference in Canada this year to discuss how Country-women could help each other the world over. The bus tours to different parts of Canada were to enable the visiting delegates study the way Canadian Country women carried on their daily life in work and play. Also to study educational methods for rural students. Most of the delegates live in the country and while in Canada asked to be billeted in farm homes.

Needless to say One American delegate was not favourably impressed with the contact of the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce and drove away wondering why the country people of Ontario were not just as welcome in Peterborough as the Tourists of other countries.

The only conclusion I have drawn from this encounter is to think there is a very great need yet for better understanding between city and country people. And until there is complete understanding and working together on problems confronting us all Canada will not become as great a Nation as She might.

MRS. M. CORNISH,
Norwood.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

And, behold, they brought to him a man sick of the palsy, lying on a bed: and Jesus seeing their faith said unto the sick of the palsy; Son, be of good cheer; thy sins be forgiven thee.

And, behold, certain of the scribes said, Wherefore think ye evil in your hearts? For whether is easier, to say, Thy sins be forgiven thee; or to say, Arise, and walk? But that we may know that the Son of man hath power on earth to forgive sins, (then saith he to the sick of the palsy,) Arise, take up thy bed, and go unto thine house.

And he arose, and departed to his house. But when the multitudes saw it, they marvelled, and glorified God, which had given such power unto men. (Matt. 9: 2-8.)

✧ ✧ ✧

Seek ye the Lord while he may be found, call ye upon him while he is near . . . For my thoughts are not your thoughts, neither are your ways my ways, saith the Lord. For as the heavens are higher than the earth, so are my ways higher than your ways, and my thoughts than your thoughts.

For as the rain cometh down, and the snow from heaven, and returneth not thither, but watereth the earth, and maketh it bring forth and bud; that it may give seed to the sower, and bread to the eater: so shall my word be that goeth forth out of my mouth: it shall not return unto me void, but it shall accomplish that which I please, and it shall prosper in the thing whereto I sent it.

For ye shall go out with joy, and be led forth with peace: the mountains and the hills shall break forth before you into singing, and all the trees of the field shall clap their hands. Instead of the thorn shall come up the fir tree, and instead of the brier shall come up the myrtle tree: and it shall be to the Lord for a name, for an everlasting sign that shall not be cut off. (Isa. 55: 6, 8-13.)

✧ ✧ ✧

I said, O my God, take me not away in the midst of my days: thy years are throughout all generations . . . The children of thy servants shall continue, and their seed shall be established before thee. (Ps. 102: 24, 28.)

Hollywood 'Mounties' Deceive Banff Tourists

(Calgary Albertan)

The fascination of both Hollywood screen writers and American tourists with the Royal Canadian Mounted Police has always been well known. A curious situation has arisen in Banff through these two interests conflicting.

A moving picture is being made in the Banff area, and the script calls for "Mounties." Some Hollywood actors have been imported to play these roles. Their uniforms are very much like those worn by the legitimate Mounties today.

But it seems that the actors aren't content to be Mounties only before the cameras. In off hours they keep their uniforms on, and frequently are mistaken by eager American tourists for the real Mounties. They don't always bother to correct the misunderstanding, and often they consent to have their pictures taken by tourists who think they are the real McCoy.

Whether this is impersonation of a police officer, is not up to us to say.

But worse than that, often the misrepresentation is an insult to the force. The actors, we are told, wear their uniforms on such occasions much as American police wear uniforms in the summer. The scarlet jackets are unbuttoned, for instance, and the appearance is otherwise sloppy and quite disgusting compared with the appearance of a real Mountie. This doesn't leave a good impression of the force.

Movie people have to be humored, we suppose, but the tourists have rights, too. One of their rights is to know clearly who are the legitimate RCMP. Another is to see

The dignity and prestige of the RCMP are two of its strongest qualities. They must be protected at all costs. Nobody should be permitted to make monkeys out of "our Mounties."

Votes For Absentees

(Ottawa Journal)

Mr. David Croll, MP, thinks the Election Act should be amended to broaden the field of those who may vote in federal elections at the advance polls, now restricted chiefly to railroad workers and travelling salesmen, and we agree with him. The present regulations, as Mr. Croll says, are too rigid and narrow.

A citizen who will be away from home on election day, perhaps on a vacation or at a convention planned long before the election date was set, is not now eligible to vote in the advance poll. A person called away by a death in the family, and knowing he cannot be back on election day, is not permitted to use the advance poll. In the recent election such regulations must have deprived thousands of men and women of their votes.

In a voting population of millions it is inevitable that a considerable number of persons will be absent from their homes on any day. The sensible thing is to provide reasonable facilities for them in the advance polls—at least for those who know that far ahead that they will be absent, unavoidably absent.

Radio Troubles Hamper Search For 5 Lost Men

ROBERVAL, Que. (CP)—Officials feared late Tuesday night that the continued search today for a missing plane in northern Quebec might still be hampered by poor radio communications blamed on "ionospheric disturbances."

At least five men, including three passengers, were aboard the pontoon-equipped Norseman which disappeared Aug. 25 during a flight from Fort Chimo, on the southern tip of Ungava bay, to Nitchequon, 40 miles north of Quebec.

An official of Mont Laurier Airways, owners of the missing plane, said, "experts say these disturbances come in 11-year cycles and they've been bad this year, jamming all radio communications in Ungava for periods of five days to two weeks."

The forecast today was that the disturbances will be unstable, possibly permitting intermittent communications between this Lake St. John town and Ungava stations.

Searching planes cannot talk by radio with their stations, but they are constantly monitoring the two frequencies which the missing plane is known to have used.

The disappearance was unreported three days due to the radio blackout, and search was delayed because of poor flying conditions.

Pilot Frank Hanley of a search plane operated by Central Maritime Airways of Charlottetown last week-end picked up faint radio S O S signals, believd to have been transmitted from an area 30 to 40 miles southeast of Nitchequon where the missing Norseman may have strayed.

The air search by three RCAF planes, a Canso and a Mont Laurier Airways plane failed to turn up any sign of the missing craft Tuesday.

The passengers aboard the missing plane were identified as H. Theinhaus, German geologist, K. Koftan, Dutch engineer, and V. Abel, engineer for Fenimore Iorn Mines. They were returning from an inspection of Fenimore holdings on the shore of Ungava bay.

The air transport firm could not confirm reports there was a fourth passenger aboard.

The pilot was identified as R. J. Mullin of Kenora, Ont., and the engineer as Richard Everitt, a Montrealer.

Steak, Pipe And Slippers Are Things A Man Wants

NEW YORK—Never mind that loaf of bread, jug of wine and thou business. What many a man wants is a steak dinner, his pipe and slippers and the evening paper.

That's what Eastern Air Lines figured, anyway. And they seem to have been right. Every time their "Executive," a flying living room, takes off from New York or Chicago just about every plush seat is filled with a contented man.

That last word—man— is the key. Nary a woman, save for two comely stewardesses, disturbs the masculinity of United's two "for men only" flights each day at 5 p.m. from New York, and at 5.05 p.m. from Chicago.

The whole idea for the popular DC-6 "Executive" flights between New York and Chicago and vice versa when some tired business-man griped to a United stewardess because he couldn't smoke his cigar — the ladies aboard wouldn't like it.

Somebody thought that one over and finally came up with the suggestion: "Why not give the boys what they want?"

The answer came last April 26 when the first "Executive" filled with 52 contented men, took off from New York for Chicago.

Within a week, United says the idea had caught on and nearly every one of the 14 planes which make the flight weekly is filled to capacity.

So far, United is the only air line with the "men only" flights in operation. And so far, only Chicago and New York have been used as takeoff and landing points.

As soon as the men climb aboard they are invited to shuck their coats. Then one of the stewardesses comes around and presents each passenger with a pair of slippers—woolen stocking slippers the girls call "booties."

When the plane begins its journey it becomes a men's club. Some of the men often gather around a table for a poker game. Others sit in the comfortable chairs and read the latest papers, which are supplied by the airline, puffing a mile a minute if they wish, on favorite old stogies.

The only thing that breaks up the bull sessions is the announcement: "Dinner is served."

Dinner is always steak, topped with mushrooms. The passengers whet their appetites on a lobster cocktail. Then there is dessert and all the coffee they can drink.

One of the busy hostesses proceeds down the aisle carrying a humidor of Havana cigars. The men dive in and smoke in comfort until the announcement comes that the plane has reached its destination.

On regular flights cigarets are all the passengers can smoke, which apparently is the way the ladies want it.

United says it has no plans to inaugurate a "for women only" flight. No requests for it, officials say.

New Man Heads Branch Of RCMP

OTTAWA (CP)—A new man will head the RCMP's anti-subversive branch this month, Commissioner L. H. Nicholson announced today.

Superintendent J. R. Lemieux, 49, of Valleyfield, Que., will take over command of the RCMP's special branch which deals with espionage and subversive activities.

He was for many years in charge of criminal investigation at Montreal and in recent years has been with the special branch here.

Superintendent McClellan has been in charge of the special branch since 1947. He formerly served with the Toronto division. He also is a graduate of the Police College and National Defence College.

90% Of Harvest Brought In, Department Says

TORONTO (CP)—Fine weather last week allowed the completion of almost 90 per cent of Ontario's harvest.

The weekly farm report, issued Tuesday by the Ontario department of agriculture, indicated the majority of farmers across the province have completed their harvesting while a few others expect to finish theirs by the end of this week.

Corn and turnip crops are progressing well throughout the southern section of the province with tobacco about one-third complete. Pastures are dry and a good rain is needed, the hot, dry weather being accompanied by a resultant drop in milk production.

Many farmers are grooming stock and taking inventory of farm produce in preparation for aparation for approaching fall fairs. In Grey county, entries are being rushed for the Grey-Bruce live stock co-operative feeder sale, even though it does not open until Oct. 1.

60 ENTERED

There were 60 entries in the On- Association show at Ridgetown in Kent county. Steers averaged 26¼ cents a pound while the grand champion went at 51 cents and the reserve champion at 31 cents.

The tomato harvest is general across most of Ontario. The peach harvest is complete in most Niagara peninsular counties, but farmers are experiencing some difficulty in marketing eatable peachs the hot weather ripened them too fast.

Corn is good in northern Ontario, but starting to dry on lighter soil. Eastern Ontario farmers are also experiencing this difficulty with their corn. Corn yield across the entire province, however, is excellent.

Level Crossing Abolition Urged

HAMILTON (CP)—An Ontario-wide program to eliminate railway level-crossings was urged Tuesday by Highways Minister Doucett.

In an address to members of Hamilton's Automobile Club, the minister promised wholehearted support from the Ontario government.

"We are willing and determined to launch a program to eliminate level crossings," the minister stated, "but we need a three-way movement, with leadership from the federal government."

Municipalities should not bear the brunt of the cost of overheads and underpasses, he said. But federal authorities must co-operate with the provincial government and the railways to see that in time all of the dangerous crossings were eliminated.

Second Tanker Sold

SARNIA (CP)—The tanker Imperial Redwater has been bought by the Upper Lakes and St. Lawrence Transportation Company of Toronto, the company said Tuesday. Another tanker, the Imperial Woodbend, was purchased by Mohawk Navigation Company of Montreal last week. Both ships will be converted at the end of the 1953 navigation season into bulk carriers.

PETERBOROUGH NEWEST GARBAGE disposal unit, a huge bull clam, (above), a custom-made bulldozer especially for land-fill garbage disposal, arrived in the city Tuesday from Toronto. The city switched to the land-fill method early this year at its dump in North Monaghan township. A rented machine has been in use since that method started. The new Peterborough-owned unit will not be used this week; it still requires some servicing. It is expected to be at work next Monday. (Examiner Staff Photo)

Huge Argentine Wheat Crop May Cut Canada's Exports

By SIDNEY CAMPBELL

LONDON (Reuters) — Argentina is likely to have more wheat for sale in the coming international wheat year than she had last year.

Argentina, like the United States and Canada, has a much larger carry-over of old crop wheat. Carry-over this month is 110,000,000 bushels. A year ago the country was importing wheat after a crop failure.

The new crop should be a big one. Both the weather and the government's changed economic policy are in its favor.

Argentina's carry-over and that of Australia differ from those of Canada and the U.S. at the beginning of the international wheat year every Aug. 1.

Then the two North American countries have their new crops coming forward. But the Argentine and Aussie crops are not harvested until later and the August carry-overs have to supply home consumption and exports up to the end of the calendar year.

So far, Argentina is selling her extra wheat in a moderate way.

The British food ministry's last purchase in its 14 years as an international wheat trader was 80,000 tons (2,936,000 bushels) of Argentine wheat at £29 10s ($82.60) a ton CIF (cost, insurance and freight).

British government sources said this sale was proof that wheat can be bought cheaper outside the International Wheat Agreement than inside it.

The British purchase left Argentina with another 100,000 tons (3,674,000 bushels) to sell to any buyer at the same price. Last week British private buyers took some. Japan may have taken the rest.

These Argentine sales call in question the whole present theory and policy of the pricing of North American export wheat. Briefly the theory and policy are these:

For their commercial sales both the U.S. and Canada are trying to hold their prices. They estimate that they would not sell much more if they lowered prices sharply.

For special disposals they take whatever price they can get.

In practice, the trouble is that the special disposals cannot be insulated from the commercial sales. Washington's gift of 1,000,000 tons to Pakistan caused Pakistan to cancel 50,000 tons (1,835,000 bushels) bought from Australia at a high price, and released the 180,000 tons (6,606,000 bushels) that Argentina has been hawking. Previously it was believed to be earmarked for barter to Pakistan against jute.

North America's commercial export market is thus further constructed by the spill-over from the special disposals.

The net effect on the world market of the United States gift to Pakistan is thus that 230,000 tons (8,441,000 bushels) of Argentine and Australian wheat which would otherwise have gone to Pakistan have instead to be sold to Britain and other countries, reducing North America's commercial export market by that amount.

The presence or absence of that much demand can influence the world market price.

Argentina's own special disposals are by barter or bilateral arrangements at above the world price, but they equally reduce North America's commercial export markets. Last week Argentina bartered 50,000 tons of wheat to Peru, and sold 74,500 tons (2,734,510 bushels) to Japan at 90.50 "Japanese dollars." (That means dollars in Argentina's bilateral clearing account with Japan.)

Japan hitherto has been the most reliable market for United States wheat under the International Wheat Agreement. So far, under the new agreement, Japan has taken more Upited States wheat than all the other importing countries put together.

Even Peru has so far ranked about fifth among the buyers of United States wheat under the new agreement. Peru's import quota under the new agreement was raised from 150,000 tons (5,509,000 bushels) to 200,000 tons (2,344,000). A barter receipt of 50,000 tons from Argentina might alter the picture.

If the 74,500 tons (2,734,150 bushels) sold to Japan is the balance of the 180,000 tons that Argentina has been offering since the United States gift to Pakistan (the remainder having been taken by Britain) it is particularly piquant. For payment in real dollars it is believed that the Argentine official seller (the Argentine foreign trade promotion institute) would accept $70 a ton.

That would directly undercut the International Wheat Agreement maximum price, which is more than $83 a ton for United States hard winter wheat at the gulf.

Some erosion of the North American export price structure is already discernible. Some grades of United States wheat now are offering at below the IWA maximum.

The United States accepted 39 cents below the IWA maximum in the recent sale of red winter wheat to Portugal, the biggest discount since the IWA started in August, 1949.

The Canadian wheat board has also made a start toward flexibility in quality discounts. At a time when importers want Canadian grade one and do not want grade four, Canada seemed to be merely handicapping herself by holding the discount on grade four at eight cents.

Last week Canada widened the discount to 10 cents, and she may have to go farther.

Arena Ice Pipes Can Be Repaired

COBOURG (ENS) — Tests have been completed on the refrigeration system of the recreational centre and it was found that the pipes under the terrazo floor escaped damage by the fire that destroyed the building about two weeks ago.

The ice-making plant was saved but it was not known to what extent the nine miles of pipes suffered. Except for a few leaking unions which can be readily repaired, the ice plant is in good shape.

It is expected that tenders will be called for shortly to rebuild the recreational centre.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Hot weather isn't keeping some of the local senior "B" hockey club executive from scouting around for playing talent. Eddie O'Toole and Jim Ellis made a trip to North Bay and expect to get a first-rate player from there. A new playing coach will be named shortly for the Petes. Don Bark and Denny Peterson are puck-playing newcomers to town this summer, while Bill McMaster and Hanna (who played in Scotland) are likely to try for spots. If Ray Harding retires, as he said he would, the club will need a goalie. Just four imports are permitted by the OHA to a senior "B" squad. It's getting nearly time for a group meeting to be called now that September has arrived.

* * * * * *

The shouting and the tumult has died down somewhat among senior lacrosse fans, and once again the Petes' Trailermen are OLA and Eastern Canada champs. They'll fly west Sept. 12 in defence of their twice-won Mann Cup crown. Don Ashbee hopes to get permission from his pro puck bosses (Cleveland Barons of the AHL) to play in the B. C. series. Two valuable Petes' players won't make the trip. Jerry Fitzgerald is due to start teaching school shortly in Toronto, and he'll be missed in the gutted-stick finals. So will Ike Hildebrand, who leaves this weekend for a tryout with New York Rangers. If he doesn't click there, he'll rejoin Cleveland.

* * * * * *

Denny Won't Be Going

While Denny Peterson is living here now, he won't be in this next series. Not having played all season, he wouldn't be eligible under CLA rules for the Mann cup final. Also he wouldn't be in top shape after this lengthy layoff. He will reside in Peterborough and be able to join the Petes next year as a free agent. So, it's up to the local executive to seek two replacements from among the other OLA clubs for Hildebrand and Fitzgerald. They expect to make such arrangements in a day or two. Most likely they'll pick 'em from St. Catharines or Orillia, perhaps one player from each club. More again on that as we get it from Manager Bob Curtin.

* * * * * *

Elsewhere tonight are the Petes' scoring lists in the two play-off series, the Eastern final with St. Catharines and the group semi-final with Orillia. Rusty Slater was hotter than somewhat in the semi-final to top all snipers, banging in 17 goals in four frays and aiding on two more. Nip O'Hearn was just a point behind him, while Ross Powless and Ike Hildebrand were well up, also, in this high-scoring scramble. There wasn't nearly the scoring in the tighter five-game set with Athletics. Jerry Fitzgerald (who was brilliant in both series) and classy Ike Hildebrand tied for most points with 11 each, and again Ross Powless was well up there, Curly Mason and Nip O'Hearn being other stars. Yeah, they all played like champs.

Series Sewed Right Up

Men's city softball finals are all tied up at 3-3 following Seabrooke's 14-13 win o'er Transports last even before a big gallary They'll settle it next Tuesday night at eight in the Bowl, as there is an OASA game tomorrow night here betwixt Kingston and Seabrooke's. Jim Driscoll and Lefty Doris saw slab action for the winners last p.m. while Haddy Eakins and Ken Guilfoyle split mound duties for the TPT-ers. It was a free-hitting and loose-fielding but highly exciting tussle all through with an error and hits by Mark Donoghue and Russ Scriver fashioning the winning run in the last of the ninth inning. Bob Wyatt had a grand-slam homer and Neil Thompson clouted one for the circuit with a mate aboard. It's quite a hot series.

* * * * * *

Along the baseball front up this way, our ex-seniors playing intermediate "A" for Lindsay won their last start 7-6 in Oshawa, but the latter leads the lakeshore finals 2-1. Fourth fray is this eve in Lindsay. Meantime, Wimp Borland's local bantams enter their second OBA round in Oshawa tonight, return of the best-of-three set being at two Saturday aft in Riverside. They previously ousted Belleville. Last evening in Riverside, Belleville took the deciding OBA midget game 7-2 over Ray Clifford's local lads to win that series Tough luck for the young Petes, but they'll be heard from another season. PMBA bantam finals are slated to resume tomorrow at six p.m. in Brinton, third if necessary being Sept. 5. Peewee finals are on now also, and will be wrapped up by Sept. 4.

Midgets Lose OBA Series To Quinte Boys

Belleville erased the Peterborough ballsters in the first round of OBA midget A playdowns by taking the third and deciding game here last evening by a 7-2 count. Leo St. Denis scattered six hits for the Quinte crew and had good support, while his mates bunched timely blows off Lefty McIlmiyle for six runs and added one more off Jackie Lang, who relieved with one out in the seventh. On a tossup it was Belleville's home game.

St. Denis whiffed 10 over the route and walked none. McIlmoyle gave up seven hits and two walks—plus a couple of wild pitches—while striking out six. He allowed just three earned runs. Lang fanned four in his short term, walked one and gave two hits.

McCann had three singles for the winners, and Hagerman a triple and single in three tries. McCarthy tripled for Ray Clifford's crew, no one having more than one safety.

HOW IT HAPPENED

Charlton was safe early on catcher's interference, stole second and scored on Kingston's single. Moore walked next heat and raced in on Hageman's three-bagger. In the third, Buskard doubles, took third on an error and scored on an infield out. They got two in the fourth on two fielder's choices and singles by McCann Hagerman, and White. Their last pair came in the seventh on two walks, two wild pitches, and a single by McCann.

The local markers were notched in the third inning on an error on McCarthy's rap, a wild pitch and singles by McIlmoyle, Coit and Towns. They threatened in both the seventh and ninth, but couldn't get those timely thumps to score runs. Teams:

Seabrooke's Even Series With A 14-13 Triumph Over TPT In League Finals

Thunderous applause rocked the East City Bowl Tuesday night as Bill Sullivan's Seabrooke Motors emerged victorious over George Bennett's TP Transports 14-13, in the sixth game of a best-of-seven final series for the Taylor Trophy, emblematic of men's senior city softball supremacy. The set stands at three games apiece; the seventh game to be played before a possible all-time record crowd Tuesday night, September 8, at 8 p.m.

It was a jam-packed thriller from start to finish, one of the wildest, wierdest games—from every standpoint—seem at the Ashburnham (home of softball) Bowl in many years.

SCORE IN NINTH

Seabrooke's came through with the vital winning tally, in the last of the ninth; after the game had been won and lost either way, a half-dozen times, when Speed Currie was safe on an infield error, and Mark Donoghue drove a sharp liner off the right field screen, advancing Currie to third. A sharp throw to second by Fryia nipped Donoghue stretching to second to Legrow, but coach Russ Scriver singled a sizzler over first to score Currie with the tie-breaking marker.

Thrills and spills galore studded the see-saw contest till the final climax as a packed gallery watched with baited breath, anxiously awaiting the outcome of a tense, even struggle for the final five.

Seabrooke's scored six runs in the fourth inning to re-enter a ball game that seemed lost when Transports shelled ace hurler Jim Driscoll from the hill with a seven-run barrage in less than two innings of play. Thereafter it was lights out, no quarter asked nor given, as the battle rolled to its dramatic conclu-

TOOK OVER SLAB

Lefty Doris relieved Driscoll in the second, with three aboard and four runs over, and despite stormy seas, weathered the blast in a capable—if not brilliant—relief chore. Ken Guilfoyle, seasoned veteran, took over for Transports in the fourth after Bobby Wyatt's grand-slam homer had driven Haddy Eakins to the showers and put Seabrooke's one run off the pace. Guilfoyle, too, earned plaudits for a grand, but, as it turned out, heart-breaking relief job. Errors broke the hearts of each twirler time and again as the tide of battle ebbed and flowed.

Transports scored four in the first frame, added three in the second as the bats of Legrow, Mackness, Fryia, Castle, Leonard, Floyd and Collins treated Driscoll like spoiled meat. Eakins held off in great style till the fourth (except for Thompson's first inning tally on Sullivan's safe drive); but trouble began on Transport hill in the fourth when Jensen, Jaquith (who relieved Spencer when the latter disputed a called strike), Driscoll all hit safely, Thompson walked and Sullivan hit. Then Wyatt drove a terrific liner near the score board to clean the sacks.

KEPT ROLLING

Guilfolyle came in, but the Sullivan gang shifted to second gear to score in every inning thereafter for small but effective totals, with the bats of the defending three-time city champs clicking well in the pinches. Transports, however, proved equally aggressive and put up fine rallies in the seventh and eighth frames for a total of five runs as the issue seemed strictly a toss-up. Seabrooke's break came late, but that was it.

Neil Thompson homered with Jaquith aboard in the eighth to tie the score, after the Bennett men took the lead on their three-run rally, for possibly the most crucial blows of several such, in the entire game.

The four officials performed a brilliant task of arbitration.

LAWN BOWLING

By HERB MARTIN

The invitation night that was scheduled for Friday night has been postponed until Friday, September 11. So, instead, this Friday night we will have men's doubles. Choose your own partner.

Tonight it is mixed rinks. Draw from the board at 7.30 p.m.

Many of the bowlers are taking in the mixed doubles tournament this afternoon and evening at Cannington.

The ladies got off to a good start in their annual singles competition last evening — and despite the heat the ladies turned out well. We believe there are 56 entered in the competition.

Taking it by and large, the bowling was real good—but the part that took our eye was the work of the "umpires." Some never saw a game of singles before, let alone umpire one—but they did a fine job. We doubt if any other sporting organization could field as many high-class umpires as the ladies did Tuesday night. They filled the bill to perfection.

TO COACH CATARACTS

MONTREAL (CP)—Roger Leger, all-star defenceman with Montreal Royals last year, has signed a one-year contract as coach of Shawinigan Falls Cataracts of the Quebec Senior Hockey League, Theo Racette, Shawinigan Falls business manager, announced Tuesday night. Leger succeeds Yves Nadon.

'Caygeon Boy Tops At CNE In Jr. Men's Water Skiing

TORONTO (CP)—Joan Fidell of Toronto and 16-year-old Bruce Poole of Bobcaygeon Tuesday unofficially won the Canadian closed women's and junior men's all-around water skiing champtonships at the Canadian National Exhibition.

Two Canadian records were unofficially broken and a world mark was reached in jumping. In doubles Graydon Elliott, Toronto, and Margaret Heighington, Orillia, took top honors.

Official figures on the all-around champions in women's and junior men's events were not immediately available, but unofficial compilations gave Poole and Mrs. Fidell those titles.

MATCHES MARK

Poole, first in tricks and second in jumping and slalom, unofficially matched the world's junior men's jumping mark with a jump of 65 feet Tuesday. This was also three feet more than the previous Canadian mark. Low points on form kept Poole out of the winners' circle in jumping.

The second Canadian record fell in the women's jumping when Jacqueline Gauthier of Ottawa, winner more than the previous mark.

Jack and Betty Sland, brother and sister from Toronto, placed second in the mixed doubles competition, followed by Gus McIntosh of Toronto and Stephanie Stewart of Peterborough.

The junior men's slalom was won by Bobby Thompson of Port Elgin, with Poole second and Justin O'Brien of Peterborough third.

Dave Cameron of Wingham was the winner in the junior jumping, followed by Poole and O'Brien. The tricks, won by Poole, saw Bob Smith of Whitby second and Bruce Alexander of Oakville third.

Women's tricks was won by Mrs. Fidell, with Marg Gilbert of Bobcaygeon second and Isobel Weale of Toronto third.

Trainer Admits Doping Horses

DETROIT (AP) — James Inglis, New York state racing commissioner, said Tuesday that a trainer-driver for the Castleton Stables of Detroit has admitted doping two horses which won eight of 10 starts at the recent Hazel Park harness raceway meet here.

Inglis told reporters that the trainer-driver, Carl Larsen, also admitted doping a horse at the Aug. 12 Hambletonian, in Goshen, N.Y.

Inglis reported that Larsen testified at a closed hearing before the commission Monday, that he acted on orders of Wayne Smart, chief trainer-driver for Castleton Stables.

Smart, reached at Duquoin, Ill., expressed surprise at the accusations. Smart was the leading driver at the recent Hazel Park meet.

The commissioner said Larsen testified he administered "medicine" to Scotch Harbor and Dutch Dandy.

Burlington Man Wins Seniors' Medal Play

TORONTO (CP)—A. R. (Andy) Wilson of Burlington Tuesday won the annual 36-hole medal competition for the championship of the Canadian Seniors' Golf Association.

He added a 78 to his opening day's 75 for a total of 153.

One stroke back at 154 were E.D. Martin of Ottawa Hunt, John Hadden of Toronto Hunt and Hugh Jaques of Montreal Beaconsfield.

Dr. George F. Laing of Windsor Essex, winner of the title in the last three years and runner-up four years ago, Tuesday could only duplicate his 79 of Monday and finished ninth.

Surrey Retains Cricket Lead

LONDON (Reuters)—Surrey retained the county cricket championship lead Tuesday even though it failed to take a point from its game with Sussex, which collected four for a first innings lead.

Lancashire, which has slender hopes of catching the champions, failed to beat Middlesex, though they took first innings points. They are still level with Sussex and Leicestershire with 156 points compared with Surrey's 172.

George Tribe, an Australian playing for Northamptonshire, claimed his 100th wicket and thus becomes the first man of the season to complete both this and 1,000 runs, which he ran up previously. He also performed the double last season.

Close-of-play scores Tuesday:

Kent 181 and 108, Australian Tourists 465 for eight declared. Australians won by an innings and 176 runs.

Hampshire 185 and 88, Yorkshire 318. Yorkshire won by an innings and 45 runs.

Somerset 117 and 82, Nottinghamshire 266 for seven declared. Nottinghamshire won by an innings and 67 runs.

Glamorgan 176 and 28 for three, Leicestershire 263 for five declared. Match drawn.

Worcestershire 146 and 199 for six, Northamptonshire 301 for five declared. Match drawn.

Surrey 220 and 244 for two, Sussex 221 for eight declared. Match drawn.

Warwickshire 120 and 203 for six declared, Essex 127 for five declared and 200 for eight. Essex won by two wickets.

Middlesex 174 and 167 for eight declared, Lancashire 175 for three declared and 62 for four. Match drawn.

Gloucestershire 149 and 147 for two declared, Derbyshire 207. Derbyshire did not bat a second time. Match drawn.

Brooklyn Held Milwaukee From NL Pennant In '53

By BEN PHLEGAR, Associated Press Sports Writer

Milwaukee Braves get a last look tonight at the home of the team they couldn't beat for the National League pennant. Brooklyn Dodgers represent the one jinx the Braves failed to shake in their move from Boston to Milwaukee. Charlie Grimm's charges convinced the rest of the league the bold Braves of Milwaukee bore no resemblance to the woe-begone team that huddled in seventh place in Boston a year ago. But they couldn't persuade the Dodgers.

With four meetings remaining—two in Brooklyn tonight and Thursday and two in Milwaukee later this month—the Dodgers lead the Braves 12-6 for the season. Last year when the Braves performed out of Boston the Dodgers beat them 18 times.

LEAD CARDS

Milwaukee has clinched its season's series with every other team except St. Louis Cardinals and they lead the Red Birds 10-6.

At the moment Brooklyn holds its fattest margin of the season over the Braves—11 games—and has a theoretical chance to wrap up the flag by the end of the Labor Day doubleheaders, 20 days before the season ends.

Tuesday Brooklyn ended a perfect home season against the Cardinals—11 victories in 11 games—with a 12-5 decision despite five St. Louis home runs. New York Giants shaded Chicago Cubs 10-9 in the only other National League action.

New York Yankees moved 9½ games in front of the faltering Chicago White Sox as they tripped the Sox 3-2 at Chicago. Cleveland resumed its winning ways at the expense of Boston Red Sox 13-3 and Detroit defeated Philadelphia Athletics 7-5. St. Louis Browns and Washington weren't scheduled. The third-place Indians are within a game of the White Sox and 10½ behind New York.

BUMS GET 17 HITS

The St. Louis home runs at Brooklyn were all of Preacher Roe who survived only because his mates backed him with a 17-hit assault. The record for home runs off one pitcher in a game is six. Steve Bilko hit two, Stan Musial, Harry Elliott and Rip Repulski one each. The outburst ran the Cards' homer total for the year to 120, a club record.

Sal Maglie, one-time ace of the Giants, failed again against the Cubs, but the New Yorkers came from behind and won in the eighth.

Mickey Mantle's 17th homer made the difference for the Yankees over the White Sox. For a brief spell it looked as if the Chicagoans were going to come up with one of their patented late inning rallies in the seventh, but they could score only one run after loading the bases with none out.

Early Wynn struck out 10 in winning his 16th game for Cleveland. The 13-hit Indian attack included Al Rosen's 36th home run.

Gus Zernial of Philadelphia passed Rosen with a pair of homers, his 36th and 37th, off Detroit's Ned Garver. Fine relief work by Ray Herbert silenced the A's from the fifth on and the Tigers came from behind to win.

Red Wings Win Over Cubs To Extend Lead

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Rochester Red Wings extended their lead atop the International League Tuesday night, dumping Springfield Indians 9-7.

Montreal Royals moved into a virtual second-place tie with Buffalo Bisons but both teams are still 3½ games off the pace set by the Wings. The Royals downed the Bisons 7-4.

In other games, Baltimore Orioles defeated Syracuse Chiefs 5-3 and Ottawa Athletics shaded Toronto Maple Leafs 4-3.

At Buffalo, the fast-moving Royals picked up their eighth triumph in nine starts while the Bisons were dropping their fourth straight.

The Royals pounded out 14 hits for the second consecutive night in making it 10 victories in 15 starts against the Herd this season. Ed Roebuck allowed nine hits, walked only one and fanned seven for his 14th victory.

Earl Harrist, never victorious against the Royals, suffered his eighth straight setback at their hands.

61ST APPEARANCE

Jack Crimian made his 61st relief appearance of the season for the Wings and held the cubs to three hits in 4 1-3 innings for his 13th victory against four losses.

Allie Clark and Lou Ortiz sparked the Red Wing 13-hit attack that beat Gene Tarabilda.

At Syracuse, Bob Greenwood and Kent Peterson combined to pitch a six-hitter for Baltimore. Greenwood was knocked out in the sixth but Peterson pitched one-hit ball the rest of the game.

Relief pitcher Vince Gohl shattered a ninth-inning rally to give Ottawa their victory. The Leafs loaded the bases on two walks and a single in the final inning but Frank Colman, coming to bat with two out, went down swinging.

Joe Taylor and Lou Limmer each figured in two Ottawa runs. Limmer tripled home Taylor in the second and then scored on Jake Spruill's single. Taylor singled home Walt Rogers in the third and Taft Wright doubled home the fourth Ottawa run in the fifth.

Dane Nips Morea In Upset At Forest Hills

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (CP)—Torben Ulrich, the bearded Dane, registered an upset in the United States tennis championships Tuesday by turning back Enrique Morea of Argentina, 7-5, 6-2, 6-4. Morea was seeded sixth among foreign entrants, Ulrich unseeded.

U. S. Davis Cupper Straight Clark of Pasadena was forced to extend himself to defeat Bob Perry, 20-year-old student from Los Angeles 6-4, 6-3, 1-6, 7-5.

Two more Canadians were knocked out, leaving only Lorne Main of Vancouver, who plays in the third round today.

Paul Willey of Vancouver was quickly dispatched by Grant Golden of Wilmette, Ill., 6-4, 6-3, 6-2.

But Bob Bedard of Sherbrooke, Que., battled hard before succumbing to Andy Paton of Ann Arbor, Mich. Bob took the first two sets and carried the third to 22 games. The scores were 3-6, 7-9, 12-10, 6-2, 6-3 for Paton.

U.S. veteran Gardnar Mulloy took things easy in the oppressive heat and scarcely left the baseline in defeating Richard C. Squires of Bronxville, N.Y., 6-2, 6-3, 6-1.

Little Maureen Connolly, defending women's champion from San Diego, Calif., streaked through her second-round match with Patricia Stewart of Indianapolis 6-3, 6-1, and Mrs. Thelma Long of Australia, No. 1 foreign woman player, eliminated Mrs. Dorothy Levine of Chicago 6-2, 6-2.

Medical Team To Sum Up Knowledge Of Blood Supply

MONTREAL (CP)—Two Americans and four European doctors today are to sit around a conference table in the University of Montreal to see if they can sum up for fellow scientists what is known about the part played by heart and lungs in regulating and controlling a human's blood supply.

Professor C. Heymans of Belgium is to preside over the symposium, one of six being presented at the 19th International Physiological Congress this week. Prof. Heymans has been responsible for much of the pioneer work in this field.

He and some of his colleagues in Europe have already found that changes in tension and the resistance to stretching put up by arteries seem to play a part in keeping blood pressure down.

The symposium also is to include Professors C. F. Schmidt of the University of Pennsylvania and O. Krayer of Harvard; S. G. Dawes of Oxford's Nuffield Institute for medical research, D. Whitteridge of the University of Edinburgh, and Y. Zotterman of Stockholm will make up the quartet from Europe.

Summaries, issued by the congress, of the findings to be presented at this symposium, indicated that scientists had at least a few more steps to take before they could completely explain how the blood flow was regulated.

But one of them, the Scotsman from Edinburgh, who specializes in studying minute nerve fibres thought to be of importance in regulating the heart and lungs, was a little more optimistic. He agreed there were still a number of stray nerves as yet uncharted, but he thought an all-out effort to trace the others "should clear up many of our present difficulties."

The English member of the panel Dr. Dawes, said reflexes from the heart and lungs seemed to cause a fall in blood pressure, a drop in the rate at which the heart beats, or a complex change in breathing.

They resulted in "dramatic and sometimes well-nigh disastrous" effects on circulation and breathing when stimulated by injection of drugs.

Dr. Dawes added:

"One may indeed wonder whether these reflexes do serve any useful purpose in normal life."

Some 2,000 physiologists, experts in the interior goings-on of animals and human beings, have come from 42 countries to attend the congress, which ends Friday.

Professor Alan C. Burton of the University of Western Ontario explained Tuesday what prevents blood jamming as it courses through inside small blood vessels inside the human body.

He said his studies showed four different types of tissue, or coverings, in blood vessels. They varied in proportion in different parts of the body but they all played a role in spreading blood through these vessels.

When the walls of blood vessels were diseased, control of the blood flow was disturbed.

Find Glasses Don't Dim Maxwell Charm

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—It's time for a final burial of Dorothy Parker's old couplet that "men seldom make passes at girls who wear glasses."

Marilyn Maxwell is just the girl to do it. The well-built blonde even posed for cheater cheesecake to prove that glasses don't detract from a girl's attraction for the opposite sex.

Marilyn wears glasses for a very sensible reason: She says she's blind as a bat" without them. "My brother could be sitting in the booth over there," she remarked, pointing across the Brown Derby aisle, "and I wouldn't recognize him without my glasses."

On her, glasses look good. And what's more, they don't seem to keep off the wolves.

NEVER MADE DIFFERENCE

"I wear glasses wherever I go," she remarked, "and they've never seemed to stop men from making passes."

Marilyn's eye troubles stem back to the time she was 14. "My vision was okay until then," she related. "I think it might have gone bad because I started working in night clubs. I had to catch up on my school work in whatever I used for a dressing room and usually the lighting was bad to read by.

She now has myopia in one eye and astigmatism in the other. She always keeps four pairs of glasses, two dark and two clear, in case she loses one. And she always wears them except when she is performing.

DEPENDS ON EARS

"When I'm doing a stage show, it isn't bad," she said. "The audience is like a fourth wall; I don't need to see them. As long as I can hear the laughter and applause, I know I'm doing okay.

"It used to be hard at MGM because I couldn't see the chalk marks on the floor that showed where I was supposed to stand. So the boys worked up a system for Esther Williams and me—she can't see, either. They put a couple of small boards on the floor. When our feet hit them, we stopped."

Lindsay Couple Wed 50 Yrs.

Mr. and Mrs. James O'Neill, 18 Melbourne St., Lindsay, celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary recently. The former Theresa Powers and James O'Neill were married at St. Luke's Church, Downeyville, by the Rev. F. Brotherton in 1903 and farmed in Emily township until retiring to Lindsay eight years ago.

Mr. O'Neill is in his 87th year and his wife is about 10 years younger. Their children number eight, six boys and two girls, and all were present at the celebration, with their families. There are 19 grandchildren.

The day began with a High Mass celebrated by Monsignor J. V. McCauley at St. Mary's Church and was followed by a dinner with some 70 guests, held on the lawn. Many individual gifts were presented to the couple including a wall crucifix and a golden anniversary clock. The family presented a damask chesterfield suite.

Present at the celebration were the children, Dominic of Chicago, Francis, Detroit; Patrick of Peterborough; Stafford, William and Victor of Toronto; Mrs. J. W. Diggins (Shiela) Toronto and Genevieve at home. Immediate relatives attending were Mrs. O'Neill's only sister Mrs. Isaac Cook of Oakville and two brothers, William Powers of Downeyville and Joseph Powers of Peterborough. Mr. O'Neill's two sisters, Rev. Sister Carmelita, St Joseph's Convent, Toronto, and Mrs. Margaret Morrissey, Downeyville and three brothers George, Michael and John of Downeyville were also present.

Mr. O'Neill is the third brother in his family to celebrate a Golden Wedding anniversary in the past two years.

Food Problem Hits N.S. Tourist Places

HALIFAX (CP)—Hash or hallbut?

The answer could well cut a good slice out of Nova Scotia's $24,000,000 yearly tourist income.

From countless reports made by tourists, it appears they have two main beefs: The condition of secondary roads and the lack of top eating spots, especially those serving native fish dishes.

The highways are being improved steadily by the government, but the problem of eating spots is the big one and most difficult to tackle.

Fifteen per cent of reporting tourists list food as their main complaint, making it a problem big enough to warrant serious attention. A 15 per cent cut in tourist income, for instance, would be $3,600,000.

Despite steady efforts to improve such eating places, however, the majority of the province's establishments are still classed as only "fair" by visitors. Of course there are exceptions, and these draw praise from the other 85 per cent.

DON'T WANT HELP

A few years ago the government brought in a top Quebec chef and offered him to any hotel or resort in the province, free of charge, to advise on food improvement. There was only one taker.

For several years the government operated a three-day short course for hotel operators, at which proper preparation of food was emphasized. It was dropped because it was felt the extent of application of the lessons taught did not warrant the cost.

Tourist officials have found an indifference among many places toward the food served. They cater to the local population first and travellers second and consider the most important thing to attract business is a juke box in the corner.

Anglican Dioceses Become Self-Supporting: NS Bishop

FORT WILLIAM (CP)—Canada's 28 Anglican dioceses are gradually becoming self-supporting, Rt. Rev. Robert Harold, bishop of Nova Scotia, said Monday night.

He was addressing the executive council of the general synod of the Church of England in Canada, which is meeting here.

Calgary had given up $3,000 in grants this year and has become self-supporting. Bishop Harold said there now are 14 assisted and 14 non-assisted dioceses in the country.

He reported that dioceses have accepted apportionments totalling $526,624 for 1953 and $550,166 for 1954. The executive agreed to grants of $470,928 for the missionary society, $37,839 for the board of religious education, $30,000 for social services and $17,150 for interchurch activities.

The synod confirmed the retirement of Canon R. A. Hiltz of Toronto as executive secretary. He became ill in February and has since been acting in an advisory capacity.

900,000 Pupils Return After September 7

TORONTO (CP)—Ontario schools reopen next Tuesday after the summer holidays. Education Minister Dunlop said Tuesday no schools will be closed due to a shortage of teachers.

There will be 900,000 pupils in Ontario elementary and secondary schools this year, 60,000 more than last year.

Ready to teach them will be 2,300 new teachers, some of them products of emergency teacher-training programs.

About 170 new schools have been built during the last 12 months at a toal cost of $47,500,000.

4 Drivers Jailed For Besetting

KITCHENER (CP)—Four transport drivers were convicted Tuesday of besetting and each was sentenced to one week in jail.

They were George Shmidt, Robert Hope and Stewart Carter of Kitchener, and James Elliott of New Hamburg.

Charges of besetting against Reid C. Crawford, and Laverne Ellis of Kitchener and Leo Furlong of Waterloo were dismissed.

Other charges against the seven arising out of the same incident during the recent strike of southwestern Ontario truck drivers were adjourned until Sept. 29.

In handing down his judgment, magistrate J. R. H. Kirkpatrick said: "Admittedly it is the worst position I have ever faced on the bench. The men before me are normally law abiding citizens but they sought to inflict their will on men not associated with the strike, and to keep them from lawfully performing their duties."

Dies In 100th Year

WALKERTON (CP)—A former resident of Tara, who would have been 100 years old this month, died Monday at the Bruce county home. Mrs. Eliza Grant died 27 days short of her 100th birthday. Mrs. Grant came to Aaran township as a youngster, living with her parents near Arkwright. The family later moved to St. Vincent township near Thornbury. Following her husband's death in 1942 Mrs. Grant moved to Tara.

Alberta Polio Toll Rises To 20 Deaths

EDMONTON (CP) — Alberta's official polio death toll stood at 20 today, with 21 deaths reported unofficially. Health authorities here said they were still awaiting confirmation of the death of a two-year-old girl reported Monday night at Calgary.

There have been 373 cases of the disease reported in Alberta so far this year compared to 329 cases and 33 deaths reported at the corresponding date last year.

CROSS OF SACRIFICE—The Cross of Sacrifice in the Canadian section of Brookwood cemetery, England, was unveiled by Field Marshal Lord Alexander. He laid a wreath as patron of the Canadian Veterans Association of the United Kingdom. Countess Alexander laid a wreath on behalf of the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire.

HEAVENLY BLUES

Heavenly blue morning glories are thriving in this weather. Hundreds of them seemed to be reflecting the unclouded sky this morning on a Lafayette St. verandah. The portulacca in red and yellow apparently love the sun, and in the country the golden rod refuses to wilt.

HOOKS BIG ONE

While staying at Sherman Graham's cottages on Deer Bay last week, Mrs. Malcolm Kunselman of Freeport, Penn., hooked a 21-pound 44-inch muskie. She was fishing with her husband, son and daughter when she hooked the fish while trolling. With help from hubby, she landed the muskie in 15 minutes.

TRACTOR HOT SPOT

Certainly not the coolest of spots Tuesday afternoon were the seats of agricultural tractors. Heat coming off the engine one junior farmer commented, wasn't moderated by the occasional light breeze that strayed across fields. And, incidentally, plowing tractors were comparatively few.

REFILL FROM RIVER

The board of works street flushing equipment is being refilled directly from Little Lake and Otonabee River. It seems that some of the householders have been pointing fingers at this service as a drain on the water from the filtration plant. So, as a concession to opinion and odd bits of criticism, the flusher pumps are being put to use for refilling purpose.

THOUSANDS OF SWALLOWS

Swallows are evidently getting ready for their long autumn flight. A great assembly of them was seen late Tuesday afternoon on telephone wires just west of the Ennismore end of the Chemong Lake causeway. There appeared to be several thousands of them, almost wing to wing. The season of migration is close at hand. They know some how or other, perhaps instinctively, that

Student Worked Summer In Western Oil Fields

Dick Rutherford, 328 London St., has just returned from Camrose, Alta., after spending three months in the oil-fields as a 'roughneck' and 'cat-head' man. No he hasn't been up to any mischief, those are simply oil workers' slang terms for various jobs in a drilling crew.

There are two 'roughnecks' on each drilling team, and, according to Dick, they are the men who handle the tongs with which the drilling pipe is inserted and joined. A 'cat-head' man is next position in the five man 'rig' team and it is his job to manipulate the pulley composed of a barrel type object (cat-head), encircled by a few rounds of rope and capable of adding tremendously to the lifting power of one man.

The "cat-head" is used to move heavy pipe and similar objects.

The two remaining men on the team are the derrick man and the drill man, who is in charge.

$1.50 AN HOUR

The hourly wage of a "roughneck" is $1.50, with a 25c jump for a "cat-head" man. Working a steady 48 hours per week affords a fat cheque every two weeks, but the cost of living is in the same bracket.

the town of Camrose had a population of about 1,000 people and didn't seem to be going anywhere, said Dick, but since the discovery of oil the population has jumped to 3,000 and is just beginning to level off. Although a two to three year period is the maximum for growth of an oil town, as that is when the drill crews and workers come in, the population doesn't dwindle after the first rush.

This is the fault to be encountered with booms in many other fields. Once the oil has been located the flow usually continues for years and men are required to handle pumps, storage tanks and general repair. Consequently small business stores are established to provide these men and their families and the town becomes permanently enlarged.

The process of drilling for oil is a costly one and the geologists are responsible for the exact locating of test drills. It is impossible to always strike oil, but "three out of five drillings produce some oil and one out of fire prove to be good producers." For a well to be profitable, it must produce from 50 to 100 barrels per day.

Gushers are not frequently encountered in the western Canadian fields, and this is the big difference between them and Texas and Oklahoma fields where oil burst from the drill spouts with tremendous force and continued to spurt wealth like water from a big city fire hose until the perilous operation of capping was completed.

SEEPAGE OIL

Oil in the western provinces is of the seepage variety, that is, it is contained in sand and comes to the surface only because of the natural gas and earth pressure above it. The sand in which it is contained is similar to a sponge and it gives up its produce in a slow, steady flow.

In contrast, the wells of the southern states were fed by underground pools of pure oil, and when the drills broke into their cap, the fluid was released with intense energy.

Even with the slower immediate output of oil in Saskatchewan, Alberta and Manitoba, the government has set a quota on the amount of oil to be piped to refineries at one time.

"Natural gas is usually found either with or without oil in the ground so far drilled, but until sufficient piping is installed, there is no sale of the substance. Gas is emitted in quantities of up to 5,000,000 cubic feet per day, but at present this is all being capped.

"There is plenty of opportunity out there for any fellow and the best place in the world to obtain a quick stake. In two years a conservative minded person can save $10,000. In fact, there are a number of fellows about 22 years old who own a home and a car."

Dick is returning to the Royal Military College at Kingston to finish his last year for a mechanical engineering degree, and when asked if he would return to the west, his answer was indefinite. But he admits that he gained a great deal of practical knowledge for his summer spent in the oil fields.

Ernest Shirley CGE Engineer Ends Career

Ernest R. Shirley, 319 Frederick Ave., engineer with the switchgear department of Canadian General Electric Company will be the guest of associates at the Kawartha Club Thursday night on the eve of his retirement and the end of his career with the company on Friday.

For fifteen years Mr. Shirley was member of the Peterborough Utilities Commission, and it was in that position he was probably best known to the general public. He was the second of three electrical enigneers of C.G.E. to accept nomination for that municipal body. Charles E. Sisson, who afterwards went with the company in Toronto, Mr. Shirley and now Dr. Gordon R. Langley, received the elector's trust at the polls and returned with fine records. Dr. Langley is now in the second year of a first three year term.

ASSOCIATES

Mr. Shirley was associated on the Commission with Gordon S. Matthews, G. A. MacDonald, the late Wm. H. Bradburn, Roland Denne, E. F. Mason, John Crane. His professional knowledge and experience as an electrical engineer was of special value to the Commission in matters relating to the electrical department. He was a studious, cooperative and modest Commissioner through the years from 1927 to 1941 when he was succeeded by Fred Hills.

In his first year he was associated with Mr. Matthews and Mr. Bradburn. Comparatively few changes in the membership are recalled during the following 15 years. Mr. Crane succeeded Mr. Bradburn, in 1928, and Mr. Denne took Mr. Crane's seat in 1936.

DURING DEPRESSION

Mr. Shirley was a Commissioner during the difficult years of depression when concern was given to many people who were unemployed. It is probably a fact that the accountant was instructed to cancel quite a number of accounts after some years of trying to collect bills due for water and light. That was a time when many householders were facing the worry of retaining possession of their homes.

During that same troubled span, the Commission installed the off-peak water heater control, flat rate for those heaters and free range servicing, as means of promoting its business.

Mr. Shirley first went to the C.G.E. in 1903, terminating that early connection eventually to take the electrical engineering course at Queen's University after practical experience in the test department. After his graduation from Queen's he was employed in Quebec and northern Ontario and returned to the C.G.E. in 1917. He is now coming to the end of 35 years of continuous service in the Peterborough works.

He was elected to the Utilities Commission in 1927 and was re-elected for four three-year terms until 1941. It is understood that a presentation is being made to Mr. Shirley at the Kawartha Club luncheon Thursday night.

Tax Payments Come In At Faster Rate

City tax collections to date are up one and a third per cent over the same period last year.

Payment of the second instalment was due August 28. Total amount collected to that date was $2,029,102.36, or 72.09 per cent of the $2,814,389.43 on the 1953 roll, city treasurer A. S. Couper announced today.

By August 28, 1952., the total amount collected was $1,919,854.78 or 70.76 per cent of the $2,712,954.77 on tahe 1952 roll.

These totals are for taxes levied during the current year only, and do not include collection of arrears of taxes.

The third and last instalment of taxes is due October 1 in the south and centre wards, October 8 in the west and north wards, and October 15 in the east and Claraday wards.

Griffith's Wife Doesn't Wait Runs To Plane

TORONTO (CP)—Ten returned Canadian prisoners of war flew into Malton airport today on the last stages of their journey to freedom from the Communist prison camps in Korea they left a week ago.

For some whose homes are in Ontario it was the journey's end; their wives and families met them at the airport.

The Ontario men are Pte. Donald Watson of Toronto; Pte. Willis Cranston of Hamilton; Pte. Orland Griffiths of Brighton; L.Cpl. Donald Orson of Ridgetown; Pte. Eugene Fields of Windsor; and Pte. Kenneth Dane of Grand Bend.

Four others flew east.

One young wife could not wait for her husband to get off the plane. Mrs. Barbara Griffiths rushed out on the airstrip into the arms of her husband George. She and George's parents had been waiting at the airport for more than three hours. The plane was 70 minutes late.

Pte. Willis Cranston's family came from Hamilton in a taxi but arrived 20 minutes after the plane had landed. And about the first thing that Mrs. Archie Cranston said to her son was: "You've still got those big boots on."

Pte. Fields will board the train for Windsor today to go home to his family.

Most of the men were tired and nervous and reluctant to speak of their experiences in Korea.

HOT TIME IN COURT

Short work was made of cases in magistrate's court today when about five cases were adjourned and two pleas of guilty taken. Lawyers and court officials were noticeably uncomfortable in their ties and suit coats as a result of the heat and lost no time in bringing the sitting to an early end.

Cow Goes Berserk In Heat, Steady, Humans

By PHIL CALDER

The grass withereth, the leaf turneth sear, and the cow almost jumpeth over the moon.

All this—and spots before the sweating eyeballs — as August went out like a blast from Vulcan's forge this week and September came in with barely enough rain to spot the dust-laden hood of the family automobile.

The current heat wave entered its second week today with the thermometer registering 89 degrees in Peterborough at noon, and still climbing towards yesterday's high of 94 degrees. A glance at the barometer revealed it was keeping a steady 29.3 inches, so there was no relief indicated by that pesky instrument

Roomers at the YMCA found some relief by deserting their rooms and sleeping out in Confederation park.

About the cow—she was smart. She went crazy and was shot.

Bossy was destined for more scientific extinction at Canada Packers Tuesday, but cheated the usual fate of her species and jumped from the truck as it was nearing the plant on George St.

The cow roared along Crescent St. sending pedestrians flying for nearby verandahs. One sight of the beast's flashing horns and any dream of becoming a potential toreador—even with a cow in opposition—disappeared in the heat-laden air, until the arrival of two members of the police department.

PHONED FOR HELP

Frightened residents of the district telephoned for the police, and PCs Grant Gillespie and Jack Wilson were dispatched to the arena which by this time consisted of a backyard on Lake St. Here Bossy had apparently pulled a Ferdinand and was munching a tuft of grass. But one look at the two policemen and the cow began to revert to its earlier mental state.

Without pausing for psychoanalysis, PC Gillespie administered the type of shock treatment guaranteed to bring any case history to an abrupt end. One shot from the policeman's rifle and the cow sank to the ground, no longer a prey to the merciless heat.

But bovine mental aberrations were not the only problem raised by the heat.

With no rain for more than a week, other than one or two light showers that wouldn't drown a fly, lawns began to turn to yellow patches of crinkly grass and even some trees began to shed their leaves.

LEAVES TURNING

In Confederation Park, the grass, dry as it had become, was today covered with a layer of crisp brown leaves as several of the trees stood bare and bleak as in midwinter.

Desperate efforts of residents to keep life in their lawns and gardens by drenching them with extra water had to be cut down by the Peterborough Utilities Commission, who had for days held off an order to curtail use of garden hoses and lawn sprinklers in the hope that Nature might provide her own relief in the form of rain.

But as the amount of water pumped by the city waterworks reached a record peak, the order had to be issued. During August, the total pumpage reached 189,900,000 gallons, compared with only 159,900,000 gallons during the same month last year, an increase of 30,000,000 gallons.

Details of the curtailment order are carried elsewhere in today's Examiner.

With grasslands parched, Fire Chief William Sorrie issued a warning to residents to refrain from burning rubbish, wherever possible, as the fire department has had to deal with a number of grass fires in the past few days.

Residents of areas recently annexed to the city particularly were reminded they must telephone the fire department at 5713, in order to get permission to burn rubbish. Permission is normally granted every day except Monday until 6:00 p.m. in order not to blacken the neighbors' washing.

REFRESHMENT

While the birds, bees and flowers were at least partially prevented from slaking their thirst, humans turned meanwhile to other forms of refreshment.

One soft drink distributor reported last week was his busiest of the year. Although he had put three extra employees on trucks, he was still a little behind schedule as he encountered some difficulty obtaining a full supply of goods. He was hoping to catch up on current orders by the weekend.

Another distributor had put his summer help back to work this week. They usually take a week's holidays before returning to school, but the demand for soft drinks was so great this week they were required back on the trucks.

A third said that even although some of the resort areas in Haliburton district had closed down, total sales for the entire area were still at the July level, with consumption up in cities and towns.

Other people, more adventurous perhaps, went schoonering as the beer market held firm.

"Escapees" Found

COBOURG (ENS)—Looking for the escaped prisoners from Collins Bay penitentiary, Constables L. Hoskelson and Homer Seale found two other "escapees" Tuesday morning. The constables shone their flashlights in a routine check of the inside of a freight car and found two 12-year-old lads crouched in a corner. It turned out that the boys had run away from their homes in Montreal. They were lodged with the Children's Aid Society in Port Hope until their return to Montreal.

FIRE HALL VISITOR

Gray Burnett, of the Ottawa fire department, was a visitor at the local fire hall today. Mr. Burnett, former chief of the Ottawa department, also visited Chief Allan Clark of Lakefield, in connection with the forthcoming combined annual conferences of the International and Canadian Associations of Fire Chiefs in Toronto, September 14 to 18. Chief Clark is secretary-treasurer of the Canadian association. Chief William Sorrie of Peterborough will attend the convention.

Use Of Water Restricted By Utilities

Sections of City Allowed To Water Separate Nights

Hot dry weather has forced the Utilities Commission to place restrictions on use of water until further notice.

The restrictions imposed are on lawn and garden watering and are as follows: lawn and garden watering will be permitted in Ashburnham Monday and Thursday, west of the river and north of Sherbrooke St., Tuesday and Friday, west of the river and south of Sherbrooke St. Wednesday and Saturday.

No lawn or garden watering will be permitted on Sunday.

Reason for the restrictions is not a shortage of water. The commissions filtration beds and pumps can handle only so much water daily. At present consumption is double and sometimes triple the normal demand.

HIGH PUMPAGE

During the past week, pumpage has reached a peak rate of 13,000,000 gallons daily, considerable in excess of what the waterworks plant is designed to deliver.

During August total pumpage reached 189,900,000 gallons, as opposed to 159,900,0000 during August, 1952.

A commission spokesman said today that the commission relies on the citizens' sense of fairness in the matter, and asks their cooperation.

Three new filters beds will be ready at the waterworks soon, but until they are completed, there is no possibility of increasing gallonage without lowering the purity of the water being delivered and placing excessive strain on the pumps.

The waterworks plant is designed to meet conditions that may arise above normal, but not for the pumpage peaks occurring in long periods of hot, dry weather.

Wants Name RN Deserter Gives Self Up

VANCOUVER (CP) — A hard-rock miner who made a hard decision says he is risking his life for the right to use his own name.

Ivor Hughes, 35-year-old Welshman, has lived for 12 years behind the name of a childhood friend—Alan Medd.

Now he's lodged in the Canadian Navy detention barracks here, a prisoner, but under his own name.

Hughes is a self-admitted deserter from the Royal Navy, a crime which, since it occurred in 1941, during wartime, could mean his life.

Royal amnesty, declared by the Queen to mark her Coronation, may save the 200-pound redhead. If it does, there's still a matter of illegal entry hanging over his head, naval officials said.

"DON'T WANT U.K."

As for Hughes: "I hope I don't have to go back to the U.K. I have a father and brother in Wales, but I like Canada. If the navy over there wants me, I'll try to return as soon as I'm free."

He gave himself up to Vancouver city police Sunday. His reason?

"I did it because I wanted my own name back."

Police investigated, then turned him over to authorities at HMCS Discovery. Tuesday he was allowed to tell his story to reporters.

Briefly, it was this:

He joined the RN the day war was declared and served until November, 1941, when he jumped ship in Capetown.

JOINED ENGINEERS

"There was a guy on the boat I was having trouble with."

A week later he enlisted with the South African engineers as Private Alan Medd and served in North Africa and Italy. His honorable discharge in 1946 was followed by two years in South Africa. In 1948 he sailed to Montreal.

A year in Canada and he enlisted again, this time in the Royal Canadian Regiment. Then followed 13 months in Korea and another honorable discharge—in Vancouver last May.

From Vancouver, Alan Medd, civilian, or Signalman Ivor Hughes, deserter, RN, went north to the mountain-moving aluminum project at Kemano, B.C.

That was until three weeks ago, when Alan Medd determined to become Ivor Hughes again.

Police Break Up African Ambush

BLANTYRE, Nyasaland (Reuters)—A police patrol Tuesday killed two Africans and injured three others when it shot its way out of an ambush at Chitera, native area in southern Nyasaland.

Police reinforcements arrived later, and the spear-wielding Africans retreated into the bush.

The 50-man patrol was surrounded while on its way to break up a meeting of about 1,000 called to depose the local tribal chief. None of the police was hurt.

When the reinforcements arrived, steel-helmeted police started a house-to-house search, with Southern Rhodesian single-engine planes watching the surrounding district for further groups of demonstrators.

Chitera has been the scene of rioting in the last week. Tuesday's clash brought to five the number of Africans killed since disturbances began in the British protectorate Aug. 18.

U. Of Montreal Doctor Heads Medical Group

MONTREAL (CP)—Dr. E. Robillard of the University of Montreal was elected Tuesday as president of the Canadian Physiological Society for 1953-54. He succeeds Dr. J. Collip of the University of Western Ontario.

J. M. Beveridge of Queen's University was elected secretary.

Jail Truck Driver, 32 Week For Obstructing

HAMILTON (CP)—Michael Arnott, 32, Tuesday was sent to jail for seven days on a charge of obstructing arising out of the recent truck strike.

Arnott was convicted of forcing [illegible] to obtain from occurred Aug. 28, when Arnott was struck by a picket.

Sgt. William Sanderson said Arnott jumped on Boecker's running board, opened the door and lunged into the cab.

Injured By Tractor

TILLSONBURG (CP) — Edward Sequin, 29, of Port Colborne is in Tillsonburg Hospital with rib and chest injuries and body bruises suffered when a tractor rolled over him on the tobacco farm of James Mabee, one mile east of Vienna. The tractor turned over four or five times as it rolled down a gulley. Sequin stayed with it until it finally came to rest.

Bread Price Up Cent

WINNIPEG (CP)—The price of bread went up one cent Tuesday in most independent and chain stores in Winnipeg. Price for a 16-ounce, wrapped loaf now is 15 cents or two loaves for 29 cents. The former price was 14 cents or two for 27.

Max Diamond, head of the Associated Retail Grocers, said the increase is up to the individual grocer.

EIGHT MEN SAVED—The eight-man crew of this partly submerged Lancaster bomber was rescued after the plane crashed into a lake in northern Manitoba on a routine flight to Churchill, Man., from Rockcliffe, Ont. The plane and its crew were spotted by an RCAF search team after a seven-day hunt.

The paper said Tuesday it is estimated construction and acquisition of new machines will cost more than $1,000,000. Le Droit, founded 40 years ago, now occupies a building on Dalhousie street. The new premises will be near the northeast corner of Rideau and Nelson streets.

Agriculture Starts Stand At CNE With Food Day

By JIM PEACOCK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — Agriculture begins its long stand at the Canadian National Exhibition today, while the cooks and would-be cooks get a first-hand look at everything in food products.

Today is Food Products and Merchants Day at the Ex, but it is probable that a few carpenters will also get some work. Tuesday, in the first accident the CNE has reported, the roof of an old building on the grounds caved in, sending 15 persons scurrying to safety.

The Graphic Arts building, one of the oldest on the grounds and housing a few Red Cross workers, finally gave in. The roof sagged, but a ceiling kept falling pieces from injuring any of those inside. The building has been closed.

Elsewhere Tuesday, 26 vintage autos, dating from the 1900 Orient Buckboard owned by Joe Simard of Montreal to the 1927 Russell belonging to J. Hariman of Toronto, paraded before a packed grandstand.

Continuing hot and humid temperatures kept attendance down to 171,500 against 189,000 the same day last year.

Defence Minister Claxton and Mrs. Claxton are to visit the CNE today, making a general tour of the grounds and inspecting the armed services display.

In agriculture, sheep will hold sway. Judging of fleece wool starts in the early morning and Cotswolds and Leicesters go on review later in the day.

Sports activities today are confined to running off ties in water skiing and Olympic training. The world championship water skiing competitions are scheduled Thursday.

Mr. Simard and his Orient Buckboard won two of the 11 titles and cash awards offered the 26 entrants in the parade of ancient cars. His car won the most unique title and was also the oldest on show.

Joseph Gest of Montreal, with a 1905 Ford, had the best pre-1906 model in the parade; Mrs. A. C. Belf, Detroit, with a 1910 Maxwell, topped the two-cylinder entries; H. Wiebe, Kitchener, won the best one-cylinder award with a 1907 Brush; Al Craig, Toronto, driving a Tudhope-MacIntyre of 1904, had the best high-wheeler.

Other prize winners were:

Safest and most roadworthy: Neil Kennedy, Cobourg, 1910 Buick.

Best restored car: T. Popovich Welland, 1924 Ford.

Hanover Boys Drown In Saugeen River

HANOVER, Ont. (CP) — Walter Ward, 18, and his brother, Garvin, 16, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Garvin Ward of Hanover, were drowned Tuesday night while swimming in the Saugeen river at the back of their farm on the outskirts of the town.

When the pair failed to return from their swim, two brothers, Joseph and Jack, set out to look for them and found their clothing on the river bank.

Relatives said Walter could swim but that Garvin was just learning.

Police, firemen and neighbors aided in the search for the boys. Their bodies were recovered and artificial respiration was applied for three quarters of an hour.

Jail Oshawa Youth For 100 M.P.H Speeding

TORONTO (CP) — An Oshawa youth who police said drove 100 miles an hour in east-end Toronto where the speed limit is 30 was sentenced Tuesday to 15 days in jail on a charge of dangerous driving. In addition, the youth, Laurie Leger, 23, was fined $100 and costs or an additional 30 days.

Constable Van Winkle said in court:

"At 3 a.m. today we stopped a car travelling east on Kingston road at 60 miles an hour. We warned the driver about his speed but soon afterwards we noticed this car passing us at 80 miles an hour. The auto actually got up to 100 miles an hour."

1st Israel Envoy Comes To Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP)—A tall, South African-born lawyer took his place Tuesday as Israel's first minister to Canada.

And in a shirt-sleeved press conference in blistering heat, Michael Saul Comay embarked with some enthusiasm on one of the jobs he has set himself—telling Canadians about the growth and development of Israel, his country by choice.

Mr. Comay, 45, met the press after presenting his credentials to the deputy governor-general, Mr. Justice C. H. Locke, at a formal ceremony at the Supreme Court Buildings. The formality ended there.

He said he hopes to accomplish several things here but chiefly to build up relations between Israel and Canada. Israel is "intensely" interested in foreign affairs and shares the Canadian viewpoint about them.

Canada is an important source of supply to Israel. She sends about $15,000,000 worth of goods, half of it wheat, to Israel yearly. Canadian purchases from Israel are about $1,000,000 a year but Mr. Comay said his country hopes to improve that.

Lake Shippers Close To Season's Ore Goal

CLEVELAND (AP) — Great Lakes freighters set a record pace in ore shipping in August and put themselves within easy reach of the season's goal of 100,000,000 tons.

The vessels hauled 15,236,527 tons of ore down the lakes last month, topping by 739,589 tons the record set in July.

This brought shipments to 65,791,836 tons, with about three months remaining in the lakes navigation season.

Provincial Aid $350

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario government intends to pay $250 for the education of each retarded child in school in the province, Education Minister Goodfellow said Tuesday.

He said the grants will be made available to parents' groups affiliated with the Ontario Association for Retarded Children. Classes are already in operation in 11 cities and will open in seven more this fall.

Climate Milder When Man First Settled Alaska

WASHINGTON, D.C.—A small Alaskan coastal valley may have been one of man's major stepping stones into North America 4,000 to 8,000 years ago. Human beings first occupied the site during a warm interval that presumably lasted several hundred years.

These are conclusions of a combined archeological - geological study of the Iyatayet Valley on Cape Denbigh, Alaska. Here, a few years ago, Dr. J. L. Giddings, Jr., of the University of Pennsylvania, found a considerable variety of flaked flint artifacts, including arrowheads, knives, skin scrapers, and primitive engraving tools. Among the artifacts are arrow or spearheads, similar in design to the now well-known Folsom points, which are characteristic of the first-known human occupants of the North American Continent. Similar points have later been found in several places in the interior of Alaska, but the Iyatayet site remains the largest assemblage yet discovered. The flint culture remains are found in a buried soil, called Podzol, which superficially resembles volcanic ash.

STUDY COMPLETED

An intensive study of the geology of the site now has been completed, in co-operation with Giddings, by Dr. D. M. Hopkins, of the U.S. Geological Survey. The findings have just been published by the Smithsonian Institution. They leave no question of the great antiquity of the remains, or of the fact that the climate was much milder when man first settled there.

These ancient men may have remained for a long time, perhaps using this settlement as a base for long hunting excursions inland. Other indications, however, are that this may have been a temporary bivouac which was repeatedly occupied.

Then, Dr. Hopkins finds, there was a long period of bitter cold during which there is no trace of human remains. This lasted, with one interval somewhat like the present, until about 2,000 years ago—in other words, until about 50 BC—when the climate appears to have become somewhat warmer than at present. Here, for the first time, appear artifacts characteristic of some of the first of the Eskimo race to come to this continent. Overlying them are artifacts of a later Eskimo group, quite similar to the present people of the Far North.

The men of 8,000 or more years ago, it is stressed, cannot be considered as Eskimos, who were relatively late arrivals. It now is generally admitted that man came out of Asia to North America by way of Alaska. Thence, presumably, he made his way southward. There is, in fact, evidence in southwestern United States of somewhat earlier occupancy than that afforded at Cape Denbigh. Thus, the Cape Denbigh site probably should be considered as only one of the ancient "ports of entry."

The material in the bottom layer consits chiefly of sparsely distributed flint flakes and artifacts. Recognizable organic remains are extremely scarce and consist of tiny fragments of charcoal and decomposed bone. No house floors or tent rings have been recognized, but a series of five hearths has been uncovered.

The distribution of the material, according to Dr. Giddings, is open to two interpretations. The site may have been occupied only during the winter when the ground was frozen too hard to allow stone or wood to penetrate the soil under the pressure of human feet. Another interpretation is that the site was occupied only during brief visits.

Nearly 1,500 artifacts have been found. They bear little resemblance to cultural materials generally recognized as Eskimo.

144 Boys And Girls Taught To Swim At Lions Club Pool

The Lions Club's swimming pool at Riverside park just isn't a place for children and grown-ups to escape the heat. Although pleasure swimming takes up a lot of time, swimming instruction to non-swimmers and swimmers takes up just about an equal amount of time.

Throughout the summer holidays, Monday through Saturdays, the children have been taught to swim by chief instructor Betty Merrett, assisted by Betty Thomson and Wilton Tranter.

This year they handled about 450 swimmers. Of this number there were 144 boys and girls who were taught to swim at least the width of the pool, 50 feet; these children were awarded red ribbons for the feat. Besides these there were 122 others who passed Red Gross tests.

Classes were taught for water safety beginners (a new Red Cross group), junior, intermediate and senior. There were tests held for each group, the water safety group by Miss Merrett, and the other three groups by Mrs. Pansy Forbes on behalf of the Red Cross.

Those who passed the tests are:

(1) Water Safety Beginner — Elaine Gilders, Sharon Leroux, Suzanne McCarthy, Adele Cavanagh, Carol Little, Marcelle Ryan, Barbara Forestell, Mary Jo Grady, Pamela Stevens, Carol Bell, Betty Johnston, Catherine Courneya, Alphone Moren, Roy Douglas, Terry Crowley, Lloyd Rowe, Bruce Williamson, Paul Powderley, Steven Thompson, Paul Armour, Sharon Griffin, Beverley MacDonald, Susan Sharpe, Jacqueline Keating, Mary Ann Cumberland, Margaret Rose O'Keefe, Marlene Guerin, Jean Mattucci, Judith McNeil.

Reds Want Bans Lifted On Travel

BERLIN (AP)—The Russians say the rival East and West German governments should get together on the question of easing travel restrictions between the two zones of divided Germany.

This was the substance of a note sent by Soviet High Commissioner Vladimir Semyenov to his British, French and American counterparts. It was made public Tuesday night by the Soviet-licensed news agency ADN.

Semyenov's message replied to proposals from the three Western allies suggesting an end to the interzonal pass system set up soon after the Second World War for persons desiring to cross the border.

It follows a line stressed by the Russians in recent weeks—that all such questions, including preparations for elections to unify the two zones, are matters for the two German governments to decide.

Employment Record Gains During June

OTTAWA (CP)—Yardsticks for measuring industrial employment and payrolls in Canada showed further gains on July 1, the bureau of statistics reported today.

The index for industrial employment, based on 1939 equalling 100, rose to 190.8 on July 1 from 187.5 on June 1 and 185.5 on July 1, last year.

The payrolls index, also based on 1939 equalling 100, incrased to 472.7 from 465.4 on June 1 and 426.3 on July 1, 1952.

The average weekly salary in industrial employment on July 1 rose to $57.58 from $53.96 last year. But this was a slight drop from $57.71 on June 1. The bureau said the decline in June is due to the employment of many season workers at lower rates of pay.

Britain Opposes Japan's Entry Into GATT

LONDON (AP)—Britain has decided to oppose early admission of Japan into the world body which governs trade and tariffs, informed sources said today.

British opposition will be voiced despite expected United States support of a plan to give Japan temporary membership in the 33-nation organization known as GATT (General Agreement on Trade and Tariffs).

GATT is due to meet in Geneva Sept. 17 to consider many questions of international business relationships. The position of Japan is one of these questions.

When the question comes up in Geneva, British delegates may be expected to say:

1. The low tariffs agred to for GATT nations in 197 would not have been granted had there been any question of Japan sharing them.

2. Japan's entry must come only after a full, free and frank discussion of her claims. Her admission on a temporary basis, in the British view would prejudice such a discussion.

3. Eventual Japanese admission must be preceded by ironclad safeguards that the Tokyo government will abide by international standards of fair employment and labor practices.

Britain well remembers the prewar days when she lost many world markets to the Japanese who dumped cheaply-produced goods in vast quantities. It is claimed Japan was able to do this only by resorting to cut-throat competitive methods and by paying workers low wages.

Lightning Starts Fires In Timmins District

TIMMINS — (CP)—Forest fires started by lightning are burning in the Cochrane district the lands and forests department reported today. Two have been brought under control and it is expected crews will be removed from Turnbull and Robb townships by plane.

The other fires are located in Moberly, Frecheville and Pamplugh townships. A further outbreak was reported this morning along the Lightning river. Its exact location has not been determined.

Arctic Food Need Near That Of Other Zones

MONTREAL (CP)—More than 100 perspiring members of the International Physiological Congress, crowded into a McGill university classroom, heard a Norwegian scientist report today that he found people living in the Arctic don't need much more than half the food it has been assumed they must eat.

In fact, he said, the food requirement is not much different from that of people in temperate climates.

Dr. K. Rodahl of Oslo said his studies in Alaska and elsewhere were made because in northern exploration and military planning it had been considered the minimum ration should contain 6,000 calories per man per day.

But white trappers in Greenland got along with 3,000 calories and miners in far-north Spitzbergen maintained weight on 4,500. In Alaska Dr. Rodahl found that, for United States armed forces personnel and for Eskimos, average consumption was between 3,000 and 3,500 calories.

He also found indications that people in the Arctic can prevent and even cure survy with little or no vitamin C in the diet. This was probably because changes in the digestive process in the body enabled it to abstract more acid from meat.

Truckers Appeal Jail Sentences

KITCHENER (CP) — The four truck drivers convicted of besetting when they appeared in court last Tuesday were granted bail today pending launching of appeals against their convictions.

The four are George Schmidt, Robert Hop and Stewart Carter of Kitchener, and James Elliott of New Hamburg.

Other charges against the four and three others arising out of the same incident during the recent strike of southwestern Ontario truck drivers will be heard Sept. 29.

The four paid in $50 cash bail to obtain their release. Each has been sentenced to a week in jail.

Pope Expands Church Organization In U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Pope has expanded the Roman Catholic church organization in the United States in a series of changes, including creation of two new dioceses in Connecticut and raising of the existing diocese of Hartford to the status of an archdiocese.

The diocese of Hartford, which formerly comprised the whole state of Connecticut, becomes an archdiocese and the present bishop, Henry J. O'Brien, becomes archbishop.

The new dioceses are those of Bridgeport and Norwich.

Hurricane Swings East Of Southern U.S. Coast

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Hurricane Carol churned distant Atlantic waters today 2,400 miles east southeast of Miami and at least a week's travel time from the United States mainland.

This third tropical storm of the season was spotted on the first day of the traditional hurricane month of September.

Winds of 75 to 80 miles per hour —75 is hurricane force—were reported near the centre. Forecasters said they probably would increase during the next 24 hours.

All ships in the path of the storm were advised to exercise caution.

RUSH TO ELEVATOR—Farmers in western Canada rushed to get their wheat into elevators while quotas still were open. Trucks line up at McCabes elevator in Regina, with wheat intended for storage. With huge carryovers from last year and another bumper crop being harvested the problem of where to store grain is becoming more acute.

Financial Leaders Gather In Washington

OTTAWA (CP)—The world's financial leaders will gather in Washington next week for confidential talks dealing with international exchange problems, including the critical issue of convertibility and possibly the world price of gold.

The four-day session will mark the seventh annual meeting of the 50-country International Monetary Fund and World Bank, set up to stabilize exchange rates and promote the flow of trade and economic health of member countries.

Finance Minister Abbott, a fund governor, will lead the Canadian delegation. Others in the group likely will include Graham Towers, governor of the Bank of Canada; Louis Rasminsky, Bank of Canada official, and J. J. Deutsch, assistant deputy finance minister.

ECONOMY MOVE

REGINA (CP) — The United States consulate here has officially closed its door after 38 years' service to people of the city and province. The action was in line with an economy campaign by the U.S. state department.

Tempers Cooled After Spat Over Trieste

ROME (AP)—Tempers cooled some more today over the hot Trieste issue but both Yugoslavia and Italy still blamed each other for touching off the latest flareups.

Both sides mentioned possible international adjudication, though in no specific terms. Yugoslavia charged new border violations. Italy denied them.

Rome and Belgrade exchanged notes couched in polite diplomatic language, but yielding no ground. The British, French and United States governments urged "calm and moderation."

Most observers on both sides of the Adriatic seemed to think, however, that the whole raw-tempered dispute would go no further at this time than the name-calling which has marked the last seven years of argument over control of the strategic territory at the head of the Adriatic.

Yugoslavia protested formally to Rome Tuesday over what it called "armed demonstrations" by Italian army units along the Yugoslav frontier.

The Italian premier-foreign minister, Giuseppe Pella, replied in a written note that Italy, "after all, has the full and indusputable right to take within its own territory any measures considered necessary" for defence.

Sterling Area Boosts Gold, Dollar Stocks

LONDON (AP) — The sterling area boosted its gold and dollar reserves by $13,000,000 last month to $2,469,000,000, the treasury announced today.

The surplus arose after receipts from the United States of $19,000,000 worth of defence aid and the European Payments Union ... 000,000 to Canada under the interest-free loan of 1942.

The EPU sum represented that part of the July deficit which was settled in gold or dollars.

Keep 'Em Busy

KITCHENER, Ont. (CP)—Parents were advised to see that their children have little chores to do every day when Rev. John Shenk of Denbigh, Va., spoke to the Mennonite conference here on dveloping character in children. He said one good suggestion is that the children should look after chickens.

Convertible Sterling Impossible At Present

WELLINGTON, N. Z. (Reuters) Prime Minister Sidney Holland said today it will be impossible to bring about sterling convertibility until sterling countries are allowed to earn more dollars.

He said that if that right were gained, together with the backing of the proposed $5,000,000,000 fund to sterling area reserves, then prospects were "distinctly promising."

Plane Vanishes With 21 Aboard

SEATTLE (AP) — A non-scheduled airliner flying under military charter disappeared over the cloud-covered Pacific Northwest Tuesday night with 21 persons aboard.

The plane, owned by Regina Airlines, was an hour late on a flight from Monterey, Calif., to McChord air force base, Tacoma, Portland is about 125 miles south of McChord.

It failed to make radio contact at Toledo, Wash., 65 miles north of Portland, and is believed down in the heavily wooded, hilly country between thetwo points.

Airline officials in Seattle said the twin-engined plane's pilot gave no indication of trouble when he reported in at Portland. They could not explain why the ship was over the Oregon city eight minutes after it had been scheduled to land at McChord.

The passengers all were military personnel, Regina said, but it would not say how many were included in the civilian crew. Such planes normally carry a crew of three.

Early hopes that the craft merely was lost and flying about in the overcast were dimmed when the company reported it would have run out of gas about 8:20 p. m. some two hours or more before a plane was heard in the vicinity of McChord. The plane heard by McChord ground-control approach men disappeared in the direction of Seattle and ofkicials were inclined to doubt it was the Regina liner.

Margaret Hughes Is Bride

At the altar of St. Peter's Cathedral Monday morning the nuptial vows were pledged between Margaret Elizabeth Hughes of Peterborough and Doctor Joseph Thomas Marotta, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Marotta of Sudbury.

Mrs. R. G. Aman was at the organ at the double ring ceremony and also said the nuptial mass. Mrs. R. G. Aban was at the organ and Mr. Anthony DeNoble sang "Ave Maria," "Panis Angelicus" and "On This Day" during the service.

The bride is daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. L. Hughes of Peterborough and was given in marriage by her father. She was gowned in white feather taffetta and Alencon lace and the dress was fashioned with a moulded strapless bodice and a flared skirt with lace inserts, ending in a chapel train. A short flare-back lace jacket with mandarin neckline scattered with seed pearls and fastened with tiny covered buttons and long pointed sleeves completed the ensemble. A fitted scalloped lace cap held her matching lace-edged fingertip veil and she carried a cascade bouquet of white popcorn 'mums centred with white gardenias.

Mrs. K. Elliott as matron of honor was frocked in silvery-blue irridescent taffeta. Miss Aldine McKinnon, Miss Mary McAuley, bridesmaids, and Miss Patricia Hughes, junior bridesmaid, were in autumn glory irridescent taffleta. The gowns had portrait necklines, tiny pleated sleeves and full, softly pleated skirts. Banded caps and mittens were of matching taffetta and they carried cascade bouquets of white shasta 'mums and yellow pompoms.

Dr. Alex George of Toronto attended the groom and the ushers were Dr. William Cocharan, Dr. Robert Shaw and Fred Marotta Jr.

The reception was at the Kawartha Golf and Country Club where the bride's mother recieved her guests, wearing a dress of navy tissue faille with taffeta trim and a matching taffeta hat and pink gloves. Her corsage was of Hildegarde roses. The groom's mother assisted her, wearing a dove blue taffeta dress with grey and rosewood accessories and she had a corsage of the same roses.

The out-of-town guests present were from Sudbury, Mount Forest, Toronto, Lindsay, Belleville, London, Cobourg, Pittsburgh New York, Cincinatti, Niagara Falls, Hornpayne and Orillia.

Dr. and Mrs. Marotta left afterward on a motor trip to the Laurentians, Quebec and New Brunswick. The bride travelled in a black and white figured silk dress and wore a black linen jacket lined to match the dress and a white feather hat. Her accessories were flame red and her corsage was a cluster of flame red carnations on a white feather.

They will live in New York city where the groom will continue post-graduate study at the Neurological Unit, Presbyterian Hospital.

Glass And Pottery Bowls Are Being Widely Used

NEW YORK — Old-fashioned glass jars and white pottery bowls are the latest items to be used as fashionable room accents and decorators.

Practically every big-name furniture display in New York has a glass candy jar or a few white bowls scattered around to set off the gleam of wood and highlight black wrought iron.

The decorators have even thought up intriguing ways to accent the accents.

Designer Paul McCobb, for instance, fills glass jars with lemon drops, and piles walnuts or gleaming fresh lemons into white bowls.

The Herman Miller showrooms have white platteres heaped with cellophane-wrapped hard candy in bright colors.

Any housewife can adapt this same idea in her own home.

If she doesn't care for lemon drops or walnuts, she can use her white bowls as planters.

Philodendron is considered modish this season, if it's planted in a white pot.

In any case, the average woman doesn't have to buy the expensive modern pottery the furniture people use.

The plain white dishes almost every dime store sells look equally chic when piled with candy or planted with ivy.

The Rev. H. J. Scuse, rector, performed the ceremony and the wedding music was played by Miss Norma Branson. The church was decorated with gladioli and snapdragon.

Given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Russell Johnston, the bride was in a full-length gown of Chantilly lace over satin, styled with a sweetheart neckline and long sleeves pointed over the wrists. Her fingertip veil of net was edged with lace and was caught to a pearl tiara. She carried a bouquet of red roses.

The groomsman was Robert Sproule of Toronto and the ushers were Bert Holmes and Keith Trider of Toronto.

A reception was held in the St. George's parish hall, the bride's mother receiving in a two-tone blue printed dress and wearing a navy and white hat and a corsage of white baby 'mums.

The bridal couple left later on a wedding trip to Boston and New York and on return they will live at 46 Waverly Road, Toronto. For travelling Mrs. Purvis chose a white suit and navy accessories.

Leaving Suds On Face Helps Complexion

By ALICIA HART
NEA Beauty Editor.

"Natural 3-D" may be new to the movies, but it's old stuff to us non-actresses. We're always seen in three dimensions. Tiny imperfections that go unnoticed in a flat picture stand out in a 3D one or in real life.

So let's take care that no one in our private public ever sees an unnecessary bump or a dingy look on our skin. There's a way to get your skin into really good condition if it's not there already. It involves soap and water.

After your usual washing, have a second sudsing and let the thick soapsuds remain on your face until dry—a matter of a few minutes. This will give the soap a chance to dislodge embedded soil. Follow up with a warm and a cold rinse. A few weeks of this treatment can do much to improve poor complexions.

Speaking of "dimensions," do you happen to be slimming yours for the new fall slender look? If you're losing weight, it may interest you to know that one reducing expert recommends a minimum of two baths a day during dieting periods. He points out that poisons are being cast out by the pores during this time.

The scalp and hair also need twice as many shampoos during diet periods.

Yes, we who are permanently in 3-D must always be conscious of our beauty and grooming.

St. James' WA Opens Season

The Woman's Association of St. James' United Church held their first meeting of the fall in Wesley Hall Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Newton Brown conducted a timely worship service, reading the poem "A New Start" as an opening. She compared the work of the ladies for the new season to the opening of a new term of school. "Each one of us has to start with a clean slate, a spirit of willingness to learn and to help each other," she said. Mrs. A. Saunders and Mrs. Noel Monks read from the scriptures and Mrs. W. R. Moncrief offered prayer. The dedication hymn "Take My Life and Let It Be Consecrated To Thee" was sung with Mrs. A. Brumwell at the piano. Business was conducted by the president, Mrs. Henry Turner. Plans were made for the serving of meals at the Exhibition. It was decided that the WA will cater for the missionary and maintenance committee banquet late in September with Mrs. N. Monks as convener. Plans were also made for the induction of the Rev. Mr. Shorten on September 10th. Mrs. George Church reported many cards and visits for the sick during the summer months.

The bride's mother received the guests wearing a gown of navy nylon sheer over gold taffeta with a corsage of yellow roses. The groom's mother assisted in a gown of rose beige lace and net and wore pink roses.

DOROTHY DIX:

Efficiency Envied By Mother Of Five

DEAR MISS DIX: I have a friend who irks me very much. She has three children of her own and takes care of two others, yet her work is done every day by 9 a.m.—and done well, I must admit. I have five children, aged three to 18, and never seem to be able to catch up. This friend comes to my house several times a week and stays for two or three hours helping me. Perhaps I should be grateful, but I am just full of envy that she can accomplish so much more than I can. I can't even get meals on time. I am becoming so provoked with this lady that I'd like to break our friendship without hurting her feelings. RHODA S.

TRY TO LEARN METHODS

ANSWER: Now, now, don't lose your sense of values completely. All you need is a little dose of common sense to see your situation in a better perspective. Admittedly, it's annoying to face one's own inefficieny in the light of someone else's super-dynamic capability, but wouldn't it be better to try to learn some of your friend's methods, rather than decrying them? We can all learn, you know, even though the knowledge must come from a source to which we dislike to give credit.

Your friend's purpose in calling on you almost every day isn't quite clear. If she does it simply from a praiseworthy desire to help you, she is doing an admirable job of playing the Good Samaritan; if, however, her motive is primarily to gloat over your inefficiency, she'd better stay at home. You do indicate, in part of your letter which I had to omit for lack of space, that the latter is the case. No woman can possibly be so completely finished with a household and the care of children by 9 a.m. that she could not find work in her own home if she would look for it. Efficiency is an estimable quality in itself, but when coupled with officiousness, it becomes hard to take.

Regardless of whether your friend gives her help graciously or obtrusively, there is certainly something you can learn from her. She must have some short cuts that you could apply to your household; if you could emulate some of her efficient methods, you wouldn't be nearly so nervous. Have a physical check-up, too. Your doctor will doubtless recommend vitamins, which will do wonders in putting more pep into your daily routine.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I'm a Turkish girl married to an American soldier. I have been in America for seven months, and have a six-months-old baby. I am a college graduate, and have studied dancing and music in my own country. However, my husband doesn't like dancing or singing and refuses to let me continue my studies here. I am very lonesome and feel if I could be some of the things I did at home I would be happier. MRS. S.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Perhaps your husband wouldn't object so strenuously to your giving lessons, as he does to your taking them. Your local high school, or church, might be glad to have you take a class in Turkish folk dancing or singing. This would give your pupils something entirely new to work on, and would give you an outlet for your talent. Incidentally, you are to be complimented on your very good English.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: About a month ago I met a boy who is engaged to a girl in a hospital. He says he doesn't love her any more, but won't tell her until she's well. In the meantime, he wants me to go out with him. I don't think I should go with a boy who is engaged, do you? LAURA S.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Not only should you not go out with an engaged man, Laura, but the man's actions toward his fiancee are not entirely honorable. While it is true that love can change, and an engagement is not binding unto death, a man who falls out of love with a girl because she has had a long illness could scarcely be depended upon by anyone in any emergency. Such love is apt to be of the fair-weather variety, and not quite up to facing the vicissitudes of life.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I met a nice-looking boy this summer who has a very persistent habit of making sarcastic replies to everything said to him. He's 24, and I'm 18. It seems impossible to get a sensible remark from him. M. T.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Chronic sarcasm is rather a childish trait, and one that should have been outgrown at 24. Your friend has carried the adolescent gift of wisecracking into his adult years, where it is most unbecoming.

It will be easier to forget him than to change him.

Bringing Up Baby

Hints Collected by Mrs. Dan Gerber (Mother of 5)

Why play hide-and-seek with those half-used containers of baby food in the refrigerator? A muffin pan helps keep them all together in one spot. (Be sure that it's a large-size muffin pan and that you've carefully covered each container.)

• • •

Other tricks for that same kind of muffin pan: It's awfully handy for baking apples, peppers—keeps them so tidily in shape—and for poaching a lot of eggs at one time. On occasion, you might even use it for muffin-making!

• • •

Quick disappearance of baby foods is the usual order of the day—if you serve your baby with good-tasting Gerber's. Tempting choice of Strained Fruits, Vegetables, Meat-Soups, Desserts. All smooth texture as can be . . . with the inviting true color and true flavor babies prefer! And of course, since the experts at Gerber's spend all their time making baby foods and nothing else, each and every variety is carefully processed to help keep in those good natural food values.

• • •

Tiny individualists can show pretty big preferences—even as you and I! So if baby takes a stand against, say, carrots, it's better to forget them for a while and try squash instead.

• • •

Mother, send for this special offer! Something mighty handy! Three of these attractive Refrigerator Can Covers to snap on the opened can of Gerber's before popping it in the 'frig . . . send only 10 cents plus 3 labels from Gerber's Strained Foods or Junior Foods or one boxtop from a package of Gerber's Cereals to Mrs. Dan Gerber, Dept. N-33, Gerber-Ogilvie Baby Foods, Ltd. Niagara Falls, Canada.

Few Women Gold-Diggers Declares Woman Lawyer

By DOROTHY ROE

NEW YORK (AP)—Most women are not gold-diggers, says Tiera Farrow, a practising lawyer in Kansas City, Mo., for 50 years.

Miss Farrow, pink-cheeked and white-haired, has handled thousands of divorce cases in her long career in the law. Her verdict: "Most women don't want alimony these days, unless there are children to be supported. And even then many prefer to take over the responsibility of raising their offspring alone. Modern women are self-sufficient, able to stand on their own feet, and most of them get married or unmarried for love and not for money."

STARTED IN 1903

This pioneer female lawyer whose book "Lawyer in Petticoats" will soon be published, started her practice in 1903, when there were only 200 women lawyers in the country. Today there are 4,000. In those days, she says, judges were alarmed and spectators shocked to see a woman take her place in the lawyers' enclosure of a courtroom. She recalls:

"All lawyers rely heavily on precedent. But when I took my first case, I didn't have any precedent. I had never seen another woman lawyer. I didn't know whether I should take my hat off in the courtroom, or where I should sit, or anything. So I just had to figure it out for myself."

Soon, she says, she was able to overcome the prejudice against "lawyers in skirts" and prove that in certain cases a woman can be more effective than a man. One of these is in representing the wife in a divorce case. Says she:

"A woman just naturally understands the problems of another woman better than a man does, and is more sympathetic. Also, she's willing to let her client talk—and women love to talk about their troubles, you know. A man lawyer is likely to get impatient when his client rambles on and on, but a woman will listen and sympathize."

LESS QUARRELSOME

Miss arrow believes women lawyers are likely to be less quarrelsome in court than men, and to show more respect for the judge.

"No matter what we say," she explains, "and no matter how illustrious a record we have managed to roll up, we still feel a little diffident in the presence of our male colleagues. We are likely to be just a little more respectful and just a little more correct for that reason."

Miss Farrow, respected as a formidable opponent in Missouri courts, has studied at the Sorbonne and Oxford, has twice held office in Kansas City, as city treasurer, is a former president of the Missouri Women's State Bar Association, and at present, while continuing private practice, is legal aid counsellor in the city welfare department of Kansas City. In her 11 years in this post she has given free legal advice in more than 10,000 cases.

Her advice to girls who want to go into the law:

"Go to it—you'll have a lot of fun and not much money. You'll have to be twice as good and work twice as hard as a man to succeed. But if you work hard enough, you'll make the grade."

Household Hints

If you dry-clean at home, be sure to use the fuild outdoors or in a well-ventilated room. There should be no pilot light or other illumination in the room. Let the garments air thoroughly before wearing. Keep the dry-cleaning fluid in a fireproof container.

Proper way to remove a glove: pull tips of fingers, grasp lower edge and pull glove wrong side out over the hand. Straighten glove into shape immediately.

A thin coat of wax every month or two is much better for your floors than a heavy coat twice a year. Some of the vinyl plastic types shouldn't be waxed when brand-new — wait until they've had a few weeks of traffic.

Remove chocolate stain from a rug or upholstery with lukewarm water followed by pepsin powder. Rub the latter in and sponge out in half an hour.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Sugarless Recipes For Diabetics

Things were never so good. Art was at the front door with a 6-lb. Pike that he had caught up north, and Barb was at he back door with baskets of peaches and tomatoes and pails of comb honey from her own garden and hives. One minute before that the cupboard was bare for we had been away.

I baked the pike (see below), made peach pie and baked it in the oven at the same time that the pike was a-sizzling. I sliced tomatoes. I telephoned the fruit store for fresh corn, which they had and very kindly delivered.

You understand, don't you, that keep this column supplied, so all of these helping hands are very welcome.

STUFFED BAKE PIKE

This method may be used for lake trout, whitefish and any other fresh water fish weighing three pounds or over, that your friends are smart enough to catch and that you are lucky enough to receive.

Art had cleaned our fish, so I boned it (easier said than done) and sprinkled it well inside with salt after it had been well—dried with a cloth. I filled it with dressing: Two cups stale breadcrumbs, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, shake of cayenne, 2 teaspoons each chopped parsley, grated onion, chopped pickles (or capers), 4 tablespoons melted butter.

Mix the crumbs and seasonings, stir in the melted butter with fork. When you have stuffed the fish with this tie or skewer it closed. Place on greased baking-pan on strip of foil. Lay strip of bacon or fat salt pork over top of fish and keep it in place with toothpicks. Dredge with flour. Bake in very hot oven of 425 deg. Fahr. allowing 10 minutes to each 1 lb. of fish and 10 minutes extra, basting with fat in pan occasionally. Lift out carefully onto hot platter, slip out the foil. Garnish with parsley and lemon wedges. If you have any Tartare Sauce on hand don't forget to pass it.

DEEP DISH PEACH PIE

Four or five well-packed cups fresh sliced peaches (after peeling and stoning), 3 tablespoons flour, ½ to 1 cup sugar (amount depends on your sweet tooth), ⅛ teaspoon freshly grated nutmeg, ½ teaspoon lemon juice, 1 teaspoon butter or margarine, 1-16 mon. Arrange sliced peaches in dish and place over peaches. Fold under about ½ inch of edge of pastry, and crimp edges with floured tines of fork. Make several gashes in the top centre. Bake at 425 deg. Fahr. for 40 minutes. This is good served with pouring cream or of course, ice cream. Some deep dish pie addicts want Hard Sauce on it, but the combination is too sweet for me.

HARD SAUCE

½ cup butter or margarine, 1 cup sifted icing sugar, 1 teaspoon vanilla, pinch of salt. Work butter until very light—this is very easy with the electric beater. Then add dish. I used one that I have just measured. It is 12 x 7 x 2 inches. Blend remaining ingredients except butter and sprinkle over the top of the peaches. Dot with the butter. Roll out a sheet of rich pastry slightly larger than top of Add the vanilla and salt. Pile lightly in serving dish and chill until hard. Sprinkle top with freshly grated nutmeg. This sauce is at its best on apple tapioca pudding or Christmas plum pudding.

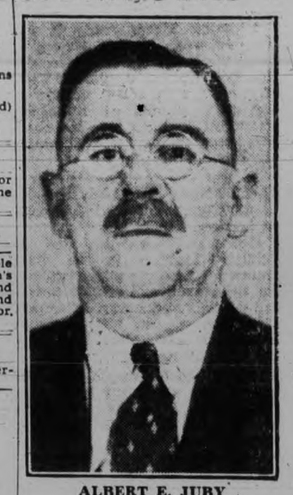
Albert E. Juby Examiner Of Drivers Dies



ALBERT E. JUBY

Albert Edward Juby 47 Ware St., died suddenly in hospital here this morning after an illness of hardly two days. He had been working as usual Monday as salesman with Godson Motors Ltd., Aylmer St., until 3 p.m. when he became ill and was taken home. He was removed to the hospital about 6 p.m. A heart condition was reported a contributing cause of his death.

Mr. Juby was widely known in this city and district, and especially during the last eight years as examiner of applicants for drivers' motor licenses issued by the Ontario Department of Highways.

BORN IN HASTINGS TWP.

Born in Sidney township, Hastings county, son of the late Robert Juby and Rebecca Rowbotham, Mr. Juby had been a resident of Peterborough 47 years. In his youth he took up the dairy industry and became an expert cheese and buttermaker. His first engagement here was in 1903 as foreman with Peter Downham who established the Peterborough Creamery on Aylmer St., the forerunner of Silverwoods Dairy.

That business was acquired by a company headed by G. A. Gillespie and known as Peterborough Milk Products Ltd. Mr. Juby remained with them altogether 10 years and during that period he assisted in the introduction of the first pasteurization of milk.

For the following 11 years he was manager of the Indian River branch of the Farmers' Dairy Company, Toronto. The company built a new plant there and also a residence for its operating manager. Returning to Peterborough he became associated with Hood and Cummings, agents for the Ford Motor Company, and for years was a salesman on its staff, remaining with Godson Motors in the recent change of agency, and the completion early this year of its offices on Aylmer St. As a Ford salesman Mr. Juby became widely known in Peterborough and its business district.

EXHIBITION DIRECTOR

Mr. Juby was for some time a director of the Peterborough Exhibition, particularly on committees supervising horses and racing events. He was a lover of horses all his life, and was interested in athletic sports. He was an adherent of Knox United Church and an ardent Conservative.

Mr. Juby leaves his wife, the former Helen Henderson, three sisters, Mrs. Mary Bartlett, Mrs. Sophia Townsend, both of Belleville, Mrs. Gilbert Hough (Georgina) of Northport, and three brothers, James of Peterborough, John of Foxboro and Fred of Rossmore.

The funeral will be Friday at 2 p.m. from the Kaye funeral home, George St. to Little Lake Cemetery. The service will be conducted by the Rev. H. G. Douglas, minister of Knox Church.

Returned Reds Hurl Missiles At Red Cross

PANMUNJOM (AP) — Communist prisoners on their way back to North Korea today showered missiles on Allied Red Cross teams and a member of the neutral nations commission.

Herbert Nuttall, British member of the joint Red Cross team at the prisoner exchange site who was a target for some of the missiles, said two U. S. soldiers also were attacked in an "entirely unprovoked" incident.

Nuttall, Maj.-Gen. Thomas Daniel of Ireland and Swedish Col. Erik Dotzenberg were expected as especially vindictive" Communists are exchanged during the final days of Operation Big Switch.

Waterloo Wins Two Srtaight In Semi-Finals

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Waterloo Tigers made it two straight over London Majors in the best-of-nine Senior Intercounty Baseball League semi-final Tuesday night with a 5-4 victory. In the other playoff at Kitchener, Brantford Red Sox won the opening game of the series, downing the Panthers 8-5.

A fight between Charlie Moore of the Majors and Bobby Schnurr of the Tigers enlivened the game at London.

Moore was hit by one of Schnurr's pitches in the final frame. Moore dropped his bat, ran for the mound and started throwing punches at Schnurr. After umpires and players had managed to separate the battlers, both players were thrown out.

London had the winning runs on base in the ninth, but Hank Biasatti came off first base to pitch to the final hitter and end the rally.

ARISS GETS CREDIT

Gord Ariss, Waterloo starter, got credit for the win. He was removed in the eighth for Schnurr, who in turn was replaced by Larouche and Biasatti. Bob Penny, London starter, was the loser. Gerry Burke hurled good relief ball for the Majors, but his mates couldn't get the tying run.

In the Kitchener game, Bill Allen started for the Panthers and was the loser. He pitched four innings and allowed six runs on five hits. Chuck Fedoris finished. Winner Lee Griffeth allowed 10 hits, but coasted in after Brantford ran up a big early lead. He was almost on the way out in the seventh when the home team rallied for three runs on four hits and a Sox error.

Brantford took a single run in the second and three in the third on three hits and a Panther bobble. In the seventh, Ed Finney lifted a two-run homer over the left field fence for the Sox.

Panthers bagged single runs in the third and fifth and then got four in the seventh after two were out. Ed Lefevre of Brantford and Erv Ler of Kitchener each came up with unassisted double plays.

Boat Rescues 2 Men Lost For 18 Hours

LITTLE CURRENT, Ont. (CP)—A United States industrialist and his companion were found safe beside a disabled helicopter near here Tuesday after spending 18 hours on an island when the aircraft broke down.

Henry Timken of Kent, Ohio, 47-year-old president of the Timken Roller Bearing Company, and John Drummond, 51, of Kent, were brought to Manitoulin Island shortly after noon. Both were in good condition.

They were sighted Tuesday morning at Boyd Inlet by one of several search planes which swept miles of Northern Ontario bush country when the men failed to turn up after starting on a fishing trip in McGregor Bay Monday.

A rescue boat was sent to the scene and brought them here.

Mr. Timken, who has a summer home at McGregor Bay, said he was forced down when the helicopter's tail rotor fell off.

"We landed the plane near the island and managed to taxi it to the beach.

"We slept on the beach all night. Neither of us had matches. We started a fire by short-circuiting a rear light on the plane and igniting gasoline.

"That rescue boat sure was a welcome sight."

Scientist Tests Artificial Heart

MONTREAL (CP)—A scientist from the University of Western Ontario Tuesday set an artificial heart going which he hopes in time may bring back to life people already dead.

But the scientist, Dr. R. A. Waud of London, Ont., was careful to say that though the machine may one day be used to revive persons who died of heart disease, it may not keep them alive for any lengthy period of time.

Demonstrating his machine at the international physiological conference, Dr. Waud explained that so far he has never used the heart and its cone-like container for bubbling blood and oxydizing it on humans. He has, however, experimented with some 300 animals. During his most recent tests only one per cent failed to revive.

Paintings British Royalty Worth A Million On Display

TORONTO (CP)—More than $1,000,000 worth of original oil paintings are on show in one wing alone at the Canadian National Exhibition art gallery this year.

Many of the paintings in the collection, which has as its theme British Kings and Queens, were lent by Burlington House, London. Some have been lent by British art lovers and others come from Government House in Ottawa.

One painting — Holbein's King Henry VIII—is insured for $250,000 and probably has a market value of about $500,000. This massive study of bluff King Harry is more than 300 years old. It was acquired in the 16th century by the fourth Duke of Rutalnd and was lent to the exhibition by the present duke. Like many other British art treasures it was hidden in Welsh caves for safety during the Second World War.

The collection catches something of the splendor of British royalty. Part of it is a grouping of the six Queens of England. The picture of Queen Elizabeth II is the work of John Gilroy and was flown out from England. There is an Edward Halliday picture of the Duke of Edinburgh and a wistful study of Princess Margaret by Henry Carr.

An unfinished study of the Queen Mother has been lent to the exhibition by the artist Sir Gerald Kelly.

The Queen herself has lent one picture to the collection—described as "the Prince of Wales, later King Edward VII, visiting Toronto in 1860." It is believed to depict a scene at some part of the grounds now known as Exhibition Park.

Also included in other collections at the gallery are 100 pictures by Canadian artists.

Children's Own TABLETS

Dead Hand Of Communism Lies Heavy On East Berlin

By LEON DENNEN

BERLIN (NEA) — The bier-stube deep in the Russian sector of Berlin was dark, dirty and deserted.

In a corner only two men, hugging half-finished steins of beer, were sitting at a table talking in whispers. They were stripped to the waist. Their patched pants and torn shoes were covered with lime.

The men were obviously building workers from the nearby Stalinallee, where East Germans started their uprising against the Reds last June.

I ordered a glass of beer and sat down at the nearest table. The stuff was warm and watery. I merely pretended to drink it.

✧ ✧ ✧

The men eyed me suspiciously. The bartender became very busy wiping the bar with a dirty rag.

Suddenly the older of the two men turned towards me and said almost casually: "You are an Amerikaner?" He was about 35 years old, tall, lean, and very blond.

"Yes, I am an American," I replied.

The men smiled and asked me to join them at their table.

SERIOUS OFFENCE

Only the very brave or the very desperate behind the Iron Curtain dare to speak with a foreigner, especially an American. In a Red police state it is a serious offence to communicate with foreigners.

✧ ✧ ✧

Besides, one never knows when the stranger might turn out to be a secret police agent, an informer or a Communist. Even children are trained in Red schools to spy and inform on their parents.

"How did you know I was an American?" I asked.

"By your clothes and the way you pronounced the word beer."

"Anyway, we can smell a mus-covite a mile away," added the younger man.

I could see that the bartender was getting nervous. He looked anxiously at the door and continued to wipe the bar furiously.

"It is dangerous for you to talk with me," I said.

"Yes," replied the older man. "Just tell your people that we shall never submit to Russian tyranny. And please don't believe that we are Fascists. All we want is freedom."

I shook hands with the men, paid my bill and left the bier-stube.

E. BERLIN SILENT

East Berlin was strangely silent and practically empty of people. The deserted streets were "guarded" by volkspolizei dressed in Russian-type olive green uniforms, armed with carbines and burp guns.

There were practically no automobiles in the streets—except, of course, those used by Red officials—and few bicycles.

Now and then a man, woman or child would appear among the fantastic ruins which, eight years after the war, the Russians and their puppet regime have made little effort to clear away.

The people were shabbily dressed and sullen. They moved about like shadows in a dead world. They turned their heads at the sight of a gaudily dressed, richly-decorated Soviet army officer or a Red policeman.

STORES EMPTY

The government-operated H.O. stores were empty and uninviting. No one was buying. There was little to buy. The store windows were well-stocked and colorfully decorated. But only the windows. The shelves inside were practically bare.

Almost 20 years ago, as a very young reporter, I saw similar stores in Moscow. The scene was strangely familiar. Nothing has changed in the Red world throughout the years. The same dead hand of communism — the same bluff, terror and want.

I made my way to West Berlin, crossing the border at Friederich strasse. Ten meters past the border I entered another world.

Children were playing in the streets, their shrieks and laughter reaching the sullen, suspicious Red guards only a few steps away. Holiday throngs crowded West Berlin's subways and railway stations. On the Kurfurstendamm, West Berlin's Broadway, the open air cafes were crowded to capacity. There was movement and life.

Only 10 yards separate West from East Berlin. Yet the Iron Curtain dividing the city is as tangible as the Wall at Sing Sing.

CGE WORKER DROWNS NEAR NASSAU

SCENE OF A TRAGIC SWIMMING LESSON was Lock 22 where James Daly, 22, of Stewart Place, drowned Wednesday afternoon, when he went to the assistance of his friend, Joan McCauley, 132 Park St., who got into difficulty while he was giving her a swimming lesson. In the top photo the boat is directly over the spot where the body was found. Shown in the canoe are Ed Parberry, keeper of Lock 22, who rescued Miss McCauley, and Ron Glendening who helped. In the photo (centre, left) are Eileen Varty (left) and Miss McCauley who, with Larry Prindible (centre photo, right) and Daly, made up the swimming party. Parberry (bottom left), who found the body of Stephen Thirnbeck, 4, at Lock 22 after he drowned in May, rescued the girl in his canoe. Daly is shown (centre, right) in a snapshot with a friend. In the bottom two photos on the right are two of the men who helped in the rescue of Miss McCauley, Ron Glenden-

Three Men Help Save Girl

Teaching Companion To Swim, Goes Down Himself

By DON GRANT

A swimming lesson ended in tragedy Wednesday at Lock 22, a mile north of Nassau on the Otonabee river, when the teacher drowned. The pupil was saved but only after the quick work of three men who were nearby.

James Daly, 36 Stewart Place, was giving a girl friend, Joan McCauley, 132 Park St., a lesson in swimming from the pier, jutting out between the lock canal and the river at Lock 22. The pupil, Miss McCauley, suddenly was in trouble and Daly apparently went to the rescue, only to drown.

This was the second drowning at Lock 22 this year. On May 25 little four-year Stephen Thirnbeck drowned in the lock about 200 feet from the place where 22-year-old Daly went down.

TOOK AFTERNOON OFF

The heat was indirectly responsible for Daly's death. Along with fellow workers, Eileen Varty, 457 Parnell St., Larry Prindible, 647 Park St. and Miss McCauley, Daly, a CGE armature employee, had taken the afternoon off for a swimming party up the river. It was too hot to work.

"The four of us just took the afternoon off. It was so hot," said Miss Varty.

Shortly after noon the quartette left for the lock to swim. They were in and out throughout the afternoon and then about 4:30 p.m. Prindible left the party to go to Lakefield for food. Daly, who has just been out from Scotland two years, started to give Miss McCauley a lesson on the river side of the pier.

"He was trying to teach me to swim," said Miss McCauley. "We were on the pier and he said, 'If you get in deep water I'm here to save you'."

Daly then told Miss McCauley "to put your feet against the wall, give a push and then swim out to me."

"I swam out to him," she said, "and then he told me to go back in again."

It was on that return trip that the trouble started.

"The current started to carry me down the river where it was over my head. He started after me, but it was over his head. I don't know why I didn't drown instead."

Miss Varty began to scream when the two started struggling in the water.

"They wanted me to go in, but I said I was too tired, and besides I can't swim," she said.

Ed. Parberry, keeper of Lock 22, had just put a boat through the lock, and was standing near it when "I heard them yelling off the end of the pier and then someone yelled to get a boat."

Parberry, who figured largely in recovering the young Thirnbeck child, raced down to a canoe and paddled swiftly to the boy and girl in the water. Along with the help of Ron Glendening, 297 Pearl St., Parberry got the girl to cling to the canoe and "paddled her to the shore."

"The girl was going up and down in the water, and when I finally got hold of her I saw the chap going down for the last time," said Parberry. "After taking her to shore I went back with

Judge Orders Grand Jury Investigation Into Death Of 5 Children In Old Ice Box

MARION, Ark. — (AP) — A judge Wednesday ordered a complete grand jury investigation into the deaths of five children who suffocated in an old ice box.

Judge Z. B. Harrison of Blytheville said "the suggestion that there was foul play is well founded. A thorough investigation is necessary."

Judge Harrison ordered 25 subpoenas served immediately because of reports that several of the witnesses were leaving the state before the hearing Sept. 21.

He said he was considering placing all witnesses under bond to insure their appearance before the grand jury.

The children, the five youngest of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Hallman, were found 21 days ago, cramped into an unused ice box on the porch of their tenant farm home.

The county coroner labelled the death accidental.

Hallman said there were too many "funny things" involved and was convinced they were murdered. His wife agreed.

The children, ranging in age from two to eight, were playing in the box when the overhead lid, tilted back against the wall, somehow slammed down and automatically latched.

Union Official, Miner Held After Gun Battle; Charge Attempted Murder

TIMMINS (CP)—Police arrested two men, one a union official, after a running gun battle at the strike-bound Broulan Reef gold mine early this morning and accused them of attempted murder and attempted arson. Ontario provincial police laid the charges against Patrick Walsh, 26, president of the United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL) local at McIntyre gold mines, and Alphonse Norlum, 32, a miner. They were held without bail at nearby South Porcupine jail.

Police said they also charged the two men with carrying offensive weapons.

The charges came a few hours after two men were ambushed near the Broulan Reef shaft house 10 miles east of here in the rich Porcupine gold-mining area. Police said the men were on their way to burn down the shaft house.

Norkum is an employee of Paymaster Gold Mines. Neither Paymaster nor McIntyre is involved in the walkout of nearly 1,000 steelworkers in the area.

ANTICIPATED ATTEMPT

Norkum was arrested on the Reef property near here by a squad of police stationed around it in anticipation of the arson attempt. A second man escaped into the nearby bush and got away after an exchange of shots with police.

NO ONE INJURED

During the shooting, a bullet passed through the tunic of constable David Plaunt of Timmins about two inches from his heart. However, no one was injured.

Walsh was picked up by searching police about three hours later as he came out of the bush around the Broulan Reef property.

District Inspector Ralph Crozier of the Ontario Provincial Police at Timmins said he learned Wednesday afternoon of a possible attempt to burn the shaft house at the mine, where the miners have been on strike since July 11.

He said information received by Inspector D. V. Whitely, of the OPP criminal investigation branch, Toronto, was to the effect that the two men responsible for the dynamiting of an electrical transformer on the Broulan Reef property last month would attempt to burn the shaft house Wednesday night.

He said Inspector Whitely had learned the men would be armed. As a result, 30 police officers, on special strike duty in this Northern Ontario gold mining community since riots broke out among mine workers and pickets July 11, were stationed around the mine buildings.

Dulles Denounces Russia On Partition

WASHINGTON — (AP) — State Secretary John Foster Dulles today denounced continued partition of Germany as "a scandal" and "a crime." He said Russia is solely to blame for this.

In a statement, Dulles called on Russia to attend a Big Four foreigh ministers meeting, as proposed by the West, Oct. 15 to discuss the deadlocked German and Austrian problems.

The conference was proposed in a joint British-French-U. S. note to Moscow, made public Wednesday night.

It appeared to put the Soviets on a diplomatic spot and simultaneously give West German Chancellor Conrad Adenauer powerful campaign ammunition for Sunday's election test.

DISASTROUS EFFECT

Dulles' statement was given reporters at a press conference during which the secretary declared that failure of the West German people to re-elect Adenauer's coalition would have a very disastrous effect on prospect for German unification.

Repudiation of Adenauer's moderate government would certainly create confusion which would indefinitely postpone solution of the German problem, he said.

It was the strongest public endorsement of Adenauer yet voicedZ by any top rank American government official.

Dean To Be Freed

PANMUNJOM (AP) — Maj.-Gen. William F. Dean, who won a medal of honor battling Reds beside his men, will be freed from captivity in a few days, the Communists said today.

Heat Wave To End Tonight Weatherman Says

TORONTO (CP)—The break in central Canada's worst heat wave in years will come tonight, the weatherman says. "Cool weather will enter southwestern Ontario late Thursday, accompanied by thunderstorms," he predicted today. "By Friday the heat wave should be over." At the same time, United States weather experts traced the hot spell to a mass of cool air which moved into the U.S. from Canada about Aug. 15, spread over the eastern two-thirds of the U.S. and parts of Eastern Canada, struck there and became overheated. Then some of the hot air overflowed back into Canada.

Relief from it is expected when cold air from the northwest sweeps southeastward over the Great Lakes in the wake of a rainstorm which Wednesday night swept parts of the Lake Superior region.

The heat wave has gripped a wide area of Ontario and Quebec for the last eight days, making persons swelter in the sort of humid weather that Wednesday pushed the Toronto temperature to 100, parching crops, drying out forests, causing at least six deaths, and sending absenteeism figures soaring at industrial plants.

EGGS HARD BOILED

A Toronto housewife set a dozen eggs on the ledge in the back window of her car and later found the heat had "hard-boiled" them.

Residents fried eggs on the main street of Stouffville, 20 miles northeast of Toronto.

A car owner in Toronto blamed the heat for shattering a rear window of his vehicle, which had been locked in a garage overnight

Even the weather bureau staff went home early Wednesday when the temperature in Toronto touched 100 degrees for the first time in any September on record.

Windsor reported a steamy 99, London a top of 94, Ottawa 89, Montreal 85, Quebec 83, Moncton and Halifax 86 and Charlottetown 81.

It was cooler in the West, where Vancouver had a high of 68 and Edmonton of 60, and in Newfoundland where St. John's enjoyed a pleasant 73.

Toronto's 100 tied the mark for the day in Chicago and Washington and fell short of a sizzling 102 recorded in Cincinnati and New York.

'Quake Gulps Part Of Road In Northern B.C.

TERRACE, B.C. (CP)—A fissure ripped open by an earth tremor was reported Wednesday by workers on the Terrace-Kitimat railway project to have swallowed a hill and a section of road in northern British Columbia.

One man had to run for his life as the earth broke open and a second worker was injured in the tremor.

First reports reaching this community 450 miles north of Vancouver said the tremor occurred Wednesday but later information was that the shock was on Tuesday. The Dominion observatory near Victoria said it timed an earthquake of less than a minute's duration at 6:37 p.m. PDT Tuesday.

EARTH DISAPPEARS

It was estimated that a total of 60,000 square yards of earth disappeared into the crack, one mile from the Alwyn creek construction camp. Opened up was an area 200 yards long and 50 yards wide.

Cost-Of-Living Climbs Again

OTTAWA (CP)—A stiffening in food prices coupled with successive jumps in rents have ended a six-month drop in living costs and bumped up cost-of-living yardsticks for the second month in a row.

The new climb started in May and continued in June. Indications are that surveys for July, to be published Friday, likely will show continued strength in the consumer price structure.

Following two consecutive monthly increases — each of one-half point—the consumer price index, based on 1949 prices equalling 100, rose to 115.4 in June—just 2.8 points below the all-time high of 118.2 in December, 1951.

The index took a long time coming down—six months for a total drop of 1.7 points. But it took just two months to boost it again by a full point.

Prices during June contributed to the general rise. Prices were higher for such food items as eggs, fresh fruits and vegetables, as well as rents, home-ownership costs, clothing, coal, gas, household help, newspaper subscriptions and drugs.

Avert Revolt By Ghashghaies

SHIRAZ, Iran (AP)—A special envoy from Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlevi—backed by a show of force—apparently has averted a revolt by the powerful Ghashghaies tribe and staved off an invasion threat to this historic Iranian city.

Ali Heyat, governor of the Fars region, who trekked into the tribal area to consult leaders of the warlike people, said Wednesday that the situation was "satisfactory" and "any hypothetical danger has been averted."

The Ghashghaies were strong supporters of ex-premier Mohammed Mossadegh, ousted by a proshah uprising Aug. 19 after the young monarch had fled to a brief exile in Italy.

Cool Air From Canada Caused Record Heat Spell

WASHINGTON (AP)—A shift in globe-circling, jet stream winds—50,000 feet above the Pacific ocean—show signs of breaking the biggest North American heat wave in 20 years.

That was the word Wednesday from U.S. weather bureau experts. Actually, they said, the current hot spell developed from a nice, cool air mass which came down from Canada about Aug. 15. And they predicted it will end the same way, with another cool wave. But another heat belt may follow.

I. R. Tannehill, chief of synoptic reports, said this was the worst outbreak since the early 1930s.

RARE CONDITIONS

Jerome Namaias, chief of extended forecasts, said the heat wave was caused by a rare set of conditions which jelled into a sort of sitdown strike by nature, from the stratosphere down to parched

Pledges $100,000 For Westminster Abbey

LONDON (CP)—An anonymous Canadian has pledged $100,000 to the Westminster Abbey restoration fund, it was learned today. Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery told the abbey of the promise on his return from Canada.

A campaign to realize £1,000,000 was reopened last week. Since the fund was inaugurated last winter more than £300,000 has been obtained for repairing the crumbling abbey walls and cleaning up erosion of the London atmosphere.

Workers Sent Home

OSHAWA (CP)—The big General Motors Company told its 6,000-odd employees to go home and try to cool off today when the mercury hit the high 90s. Officials decided it was too hot to work and closed the plant at noon.

Germans Arrest 8,000 Toughs

BONN, Germany (CP) — West German police said today Communist agents from East Germany have admitted a plot to flood the polls with forged ballots in the [illegible] elections Sunday.

A senior police official said thousand of Communists sent here to disrupt the election had been given instructions to pick up the forged ballots at assembly points deep inside West Germany.

Arrests of the sabotage - bent toughs from the Soviet zone rose to 8,000 today as 4,000,000 West German youths girded to battle the Communist invaders.

A spokesman for the Bonn government announced Wednesday night that two big youth organizations have volunteered to help combat what he said was a Kremlin plot to sabotage the balloting by creating chaos. The two volunteer groups are the Federal Youth League and the German Sport Association.

The government has turned up proof, the spokesman said, that the troublemakers have been ordered across the border in droves to raid voting booths, steal ballot boxes and beat up election officials. Captured agents have even confessed assassination plans, officials claimed.

Despite tight frontier checks, mass arrests and an emergency police alert throughout West Germany, thousands of the Red agents were believed to have evaded the police blocks.

20 Soldiers Drown In Lake

FT. BRAGG, N. C. (AP)—A boat loaded with U. S. Army engineers capsized on a lake during a training problem on this military reservation Wednesday and 20 soldiers were drowned. Two were in hospital.

The Ft. Bragg safety director, Otto Edwards, estimated that about 40 soldiers were in the two assault craft bolted together end to end. He said the normal load is only about 25 men, and "the boat apparently was overloaded."

The men, most of them trainees, had been taken out on the mile-long lake for an orientation ride after bolting together the two sections, each about 14 feet long.

The public information officer said the boat was returning to shore when it made a turn and dipped water, causing some of the men to become panicky.

Haven't Forgotten Uprising

Leipzig Heavily Guarded Since Riots

By GEORGE BOULTWOOD

LEIPZIG (AP) — A new Communist propaganda office stands in the market place of Lepzig today.

A small metal plate by the entrance says the building replaces one "destroyed by Fascist provocateurs on June 17, 1953."

That is the memorial to more than a dozen persons who lost their lives battling Communist police and Russian tanks or before Red firing squads in the mass uprising here last June.

Today the city is crowded with visitors to the annual trade fair. Dating back 700 years, this ancient European fair goes on, though regimes come and go and wars sweep over Central Europe.

Portly Communist Mayor Hans Ulrich is a busy greeter. He looks more dignified today than he did June 17. Then a crowd of strikers dragged him out of the city hall and made him march at their head. Round his neck was hung a notice saying:

"We demand free elections. Down with the government."

CAN'T BE IDENTIFIED

That was one of the incidents told to this reported by witnesses, who for their own safety cannot be identified.

This is their story of the day:

Western radio reports from Berlin of the strike by building workers in East Berlin's Stalin Allee June 16 was the spark that set off the explosion here.

Next morning, no street cars were running, shopkeepers were boarding up their windows and 25,000 workers from outlying factories were on the march.

Ten abreast, arms linked, three columns of men and women, clad in working clothes, converged on the railway station. At first there [illegible] about it.

The massive procession wound through town, ripping down photographs of German Communist bosses. They ignored the statue of Stalin in the market place.

Then things began to get ugly.

Communist people's police hauled three demonstrators off to jail.

"To the prison," came the cry from the angered crowd. It surged into Beethovenstrasse and clamored at the closed iron grill of the entrance. Red police poked machine pistols through the grill. A dozen brawny workmen lifted the iron barrier from its hinges and smashed it. The crowd rescued the three arrested men.

BEGIN FIRING

Then German police began firing into the crowd. A young girl screamed, clutched her stomach and fell bleeding to the ground. Three men dropped.

The crowd, angrier than ever, set fire to the Red "National Front Pavilion." It ransacked the Communist Free German Youth offices, showering files and papers out the windows. A Communist youth's blue shirt was publicly burned.

At the shrine commemorating the defeat of Napoleon in 1813 [illegible] speakers harangued the crowd. Up came the mighty roar of "we want freedom!" The crowd took up the refrain of "Deutschland Uber Alles," the old national anthem.

Cheered by thousands, the marchers headed for mid-town, overturning police cars and routing the occupants on the way.

RUSSIANS MOVE IN

But by now the Russians had moved in. Nine truckloads of Soviet infantry cruised about the crowd, soldiers firing in the air. Tanks, their ugly guns revolving, lumbered forward. Several persons who would not give way were crushed to death.

Emboldened by the Soviet troops, German police attacked. They fired not in the air, but into the crowd. For the Leipzigers, that was the bitterest thing of all.

The arrests began that night. Possibly 250 Leipzigers were put behind bars. Reports received in the west said at least three Leipzig men fell before Soviet firing squads.

Now it seems calm, but the arrests are still going on, and beneath the festive air of the trade fair, the city seethes with resentment.

Despite the presence of foreign visitors, East German army units openly display machine pistols, and police patrol only in pairs. The Soviet troops are not much in evidence, but Leipzigers [illegible] several battalions are in the area, ready to move again if necessary.

6 More Canadian PoWs Freed By Reds, Appear In Good Health

PANMUNJOM (AP)—The Communists and the United Nations command today agreed to complete the prisoner exchange by Sunday. The Communists at a meeting of the repatriation commission said that if for some reason they are unable to meet the Sunday deadline they will notify the UN command before noon Saturday. This means the early exchange of Maj.-Gen. William Dean, the highest ranking allied captive in Red hands. He now is at nearby Kaesong and it is believed he will be the last prisoner exchanged.

Possibly the last Canadians in Red captivity returned happily to freedom today.

HEADS GROUP

Capt. Joseph Michael Liston of Ottawa, the senior Canadian officer to be taken prisoner in the Korean fighting, headed a group of six Canadians released today, bringing to 30 the number returned by the Communists.

Liston said he believed today's batch were the last Canadians held by the Reds. All six Canadians returning today were healthy looking.

Today's group accounted for the last of 18 Canadians listed officially by the army as prisoners. Others among the 30 released had been listed as missing. Originally, the Communists had undertaken to free only 14 Canadians.

Liston is the highest ranking Canadian Army officer captured in the Korean war. Another officer, Sqdn. Ldr. Andrew Robert MacKenzie of the RCAF, is still listed as missing in action and 15 other Canadian Army men officially listed as missing have not been accounted for.

The men were all apparently in good health and jumped easily from the high tailgates of the Russian-built trucks which brought them to this neutral armistice repatriation centre.

SIX MEN FREED

The five Canadians freed with Capt. Liston were:

Pte. Thomas Allan, 22, RCR, whose mother, Mrs. Jean Allan, lives in Montreal.

L. Cpl. William Bell, 27, RCR, whose mother, Mrs. Edith Susan Bell, lives in Toronto.

L. Cpl. Robert Thomas Eakins, 28, RCR, whose wife, Mrs. Betty Jane Eakins, lives in Guelph, Ont.

L. Cpl. Frederick John Jollymore, 22, RCR, whose mother, Mrs. Jean Jollymore, lives in Toronto.

L. Cpl. Gerald Allan McKinney, 21, RCEME, whose father, John W. McKinney, lives at Melita, Man.

Capt. Liston's wife, Mrs. Helen Maude Liston, lives in Ottawa.

Liston, 33, was captured Aug. 13, 1952 when his light plane was hit by Communist anti-aircraft fire, forcing him to parachute behind enemy lines. A member of the 1st field regiment, Royal Canadian Horse Artillery, he piloted an artillery spotter plane in Korea.

Word that Liston had fallen into Red hands was first reported last April when L. Cpl. Paul Dugal of Quebec City, one of two Canadians released during Operation Little Switch—exchange of sick and wounded prisoners—told the army Liston was in a North Korean prisoner camp.

Among 89 Americans released by the Reds today, the first U.S. Sabre jet pilot shot down over North Korea said Russian pilots were flying MiG jets in combat as early as December, 1950.

The Reds, meanwhile, hinted broadly they may free their prize captive, Maj.-Gen. William Dean, in a few days.

Capt. Lawrence V. Bach of Grand Forks, N.D., reported he was questioned by a Russian flier who said openly that fellow Russians were leading flights of MiGs against American Sabre jets.

TAKEN TO MANCHURIA

Bach, who was shot down Dec. 22, 1950, said he was taken across the Yalu river into Manchuria for questioning by Russian officers after several Russians had questioned him in North Korea.

Communist news correspondent Wilfred Burchett of the French newspaper L'Humanite said Gen. Dean has been held the last three weeks in a special villa near Kaesong awaiting repatriation.

Burchett gave no hint as to when Dean might be repatriated, but said he is in good health.

Some Setbacks Howe Warning

ST. ANDREWS, N.B. (CP)—Trade Minister Howe said Wednesday night that Canada should be prepared for setbacks from time to time but "the general outlook for Canadian development. . . is promising."

He added in a speech prepared for a convention of the Crown Life Insurance Company that "with some hustling" Canada can continue to find bigger foreign markets for her grain than in prewar years.

Mr. Howe, a summer resident of this Bay of Fundy town, said Canadians likely will continue to hear and read of farmers being unable to deliver grain and of grain stored on farms.

However, he said, he cannot regard the large carryovers of grain from the large crops of recent years "as worrisome surpluses. Rather we must consider that we have been particularly blessed by nature."

Grain exports were expected to be "a good deal lower" in the early months of this crop year.

"Looking ahead, I am optimistic about Canada's future as a producer and exporter of grain."

Bad Weather Hampers Search For Plane

ROBERVAL, Que. (CP) — Bad weather today continued to hamper a search for a Norseman aircraft missing sinc Aug. 25 in remote northeastern Quebec with from five to seven persons aboard.

A spokesman for Mont Laurier Airways, operators of the single-engined plane said:

"Near the centre of the search area visibility is only '00 feet but it is possible there may be some clearing later today."

Airline officials said they believed five persons were aboard the Norseman when it took off from Fort Chimo, near Ungava Bay, headed south in the direction of Roberval, 675 miles away.

They said however that atmospheric interference with radio communications between Roberval and Fort Chimo made it impossible to determine exactly the number aboard the aircraft.

Trading At Crawl On Toronto Exchange

TORONTO (CP)—Prices eased gently and trading slowed to a crawl in early afternoon stock market trading today.

In industrials, Great West Saddlery dropped an extreme 3½ points in light turnover to a new low for the year of $20 while Price Brothers and Dryden weakened in papers. On the upside were Canada Steamships and Canadian Tire.

Trading was dull in western oils.

Noranda was the weakest spot in senior base metals, agging further as strike news discouraged hopes of an early settlement in Quebec. International Nickel and Sherritt-Gordon also faded but Hudson Bay and Falconbridge improved.

Traders found little of interest in uraniums and New Brunswick base metals. New Larder U drew mild support.

Malartic Goldfields, Campbell Red Lake and La Luz dropped pennies in the sleepy golds group. Higher were East Malartic and Placer Development.

U.S. Heat Wave Slowly Breaking Up

CHICAGO (AP) — Hot, sticky weather held its vise-like grip over most of the eastern half of the United States today, but the summer season's record-breaking heat wave appeared cracking.

The northern fringes of the Midwest got the first welcome relief from the prolonged siege of hot weather that has caused more than 100 deaths and dealt damaging blows to crops.

The coolr air from Canada that moved into the Dakotas fanned out eastward and southward. It headed into Nebraska and Minnesota. If it is not side-tracked, it was expected to extend into Wisconsin and Iowa during the day and into Michigan and central and northern Illinois tonight.

MUST WAIT

But there probably will be no cooling in the eastern areas until the week-end. And weather bureau officials said it was too early to say if the cool air mass would get as far as the heat-stricken Atlantic coast by that time.

The cool air mass is not moving fast, as indicated by the forecast for Midwest areas today. Chicago, wilted after two straight days of 101 and readings of 95 or higher since Aug. 25, was in the path of the expected cool air.

However, before it arrives, temperatures there today were expected to reach 98. The forecast for Friday was for "near 80" after a low of 62 tonight which in view of the blistering heat was regarded as a predicted cool snap.

Showers were expected to accompany the cooler air. Readings were 20 to 30 degrees lower Wednesday in parts of Montana. It was 53 in Helena compard to a high of 85 on Tuesday. Sharp drops also were reported in parts of North Dakota.

The current heat wave extended into its 11th day today. Wednesday, in scores of cities in the hot belt, heat records for the date and for September toppled. Readings above 100 were not uncommon and generally they were above 95 over the entire eastern half of the country.

HOT SPOTS

One of the hottest spots was Elmira, N. Y., which reported a reading of 107 in the downtown district. It was 104 in Kingston, N. Y.

Portsmouth, O., sweltered for the second straight day in temperatures of 107 and it was 105 in Newark, N. J., and Salisbury, Md. Louisville baked in readings of 103. It was 102 in Cleveland, Cincinnati, Springfield, Ohio, and Harrisburg, Pa. It was an even 100 in Boston, Washington, Philadelphia and Albany, and it was the same in Dayton and Akron, Ohio.

Glendening and started hunting for him with a pike pole."

Glendening said he was on a picnic with his family above the lock when "I saw the lockmaster looking down and the girl was shouting."

"I looked over the top of the lock," said Glendening, "and saw the girl going down. I swam out from the pier and helped take her over to the other side. I never even saw the lad."

When they reached the river bank they were helped to bring the girl ashore by Stan McMullen, 476 Charlotte St. McMullen, a CPR yardman, had heard the calls for help and "I ran down, jumping in, clothes and all."

"The boy wasn't down. The girl had gone down a couple of times. I thought he could swim and I was paying all my attention to the girl," he said.

When he saw Parberry and Glendening reach Miss McCauley, McMullen swam back in and helped them get her ashore.

"In the excitement of the girl, we forgot the boy. I thought he could swim," he repeated.

The Peterborough Fire Department received the call for the rescue equipment at 4.57 p.m. and immediately upon arrival at the lock began dragging the area about the pier along with Parberry and Glendening.

Fire Chief Sorrie, Fireman Bill Bloom and OPP Constable Walter Mohns finally caught Daly after an hour of dragging in nearly the same place where witnesses said the lad had gone down.

They took Daly to the pier and worked, trying to revive him for some time before Dr. H. M. Yelland declared the 22-year-old Scottish youth dead.

Prindible arrived back shortly after Daly was found and was stunned to speechlessness when the two girls rushed to him, calling "Jimmy was drowned."

Daly was taken to the Duffus funeral home. Funeral details will be announced later.

Daly came to Canada only two years ago from Scotland to work at the CGE. He lived on Stewart Place with his sister, Margaret Daly, and until three weeks ago with his brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. John Daly, who now live at 207 Stewart St. They came to Canada a year ago.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Daly, live in Glasgow, Scotland. Besides his parents, sister Margaret and brother John, he is survived by brothers, Peter in the Canadian Army and Bill at home, and by sisters, Mary, Christine and Janette, all at home.

Only Two Fires Still Burning

The forest fire situation in the Lindsay district has improved some during the last two days, with all but two fires out of the 10 extinguished, reported A. B. Wheatly, district forester.

The two fires that are still burning are in Monmouth and Cardiff townships and are being kept under constant observation by forest rangers.

Mr. Wheatly attributed the cause of the forest fires to careless campers in the area.

The other eight fires were fairly small and were discovered in plenty of time. They were in Harvey township, near Burleigh Falls; Jack Lake, which was put out Tuesday, in Stanhope township in Haliburton county, put out Monday; in Digby township, put out Wednesday; in Sherbourne township, put out Wednesday; in Guilford township put out Tuesday, and another one in Stanhope township near Haliburton town, put out Tuesday.

Cool Air

corn fields and steaming city streets.

But they saw relief coming in the upper plains—Montana, the Dakotas and Minnesota—and gradually spreading to the Atlantic seaboard by the week-end.

From a scientific viewpoint, the most unusual thing about the heat wave was the vast area it covered —from the Rockies to the Atlantic —and its persistence.

[illegible] the situation thus:

About Aug. 15, a pleasant mass of cool, dry air moved down from Canada. This was a low-lying chunk of air. It extended up for only a few thousand feet. The winds in it circulated like the hands of a clock.

Normally, these "cool fronts" move easterly across the country and into the Atlantic, leaving moderate weather behind.

SETTLED DOWN

But this one settled down and spread over the eastern two-thirds of the U.S. and parts of eastern Canada and stuck there.

Gradually, it warmed up for two main reasons:

1. As the air mass itself spread, air from upper levels tumbled down to take its place. The thinner upper air became condensed as it came down, and this generated heat—just as the air in a tire pump gets hotter as it is compressed. The air from upper levels also was dry.

2. So, there were few if any clouds and the August sun baked the land and the lower level air. It got hotter and hotter as these conditions just remained static, instead of changing as the weather usually does.

Court Evidence Clashes, Case Dismissed

In the light of conflicting evidence between Crown witnesses and the accused in a careless driving case, the charge against Earl E. Spencer, 50, of Norwood, was dismissed today in magistrate's court.

Spencer was charged after he crashed into the rear of a parked car south of Norwood on Highway 45 July 11. Driver of the other car was Ronald Biers, of 479 Bonaccord St., Peterborough.

Biers said Spencer braked 150 feet back of his car before striking it; PC Archie Eady said only 40 foot skid marks showed. Biers claimed the accident occurred 1½ miles from Norwood; PC Eady and Spencer said one-tenth of a mile.

Spencer said no lights showed on the parked car; Biers said all the lights were turned on. Biers said his car was no more than a foot on the pavement; Spencer said it was more like four feet.

The accused said an oncoming car prevented him from avoiding the Biers' vehicle; the crown witness said no cars came along for minutes after the crash.

Biers said he had stopped his car on the shoulder to take off his coat and claimed he was standing outside when the crash occurred. Spencer said he saw no one standing outside the car.

Barbara Sidore of Peterborough, riding with Biers, and Mrs. Spencer, riding with her husband, each backed up their respective menfolk's evidence.

The result was a dead heat and Magistrate W. R. Philp dismissed the charge.

Only 5 Fires Still Unchecked

TORONTO (CP)—Hundreds of firefighters battled 98 blazes in Northern Ontario forests under a scorching sun today and had all but five of them under control.

The firefighters, who have stamped out 136 outbreaks in the last seven days during the province's worst heat wave in years, were concentrating on the North Bay district where the five fires are burning unchecked through jackpine and hardwood stands.

The worst is in Gladman township near North Bay. A fierce fire there has already destroyed 2,400 acres of mixed timber.

The Ontario department of lands and forests said here:

"All fires in the Pembroke area now are under control. However, stubborn fires are still burning in North Bay. Firefighters are steadily gaining ground there."

HoweLeadsDelegationTo Tariff Parley

OTTAWA (CP)—Trade Minister Howe will lead the Canadian delegation to the forthcoming world tariff parley in Geneva where a rift may develop between Britain and the United States over Japan's clamorings for entry into a 33-country world tariff pact.

Presence of Mr. Howe at the five-week conference on the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade, scheduled to open Sept. 17, is entended to indicate to other member countries that Canada wants to do everything possible to maintain the strength of the tariff-trimming pact, trade officials said Wednesday.

A few other countries may send representatives of cabinet rank but many, including the United States, will be represented by senior civil servants.

Mr. Howe will leave here Sept. 15 by air and will spend the night in London before taking off for Geneva. While in London he may hold discussions with United Kingdom officials, but he is not likely to initiate any new wheat talks with Britain, informants said.

Beer Acquired Illegally Man Fined $100

Pleading guilty to a charge of having liquor not obtained under regulations of the Liquor Control Act, Ronald Lockhart, 21, of Hastings, was fined $100 and costs in magistrate's court today for having been found with seven pints of beer.

He had been observed coming out of a house by PC Archie Eadie on July 15 with beer and, though admitting readily he had not obtained the beer through a liquor outlet he refused to disclose where he had obtained it.

The incident occurred on Highway 45, north of Hastings.

Heavy machinery in the area was partly buried. The Canadian National Railways line under construction will connect Terrace and the Aluminum Company of Canada smelter site at coastal Kitimat, 75 miles to the south.

The injured man was Eugene LaBelle, who was welding the apron of a gravel-hauling machine. The tremor caused supporting timbers to collapse and the apron fell. LaBelle's leg was smashed above the knee.

HEARS CRACKLING

Sandy McDonald, a tractor operator, said he was working on the railway right-of-way grade when he heard a crackling sound in the bush.

He said he looked up and saw what looked like a "wave over the land," travelling from west to east. Seconds later a crack opened about two feet to the right of his tractor.

He jumped from the machine on the opposite side and just missed another break opening in the earth.

The fissure stopped just short of a wooden trestle across Alwyn Creek.

Hot Weather Note

During the last ten days of intensive heat, blizzards have been raging in Argentina and Chile. It's winter there, you know. The storms piled drifts up to 180 feet high in some places along the Trans-Andean Railway and road gangs braved sub-zero weather to restore communications. All told seventy-two persons have died in the blizzards.

Are Canadian Soldiers Weaklings?

General Simonds, Chief of the Canadian General Staff, has been vexed by a magazine article criticizing the conduct and condition of Canadian soldiers in Germany. "It is an attack on the rank and file. I regard this as deplorable. I would much prefer that if you are going to criticize the army, you would criticize the command." This may be noble, but the fact is that the conduct and sheen of the brass hats is not under question. It is the troops. Are Canadian men in uniform namby-pamby, that they must be shielded from criticism by clucking commanders? If the men in Canada's 27th Brigade are misbehaving, disorderly, and discreditable, let them be criticized. The condemnation will reflect on the commanders quickly enough, without their seeking it.

* * *

General Simonds' defence of the morale and conduct of the Canadian troops in Germany was hardly a strong reply to the article (to which we referred in a leading article "Second Class Canadian Brigade" on August 14th). He did not deny most of the charges. The rate of venereal disease is alleged to be highest of all foreign troops stationed in Germany. General Simonds said that Canadian soldiers were exposed to greater temptations than other soldiers. Are Canadian soldiers utterly the creatures of circumstance? Have they no will of their own to resist temptation? Are they rowdy, drunken or venial since, knowing better, they must choose the worse course merely because temptation lurks, time hangs on their hands, and they have lots of money to carouse? To believe this of Canadian men sets a low estimate on Canadian training and education at home, and training and discipline in the army abroad. Are they weaklings, unable to control themselves?

* * *

When troops are on a fighting front, enduring hardship, living in danger and sometimes squalor, excuses may be made for roistering and uncorking high spirits. But the Canadian troops stationed in Germany are on garrison duty, interspersed with training exercises. They have a semi-civilian status, and live in town-like quarters and are in almost constant contact with civilians. They should be expected to behave in a civil and decent way, especially when outside the camp of an evening or weekend, dressed in civilian clothes. All soldiers are subject to military law; but induction into military life does not do away with their responsibility under civil law. Nor should it remove them from the constraints which civilized society imposes for its social operation.

* * *

Canadian soldiers are also Canadian citizens. They should behave as good soldiers and good citizens, especially when they are stationed abroad and thus representative of Canada in the eyes of foreigners. General Simonds' [illegible] conduct when Field Marshal Sir John Harding, Chief of the Imperial General Staff, was being interviewed in Ottawa. Sir John was questioned about the 27th Brigade. He said: "If I were going to war, I'd be happy to have the brigade in any group which I might have the privilege to command." That is a valuable tribute to the fighting qualities of Canadian soldiers, but it is not the point under criticism. It is the qualities and conduct of Canadian troops on garrison duty, as men living in a civilian foreign society, which is questionable—and, from many reports, condemnable.

Fourteen Years Ago

Fourteen years ago today the Second World War began. It was a quiet Sunday morning when Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain made his fateful radio announcement that Britain and France had declared war on Germany. It was not a peaceful Sunday; the declaration had been almost inevitable since September 1st, when German armies advanced into Poland and launched the first large-scale air raid in history, on Warsaw.

Canada asserted her independence by declaring, for the first time, a state of war independently of Britain. Canada officially went to war on September 10th. The extra Canadian week of "peace" was a legislative fiction for in fact Canadians considered themselves at war as soon as Britain proclaimed it, and on the statute books of that week Germany was already being referred to as "the enemy."

Today memories will go back not only to September 3rd, 1939, but to the long months and years following: the year of the "phoney war", after the fall and dismemberment of Poland, completed by September 28th, and before the rapid German drive into Scandinavia and through the Low Countries into France in 1940. Then Dunkirk, the terrible Battle of Britain, the Italian "Stab In The Back" in 1940, the Wehrmacht attack against the Soviet Union beginning in 1941, the entry of Japan and the United States into the war at the close of that year. By the end of 1941 the Second World War was a universal war and nearly four more years were required before the issues were decided and the guns and bombs ceased their destruction.

In Britain on September 3rd, 1939, the weather was also warm and bright—and gentler than this day's heat.

Cars Last Longer?

Modern cars are built to crack-up, some people believe who finger a mudguard and bend it. An American publication says no; modern cars have a longer average life than their predecessors. It cites some figures, for whose reliability we are unable to vouch. In 1925 the average car was only 6½ years old and its speedometer registered only 25,750 miles when it was scrapped. By 1950 the average car was on the road for 13½ years and had a speedometer reading of 116,000 miles. Thus the 1950 average was twice as long in years and four times as far in miles.

We suspect that there are two forces at work setting up these higher averages, and that the durability of modern cars compared with old ones has little to do with how long they stay on the road. Modern cars, new, are very expensive, and more people than ever want and drive cars, and so more people buy second, third and fourth-hand ones, thus adding driving years and miles to the modern cars. The second element is related to the first: it is more profitable for a garage or used car dealer to rebuild an old car than to sell it for junk. Back in 1925 how many used car lots were there?

Nothing will convince us that the Model T and the Model A, and the old heavy Dodges, Chevrolets, McLaughlin-Buicks and Studebakers were less durable than modern models. There are enough of them on the road even today to prove that they were built to last. Post-war cars are better engineered than their predecessors but not more durable. What keeps them going is the garage repair man, and the fact that more motorists themselves know how to tinker with a balky car and keep it coughing.

Fines By Instalment

One reason that Ontario has a bad jail-bird record is that many people go to jail because they do not have the money to pay the alternative fine imposed. Under the law all men are considered equal; that is the theory. But in fact all men are not give equal treatment.

One man commits a minor offence. The punishment is a fifty-dollar fine or thirty days in jail. He pays the fifty and walks out of court a free man. Another commits a precisely similar offence. He goes to jail for thirty days because he does not have fifty dollars and is unable to raise it. As Chief Justice McRuer implied Monday, this is one law for the rich and another for the poor. When the fines levied run to $1,000 or $2,000 the discrepancy is obvious.

Justice McRuer was appearing before the Ontario Legislature's select committee on reform institutions. He advocated a system by which fines could be paid by instalments. "It might be expensive to set it up, but it would be cheaper in the long run [illegible] the prisoner is in jail because he is poor. The man who is well off can afford the fine, pays it and is free."

The system has been tried and tested in England. Since instalment payments of fines were introduced, the prison population of England has been reduced by twenty-five per cent.

Death In Whitby

It is well that the Ontario Attorney-General has ordered an inquest into the sudden death and burial of a young man mentally deranged. There is something surreptitious, uncharitable or neglectful in the haste with which the young man was sent from a ball game to a Toronto jail, to the Whitby mental hospital and to his grave all in the course of eight days. The last his parents heard of him was that he had been arrested in Toronto—that is, the last until the father discovered the man was dead and buried in Whitby. A more adequate official explanation is in order than the one advanced thus far by the Whitby hospital authorities.

DIPLOMATIC COMMENTARY

Where Does UN Stand?

By SEBASTIAN HAFFNER

WHAT EXACTLY is the role of the United Nations at the present stage of the Korean dispute? This question has never been asked in so many words in the confused and acrimonious General Assembly debate about the setting-up of a Korean Peace Conference; but it stands unanswered in the background and it must be feared that until it receives a clear answer the United Nations will not be able to exert much authority in the further development of the Korean issue.

Legally speaking, the difference between the American and the British position in the General Assembly debate has been this:—

✧ ✧ ✧

THE AMERICANS base their position on Article 60 of the Panmunjom Armistice Agreement. According to this, the "two sides" of the Korean conflict are to meet within ninety days, in a conference at a higher level, to discuss the withdrawal of foreign troops from Korea, unification of Korea, "etc."

Strictly speaking, a United Nations Assembly to set up a conference would, from this point of view, not even have been necessary. The United Nations form simply "one side" in the Korean war, and the decision to have a conference between the United Nations side and the Communist side had already been taken by an agreement of the two military commands. All that was left to the United Nations was to decide on the composition of its own delegation to the conference.

✧ ✧ ✧

IN such a delegation, there would, of course, hardly be a place for Russia, and it was quite plausible that only those who fought under the auspices of the United Nations would have the right to be represented at the peace talks. From starting-point, the American position—banning India and other neutrals, insisting on a conference "across the table," with two "sides" facing one another, and allowing Russia in only "on the other side" — made sense. Indeed, it would have been logical if the Americans had gone further and demanded that the United Nations representatives at the conference should speak with only one voice, co-ordinating all its moves beforehand, just as it did during the armistice talks at Panmunjom.

✧ ✧ ✧

BUT that is overlooking the fact that the United Nations is more than just a belligerent coalition. It is, at least in principle and intention, a universal organisation or States, set up to compose disputes and conflicts among its own member States— by peaceful means whenever possible, by collective registance to aggression where necessary. One could well argue that, as soon as an aggressor is defeated, the status quo restored and a military armistice concluded, the United Nations ceases to be belligerent and a "side" in an international conflict, and becomes again the universal and impartial forum before which the underlying causes of the conflict are to be sorted out in a dispassionate and objective manner by all, defeated ex-aggressor and neutrals included.

✧ ✧ ✧

SOMETHING like this idea underlies the British call for a "round table" conference, at which there are no "sides", but at which every nation speaks for itself, and neutrals have the same standing as belligerents. The unspoken assumption in this British stand is that, with the conclusions of the armistice, the military role of the United Nations is completed, and it again takes charge of the political situation as the supreme arbitration tribunal, the "town meeting of the world." It could even be said that, from this point of view, the military commanders at Panmunjom exceeded their powers in prejudging, in Article 60 of the Armistice agreement, the composition and agenda of the peace conference; all they had to do was to settle the military terms for ending the fighting: what happened thereafter was for the United Nations as such to decide.

There seems little doubt that this attitude is more in keeping with the spirit of the United Nations Charter. But it brings one hard against the fact that at the moment the reality of the United Nations falls a long way short of the vision embodied in the Charter.

✧ ✧ ✧

FIRST OF ALL, the United Nations is not yet— as in principle and intention it is meant to be— universal. In particular, in the present Korean conflict the "other side" is not represented in the United Nations: North Korea is no member state, and China is not represented by her true Government. If the British point of view had been taken to its logical conclusion, it would have been necessary to invite the Government at Pyongyang (North Korea) and Peking to the United Nations General Assembly, and let them decide, together with all others, on the composition of the conference. Failing this, and accepting the fact that the United Nation cannot force non-member States to come to the negotiating table except of their own free will, one has indeed to fall back on Article 60 of the Panmunjom Armistice Agreement.

✧ ✧ ✧

SECONDLY —and this is often forgotten— the authority of the United Nations General Assembly in all this is tenuous and questionable. Under the Charter, matters of war and peace fall under the jurisdiction of the Security Council. Only the Security Council can make binding decisions; the Assembly can only make recommendations. And indeed, the decision to resist aggression in Korea on behalf of the United Nations and to set up a United Nations military command for the purpose, was, in the summer of 1950, taken by the Security Council from which Russia had at that time absented herself. Today, of course, with Russia back in her place, the Security Council could, in view of the Great Power veto to which it is subjected, take no decision except in agreement with Russia.

✧ ✧ ✧

IT IS STILL an open question whether it would not have been the correct course first to seek agreement and try to handle the the ending of the Korean war through the Security Council — as its beginning was handled— instead of taking the matter at once to the Assembly, whose standing and authority are uncertain. Obviously, this would have made it necessary to negotiate with Russia and come to some agreement with her on the composition of the conference, when in fact not even agreement between America and Britain has proved possible. But then, in peacemaking there is no substitute for agreement; and since agreement will in the end have to be reached with China and North Korea themselves if there is to be peace in Korea, is there much point in evading agreement with another representative of "their side" about the procedural approaches to peace?

The sorry fact seems to be that, for time being, the United Nations has made the worst of both worlds. It will not be able to approach the Communists as a united "side", speaking, with one voice; it will have one member State, Russia, sitting on the opposing "side," and sixteen others each speaking only for itself, with several of them in open disagreement.

At the same time, it has denied itself the opportunity of becoming the all-embracing forum within which diplomacy can go to work, and within which every Power interested in Asian peace can make its contribution. Indeed by keeping out the Power with the best mediating opportunity —India— it has gravely diminished the chance of agreement in any conference that is to meet.

It can be no longer be said that at that conference the United Nations will figure as one side in the negotiations, meeting two outsiders as a united body. Neither can it be the sponsor and provide the general framework of the conference. Rather it seems that, as a result of the General Assembly meeting, the United Nations has managed to manoeuvre itself out of any position of influence and authority whatever in the critical stages of the Korean conflict that lie ahead.

DEEPLY ROOTED FOR CENTURIES

Letters To The Editor

MONOCLE AND UMBRELLA

Sir: Re letters on Leeds Univ. (questionnaire about British Prime Minister Munich crisis). There is no need to guess. Austin wore his monocle, Neville carried his "Bralley" to and from Munich.

Was also Member of the House for Birmingham.

Sincerely,
ANOTHER LIMEY.

NINEVEH AND COWS

Sir: It reads as though some, were allergic to cows —some indifferent, more appreciative? — by your paper on the editorial page, but, in the letters.

Would it not be kind of dry in the city or country without cows? Jonah when he preached for a city to be overthrown or destroyed, saw instead a God, who saved the city (Nineveh) because it had many people who, could not discern between right and left and —a city too, with 'much cattle,' Jonah 4, 11.

'FISHER'.

DUTCHMEN REPLY TO "HAPPY HOLLANDER"

Sir: As fellow compatriots of Mr. Goemaat we are very pleased to learn that he has such a high opinion of Canada, and we trust that he will continue to enjoy good health and prosperity for many years to come.

It is regrettable that he expressed the opinion that not many educated Dutch people are coming to Canada. We presume that the foresaid gentleman is well acquainted with the majority of the immigrants who are coming from Holland, and that he has the necessary background to differentiate between the "factory workers" and "the others."

Since, however, Mr. Goemaat does not appear, in print, as having any doctor's degree or other high European academic qualifications, we hope you will excuse us, if we take some of his opinions with a pinch of salt.

We appreciate that he has had a long and ardous business-training, but this does not necessarily qualify him to express such pronounced opinions.

Finally, whilst we must admire Mr. Goemaat, let us not forget the many "uneducated" Dutchmen who are making progress in this country without having the secure financial background which Mr. Goemaat appears to enjoy.

TWO DUTCH "FACTORY-WORKERS".

WHY THE COWS WERE ON THE LAWN.

Sir: As I happen to be swimming at the canal at the time this incident took place I just couldn't help but answer this letter. The reason for those two cows on the road was they had been rustled from a farm nearby.

It is too bad that people from the city out joy riding don't understand the circumstances of a cow and a year old calf being on the road; not two cows as originally stated in the paper.

The police force happened to be on the job at the time of this so-called commotion.

As for the man that was making it unsafe for people on the road what else would you expect when some one was good enough to help themselves to his cows

I don't think I would sit at home waiting for the cows to come as they happen to be dumb animals. No I don't think I would like a cow and her calf on my front-lawn either but what do cows know? They just go where [illegible] he shouldn't have them drive them.

So in other words the man was fighting for his rights, the same as any other farmer would do.

AN INTERESTED SPECTATOR.

STORE CLERK'S RIGHTS

Sir: There is an old saying, it takes the last straw to break the camel's back, and I think this business of keeping the stores open until nine Friday nights is the last straw. Saturday we are usually busy so that means no clerk would be off Saturday, so she or he would have two hard days together.

The public had better think twice before they ask for the stores to open. If they did? For as sure as they do the union will come in, and who will take the extra cost, not the store keeper. You can fool the people sometimes but not always.

The very stores who are demanding the open night are the one's who have stayed open until six. I thought there was a bylaw we closed at half-past five or was it only a gentleman's agreement like Wednesday afternoon which I understand is now being flouted, close at one.

Alright, they close at what hour they please, six we say, then the clerks have their money to balance, all garments put back on racks after they close. At Christmas we have a week of stores open till nine, we have to eat down town, which costs more, do our own shopping at noon hours. Yes, we are people too, we like to give presents at Christmas, but when Christmas Eve comes we are so tired we do not care for anything. Try standing on your feet from nine in the morning until nine at night and smile, and with all overtime not half what they make in wages in the factories.

Are we not taxpayers as well as the stores, so why should the bylaws be designed to protect them as it was said in the paper Friday night? At least we should have some say. When it was suggested the stores close Saturday night, some did and some stayed open, but they soon found out it did not pay, so closed. If it had been paying would they have closed? No.

As for the public going to other towns because they are open one night, a few may go, but not for to buy purposely. What about them going to Toronto? Will you try to put a bylaw through to prevent that. We get customers from Lindsay, Port Hope, Cobourg, Oakville and Tweed, and from Toronto, and they come in store hours. If they are in one store they are in others too. Are we getting so greedy in Peterborough that we cannot let other people live also? It did not be like that year's ago. Why?

It was said each merchant would handle his own staff in his own way, which has a wide interpretation. I pity the staff when they will not keep the bylaws.

We appreciate what the Chamber of Commerce is doing for us, in trying to make it a decent city for everyone.

ANOTHER STORE CLERK.

30 M.P.H. NOT TOO SLOW

Sir: In comment upon your editorial of August 28th titled, "Is 30 miles per hour too slow?" Ordinarily I would not have given the article more than passing consideration but, that very day, by strange coincidence, I had a business man come into my office with a sort of "veiled" warning —"to go easy on the speeders," stating as his reason that the Commercial Travellers Association had advised some of their members to boycott certain small towns wherein "over zealous" constables had been cracking down on the fast drivers. Furthermore, I was informed that the constables in some areas were being paid a "bonus" for every "conviction recorded [illegible]

I have taken both these reports with the proverbial "grain of salt," but at the same time, one cannot ignore such things completely because, if true, such things could create a very bad situation. If our traffic laws are to be ignored by instructions from recognized groups, associations or by orders from transport firms, or if our police are being subsidized to do their plain duty, it is high time some "cracking down" of another type should be done.

I do agree that the 30 mile limit extends a little too far out from some cities, towns and villages, but the total distance covered by this limit is insignificant when balanced against the safety of the driver, the "other" car, the pedestrian and our children. I have been driving continuously since 1913, service trucks, school busses, for pleasure and for business, and have never been accused of a single traffic violation nor have I had an accident involving five cents of anyone's money during the entire 40 years, also, I cannot recall that I ever missed a date or lost a dollar's worth of business because it pleased me to recognize all traffic rules and consider the other fellow to the best of my ability at all times.

I am opposed to the so-called "speed traps" and hidden officers to the same extent that I am opposed to the driver who tries to "sneak" an extra 5 or 10 miles per hour in any zone where the speed limits are plainly indicated, not once, but quite frequently along the sections so limited. I am of the opinion that our traffic laws are quite fair and adequate and any person in charge of an automobile SHOULD know and obey them all for it is a well known fact that "little sins pave the way for big sins" and AFTER an accident occurs it is too late to be sorry.

"Care, courtesy and common sense" is an excellent motto for every driver and every officer as well.

Yours very truly,
A JUSTICE OF THE PEACE.
Peterborough County.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

And I saw in the right hand of him that sat on the throne a book written within and on the backside, sealed with seven seals. And I saw a strong angel proclaiming with a loud voice, Who is worthy to open the book, and to loose the seal thereof? . . .

And one of the elders saith unto me, Weep not: behold, the Lion of the tribe of Juda, the Root of David, hath prevailed to open the book, and to loose the seven seals thereof . . .

And I beheld, and I heard the voice of many angels round about the throne and the beasts and the elders: and the number of them was ten thousand times ten thousand, and thousands of thousands; saying with a loud voice, Worthy is the Lamb that was slain to receive power and riches, and wisdom, and strength, and honour, and glory, and blessing.

And egery creature, which is in heaven, and on the earth, and under the earth, and such as are in the sea, and all that are in them, heard I saying, Blessing, and honour, and glory, and power, be unto him that sitteth upon the throne, and unto the Lamb for ever and ever. (Rev. 5: 1, 2, 5, 11-13.)

"That," he said, turning to his wife, "is the end of the gnus, the time is exactly twenty-two minutes past nine."

How Much Power Has The Military?

(Calgary Herald).

Last week at the scene of a tragic air crash in Ville Jacques Cartier, Quebec, RCAF police and guards behaved in a manner befitting the uniformed minions of a military dictatorship.

On the "orders" of as yet unidentified RCAF officers, firemen turned their hoses on civilians, newspapermen were chased through the streets and ordered not to make any notes, one news cameraman was arrested, and an RCAF non-commissioned officer told an armed RCAF guard to shoot that cameraman if he tried to get away. At the same time, RCAF guards fired blanks over the heads of the crowd, although there was nothing to suggest that the crowd was informed that they were blanks.

Air Vice-Marshal A. L. James, commanding air defence, who at the time seemed to think this was all very proper, has since made a half-hearted apology, which had all the ear-marks of having been made reluctantly under pressure.

The situation as it stands remains utterly unsatisfactory. This kind of behaviour is intolerable, and any officer in any service with that kind of mind should be dismissed, instantly.

"Centralization" Everywhere

(Le Soleil, Quebec)

Contrary to the province of Quebec, Ontario has made its fiscal agreement with Ottawa. That does not prevent the problem of the financial relations between the various administrations from being as strained among our neighbors as they are here. As a [illegible] got half their revenues in direct subsidies from the provincial government. And nobody will maintain that this system of democracy by subvention will remain efficacious for long . . . But are the provinces not being accused of practising "centralization" to the detriment of the municipalities? And when, in their turn, the provinces accuse Ottawa of the crime of "centralization" the vicious circle will be complete . . . but the solutions will be as far away as ever . . . But to change a system commencement must be at the base. That is to say that the royal commission carrying on in Quebec on fiscal relations must, by the nature of things, take into consideration the situation of the municipalities in relation to the provincial government before reaching the peak of our governmental pyramid, the federal-provincial problem, properly so-called.

Fired "In Fun" Wounds Worker

VANCOUVER (CP) — A man wrested a six-shooter from the holster of a cowboy singer Tuesday night at the Pacific National Exhibition and fired a blank-cartridge shot which sent an Ontario sideshow worker to hospital with a back wound 2½ inches deep.

Police called the shooting a joke carried too far. They said it started when a man grabbed the gun owned by a singer who calls himself "Alberta Slim," thrust the weapon against Carl Young, 32, of Brantford, Ont., and said, jokingly: "Hands up! This is a holdup!" Then he pulled the trigger.

The cartridge wadding penetrated Young's back and he slumped to the ground. An operation was performed during the night and Young was later reported in satisfactory condition.

The man police said pulled the trigger was taken into custody. Police haven't yet decided whether charges will be pressed.

Summer Visitor Dies At Hastings

HASTINGS (ENS) — G. Fred Smith, Toronto, summer resident near this village many years, died suddenly, presumably of a heart attack, Tuesday afternoon. His cottage was on the south side of the Trent river, east of the CNR bridge.

Mr. Smith had called at the Bank of Toronto and the post office, and had made several purchases. He elft them in a store, and said he was going down to the river just beyond Bridge St. He had a towel over his shoulders apparently intending to swim. He dropped dead, it was reported, before reaching the bank.

He fell forward on his face, causing disfiguring wounds which, it was said, raised a question briefly as to the cause of his death. The body remained a considerable time where death overtook him. Delay ensued in telephoning to Campbellford and elsewhere for a coroner. Finally, Crown Attorney Harry Deyman of Cobourg, was called. He decided that an inquest was not necessary.

An elderly man, Mr. Smith spent five or six months at his cottage here every summer, and became well known in Hastings.

Inland Waterways Have Good Season

MONTREAL (CP)—Officials of the St. Lawrence canal system said today Canada's inland waterways are having "one of their very best seasons," as far as volume of shipping goes.

A spokesman for the canal system, which connects the Great Lakes with Montreal, said that despite a general slow-up of shipping due to the usual summer lull and to grain congestion in Montreal and other St. Lawrence ports, volume of nearly every commodity shipped so far this season is higher than that transported during a corresponding period last year. The bigest single gain was in wheat movement.

BUSY PAINTER Pierre Renoir, the French impressionist who died in 1919, did more than 6,000 paintings.

Families Welcome News More PoWs Now Freed

OTTAWA (CP)—Mrs. Helen Liston says she isn't taking any chances. She doesn't plan to tell her three children their father has been released by the Reds in Korea until he shows up in person on the front doorstep. The oldest child, Jane, is four.

Capt. Joseph Liston, highest-ranking Canadian officer captured by the Communists, was released Wednesday night with five other Canadian soldiers.

Mrs. Liston said she had known for some time that her husband was safe from the word of other returning prisoners.

"It's the answer to our prayers," said Mrs. Thomas Allan in Montreal, after she and her husband learned their son, Pte. Thomas Allan, 22, was one of the Canadian prisoners freed.

"We've never given up hope," said Mrs. Allan.

Relatives of three Toronto soldiers welcomed the news that they will soon be on their way home.

Cpl. Frederick John Jollymore, 23, 1st battalion, Royal Canadian Regiment, went to Korea in March, 1952 and was captured Oct. 23 the same year. His mother, Mrs. Jean Jollymore, said: "It's such a wonderful feeling to hear he's safe that we just can't put it into words."

Hiram Bell was ready for his son's release three weeks ago when he painted a sign; "Welcome Home Bill," for L. Cpl. William Bell.

The third soldier is Pte. Robert T. Eakins, who has a wife and three children. Mrs. Eakins was preparing to move into a new apartment when she heard the news.

West Must Increase Strength–Harding

VANCOUVER (CP)—The West must increase its military strength to a point where the Communists will not dare start an atomic war, Field Marshal Sir John Harding, chief of the imperial general staff, said Wednesday night.

"We are not yet strong enough in the West," said the stocky, mustached fild marshal, who arrived here by air from Eastern Canada on a cross-Canada inspection of the Dominion's military establishments.

"What is needed, I think, is a sustained effort over a period of time to build up our forces so as to make as certain as we humanly can that the Communists won't risk war."

Judge Reserves Lottery Ruling

OTTAWA (CP) — County judge A. G. McDougall Wednesday reserved judgment in connection with the trial of Donald J. Sutherland, prominent member of the Carleton county Orange Lodge, charged with conducting a lottery.

After hearing final argument by Crown attorney Haldane Howe and defence lawyers Hyman Soloway and Louis Assaly, Judge McDougall said he will hand down judgment Sept. 15.

Mr. Howe contended that the Crown had produced sufficient evidence to show that Mr. Sutherland had managed and conducted a scheme whereby raffle tickets were sold.

Defence counsel asked for dismissal of the case. They maintained that the indictment was void on the grounds of duplicity and on the grounds of uncertainty. If there was a scheme conducted, they said, it was in connection with an agricultural fair and therefore excluded from the penal provisions of the Criminal Code.

3 More Polio Deaths Reported In Manitoba

WINNIPEG (CP)—Three more polio deaths were reported Wednesday by Manitoba health officials but the number of new cases—27—was the lowest in about the last two weeks.

The death toll for 1953 now stands at 39 while total cases number 1,289.

In northwestern Ontario, the Fort Frances board of health voted unanimously to delay the opening of all schools in Fort Frances until Sept. 15, one week later than originally set.

FORM TENNIS UNION

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP)—American tournament tennis players, declaring the game had become "stagnant" in this country, set up their own union Wednesday and demanded a greater voice in the conduct of the sport.

Sidney B. Wood, Jr., of New York Wimbledon champion 20 years ago, was named president of the organization which is reported to have 45 dues-paying members with 200 in prospect. The name of the organization is the Tennis Players League.

Wood heads a policy-making executive committee composed of Victor Seixas, present Wimbledon champion, Arthur Larsen, Chauncey Steel, Jr., Gardnar Mulloy, Grant Golden, Billy Talbert, Don McNeill and Tony Trabert.

Mulloy, America's top-ranked player, is vice-president, and Golden, who spearheaded the players' movement, is secretary-treasurer.

The new group has the blessing of the U.S. Lawn Tennis Association, Wood said.

The objectives of the new group include:

1. Seek effective representation within the governing and policy making committees of the USLTA.

2. Aid the USLTA in developing a more constructive and productive relationship with the press.

3. Help tournament committees through counselling on available players, publicity methods, etc., with the aim of increasing revenue for reinvestment in tennis.

4. Study the scheduling of tournament dates and seek to increase the number of indoor and outdoor events of all types, particularly those on grass.

Gordon Munro Places Third In Golf Tourney

TORONTO (CP)—W. L. Fraser of Niagara Falls Oaklands and Hew M. Scott of suburban Weston Wednesday won the annual 18-hole two-ball foursome event of the Canadians Seniors' Golf Association. Despite 100-degree heat, 128 members took part.

Playing alternate strokes and taking a handicap of half the combined handicaps of both players, 25 pairs turned in net scores lower than Rosedale's par of 70.

The Fraser-Scott score of 83-20—63 nosed out the 74-10½—63½ by Dr. K. G. McKenzie of Toronto Rosedale and Charlie Leaver of Toronto Lambton.

Gordon Munro of Peterborough and Ace Hoffman of Kitchener were third with 84-20—64.

Bethany Squad In As Millbrook Out

BETHANY (ENS). — The Bethany baseball team have finally reached the top rung of the ladder as they ousted the Millbrook Lions in the semi-finals with the score of the final game 8-2. Reg. Edmunds is a hero to baseball fans for he has pitched the entire Millbrook-Bethany series and this game should have been a shutout except for an error and wild overthrow from shortstop to first base which let in two runs in the last frame.

Reviewing the North Durham series at the end of the regular games, Millbrook stood first, Port Perry second, Bethany third, Blackstock fourth, and Janetville fifth. The semi-finals in this east section ran for four games with Bethany winning the first 5-3, the second game tied 2-2, the third game tied 4-4, and the windup 8-2.

Wright started on the mound for Millbrook and was replaced by Dawson, with Ginn receiving. Arn. Armstrong had their only hit. For Bethany Reynolds was Edmonds' battery mate, and the team took the lead in the first inning with two runs adding four in the second and two in the fourth. It was their game all the way, the field giving Edmunds strong support. Reynolds, Ryley, and Rowan had the hits which counted for runs brought in.

Teams:

Millbrook — Wright p and 3b, Ginn c, Hadley 1b, Edmunds 2b, Armstrong ss, Dawson rf and p, Skitch cw, Lowery 3b, Breckenridge lf.

Bethany— Edmunds p, W. Reynolds c, B. Reynolds rf, B. Ryley cf, H. Ryley 1b, Jackson 2b, Challice ss, C. Rowan 3b, W. Rowan lf.

Umpires—Borland of Peterborough at plate, Woods of Bailieboro on bases.

The Bethany lads ran into tough luck the first of the season with three players injured in games—Bobby Ryley torn ankle ligaments, Will Rowan broken wrist, Cam Rowan broken ribs. With all three back in the game, their supporters have great hopes for the finals which begin this week in a three out of five series with Port Perry.

Columnist Bobbie Rosenfeld has this to say in the Globe: "If this sounds like a boost for Mrs. Pansy Forbes of Peterborough, it wouldn't be surprising, for that's what it is. After nine years of skilled coaching, along with constant training by her aquabelles, the teacher and pupils realized a fond ambition, recently in taking the team championship of the Untied States at the senior synchronized nationals in Florida. I have seen Mrs. Forbes' group perform and can tell you her ornamentalists who swim to the theme 'Little Jumping Jacks' are a pleasure to watch as 'they pattern intricate formations in graceful fashion." It is a worthy and deserving tribute.

Local grid Orfuns will be leaving shortly after 11 a.m. on Saturday to open their ORFU intermediate "A" schedule for '53 in Oshawa. The 1952 Eastern Canada champs play Red Raiders in the ball park at two, the game being broadcast here. Coach Tony Kotowski will take his full contingent to the Motor City, the pick of last year's good squad, plus half a dozen additions. The padded footballers will be hoping for a cool break in the weather by the weekend as it's a hard game at anytime and worse in the heat. Cobourg's Galloping Ghosts, who play Toronto Marauders this Saturday, will open here next Wednesday night in Morrow Park. Yeah, autumn is about here.

Moon And Fitz Shone

Scribe Jack Gatecliff of St. Kitts writes: "The two big fellows in the Peterborough eastern lacrosse victory were Moon Wootton, their all-too-capable goaltender, and Jerry Fitzgerald, who handles most of the difficult situations on the crease like a past master. On defence, Fitz halted everyone with ease — except Max Woolley at times. And offensively, Jerry was not equalled by anyone on either club. He carried the ball perhaps 50 per cent of the time Petes had possession, never made a wrong move and when the occasion arose scored some very important goals." That's quite true, husky Fitz has been a tower of strength all season to the Trailermen and during playoffs. He'll be missed by 'em in Mann Cup finals, but must start teaching at Scarboro Collegiate next week.

* * * * * *

The Petes' Trailermen will be seen in action at Miller Bowl once more this season, having arranged an exhibition game for Friday night at 8.45 with Toronto Maitlands. With a return in Toronto next Tuesday. Maitlands are OLA senior "B" finalists, awaiting the Sarnia-Windsor winner for the all-Ontario "B" playoffs. The Toronto team ousted Alliston, a club composed mainly of Orillia players who won the OLA senior "B" crown a year ago. Coach Bob Thorpe is adding Ken Croft, Orillia and Derry Davies of St. Kitts as his Mann Cup series replacements for Fitzgerald and Ike Hildebrand, and these two high-scoring forwards (Ken and Derry) will perform for the locals here Friday. They are fine players and should fit in nicely with the champions.

About Ross And Roger

A Brantford item: "Two of our lacrosse experts, Roger Smith and Ross Powless, will go to Vancouver in quest of the Mann Cup. They were taken up by Peterborough Trailermen, which club denied its name by defeating St. Catharines in eastern finals. The two Indian boys have proved worthy foes and expert players. Roger played hockey for the local junior 'B' team and then played for the Petes' senior club. To bad that the boxla game died out here. It was due to bad management. Indian players never took the fans seriously. The customers were out of their reckoning. Many games were listed in Brantford but you could never tell who would show up and who would be on time to play. It is a grand game. The Oshweken Indians are now playing in the intermediate league, with Caledonia their home rink."

Montreal Clips Argos 15-7, Has Revenge

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Alouettes came up with a strong ground attack Wednesday night and held a decisive margin over Toronto Argonauts to win 15-7 in the second meeting this season of the two Big Four football teams.

The victory avenged the 11-9 setback the Als suffered at the hands of Argos in the season's opener in Toronto last week.

The Alouettes set up a 9-0 lead in the first quarter and were never headed, although the Argos cut the margin to 9-7 by half-time.

DECISIVE FACTOR

The welcome line strength showed by the Als was just about the decisive factor. The Montrealers ate up 177 yards on the ground to only 55 Argos could make against the Alouette front wall. In forward passing it was about a saw-off with the Montreal line frequently charging through to hurry Kobby Wirkowski on his passing. The big one he completed—to Ulysses Curtis in the second quarter—gave Argos their lone major.

Virgil Wagner and Joe Scott scored touchdowns for the Als. Ray Poole tallied a field goal.

Wagner galloped 3 yards in the first quarter, with Joe Scott doing the blocking, and Poole booted his field goal from the 33-yard line.

A booming 60-yard kick by Tex Coulter to the Toronto goal line was followed by disaster for Argos when Al Pfiefer dropped Wirkowski's pass. Jim Mitchener snatched up the ball and ran to the three-yard line. Wagner took it over.

Steve Karrys' punt gave Argos their first point in the second quarter when Tommy Manastersky caught the ball far back of his goal line and conceded a rouge.

A few minutes later, with play on the Argo 44, Wirkowski heaved his long touchdown pass which Curtis grabbed in the clear after Bruce Coulter had barely touched a ball. Red Ettinger converted.

Alouettes began a march in the third quarter that went 73 yards for a touchdown. Sam Etcheverry's end run and his passes to Manastersky, John O'Quinn and Scott moved play to the Toronto five from where Scott went over. Poole converted.

Later in the same period, Alouettes gambled on a fake kick formation and a pass from Coulte to Etcheverry, but it failed to make yards.

Argos failed to make good on a last-quarter bid after Jack Carpenter had recovered a fumble by Scott and Curtis had carried play to the Montreal 25 on a hand-off. Al Dekdebrun then barged in to intercept the touchdown pass meant for Curtis.

Oshawa Erases Lindsay In Lakeshore Loop Finals

LINDSAY (ENS)—Lindsay Merchants hit the end of the baseball trail last night, as they went down before the powerful Oshawa Transporters 8-1 in the fourth game of their best-of-five series for the Lakeshore Intermediate "A" title.

The Transporters knocked Junior West, Lindsay's starter, out of the box and wrapped up the win with a four-run assault in the sixth inning after Merchants had held their own for the first five frames. Ted Stone, Oshawa's ace, went to the mound and lasted until the fourth, wh n Lindsay scored their only run with a walk and single by Menzies and Huntley. The Transporters had taken a two-run lead with singletons in the first and second, both due to Lindsay errors.

In the sixth, the Transporters found the range in West's pitching and smacked out six safeties, mixed with a sacrifice and error, for their four runs. Hank Debois came in from short to get the third out, and pitched the seventh and final frame.

Lefty Jack Durston relieved Stone for the Transporters, and held the Merchants to two hits over the last three and two-third innings.

Etcher, Maeson and Stone led the winners with two hits each. None of the Lindsayites had more than one single, their seven hits being distributed among Garvey, Menzies, Huntley, Debois, Jewell, Truax and West.

Oshawa played errorless ball with shortstop Frank Varga and third-baseman Crabby Joskoski outstanding. Merchants committed five miscues over the seven innings.

Next for Oshawa is Midland, winners of the North Simcoe League, in the first round of the OBA Intermediate "A" playdowns.

Three Overtime Goals Give Victoria Lacrosse Win

VICTORIA (CP)—Victoria Shamrocks rammed home three overtime goals Wednesday night to defeat Vancouver Pilseners 14-11 in a thrill-packed third game of the B.C. senior lacrosse finals.

The victory earned Victoria a 2-1 lead in the best-of-seven series with the fourth game scheduled for Vancouver Friday night.

It was the Shamrocks' 21st home victory without a loss.

Vancouver, Dominion finalists last year, tied the series Monday with a 10-9 triumph.

Pilseners reached the final by dumping PNE Indians, their crosstown rivals, in the four-team Coast Inter-City Lacrosse League in four games while Victoria sidelined Nanaimo Native Sons in five games.

Winner in the finals will meet Peterborough Trailermen in the Mann Cup Dominion final, starting here Sept. 12. Defending champions, Peterborough defeated Pils in Toronto in 1952 and won in Vancouver in 1951.

The west coast has not won a Dominion title since 1949 when Vancouver Burrards defeated Hamilton Tiger-Cats.

C. A. on Friday evening to consider the referee's report on the conduct of Harold Payne, Ken Downer and W. Hutchinson of the Merchants team. The former was ordered off in the Bat...-Merchants game, while the latter insulted the referee at the end of the game. The 3-man outsider committee deals with the report and gives the penalties for infractions of the game. The local Scots have another match with Port Hope to complete their schedule. On Saturday, October 3, in the city, a select team chosen from the rest of the eastern elevens will play the league champions—UE—to test their qualifications.

Braves Trip Brooks In 9-8 Triumph, Lead Cut To 10

By BEN PHLEGAR, Associated Press Sports Writer

Brooklyn Dodgers nursed a double-barrelled headache today—Milwaukee Braves and Allie Reynolds. The pesky Braves, who apparently refuse to believe the Dodgers are a shoo-in for the flag, are causing the immediate difficulty. The big chief of New York Yankees poses a problem the Dodgers will have to deal with later, assuming they solve the Milwaukee trouble. The Braves tripped the Dodgers 9-8 in Brooklyn Wednesday night, giving them a 5-5 split at Ebbets Field so far this year. No other club has come close to breaking even against the Dodgers in Brooklyn.

The loss cut Brooklyn's lead to 10 games with 22 to play, three more against Milwaukee.

Reynolds, regarded by many as the key to the Yankees' World Series hopes, made his third start since the end of June and pitched eight excellent innings in beating St. Louis Browns 9-1. He allowed only four hits. This was only his fourth success in a starting role this season although he's won 11 games.

FULLY RECOVERED

Plagued by ineffectiveness and injuries in recent weeks, Reynolds appeared fully recovered on both counts.

Although they won, the Yankees didn't add to their 9½-game lead since second-place Chicago and third-place Cleveland also triumphed. The White Sox beat Washington 7-3, Cleveland defeated Philadelphia Athletics 6-3 and Boston whipped Detroit 5-2.

In the National League Robin Roberts of Philadelphia failed to win his 22nd game, bowing to St. Louis Cardinals 10-7. Pittsburgh beat Chicago 8-1 and New York Giants shaded Cincinnati 4-3.

Rookie Jim Pendleton paced the Milwaukee attack with four hits as the Braves came from five runs behind in beating Brooklyn.

CARDINALS EXPLODE

The Cardinals exploded for six runs in the seventh inning at Philadelphia, including a three-run homer by Ray Jablonski and a bases-empty blast by Steve Bilko.

Preston Ward hit a grand-slam home run and drove in six tallies for Pittsburgh against his former Chicago teammates. The victory was No. 42 of the season for the lowly Pirates, equalling their total for all of last year. They have 17 games left.

Ruben Gomez won his 13th game for the Giants in beating Cincinnati.

The Athletics routed Bob Lemon with three runs in the first inning at Cleveland but Art Houtteman stopped them cold the rest of the way. Wally Westlake homered twice for the Indians.

The White Sox pounded four Washington pitchers for 16 hits, a real feast day after their recent diet of Yankee pitching. Nellie Fox paced the attack with three singles.

Mel Parnell won his 18th game for Boston although he needed help from Ellis Kinder in the last two innings at Detroit. Dick Gernert homered with one on for Boston.

White Sox Recall 10 From Minors

CHICAGO (AP)—Chicago White Sox have recalled 10 players now on option in the minors, two of them to report at the end of the minor league season, the others in '54.

Reporting directly are pitchers Hal Hudson of Toronto and Vito Valentinetti of Charleston.

Joining the Sox in spring training will be outfielder Bill Wilson, first baseman Ken Landenberger and pitchers Ross Grimsley and Tom Hurd of Memphis; first baseman Earl York and outfielder Don Nicholas of Charleston; third baseman Hector Rodriquez of Syracuse and pitcher Gus Keriazakos of Waterloo Ia.

70 Candidates For Tiger Team

HAMILTON (CP)—Hamilton Tigers, the unknown quantity this year in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A race, will take to the new ice surface of the Hamilton forum in 12 days, with 70 candidates in the running for 20 positions.

The Detroit Red Wings-sponsored Tigers will build around a nucleus comprising 10 of last season's Windsor Spitfires.

Coach Jim Skinner expects great things from 16-year-old goalie Dennis Riggin, rated as the Detroit organization's No. 4 netminder by Jack Adams. Lou Deitrich, a hard-hitting defenceman from Waterloo, and Larry Hillman, a Kirkland Lake 16-year-old who shone on defence with the Spits, are included in the nucleus.

Other Windsor boys transferring to Hamilton are forwards Gaston Marcotte, Greg Price, Marlin McAlendin, Ed Carriveau, Ed Louttit and Don Reid.

Rose Eliminates Lorne Main

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (CP)—Lorne Main of Vancouver, last of five Canadians competing in the U.S. tennis singles championships, was eliminated Wednesday in a third-round match by Mervyn Rose of Australia.

Rose, third-seeded Australian, had little difficulty as he defeated Main 6-2, 9-7, 6-2.

The seeded stars generally moved easily through third-round matches.

Vic Seixas, first-seeded American and Wimbledon singles titlist, dropped Grant Golden of Wilmette, Ill., 6-2, 6-4, 3-6, 6-3 and little Ken Rosewall of Australia defeated Joaquin Reyes of Mexico 6-4, 4-6, 6-1, 6-2.

But Fred Kovaleski of Washington knocked out sixth-seeded Straight Clark of Pasadena, Calif., 6-3, 9-11, 7-5, 7-5.

Athletics Nip Toronto Leafs In 3-2 Triumph

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Righthander Bob Trice of the Ottawa Athletics Wednesday night became the first International League pitcher to win 20 games this season when his team mates staged a spine-tingling three-run rally in the bottom of the ninth to nip Toronto Maple Leafs 3-2.

The lanky rookie righthander, who was with St. Hyacinthe Athletics of the class "C" Provincial Baseball League last year, held the Leafs to seven hits. He has suffered 10 losses.

First-place Rochester Red Wings, powered by four home runs, downed the tail-end Springfield Cubs 9-5 to maintain their 3½-game lead. Wally Moon cracked two round-trippers for the Wings, each with one aboard, and Vern Benson and Tom Burgess hit the others.

SNAP LOSING STREAK

Buffalo Bisons snapped a four-game losing streak and regained a full-game grip on second place as they defeated Montreal Royals 7-2.

The Bisons slugged five pitchers for 12 hits. Frank Lary delivered the big blow in winning his own game by smacking his second homer of the year with two aboard in the fourth. It was Lary's 16th pitching triumph of the season.

Syracuse Chiefs edged the fourth-place Baltimore Orioles 5-4. Carden Gillenwater slammed a three-run homer in the sixth for Syracuse, but the Chiefs had to repulse a ninth-inning rally to edge the Orioles.

Magistrate Asked For Definition Of Intoxication

LINDSAY (ENS) — "Would Your Worship please give me his definition of intoxication" queried Crown Attorney Lorne Jordan today when Magistrate Gee reduced a charge of intoxicated driving against a Cannington man to one of driving while his ability was impaired.

The magistrate reduced the charge and found Russell Jollow, 52, of Cannington guilty of the lesser count following the trial in police court here Wednesday.

Jollow was charged following an incident on Aug. 23rd when Constable Ross Bailey of the town police, acting on information received from another driver, stopped Jollow after following him through a good part of the town.

Jollow told the court he had driven from a farm near Reaboro, where he had been visiting, inspecting some cattle he had there. The car was owned by Miss Alice Smith, of Elmvale, where Jollow was working.

According to Jollow, Miss Smith had become ill at the farm and although he had not driven for six years and had eye trouble, he took the wheel for the drive to Lindsay. He admitted he might have veered across the centre line of the road a few times, because, he said, the oncoming lights blinded him.

A following driver noticed Jollow's driving and notified police when he arrived in Lindsay.

Constable Bailey found a part case of beer and part of a bottle of whiskey in the car. Accused said he had them with him for a small party on another farm they intended to visit west of Lindsay. He admitted though that he had four bottles of beer and Miss Smith one, at the first farm they visited. Magistrate Gee agreed with defence counsel H. E. Richardson there was no direct evidence of intoxication in the case, and reduced the charge.

Crown Attorney Jordon disagreed with the decision but was told by the magistrate "the job of the crown is to bring out evidence, it's mine to decide the case on the merits of the evidence."

Jollow was fined $50 and costs of $21 on the impairment charge and $5 and $2.50 costs on a charge of failing to produce a license.

Batting—Jim Pendleton, Milwaukee Braves, hit his fourth home run in three games, plus a double and two singles and drove in three runs as the Braves beat Brooklyn 9-8.

Pitching—Allie Reynolds, New York Yankees, struck out six, walked one and gave up four hits in his first victory in a starting assignment since June, 9-1 over St. Louis Browns.

Plans Memorial To Jim Thorpe

TULSA, Okla. (AP)—Mrs. Pat Thorpe, widow of Jim Thorpe, said Wednesday she plans to build a memorial to the great Indian athlete in Tulsa.

Mrs. Thorpe has brought her husband's body here from a mausoleum at Shawnee.

She said she did so because nothing concrete had been done about a proposed memorial there.

Thorpe, one-time Carlisle, Pa., Indian school football great and 1912 Olympics star, was voted the U.S. athlete of the half century in an Associated Press poll.

$500 First Prize In Air Cup Race

TORONTO—Fifteen aircraft of various types and sizes are expected to compete Sept. 19 in the Governor-General's Cup Race, a feature of the National Air Show. First prize is $500.

The Toronto Flying Club, which is producing the air show under city auspices, announced last night that men and women from several parts of the country had requested application forms.

Competitors will be required to fly twice around a 26-mile rectangular course, beginning at the Island Airport, continuing west to the cloverleaf at Brown's Line and the Queen Elizabeth Way, south to the Long Branch rifle range, east to the lighthouse at the Eastern Gap, north to a point indicated by a smokstack on a coal dock, and back to the Island.

Due to the wide variety of participating aircraft, several handicaps have been imposed.

Aussies Finish Behind South

LONDON (AP) — Australia finished 152 runs behind the South of England cricket XI Wednesday but with all their wickets still in hand.

Bill Johnston, Aussie bowler, took six for 77. Only Denis Compton with 81 in two hours showed any confidence against Johnston's bowling.

Close of play scores:

South of England 198; Australian Tourists 46 for no wickets.

Marylebone Cricket Club 362, Yorkshire 26 for no wicket.

Lancashire 152, Sussex one run for no wicket.

Hampshire 82 and 29 for two, Surrey 151.

Collects Flags 84 Countries Supplied 532

OTTAWA (CP) — Stocky, grey-haired Dr. Clarence E. Rungee of New Haven, Conn., came back to Ottawa for a three-day visit recently.

And he recalled a previous visit in 1948 when he walked off with a Red Ensign that flew over the Peace Tower on Parliament Hill. It was given him by the late Prime Minister Mackenzie King, one of the increasing number of world leaders whom Dr. Rungee has cajoled into the surrender of their flags.

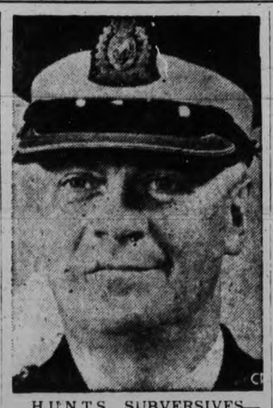
In six years the doctor has collected 532 flags from 84 countries. He says it is the largest collection of its kind in the world. He employs two girls who do nothing but write for flags, and he has quit his practice as a naturopathic physician and owner of a 35-bed hospital to direct their efforts.

He has a Union Jack from the cenotaph in London, obtained by a letter to King George VI, one of the four existing flags of the Supreme Headquarters Allied Powers in Europe, sent by Gen. Matthew Ridgway, and the personal flags of Pope Pius XII, Marshal Tito, and Grand Admiral Raeder of the

He got a Red flag by persistent letters to the Kremlin leaders, Emperor Haile Selassie sent him the flag that flew over his palace at the liberation of Ethiopia and the king of Siam sent a gold-encrusted standard valued at $1,200.

Dr. Rungee obtained many of the flags himself when he was national surgeon-general of the Veterans of Foreign Wars. And he started a collection of autographed photographs of the world's leaders which now numbers 800.

He also collects stamps.



HUNTS SUBVERSIVES—Supt. J. R. Lemieux, 49, of Valleyfield, Que., has been appointed to command the RCMP's special branch which deals with espionage and subversive activities. He was for many years in charge of criminal investigation in Montreal and has been recently with the special branch at Ottawa.

4 Miners Killed

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (Reuters)—One white miner and three African workers were killed Wednesday by falling rock 1½ miles below the surface in the Robinson Deep Gold Mine on the Witwaterrand. Rescue workers were delayed by a second fall and late Wednesday night still were trying to reach the bodies.

Destroy Tomatoes

CAMDEN, N.J. (AP)—The Campbell Soup Co. said Wednesday it has ordered the destruction of nearly 100 truckloads of ripe tomatoes because the firm has no facilities to process them for canning. A firm spokesman estimated the loss would be "many thousands of dollars."

Air Force Day

COBOURG (ENS). — Mayor Jack Burnet has received a letter from Trenton RCAF station, advising him that the seventh annual air force day will be September 19. The letter extends a welcome to all Cobourg residents to take in the air show. Open house hours are from 1:30 to 5:00 p.m.

British Farmer Kenya Colony's Leader

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — A husky British farmer has risen from obscurity to political leadership in this British crown colony. He is Michael Blundell, 46.

He came here when he was 18 with £100 his father gave him. Quickly learning the techniques of rough-and-tumble politics, he became a British member of the elective portion of th eLegislative Council.

Regarded as one o fthe colony's most liberal politicians, he has worked hard and with widespread support among the European (white) population of this race—conscious area, to remove the fears and suspicions among the Europeans, Asians and Africans living in Kenya.

While Blundell believes that the Europeans must continue to exercise authority in the colony, he is anxious to find common ground with the other races, particularly the Africans, whose growing nationalism has resulted in anti-white terrorism and bloodshed.

Blundell also favors measures for improving the social conditions of Africans both in the urban and rural areas and for the development of opportunities for African leaders in local government.

Invent Bagpipes Play Themselves

LONDON (Reuters) — Englishmen have heaped the final indignity on Scotland's head—they have invented bagpipes which play all by themselves.

This contraption, which works on electricity and plugs in just like a washing machine, will give daily receitals at Britain's annual radio and television exhibit, which opened today.

Weighing about 50 pounds, it skirls out pibrochs with the aplomb of a kilted Highlander.

Woe, woe, Caledonia. Not only does this strange beastie work, but on the admission of Scottish visitors to the show, it sounds as good and possibly better than some human pipers.

A Scottish visitor to the exhibit listened to the wail and drone and commented: "Man, they just can't do this to us. Imagine if they make the Black Watch regimental pipers march aboot with this thing strapped on their backs, looking for a place to plug themselves in."

The tunes are played, as in an automatic player piano, by a perforated tape.

Doll Enthusiasts

LONDON (CP)—A dolls' club has been formed here by persons who hope to preserve historic dolls and encourage production of good modern ones by means of exhibitions and competitions.

SNORER'S AID — If you're having trouble sleeping because of snoring noise, Jo Horstmann, of Hemdingen, Germany, models a gadget which may help you. All the snorer has to do is find his "snoring position" and put the gadget on so that it gets bothersome when he assumes that position. The object is to force the snorer to find another way to sleep. It was invented by Albert Netzow, who couldn't stand a relative's snoring.

Two Universities Join In Defence Effort

SASKATOON (CP)—The physics department of the University of Saskatchewan will co-operate with Dartmouth College at Hanover, N.H., in a new research project relating to long-range radio transmission through the auroral zone of the Arctic.

As a joint defence effort of Canadian and United States research organizations, it will be directed from the eastern end by Dr. Millet G. Morgan, director of research at Thayer School of Engineering, Dartmouth College, and from here by J. H. Meek of the Canadian defence research board.

Long-distance radio communication is made possible by the ionosphere, an electrically-charged layer beyond the stratosphere, from 40 to 400 miles above the earth's surface. Signals sent out by one station are reflected by the ionospheric layer and received by another distant station.

VARIABLE RESULTS

Scientists say changes in height of the ionospheric layer are responsible for the variation in radio reception. When the layer is low, the signals are reflected in a narrow angle and reception is good at stations close by.

When the ionospheric layer is higher, radio signals are reflected at wider angles and reception is better at distant stations.

Mr. Meek has equipment at the University of Saskatchewan which includes a radio transmitter that can change the frequency right across the ordinary radio broadcast band and through the short-wave band. The instrument automatically measures the height of the ionospheric barrier which reflects back the signals.

In experiments involving the sending of signals to Hanover, N.H. it would also be possible to check the height of the ionosphere by comparison of the time it takes to send the signals from Saskatoon. The machine also will measure the height of any "clouds" within the electrically-charged layer.

THREE OBJECTIVES

Dr. Morgan in the east has announced that the project will cover three categories. The first aim is to find why one radio wave component interferes with another. This phenomena is a major cause of radio fading.

The second study will concern the Saskatoon station sending signals towards the Arctic and checking the results. This leads to the third phase—transmission of these signals through the auroral zone.

Dr. B. W. Currie, head of the physics department at the university here, says that electrically-charged clouds were definitely related to auroral displays, such as the northern lights. When the auroral zone was active, high-frequency radio waves could not be transmitted through it.

The program at Saskatoon and in New Hampshire will try to develop new techniques and types of radio signals which may permit transmission when the northern lights are present.

THESE ARE THE HILLS that give Commie guerrillas sanctuary for their hit-and-run war in Korea. Here a South Korean anti guerrilla trooper looks down a ridge that's a road to Reds.

THIS IS THE TERROR that springs from guerrilla attacks and makes every farmer a suspect. Here ROK soldiers search a peasant for supplies he might be smuggling to Reds.

Guerrilla War In Korea Ranges Through High Hills

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first of a series of three articles.)

By FRED SPARKS

TAGU, Korea (NEA)—There is still a war going on in Korea.

It is not a flashy, headline war of attacking regiments and rocketing jets. It is an ugly guerrilla war in the typical Communist pattern made notorious in Greece, Malaya and Indo-China.

Although the truce terms specify removal of all units from behind the lines, there are countless reasons to believe this guerrilla war will expand in the months ahead, a new approach to break the heart of South Korea from within.

Two thousand seasoned guerrillas, directed from North Korea and aided by thousands of terrified, innocent farm people, are costing South Korea and the U.S. millions daily and tying down more than 25,000 soldiers and a like number of policemen and volunteer guards.

FIGHTING COSTLY

If you think this is only a few Reds, remember: There are only 500 Mau Maus, yet they engage the full time of a crack British division in Kenya.

There never were more than 5,000 guerrillas in Greece, but it took a billion American dollars, the military genius of General James Van Fleet, and a Greek army of 200,000 to crush them.

It is a hit-and-run war. The guerrillas hit at night—jump a wandering soldier, ambush a truck, fire a railroad station—and run when governmen tforces appear.

From the Yalu River, through the heart of South Korea to the southwestern corner where the Cheri-san Mountains tower above rich valleys, there is a continuous line of cliffs and hills.

✧ ✧ ✧

The guerrillas, expert ridge runners, use the hills as a highway despite the efforts of patrolling troops. Almost nightly since the truce, couriers from North Korea have been arriving at guerrilla GHQ in the Cheri-san chain with these instructions:

"Consolidate your units now. Prepare for greater activities. The truce does not affect your operations.

"You are the beginnings of a new movement to 'liberate' all Korea from the Fascist American invaders. Stand fast: We are sending re-enforcements."

28,000 REDS

The Korean minister of home affairs, Chin Hun Shik, says the "re-enforcements" mean 28,000 Communists bing trained in North Korea to infiltrate south.

The original seed for the present guerrilla war was planted in the fall of 1950 after General MacArthur made his landing at Inchon, took Seoul and scattered North Korean forces.

Thousands of Reds, by-passed by our GIs, took up mountain residence, feeding themselves from villages too numerous for defense.

Two years ago American and ROK division in "Operation Rat Killer" scratched 21,000 guerrillas. But, as I noted during a jeep and mountain climbing journey, the terrain is so pitted with caves and crevasses that the world's soldiery could parade back and fourth and still overlook populated pockets.

Studying the day's ticker at anti-guerrilla headquarters here is like reading the medical report of a sick man's internal disorders:

Three ROK soldiers in a truck shot by snipers... Four shepherds kidnapped (forcibly recruited)... Wife of a policeman tied to a rock, her throat slit... One hundred yards of telephone wire on the main trunk line slashed... A town arsenal looted of two sub-machine guns...

TRAINS GUARDED

All trains are guarded, doors locked to prevent unfriendly boarders who might leap on at slow curves. Many night runs have been cancelled. Jeeps travel in pairs, with a soldier, gun on the ready, sitting next the driver as "shotgun rider." Hairpin mountain roads offer cover for any ambush party. Towns have a 10 p.m. curfew.

These are the basic guerrilla objectives:

To sap morale and encourage South Korea to drastic acts further splitting the Allies.

To ready a behind-the-lines organization to slice the land should the big war re-explode.

To maintain GHQ for spying activities on Allied placements.

To offer a haven for any Communist working in cities and a GHQ for illegal Red printing presses, which now turn out bales of Red papers with Molotov's proclamations.

Six Die of Polio

REGINA (CP)—Six polio deaths were reported in Saskatchewan last week, boosting to 28 the total number of deaths due to the disease reported up to Aug. 31, health authorities said Tuesday. Total number of cases so far this year was set at 453, an increase of 108 over the week previous.

Stresses Need For Canadian Arts And Crafts

KEENE — (ENS) — Guest speaker at the Women's Institute was Thor. C. Hansen, Toronto, designer of the interior decoration scheme in the British-American Oil Building.

Mr. Hansens' theme was the development of Canadian arts and crafts.

He urged the use of all-Canadian souvenirs and stressed the importance of painting and designing in a Canadian style, not in imported designs. He also emphasized the value of collecting and recording the histroy of the local communities for preservation.

Mr. Hansen showed a series of slides depicting his own designs in needlepoint, hooked rugs, tapestries, quilt and fabric designs, interior decorating and a film showing a record of the crafts and designs incorporated in the interior decoration scheme of the British American Oil building, Toronto.

Mrs. Evelyn Anderson thanked the speaker and refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. Dave McIntyre; Mrs. Jack Hope, and Mrs. Elmer Adamson.

The president, Mrs. M. Maloney took the chair for the business meeting. The exhibit for the exhibition was discussed and it was decided not to enter it in the Lakefield Fair which is held prior to the Peterborough Exhibition.

Mrs. Anderson announced that the WI were invited to attend Achievement Day of the Junior Homemakers' Club, September 26 and asked to be relieved of the leadership of that group for the coming year.

It was decided to cater to the next Lions Club dinner meeting. Mrs. A. Eason, Mrs. D. McNevan, Mrs. E. Anderson and Mrs. H. Bidgood are the committee to look after the arrangements.

Temporary Relief

COBOURG (ENS)—A torrential rain, which lasted only about ten minutes, was a welcome but temporary relief from Wednesday's heat. Storm clouds, shot with lightning, rolled up from the west about 7:30 p.m., an orange glow suffused the black clouds and then rain started to come in heavy drops that soon became a downpour. It dampened parched lawns and the evaporation cooled off the air but the heat came in again as bad as ever.

MR. AND MRS. ALFRED C. HALL and "Nicky" smile their joy at being reunited after a seven-year split. Mrs. Hall left Moscow just a few days ago to receive the welcome pictured above from a husband and a father who was seeing his son for the first time. Mr. Hall, now a British information officer stationed at Ottawa, married his pretty Russian wife in Moscow in 1946 and then had to leave the country without her as the Russians refused to give her an exit visa. After long waiting and many letters requesting the visa, Mrs. Hall was finally informed by the British Embassy in the Kremlin that the visa had been granted.

Pail Of Honey Causes Fire

COBOURG (ENS) — A quantity of thick honey being heated in an electric pail caught fire Thursday afternoon, Base Line Road, and filled the cellar and part of the upstairs with smoke. Cobourg fire brigade was called, but no damage had been caused.

Later in the afternoon the fire department was called by a false alarm to the Ontario Training School for Boys, the second one in the past two days at the school.

It is believed a defect in the automatic fire alarm at the school has caused the several false alarms that have occurred there in the past six months.

Norway Drought

OSLO (CP)—A prolonged drought in northern Norway late this summer dried up many wells, causing a severe shortage of drinking water in some rural districts.

AT KOREA MEETING—George Ignatieff, a counsellor at the Canadian embassy in Washington, represents Canada at a meeting in Washington with 15 other United Nations countries which contributed forces to the Korean war. The countries will discuss the time and place for a peace conference with the Communists.

Put Up Or Shut Up Challenge Handed Russia By Big Three

By JOHN SCALI

WASHINGTON (AP)—The West confronted Russia today with a "put up or shut up" challenge to attend a Big Four foreign ministers' conference on the long-deadlocked German and Austrian problems.

A joint U. S.-British-French note to this effect not only appeared to put Moscow on a diplomatic spot but simultaneously handed West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer powerful campaign ammunition for Sunday's election test.

Adenauer, long regarded as staunchly pro-western, was expected during the last three days of the pre-election battle to hail the western note as proof this policy will insure German unification and backing for his insistence on free elections throughout Germany as the first big step.

GIVE ADENAUER HAND

U. S. diplomats frankly asserted the latest note to Moscow would automatically give Adenauer a last-minute helping hand. But they insisted it was a sincere western effort to settle the critical German and Austrian issues.

The three-power notes, delivered to the Russian foreign office Wednesday, called on Russia's foreign minister V. M. Molotov to discuss the future of Germany and Austria at a formal meeting in Lugano, Switzerland, starting Oct. 15.

In diplomatic language, the western powers told Moscow to stop making propaganda statements about the need for German and Austrian peace settlements and undertake sincere negotiation instead.

STAND FIRM

The United States, Britain and France stood firm on elections before unification, rejecting Russia's proposal that a "provisional government" be set up by merging the Communist-dominated East German regime and the West German government and that elections be held afterwards.

"An all-German government which is not based on the will of the people as expressed in free elections would not be qualified to take vital decisions affecting the future of the united Germany," said the West.

The western missions also turned down Moscow's attempt to expand the Big Four meeting into a Big Five session which would include Communist China.

Red China's participation in talks on Germany and Austria "could not be justified," said the notes.

Funeral Service Held For Mrs. E. Radford

CAMPBELLFORD (ENS) — Funeral services were conducted here on Wednesday for 70-year-old Mrs. Beatrice Radford, wife of Edward Radford, of Hastings.

Mrs. Radford died following an automobile accident on the 10th concession of Seymour township on Sunday night, when a car, driven by her son Douglas, went out of control and struck a stump.

Mrs. Radford is survived by her husband, who is in Civic Hospital in Peterborough as a result of the same accident, and four sons, Douglas, Edward and Clayton, of Hastings, and Gerard of Campbellford. She has one daughter, Mrs. L. Rose (Hilda), of Peterborough.

Funeral services were conducted from Bennett's funeral parlours at 2.30 p.m. Burial was in Christ Church cemetery. Mrs. Radford's granddaughter was [illegible] in the Trent Canal in Campbellford several years ago and she said at that time that she wished to be buried beside the little girl. Her wish was carried out on Wednesday.

Fresh Earth Tremors

PATRAS, Greece (Reuters)—Fresh rain storms and new tremors today hit the earthquake-battered Ionian islands off the west coast of Greece. A storm last week swept away huts and shelters built by earthquake victims at Argostoli, on the devastated Greek island of Cephalonia. New tremors today shook the crumbling ruins in Argostoli and Zakynthos, piling up new heaps of ruble.

Motorist Fined $5,000

CHICAGO (AP)—Fines totalling more than $5,000 were assessed against a motorist Wednesday and the judge said the penalty was the highest ever made for traffic offences in the United States. Jerry Leverson, alias L. J. Borwen, 27, was fined $5,349 on 71 traffic violations, most of them speeding. Leverson was unable to pay the fines and was taken to the city jail. He faces a sentence of more than nine years if he works his fines off at the rate of $1.50 a day.

A. J. Silver Transferred To Windsor Bank

A. J. Silver, assistant accountant of the Peterborough branch of the Bank of Montreal, left today for Windsor where he has been appointed assistant accountant in the main branch of the bank. He came to Peterborough about two years ago, and is now being succeeded by Norman H. Kelly who has been transferred from Sarnia.

Mr. Silver has been secretary-treasurer of Civic Arena committee of management and also of the firemen's benefit fund.

At the Park Hotel, Burleigh Falls last night, Mr. Silver was the guest of his associates at a farewell dinner. They presented him with a gladstone travelling bag and wished him well in Windsor. The presentation was made by Ford Warren, manager of Peterboroubh branch.

Mr. Silver said he hoped to find there as congenial a company as the staff of the bank in this city, and also expressed his appreciation of the friendliness of the public here.

Bulbs Planted In September Do Better The Next Spring

By R. W. OLIVER
Division of Horticulture,
Central Experimental Farm

It is more important to plant bulbs in the fall than to plant anything else because it is the only time when you can plant them successfully. Most people do it too late, so that the bulbs have little chance to root before the ground freezes. We like to give them at least four weeks before November 15th, and have always found that bulbs planted in September were happier than those planted at a later date. Daffodils can be planted in August if you have them in time.

That is the difficulty, of course. It is hard to purchase bulbs early. Most of them are produced in Holland, England or British Columbia; geographical localities where one does not need to plant early and the shippers do not seem to be in a rush to supply local dealers.

FIRST TO BLOOM

Spring flowering bulbs, tulips, daffodils, crocus, hyacinth, scillas, chionodoxa, snowflake, snowdrop, grape hyacinth and turks cap, to put them in approximate order of popularity, are among the first to bloom after the snow leaves and are consequently loved by everyone and used in many ways in the garden.

In the perennial border or as foreground to shrubbery daffodils, tulips of different classes, hyacinths and turks caps—fritillarias—are planted in groups of a dozen or so of one variety along the middle or toward the back of the border where their fading foliage in June can be partly hidden by other perennial plants such as lychnis, phlox or speedwell until time to remove it about July first. Such bulbs should be planted 6"-8" apart, covered to a depth of 4" over the bulb.

The smaller bulbs, such as scilla, crocus, snowflake, snowdrop and grape hyacinth, should be planted in groups near the front adjacent to late flowering things like erigeron, campanulas, etc. Daffodils and the smaller bulbs may be left in the same spot for several years, but tulips—except early singles — are better to be dug up every second year about July first, stored dry over summer, cleaned, regraded and planted back again in September.

Tulips are often used to good advantage in solid beds, followed by annual flowering or bedding plants. The varieties known as early singles and doubles are best for this purpose. They may be planted in October and November and can be dug up about the first of June when the time arrives to plant the annuals.

Daffodils and crocus are often used in lawns, as on the Driveway near the Aylmer Road or the War Memorial. In order for the bulbs to store enough food to ensure their reappearance next year, it is necessary to leave the foliage for a time after the bloom is finished. This means that the grass cannot be cut closely during the month of May so that this practice with daffodils can only be used in more or less natural settings.

NEED MOISTURE

All bulbs need well drained soil but appreciate a good supply of moisture. Manure should not be used at planting time but a liberal dressing dug into the site in spring where bulbs are to be planted in autumn would have been excellent, as this would provide the decomposed organic matter so necessary to hold moisture, lighten the soil and supply plant food. At planting time an application of 5 lbs. of 5-10-13 fertilizer per 100 sq. ft. of bed surface will give an extra boost. If the soil is heavy it should be opened up by the addition of peat moss, leaf mould or sand. In low lying areas, beds should be built up above the surrounding level to shed water as poor drainage may cause rotting of bulbs.

A few specific remarks about different kinds may help the beginner.

Daffodils and narcissus are now considered one big group and the varieties are classified according to the length of the cup. Yellow used to be the predominating color but the modern trend is toward varieties with white perianth and orange to apricot cup. As the size of the bulb varies a great deal in different varieties the planting distance and depth also varies. Small ones can be placed 4" apart and covered 3" deep.

MORE TULIPS GROWN

There are probably more tulips grown than all other sorts put together. There are so many different casses and hundreds of varieties so that you can work out interesting color groupsings.

Hyacinths are more tricky to handle. Well drained clay loam is best and a mulch of dry leaves or straw through the winter is a good thing.

Crocus come in yellow and white to violet. They spread well except in winters when there is no snow, like the past one. Gradually they work to the surface and need replaning every four or five years.

Chionodoxa or glory of the sonw is one of the earliest. The star shaped blue or rose flowers face upwards with white centres while the flowers of scilla hang down like small blue bells. Both seed themselves freely and make excellent underplanting in the shrubbery. As the young foliage looks like grass, leave the hoe in the tool shed until June.

Then ther are snowdrops (Galanthus) and snowflakes (Leucojum). Both are white with green tips. The first earlier and more dainty than the latter. They, too, are excellent under shrubs as well as at the front of a perennial border.

Grape hyacinth is a little later than the others. The flowers are small and blue. They are clustered around the stem like a very small hyacinth or bunch of grapes. The foliage like that of ornithogallum sometimes called Star of Bethlehem, a white flowered June bloomer, comes up in fall and forms bright green spots when the snow goes.

Trek Through Snow

(AP) A Canadian troops Tuesday trekked upward a remote Andean peak where 20 men have died in intense cold and snowslides during the past week. Air force planes dropped supplies to 130 soldiers marooned at an army post 12,000 feet up in the Andes. It is midwinter in Argentina.

Fire Destroys Dragger

CHATHAM, Mass. (AP) — An explosion-fed fire destroyed the 72-foot fishing dragger Marcella Tuesday night 23 miles east of this port. Another boat, the Geraldine and Phyllis, rescued the Marcella's seven-man crew after the craft's gas tanks exploded.

Strike Cripples Radio, TV Show

LONDON (Reuters) — A spreading electricians' strike today crippled the opening of Britain's 20th annual radio and television exposition here.

Crowds flocking to Exhibition Hall this morning found two-thirds of the television booths dark because 300 London electricians are on strike for a three-cent hourly wage raise.

Some 1,600 workers are out throughout Britain in the eight-day-old walkout led by Walter Stevens, Communist general secretary of the Electrical Trades Union.

However, the BBC's $60,000 studio and TV demonstration went ahead as scheduled on a 21-foot-wide movie screen.

Using Siren To Chase Ducks

VULCAN, Alta. (CP)—The national research council has set up a siren in a nearby field in an attempt to rid farmers of grain-consuming ducks. But the experimenters are dubious of the effects of the high-pitched device, called "Screaming Memie."

When they tried it near Kindersley, Sask., it scared 90 per cent of the ducks, but "dried up the cows and the hens stopped laying" said E. L. Paynter, Saskatchewan game commissioner.

The siren, the first one to be used for such a purpose in Alberta, can be heard for four miles.

Brownell Announces Anti-Trust Indictment

WASHINGTON (AP) — Attorney-Genral Herbeert Brownell today announced an anti-trust indictment against the Detroit (Mich.) Wholesale Produce Buyers Association and five of its officials. He said the indictment was returned by a federal grand jury in Detroit this morning.

Brownell said it is charged that the association and its officers have conspired to prevent or discourage small retail grocery stores from buying fresh fruits and vegetables from the car-lot receivers at the Detroit [illegible] terminal, but have not pursued the same policy with respect to chain stores and "super markets."

Led Polygamous Colony

SHORT CREEK, Ariz. (AP)—Joseph Smith Jessop, bearded patriarch of the polygamous colony at Short Creek, died Tuesday night. The 83-year-old leader succumbed after days of grieving over the fate that had descended upon his town. The state of Arizona raided the settlement near the Utah border July 26 and arrested virtually every man, woman and child. Some of the women and children were taken to Phoenix in state custody.

Discovers New Labrador Crater

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A noted Canadian scientist Wednesday reported discovery of a huge, water-filled crater in the wilds of northern Labrador. Dr. Victor Ben Meen, director of the Royal Ontario Museum of Geology and Mineralogy in Toronto, said he believes the crater was gouged out of the earth by a giant meteorite 3,000 to 15,000 years ago.

Dr. Meen, addressing the opening session of the Meteoritical Society at the University of Pennsylvania here, said the crater is believed to be a "baby brother" to the much larger and well-known Chubb Crater. The latter, located 450 miles northwest of Meen's discovery, is 6.8 miles in circumference compared to the newly discovered crater's estimated 185-yard diameter.

The Canadian meteorologist explored the Chubb crater in 1951 for the National Geographic Society. At the time, the second crater had also been sighted, but was confused with the Chubb depression.

U.K. Rocket Said Key To A-Bomb

WASHINGTON (Reuters) — Senator Alexander Wiley, chairman of the United States Senate foreign relations committee, said today that Britain has found the answer to the problem of defence against attack by the atom and hydrogen bombs.

In an interview with Reuters, he said Britain's new 3,000-m. p. h. rocket, which can find and destroy an enemy plane before it arrives at a target, is the backbone of an adequate defence.

"In this country we are told that eight out of 10 planes attacking will penetrate our defences. To stop only two planes out of 10 is not an adequate defence. Britain now has the answer to this problem."

Senator Wiley said he based his conclusions on information he had received about the new rocket.

Board Reserves Ruling On Decertification

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario labor relations board Wednesday reserved decision on an application by the Walmer Transport Co. Ltd., to decertify the Hamilton Truck Drivers' Union as bargaining agent for its employes.

Four other companies are asking the board to declare illegal the actions of the union in its recent strike. Companies involved are: Walmer Transport, Hamilton; Jones Transport, Brantford; Hanover Transport, Walkerton; and Thos. Sayles Transport, Brantford.

West Berlin "Open Door" For Russians, Others Fleeing Drab, Policed Life In East

WEST GERMANY (AP)—Here is the open door for Soviet nationals who choose freedom. It is a reception centre for those who flee Russia.

The centre is paid for and operated by the U. S. government. It produces detailed information about conditions in the Soviet Union. It turns disillusioned exnationals of the U. S. S. R. into free men.

The address is not revealed—for the safety of those who have not will come from behind the iron curtain.

The reception centre was founded 2½ years ago after the Korean war showed how little the U. S. government knew about the Soviet empire. For years the U. S. had been paying scant attention to strategic human assets—men who knew much about Red Russia because they had been born and reared there, and worn the uniforms of its armed forces until, suddenly, they fled to the West.

At one point the trickle of Soviet fugitives nearly dried up. The reception centre set out to change the trend.

It is too much to say that the trickle now is a large flow. But dozens have passed through the centre. It seems the word is getting back to Communist forces on the other side of the line.

The centre occupies a series of villas scattered through gardens and woods. Its American personnel wear plain clothes and are gifted at foreign languages, human relationships, moral building.

A score of rooms provide private offices where detailed studies are made of the Soviet Union as the refugees know it.

The topics may range from the activity observable at a Siberian factory to the price of food in Tiflis and the disposition of Soviet U.S. S. R. are gathered with especially keen interest. What the West wants to know about Russia is: Everything!

The findings are sent to Washington, London and Paris. Exchange of information about the Soviet Union is on a reciprocal basis.

The centre's responsibility is not finished when a Soviet national exhausts his fund of information. He must be helped to a new career, protected from Soviet reprisal, given a fresh start.

The centre enlists other U. S. authorities in helping him get a visa to a country in the Americas, usually the United States, though Canada and Brazil are also favored destinations.

If he had a profession in civilian life, the centre does its best to arrange for him to resume.

If he is young, willing and single, he can join the U.S. army. Nobody says "deserter" here. The word is banned.

Any Soviet national who makes a break for freedom is welcome in his own language is chelovek ybezhnize—person seeking haven.

They are usually still in uniform when they arrive. Sometimes they escape by walking across a sector border street in Berlin or Vienna. Others swim a river or steal through a forest.

Some do not flee alone. They bring a sweetheart—German or Austrian, Czech or Polish.

Steps are taken to ensure that any planted agents of the Soviets are discovered quickly.

Machine Used To Set Pack Size

MONTREAL (CP)—Two Massachusetts scientists have produced an electrical machine which they hope will give the soldier of tomorrow something a little more approaching the ideal pack.

But they don't hold out any hope the ideal will ever be attained, or if it is that it will stop old hands grumbling.

Dr. P. V. Karpovitch, Springfield, Mass., co-developer of the machine with Dr. C. J. Hale, said today the idea can provide only a guiding principle in pack design.

"The soldier demands his pack weigh nothing; army commanders say all packs should be invisible for tactical reasons, and supply services want it to contain everything the fighting man needs," Dr. Karpoviteh said in a paper read at the 19th international physiological congress.

The machine measures pressure exerted by the carrying straps at two points, across the shoulders and above the chest.

Surveys of the effects of pack weights on soldiers' endurance have been made at United States quartermaster climatic laboratories.

Bought Murder, Jailed For Life

BUTLER, Pa. (AP)—Ernest E. Storch, 50, convicted two weeks ago of paying two Pittsburgh Negroes $2,500 as a down payment on $10,000 for the murder of his wife, was sentenced today to life imprisonment.

Mrs. Storch's body, clad in a nightgown, was found Feb. 25 in the wrecked bedroom of her home 20 miles west of this western Pennsylvania community. She was strangled with an electric cord and stabbed 11 times in the hips and abdomen.

Two men to whom Storch paid the $2,500 now are serving life terms. They are Walter Henderson, 25, and Russell Budd, 28.

Urge Training Centres Used For Anglican Laymen

FORT WILLIAM (CP) — Establishment of training centres for laymen of the Anglican Church in Canada was urged here Wednesday.

In his annual report to the executive council of the general synod and general board of religious education of the Church of England in Canada, A. Harding, general secretary of the GBRE, said that there is a new awareness in the church of the untapped spiritual resources of her lay members.

There was also a new desire on the part of the laity to serve the church in an intelligent way.

The proposed training centres would not be in competition with any of the church's other educational institutions, he said.

A gift by an anonymous donor of $50,000 to raise stipends of the clergy was reported. Also announced was the retirement of the Rt. Rev. J. Lofthouse, bishop of Keewatin.

Other highlights of the session:

The church decided against action to claim compensation for war losses of church property in China and Japan.

It approved a special Arctic allowance of $40 a year for married men and $200 a year for single men.

Singapore's Night Life Has Run Down

By WARREN WHITE

SINGAPORE (Reuters) — The glitter is going out of this sophisticated southeast Asian night life centre as Malayan tin and rubber prices fall lower than any time in the last four years under the impact of the Korean armistice.

A look at Singapore's night life has traditionally been as good a rough guide as any to the health of the Malayan economy.

Here, those with money, can buy themselves hours of plush, dinner-jacketed, air-conditioned night club life, with entertainment by Chinese singers, Balinese dancers, Siamese Contortionists and, sometimes, English or Australian song and dance teams.

For the wealthy there is champagne, nightingales' eyes, planked steaks and the best wines of France and Portugal.

The colony's professional hosts and entrepeneurs like to tell the guest: "Name your wish and it shall be fulfilled."

nied reports that if one had the right contacts, one could obtain the legendary Malay dish of monkey's brains, most things found in Asian or European capitals are to be had here.

But the money to buy refinements of eating and entertainment now is more difficult to get and expensively - imported entertainers are gloomily playing to half-empty houses.

Singapore night life has been running down since Christmas, when the possibility of a Korean peace began to make itself felt in lower returns for rubber and tin.

The price for rubber here now is about a fourth of what it was when the Korean war was in its first year, and tin prices have, dropped to a third in the peak reached during the Korean war.

In the last few months, more than 60 Chinese tin mines have closed down.

Rubber planters now are contemplating "care and maintenance" which will leave large acreages of rubber trees untapped for better days.

Act Against Tax

ROME (Reuters)—Rome's 4,000 bar and cafe owners Tuesday threatened to take their gaily painted tables and chairs off the city's pavements and switch off their neon signs if they are forced to pay a new municipal tax. They also threatened a total 24 - hour strike if the municipal council carries out its plan to make the tax retroactive to Jan. 1, and gave mayor Salvatore Rebecchini 12 hours to withdraw the new tax.

Sailor Finds Old Girl Friend

TORONTO (CP)—Allan Glassford has found his girl friend.

The 21-year-old United States Navy man from Elmira, N.Y., said Tuesday night he had spent all his time off from his Canadian National Exhibition auto show job looking for the girl he met in a Toronto museum when his ship visited Canada years ago.

She was 17-year-old Stella Schwartz of Toronto and they corresponded for two years. But Allen joined the army and was taken prisoner in Korea. When he was released recently he set about finding Stella again.

"When I joined the auto show and knew I was coming to Toronto, I thought it was my chance to look for her," he said. Finally he found where her aunt lived and from her got Stella's new address.

"We hardly recognized each other," said Allan. "But she is more attractive than ever."

Fnd Dynamite Charge On Railway Track

NELSON, B.C. (CP)—A charge of dynamite, fused and ready to explode, was found on a Canadian Pacific Railway track near here Wednesday, less than half an hour before a freight train was due over the spot.

John Stenoski, section foreman, said he found the explosive near Tarrys, a siding 18 miles southwest of this Kootenay valley city.

He said it "appeared to have been placed there that morning."

RCMP officials here said the bomb was similar in make to those used in the past by fanatical Doukhobor fire-raiders.

Judging Cattle Hot Work In Sun

Norman McConkey is ready to corroborate those top bracket records of Wednesday's heat. He judged 135 Holstein cattle at the Leeds county Black and White Day at Lansdowne in the afternoon. He also judged the calf clubs on Tuesday.

"We started Wednesday at noon on the sunny side of the Community Centre that is constructed on the same metallic material as Peterborough Centre on Park St." Mr. McConkey said today. "The judging job wasn't finished until 6 p.m. That was really when I felt the effect of the afternoon's work in the sun."

Peterborough Black and White Day is Saturday afternoon at the Otonabee Community Centre, Keene, with Roy Ormiston of Brooklin, Ontario county, as judge.

"I am expecting our own Holstein breeders will make a good show Saturday, with perhaps a bigger list of entries than usual," Mr. McConkey said. "We have the stock, and it is only a matter of the farmers deciding to keep Peterborough abreast of the other counties. They have all been setting new entry records."

Food Prices Are Lower Than You Think

A survey of the various grocery market stores in Peterborough has opened the eyes of many shoppers to the advantages of reading advertisements very closely before their week-end shopping. Some of the smaller food markets have proven that it is not necessary to have spacious large stores in order to have the lowest prices. It is true that a very large market will have eight rows of Campbell's Tomato Soup to sell at 2 tins for 25c. But you might just as well buy in a smaller store where there are only 4 rows but the price is 2 tins for 23c. The width of a display is to entice you to buy, not necessarily to give you the best price. This is just one example of many. You will find that there is a full variety in some of the smaller stores to suit your taste. You will find that one advertisement is featuring potatoes at $1.39 per 75 lb. bag this week-end. This price is much lower than any advertisement for some time past. Some large markets do not feature this money-saving special because of the inconvenience to themselves in handling large bags of potatoes. Another feature is on Sockeye salmon at 32c per tin instead of 33c to 39c per tin. Read Ross Food Markets advertisement on page 13 in to-night's paper for other unexpected bargains. They are not asking you to visit them because they are the youngest local chain, but because their prices, values, and [illegible] There are no parking problems at Ross Food Markets or very long lines at the wickets. Prospects of beating city parking meters for a coin or two were foiled this week as two repairmen from the company which manufactured the meters were in the city making minor adjustments and repairs to a number of the instruments.

Motorists have dropped $181,243.27 into parking meters since they were first installed on city streets on May 12, 1947.

New Building Matches August 1952

2 Apartment Houses Service Station Largest On List

The amount and value of new building in the city during August was almost the same as for the same month last year.

The number of permits issued for garages and houses was exactly the same both months. Although there were more permits issued for miscellaneous building in August, 1952, than last month, total value in that category was higher this year.

No permits were issued last month for high-priced industrial or commercial building.

There were 20 permits issued for garages last month, with a total value of $6,019, while there were 18 permits issued for houses with a total value of $149,900, and 65 permits for miscellaneous building, with a total value of $81,723.

In August, 1952, there were 20 permits issued for garages, with a total value of $4,850, while there were permits issued for 18 houses with a total value of $170,950, and 88 permits for miscellaneous building, with a total value of $81,448.

Chief items included a permit for two $20,000 apartment buildings on Clonsilla Ave. to T. D. Miller, comprising eight living units of four rooms each, and a permit for $14,000 service station on Otonabee St. to Canadian Oil Co. Ltd.

Start Next Week On New Bridge

LINDSAY (ENS)—Work is expected to start next week on construction of the new Lindsay St. bridge by Victoria county.

This week a tug and barge from the Department of Transport, Ottawa, have been waiting, while workmen prepare to swing the span of the old bridge, owned by the federal department, for removal. It will be stored temporarily at Rosedale.

Demolition of the old county section of the bridge will begin next week, according to county engineer H. D. Wilford.

The new bridge, to cost an estimated $90,000, will take 16 weeks to complete. It is likely, if severe weather is encountered, that the two sidewalks will be installed next spring.

The bridge will be of rigid frame construction with two spans of reinforced concrete. It will have a 33-foot roadway, equal to the width of the old bridge, including two sidewalks. One of the new sidewalks is to be built by the town.

While the bridge is being built, traffic from the east section of Lindsay and all traffic on Highway 36 to Bobcaygeon is being rerouted along Wellington and William Sts.

Rizzuto Collapses After Ball Game

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Phil Rizzuto, New York Yankee shortstop, collapsed after Wednesday night's game with St. Louis Browns and was taken to his hotel room in a Red Cross ambulance.

Rizzuto was overcome in the Yankee dressing room after leaving the game in the ninth inning. "We couldn't tell whether it was the heat or what," said Red Patterson, the Yankee press relations man. Rizzuto had no fever. He had a restful night and, Patterson said, "It apparently was nothing serious."

A physician was to examine him today.

HAPPY TO BE HOME—Pte. George Griffiths and his wife Barbara [illegible] show how happy they are that the soldier is home after being released by the Chinese Reds from a prison in Korea.

Good To Be Home

Former PoW Comes Home To Happy Wife and Parents

CAMPBELLFORD (ENS)—"It's just good to be home," said Pte. George Griffiths, released PoW, who arrived at his home near Brighton at 1:15 p.m. on Wednesday. Brighton is 20 miles south of Campbellford on No. 2 Highway. Griffiths appeared to be in good health, and was all smiles when he talked to an Examiner reporter on Wednesday afternoon shortly after his arrival.

His wife and his mother and father, as well as his younger brother Verdon, were on hand at Malton Airport near Toronto to meet the plane which carried him from Vancouver during the night on Tuesday.

RAN TO PLANE

Mrs. Griffiths was the first to greet her husband. She ran out onto the tarmac to greet him seconds after the big plane rolled to a stop at Malton. The group had waited more than three hours to meet the plane, and all were becoming slightly impatient when it was announced the ship would be about an hour late. "It was worth waiting for though," said Mrs. Griffiths.

George's brother, Verdon is in the R.C.H.A. stationed at Winnipeg. At the present time he is on leave and was on hand to greet his older brother. He was granted an extension of his leave to make this possible.

When asked how he was treated by the Communists while he was interned in Camp 3, a short distance south of the Yalu River in North Korea, Griffiths said, "sometimes good, and sometimes not so good".

"During the winter last year, they treated us pretty bad,—it was grim for a while—but when spring came, conditions improved and they treated us pretty fair", he said. He said his own opinion is that the better treatment was because of the peace talks at Panmunjom. The further the talks progressed, the better became the treatment of war prisoners.

ROAST BEEF

Griffiths' first meal at home was roast beef and Christmas cake. He had tasted neither in a long time. He said he had nothing planned and was going to enjoy the 64 days leave he had been granted. One thing he was looking forward to, was breakfast in bed. He hadn't had that in a long time either.

George was loud in his praise of the UN Red Cross Organization and of the Canadian Red Cross. "They couldn't seem to do enough for us," he said.

He also paid tribute to an Australian Army organization, the [illegible] party and dances and refreshments for the released prisoners when they were landed in Japan.

The prisoners got no food parcels from the Red Cross while they were in the prison camp. "The [illegible] Communists wouldn't let any in", he said.

When word came that the prisoners were to be released, the Communists allowed a party of Red Cross officials into the North Korea area to meet the men. They were supplied with shaving equipment, tooth paste and other luxuries they had not seen in a long time.

City's Fire Loss In August Valued At $6,765

Estimated total fire loss in Peterborough during July was $6,765, former Fire Chief Ralph Leonard revealed in his monthly report to city council.

Biggest loss was $3,500 to a box car containing 400 gallons of perchloric acid, which exploded July 20 on a CPR siding south of Charlotte St. near the Otonabee River.

Second largest loss was an estimated $3,005 to the contents of an asphalt mixer which burned July 22. Damage to the mixer itself was estimated at $100.

Other damage to buildings during July totalled $160.

The department responded to 40 alarms during July, 33 by telephone, two box calls, two verbal calls, one sprinkler and two by radio. Total distance travelled was 134.5 miles.

Drills and lectures were carried out during the month at the central station. There were no practice drills held by the substation volunteers.

Inspections during July totalled 514, of which three were by the chief and 511 by inspectors, including 19 re-inspections.

Advise Signal At Crossing

LINDSAY (ENS)—A coroner's jury at Omemee Monday night attached blame to no person involved in January 22's level crossing fatality in Omemee, when Russell Deyell, passenger in a car driven by Edgar Johnston, lost his life.

The mishap occurred early in the morning, as the men started on their way back from work at Oshawa. Their car was struck by a CNR train at a level crossing north of Highway 7.

The jury brought in a recom[illegible] some sort of automatic warning signal be installed at the fatal crossing, due to the restricted visibility there and the fact that there have been other fatalities.

Hurricane Heads Over Atlantic

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Hurricane Carol developed 138-mile winds today and began a curve which storm forecasters believed would keep it over the open Atlantic, away from all land areas.

"It is a small storm wrapped tightly around a tiny centre only three miles in diameter," said Grady Norton, chief forecaster in the Miami weather bureau's storm warning centre.

"But it has a real kick to it. It is bending toward a more northwesterly course and from present indications will bypass the Leeward islands and Puerto Rico.

Norton said the storm was centred early today 280 miles northeast of the island of Antigua.

Bobcaygeon Skiers Capture 2 Championships

Two Bobcaygeon skiers captured water ski titles Tuesday at the Canadian closed championships being held at the CNE water front.

They are Bruce Poole, who was named official all-round junior men's champion and Gus McIntosh, who walked away with the senior men's all-round title. McIntosh won the men's jump with three others tied behind him.

THIRD CROWN

This is the third water ski championship won by Peterborough district in the last three days. The other championship was won by Stephanie Stuart, of RR No. 7, Peterborough, who brought Peterborough its first Canadian Water Ski championship Monday when she captured the junior girl's jumping event.

In the overall Canadian championships (which includes jumping slalom and trick skiing), Miss Stuart placed second.

Miss Stuart won the jumping event with a total of 111 points, edging out Janette Lindell, of Ottawa, who captured second places with 106 points.

Early today more Bobcaygeon skiers were in the running in junior boys' and junior girls' events. Bobby Thompson, 16-year-old Canadian and North American boys' champion tied with Charlie Emry, 14, of Cypress Gardens, Fla., in the boys' slalom competition.

But in the sudden-death run-off, Thompson missed the fourth gate and Emry won the crown. Bruce Poole of Bobcaygeon was in a fourth-place tie in the same event.

In the junior girls' slalom event in which Carol Ann Duthie was the winner, Altae Mae Thomas, also of Bobcaygeon tied in fourth place.

Dampness Gives Flynn Severe Backache

VENICE, Italy (AP)—The dampness of this city of canals has put movie star Errol Flynn to bed with a backache, his doctor said today. The ailment—a form of arthritis—was described as painful but not serious.

Flynn, 44, came here to attend the Venice international film festival. He has been in Italy producing films starring himself for nearly a year.

Beating The Heat

A few housewives, faced with the necessity of doing their hot household chores, such as ironing, in spite of any climb in the temperature have found a cool solution. They took their ironing, iron board and iron, plus the children into the basement and there worked in comfort.

Buyers Resist, Price Drops On Large Eggs

Recent peak prices of Grade A (large) eggs reaching the consumer at 83 to 84 cents a dozen, have reacted against the market.

Prices to farm producers today were 59 to 61 cents a dozen in Peterborough as compared with 65-66 cents last week for the top grade.

The large eggs ran into consumer resistance, and another factor is the increasing supply of the pullet or small size. That is the trade explanation, in the main, of the week's slump in prices both whole sale and retail. And, this season's pullets will be gradually increasing the size of their product.

Other prices to farmers as quoted today were: A-medium 48 and 49c, down from 53 cents at the beginning of last week.

Pullet eggs, or A-small: 27 to 28c, a drop from 33 cents.

B grade eggs—38 to 39c down from 40c, only a slight decline. And the C-grade is quoted to the producer at 27-28 cents.

The difference in price of Grade A, large and medium, is only 11 cents, but that margin has at times been as broad as 19 cents, especially for mediums.

Usually, hot weather stimulates strength in the egg market with consequent advance of price, but, of late, as reported, the large eggs have been stalled by their price to consumers, with resultant demand for the A-medium and small (pullet).

The net effect has been something of an unsettling circle, with heavier buying of medium and small grades and considerable neglect of the A-large size. So, when that top price consequently weakened and declined, it carried down the others, but with less marginal setback on the medium price.

And, as indicated, the pullets eggs will be putting on girth and weight in the next two weeks. Although "B" eggs at 38 and 39 cents are down only a cent or two, that is one category that is not so responsive as the better grades to expert handling. With that egg it is more likely to be a loss in quality.

Prisoner Kicks Way Out Of Cell

Captured Later Faces Court In Hastings

HASTINGS (ENS)—A prisoner who kicked his way out of a cell in Hastings Wednesday night about 10 p.m. was recaptured by OPP Constable Ernest Lunn on Highway 7.

Lawrence Girhan, R.R. 1, Indian River, was arrested by village Constable Leslie Switzer after he became involved in a fight in the Royal Hotel where he was being questioned about being seen in the car of one of the owners of the hotel, Ernie Jones.

Girhan had spent some time in the hotel during the evening. But later a woman spotted a man in a car at the rear of the hotel and reported it to the proprietor.

Mr. Jones came out and brought Girhan inside and began to question him. An argument resulted which developed into a fight in which several took part.

ARRESTED

Chief Switzer was called and arrested Girhan and locked him up in a cell in the village hall. He left to arrange to have Girhan transferred to a county jail in Cobourg to be held overnight.

While he was absent, Girhan kicked out a panel of the wooden door and escaped. Chief Switzer notified the provincial police and about midnight Constable Lunn arrested him as he was hitchhiking along Highway 7.

He was turned over to Constable George Rose, of the Campbellford detachment who lodged him overnight in Campbellford.

He was scheduled to appear before Magistrate R. B. Baxter in Hastings today.

Impresario Holt Dies In London

LONDON (Reuters) — Impresario Harold Holt, 67, a leading figure in the world of music for more than 30 years, died in London today.

Born in the South African diamond fields, he used to say "I consider myself one of the last of the real impresarios."

Among the artists he presented were Tetrazini, Melba, Jascha Heifetz and Chaliapin.

Three of his violinists—Yehudi Menuhin, Isaac Stern and Gioconda da Vito—are appearing at the current Edinburgh festival.

Holt leaves a widow—Miss Olive Goff, the singer.

Actor Errol Flynn Said Seriously Ill

VENICE (AP) — Actor Errol Flynn was reported seriously ill here today.

A doctor was called to the actor's bedside at 2:30 a. m. and was said to be still in attendance upon Flynn at noon.

Flynn, 44, first was reported to have only a sprained ankle. Officials of the Excelsior Hotel at Venice's Lido, where the star is staying, later said his condition was "much graver than that."

RCMP OFFICIAL—Supt. G. B. McClellan, 45, of Moose Jaw, Sask., has been named commander of the RCMP division in Toronto. He had previously been in charge of the special branch which deals with espionage and subversive activities.

Second Life Sentence

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Jake Tate, 53, was sentenced Wednesday to life in prison for the second time. The Houston man was given a life sentence in 1935 for killing a woman but was pardoned in 1944. Wednesday he was sentenced to life for the May 11 fatal shooting of Mrs. Doretha Grigsby, 44, who was shot four times as she ate lunch in the paper firm where she worked.

Reporters' Questions Put Dr. Kinsey To Confusion

WASHINGTON (AP)—What happens when the women turn the tables and ask questions of Dr. Alfred C. Kinsey?

Just about what you'd expect—some confusion, a lot of nervous tittering and a new peek into Kinsey's soon-to-be-published "Sexual Behavior in the Human Female."

Kinsey gave the girls their chance Wednesday.

He lectured at length to the women's National Press Club, using a good many words that weren't uttered in luncheon addresses until his pioneer work in male behavior appeared a few years back.

Then he called for questions.

The silence was so thick you could hear an inhibition drop.

BREAKS ICE

Finally a lady reporter—one of a breed not noted hereabouts for timidity—broke the ice. She stood up at her table and asked, in a quivering voice, how Kinsey accounted for his finding that women reach their preak of responsiveness later than men. Was it, she wondered, the result of social pressure? Or something ingrained in the female frame?

Kinsey's answer: The female's peak comes later in animals as well as in humans. But social pressure seems to delay it still further in women.

Next one of the ladies wanted to know at what age the largest percentage of women sleep without nightclothes. This wasn't just girlish curiosity, she said, she worked for a trade paper of the garment industry, Women's Wear Daily. Her fellow members exploded with laughter when she mentioned that.

Kinsey's answer: Age doesn't seem to matter. The better-educated a woman is, the more likely she is to omit nightgown or pajamas.

HANDS KINSEY POSER

It was Ruth Montgomery of the New York Daily News who really threw Kinsey, though. Can his statistics be accurate, she wondered, when they're based on questions some women aren't in the habit of answering for men? "Particularly," Miss Montgomery explained, "nicer women, as compared with our—ah—sisters of the street."

Kinsey, poser of hundreds of thousands of questions to 5,940 women in the present survey alone, took a step backward.

"I'm sorry," he said finally, "those are not terms that the scientist uses."

Speedier Beaver Built In Britain

TORONTO—A new, speedier version of Canada's de Havilland Beaver bushplane is to be unveiled Sept. 8 in Britain at the annual Farnborough air display of the Society of British Aircraft Constructors.

The de Havilland Enterprise released details yesterday on the modified Beaver. It was re-engineered by the company's Canadian affiliate at the request of the Royal Air Force to accommodate a British engine.

The new engine is a 550-horsepower Alvis Leonides. Series 1 Beavers carry American-designed, Canadian-built Pratt and Whitley Wasp Junior engines of 450 horsepower.

With its more powerful engine the Beaver's cruising speed increases from 142 to 156 miles an hour and both landing and take-off distances are shortened.

PARIS-BOUND— Montreal artist Robert Lapalme is en route to Paris where he hopes to perfect the advance style of painting and cartooning that has won him a leading place among Canadians of the modern art school. He is shown sketching in a Montreal theatrical studio. The background is a theatre-set design based on a section of has painted history of war. The chair and the stool, which can be arranged quickly into a bed, Lapalme dreamed up one day while looking at furniture advertisements in a newspaper.

Que. Cartoonist Paris-bound To Achieve "Poetic Finish"

MONTREAL (CP)—Robert Lapalme, a bouncing little artist whose caricatures have tickled Quebec newspaper readers for almost two decades, is off to Paris for a year, two or three.

The 45-year-old painter and cartoonist wants to find out if life in some old Paris quarters will help add "poetic finish" to his advanced style and win him a permanent place among the world's artists.

Lapalme isn't certain Paris will provide the inspiration he needs.

One of his many theories is that London has taken the place of Paris as the most important centre of modern art.

"Who have you heard of in Paris since the brief flurry there just after the war?" he says.

"London has Sutherland, Moore and Barra. There's Britten, the composer, and a whole new group behind the ballet. It's true Paris has its usual 100,000 artists—but who are they?"

"I have a theory—that London has become the modern cultural centre of the western world, and that this accompanied Britain's economic decline."

Just the same, Lapalme on his first trip to Europe, helped by a bursary from the Royal Society of Canada is going to Paris with his wife and 18-year-old son.

The idea delights the cartoonist as much as it pleases the people his pen has jabbed at since the 1930s.

"I feel I've been getting stale," he says. "At 45, an artist should be approaching his prime. I hope Paris will save me from a rut."

NEWSPAPER AWARD

In Paris he will do none of the cartooning that won him a $400 national newspaper award earlier this year for work appearing in Montreal Le Devoir.

After sampling the breath of the Old World for a few months, Lapalme will work on a painted story of Quebec's important pioneers. The great men he intends to tell about are such as Napoleon Comeau, "the giant of the St. Lawrence north shore."

Lapalme's absence will leave a void in Montreal where he spent the first 10 years of his life and most of the last 28.

In the seven years in-between, Lapalme, sixth and smallest in a family of nine children, was a farm boy at Falher, Alta., where his father made a try at land settlement.

He was always interested in drawing and when the family returned to Montreal in 1925, Lapalme tried to get into Montreal Beaux Arts for a formal art education.

He failed the entrance test in which he had to draw the capitals of Greek columns.

Today his five-foot frame shakes with his laughter over the failure.

"It gave me some satisfaction when I was asked later on to lecture at the university. I lectured on art for five years."

By then, Lapalme, who is self-taught, had his own spot among French-Canada's artists because of the attention captured by his jig-saw style.

While his political cartoons sizzled the hides of all public men he could think of, Lapalme designed textile patterns, worked out eye-smashing theatre sets and painted and sent abroad on tour an elaborate, multi-panelled history-painting with no respect for the heroes.

Recently, he became a television star on a quiz program arranged around his quick sketching.

For the Paris trip, Lapalme gave up his home at nearby Ste. Adele where one of his enterprises a few years ago was to decorate a 600-foot stretch of the town's main street to encourage a municipal cultural project.

Lapalme is a modernist ready to give a hot argument to anyone questioning the quality or the value of modern art.

He says flatly that Picasso is a greater artist than Michelangelo. He likes modern sculpture—"The kind with big holes right through the middle"—and mobiles, wiry suspended sculptural arrangements.

He sees no conflict between modern art and nature.

"A doctor looking into a microscope sees enlargements of patterns in nature much more fantastic than any artists produce. The new art styles eventually influence the shapes of everything we use, clothing, toasters, electric irons, automobiles, pencils and so on."

When Lapalme talks about these things over a restaurant table, he sweeps dishes and cutlery aside to illustrate his talk with sketches on the tablecloth.

He draws upside down and a listener across the table sees the sketches rightside up.

Parisians can expect to see a lot of his upside down tablecloth work.

Eskimo Lost His Furs In Poker Game

YELLOWKNIFE, N.W.T. (CP)—Many a man has lost his shirt in a shady poker deal, but in the far north he can lose his furs, too.

Frank Carmichael, Northwest Territories councillor from Aklavik, 750 miles northwest of here, told a recent meeting of the council that Eskimos and Indians coming out of the bush with their fur catch are sometimes victims of card-sharps.

"An Eskimo may come along with 200 muskrats," said Carmichael. "He sits down to a game with another chap who has cash and who buys his skins, maybe for 75 cents when they are worth a dollar. Playing poker, the buyer gets the money back too."

The "preservation of game" ordinance before the council provided that a justice of the peace may suspend the licence or registration certificate of any person who obtains game, or parts thereof, from an Indian or Eskimo by gambling, or games of chance, or through deception or fraud.

Commissioner L. H. Nicholson of Ottawa pointed out that if the council attempted to penalize by fines or jail terms it would be exceeding its powers.

Col. F. J. G. Cunningham, director of Northern administration and lands, said "gambling is not an offence. They can play poker for any stakes they like and nobody can stop them."

"But false pretences is," remarked the commissioner.

One councillor suggested that the council ask Parliament to enact a law preventing gambling with Eskimos.

"That would take away an inalienable right," objected Col. Cunningham. "Besides, you cannot do it to some people and not to others."

Replied the councillor:

"The income tax does that. Leave the section in, and administer it so as to meet Mr. Carmichael's point."

GAS WELL IN 1821

The first recorded natural gas well was drilled at Fredonia, N.Y., in 1821.

Juniors Study Grass Farming

GUELPH (CP)—Some 60 junior farmers undertook a busy itinerary Wednesday as they continued their investigation of the progress made in grassland farming in the counties of Wellington and Waterloo.

One of the chief features was a stop at the farm of Alfred Leatherbarrow, north of Elora, where an operation entirely devoted to grass farming was witnessed. For many it was a surprise not to find the slightest evidence of grain.

In the morning the group visited the farm of Harry Smallfield, near Guelph, which provided an outstanding example of erosion control through contour ploughing, strip-cropping and proper land use.

The group also visited the Waterloo Cattle Breeders Association's artificial insemination unit.

The Japanese have specialized for centuries in production of fancy types of goldfish.

Vote Wet At Last

ALEXANDRIA (CP)—Citizens of Charlottenburgh township in Eastern Ontario went to the polls Wednesday and voted "wet" for the first time since 1917. Citizens voted—69 votes over the required two-thirds majority—for men's beverage rooms, women's beverage rooms and sale of beer and wine in hotel dining rooms.

Costly Cleanup

READING, England (Reuters)—Oliver Phillips decided Wednesday he will quit trying to keep his desk at the office tidy. Tuesday night he emptied out his drawyer and dumped an armful of old paper into the basement furnace. Horrified he watched a hundle of 100 one-pound bills ($280) burn to ashes. Six years ago he did the same thing with £500 ($1,400).

LIFE-LIKE — A life-like model of the State Coach, two-thirds of the actual size of the original used in the Coronation procession, is at the Canadian National Exhibition, Toronto. Exact in every detail, the reproduction took months of research and expert workmanship to build. It is almost 100 feet long. The original State Coach was made in 1762 for the opening of Parliament by George III and has been used at the Coronation of British sovereigns ever since.

Says Iran Needs More Than $30,000,000

TEHRAN, Iran (AP)—Iran's finance minister says $30,000,000 from the U. S. isn't enough to bail his country out of anarchy—she needs $300,000,000.

"The United States must remember that anarchy rules every aspect of the country at present," financial chief Ali Amini told reporters Wednesday night. "At least $300 million is needed to get the wheels of the nations' industry turning again."

Amini was commenting on President Eisenhower's letter to Premier Fazollah Zahedi indicating that U. S. help would be forthcoming.

Eisenhower didn't mention any specific figure, but American officials have been talking about an initial $30,000,000. Even the most haven't guessed beyond $100,000,000.

Such aid would be in addition to U. S.-financed programs already under way in Iran. The U. S. government announced in Washington today that Iran would get $23,400,000 during the fiscal year that began July 1 to continue present aid projects.

Amini said ousted Premier Mohammed Mossadegh left the treasury with a $213,2,711 deficit and that government is spending $1,500,000 a month to keep up the payroll of the nationalized, but idle, oil industry.

Because the Iranians won't agree on compensation for Britain's former holdings, a British boycott is keeping most Iranian oil off the world market. Before nationalization two years ago, the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company paid $7,000,000 a month in royalties into the Iranian treasury.

Corn Ripening Expect Big Crop

"Corn is coming along fast." The Grey County report in this week's crop review from the Ontario Department of Agriculture is being repeated across the province. The tonnage will be heavier than has been estimated.

"Excellent growth," is Huron comment, and a "big crop in Lanark" is reaching maturity. The warm weather is turning to eventual silage advantage, but in some counties heat has apparently been something of a handicap of late.

Pastures have been suffering, and "milk production has been dropping," as in Russell. Pastures and water supply have been drying up in Carleton. Some Perth County farmers have had to draw water.

Pastures have become "poor" in Essex, "a good rain" is needed in Durham, and is "badly needed" in generally throughout the province both for grazing and for the cultivation of ground for the sowing of fall wheat.

Corn and soy bean harvest will be the largest ever produced in Lambton, providing frosts hold off, and that is the weather prospect at least for the present.

Weanling pigs are scarce in South Simcoe, and in Wellington, and in other sections, "the aroma of buckwheat is heavy and the acreage is unusually high due to the wet spring." Some of the Peterborough district fields are turning brown with seed, but there are still others in white bloom.

Weanling pigs are also scarce in Perth County, and selling at $18 each.

In neighboring Victoria, LeRoy Brown remarks: "Some men are working on fall wheat land, but the ground is too hard."

Scientists Study Heat Problem

LIVERPOOL, Eng. (Reuters)—British scientists today mulled over the power and heating problems of man 2,500 years from now.

A top engineering expert said that by the year 4453 scientists might have to probe the furnace in the centre of the earth to find the power and heat necessary to keep civilization going.

This warning from Lord Dudley Gordon was made before 4,000 scientists and laymen assembled for the opening session here of the annual meeting of the British Association for the Advancement of Science.

Lord Gordon said that even the raw material for atomic power might run out in the next 2,500 years. He pointed out that volcanic eruptions show the tremendous power available in the centre of

"by some form of excessively deep bore holes and controlled by some means not yet thought of," he said.

Hillary Weds Girl In N.Z.

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (Reuters) — Sir Edmund Hillary, 34, conqueror of Mount Everest, and his bride walked under an archway of ice axes at their wedding ceremony here today.

The six-foot-two-inch mountaineer wed Miss Louise Rose, a foot shorter and 11 years his junior, at the Diocesan School chapel. Her father is president of the New Zealand Alpine Club.

George Lowe, a member of the British expedition which climbed the world's highest Mountain May 29, served as best man. Two ranks of Hillary's mountaineering frinds held out the ice axes as the newlywds stepped out of the chapel entrance before hundreds of spectators.

Crowded India Sends ManyTo Colonize

Teeming India has found an outlet for part of its overflow population—the tropical Andaman Islands, 700 miles south of Calcutta in the Bay of Bengal.

Under a new five-year, $10,000,000 development plan, the Indian Government hopes to settle 20,000 persons—some 4,000 agricultural families—on the fertile island chain that once served as a penal colony. Hindu refugees from Pakistan's East Bengal Province have first priority.

Already more than 400 families have moved to the new settlement. Transportation, 10 acres of land, housing materials, seeds, and farming implements have been furnished free to each family. Thousands of acres of forest land have been cleared. Rice, sugar cane, corn, citrus fruits, tea and coffee are being cultivated.

INDUSTRIES PLANNED

Apportioned to the Union of India in the 1947 partition, the 204 Andaman Islands have an area of 2,508 square miles, slightly larger than the State of Delaware. The Indian Government envisions thriving fisheries, cattle and poultry breding, and furniture and shipbuilding industries in future years.

The Andamans may also be developed as a vacation resort. Secluded coral bays with spacious sandy beaches front coconut plantations. Beautiful lagoons provide natural harbors for sailing craft. The climate is warm but tempered by constant sea breezes.

About 700 miles north of the equator and less than 300 miles west of the Malay Peninsula, the Andamans are in the heart of the monsoon belt, but, strangely enough, are rarely affected by cyclonic storms.

OCEANIC JAIL

Port Blair, one of southern Asia's finest harbors, is the Andaman capital. Site of a British settlement in 1789, the port was abandoned seven years later. In 1858, the Indian Government established a penal colony at Blair, but in 1921 shipment of convicts from the mainland was discontinued. The Japanese occupied the islands for 3½ years during World War II.

In past centuries, sailors crossing the Indian Ocean gave the Andamans a wide berth because island aborigines tortured and massacred shipwreck victims. Relics of a South Asia pygmy race, 12 tribes of Andamanese roamed the island chain. Hunting fish and small game with bow and arrow, they spurned permanent settlements. Once numbering in the thousands, less than 100 aborigines remain in the Andamans today.

Borrowed Car Too Long Assessed $105

LINDSAY (ENS) — Walter Yerex, Lindsay, was ordered to pay costs of $105 within two weeks or return to court for judgment, when he appeared on a charge of car theft here Wednesday.

The charge was laid after Kenneth Rutan, formerly of Lindsay, now working near Syracuse, N.Y., complained to police that Yerex had borrowed his car, he said, for a trip to Toronto for two days, was reported five days later in New Liskeard.

Yerex, for whom Rutan worked, while on vacation from his work in the U.S. had asked the loan of the car to travel to Toronto on August 20 to buy a new truck. Rutan told the court he consented to the loan at $5 per day but told Yerex to be back in Lindsay on August 21st since Rutan was to return to the U.S. for the following day.

IN NEW LISKEARD

The next Rutan heard, he said, was on August 25 when a bank manager in Lindsay told him Yerex was in New Liskeard. Later that day he said of a felephone call from Yerex to Rutan's girl friend, explaining that he had car trouble.

Two days later, Rutan swore out a warrant for Yerex' arrest and on Aug. 28, he travelled with Chief Hunter to the Northern Ontario town of Elk Lake, where Yerex was arrested. He was brought back to Lindsay last weekend and lodged in jail.

Yerex' lawyer, A. T. Lacey, told the court his client had settled with Rutan for the rental of the car for the extended period. Yerex thought, he said, he had told Rutan he would be travelling to Northrn Ontario.

His wife, he said, was sick and he intended to take her to the home of his parents. Magistrate Gee dismsised the charge of car theft, but assesed Yerex the costs of the trial and the expenses of Chief Hunter amounting to $90 for his trip.

Yerex asked for two weeks in which to pay the costs, he was remanded for judgment until that time.

Mrs. Hart, 61, was forced back by bad weather when she tried to make the crossing to France Tuesday.

Ice Packs, Ice Cream Used To Keep CNE Poodles Cool

By JIM PEACOCK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—With another hot day forecast, world water ski championships appropriately are scheduled as a feature attraction today at the Canadian National Exhibition.

Competitors from 12 countries are entered in the events on Lake Ontario on the Exhibition Park waterfront.

For the last five days the current heat wave has discouraged visitors from strolling through the grounds and admiring the displays in the massive buildings. When the temperature hit 100 degrees Wednesday, even the midway was practically deserted.

Everywhere on the grounds Wednesday, the major project was combatting the heat. At the dog show opening, ice water, ice packs, and ice cream were used to keep the poodles cool. In the cattle barns, a hay drier was turned on in reverse to draw in cool air. At the waterfront, skiers took deliberate dips in Lake Ontario.

BUSIEST SPOT

Probably the busiest place on the grounds was the first aid post. There nearly 300 persons were treated for heat ailments.

Charles R. Sligh, Jr., president of the United States National Association of Manufacturers, told assembled food processors and distributors that he sees no reason for any recession or deep depression because of the truce in Korea. He said he believes peace means a sounder economy and a higher standard of living in the U. S.

Attendance Wednesday was 170,000, a sharp drop from 209,500 on the corresponding day in 1952. So far this year attendance is down by 80,000 compared with a year ago and most of the drop is blamed by officials on the torrid weather.

Wool judges said Wednesday that an increase in sheep population in Ontario and a growing interest in wool production brought a 100-per-cent increase in entries of fleece wool at this year's CNE competition.

Fleeces from several different breeds drew high praise from judge Hugh Fraser, fleece wool judge.

WINNERS LISTED

The winners: Fine wool: 1 and 2, Raymond Watford, Gormley; 3, Peter Cameron and Sons, Thamesville.

Medium combing wool: 1 and 2, A. Shields and Sons, Caistor Centre; 3, H. Skinner, Tyrone.

Low medium combing wool: 1, T. C. Glaspell, Oshawa; 2, H. Skinner, Tyrone.

Low combing wool: 1, Ralph Young, Caister Centre; 2, Ephraim Snell and Sons, Clinton.

Domestic coarse combing wool: 1, T. C. Glaspell, Oshawa; 2, Arnold J. Guardhouse, Unionville; 3, T. C. Glaspell.

Few Schooners Still Survive In Modern World Of Travel

WASHINGTON—Not the glamorous clipper ships, but sturdy schooners were the mainstays of American seaborne commerce in the golden days of sail.

Only in the few years between 1846 and 1859 did the graceful but uneconomic square-rigged clippers make their roaring passages across the wide oceans, Needing large crews, lacking in cargo space and often weakly constructed, they inscribed but one brief page in the annuls of the United States merchant marine before they vanished forever.

The schooner, on the other hand, was born in Colonial times and still goes its handy, weatherly way as handsome yacht or able workboat.

SCHOONER DEFINED

To fit the definition "schooner," a vessel can be any size so long as it has two or more masts and carries a "fore-and-aft" rig. In such a rig, the sails are attached by their leading edges to the masts and therefore set parallel to the axis of the hull. On a square-rigger, sails bend to spars which cross the masts at right angles and hence lie natuarally athwartships.

Men of Gloucester, Massachusetts, claim they "invented" and named the schooner rig. The South disputes the claim. Wherever they originated, early American schooners had to be fast. Foreign powers jealously dominated the seas, leaving mainly such illicit trades as smuggling, slave-running and downright piracy open to Yankee sailormen.

So successful was the schooner rig that from the Revolution on, it always far outnumbered the American square-riggers. The Grand Banl fisheries were conducted in schooners. Schooners chased pirates for the United States Navy, hunted seals on the West Coast, and carried the bulk of American costwise cargoes. They traded in every ocean, without the publicity given the clippers.

SURVIVED STEAM

Schooners survived the steam competition which finished the square rigged successors to the clippers, but succumbed to the internal combustion engine. Between World Wars, the Gloucester and Nova Scotia sail fleets disappeared one by one— sold into the Caribbean, lost at sea and not replaced, or converted to power.

The big Maine-built, three-and-four-masted coastwise schooners, [illegible] would have vanished also except for World War II. Those that still remained afloat were called back into service on the West Indies runs. Shipwreck, enemy action and overwork killed the last of them before the peace was signed.

In this hemisphere, the schooner survives mainly as a yacht performing with credit in races against more modern sailing rigs. A few old, tired commercial schooners hang on in Chesapeake Bay, thanks to Maryland law which says oysters may be dredged only under sail.

Commercial schooners still cut an important figure in the West Indies. Dozens of them, including a few of the old Gloucester fishing vessels, carry cargoes through the warm seas, confident they still have a few more years before they too are replaced by the unromantic diesel freighters that doomed most of their sisters.

Find Burned Plane With 21 Victims

McCHORD AIR FORCE BASE, Wash. (AP)—A chartered airliner that vanished on a flight from California Tuesday night carried its 19 soldier passengers and two crew members to their deaths just below the crest of a timbered western Washington ridge.

The 21 burned bodies were found Wednesday in a small area around the broken and charred wreckage of the Regina airlines DC-3. The plane had plunged into tall timber about 15 miles northeast of Centralia—only 25 or 30 miles short of its destination at McChord air force base.

It struck near the 2,700-foot level, at an angle that led some airmen to conjecture that it crashed with its nose downward. It had not radioed of any trouble.

Thomson Buys Interest In Three Edinburgh Papers

EDINBURGH (CP) — Roy H. Thomson, Canadian publisher, announced Wednesday he had purchased controlling interest in three Edinburgh newspapers. The transaction brings his newspaper holdings in Canada, the United Kingdom and the United States to 23 dailies and weeklies.

Thomson bought a three-quarter share in the Scotsman, the Weekly Scotsman and the Evening Dispatch, with a combined circulation of 200,000. They will be added to the 18 papers he publishes in Canada and one in St. Petersburg, Fla., as well as a weekly review published in London.

Thomson's share in the three papers has an estimated asset value of £1,750,000.

Associated in the purchase are Peter Findlay, son of the late Sir John Findlay under whose direction the Scotsman achieved its present prestige; Colin MacKinnon, a nephew of the late James Law, an outstanding Scotsman editor, and two Edinburgh insurance companies.

TO LIVE IN EDINBURGH

The Scotsman informed its readers of the sale in its first edition Wednesday night in a 700-word statement.

It said that Thomson has disclosed he will take up residence in Edinburgh and "will control his Canadian interests through his son, Kenneth R. Thomson, who will take active charge of the Canadian and American newspapers from their head office in Toronto."

The statement said Thomson desires to maintain the Scotsman and its sister newspapers as independent organs of Scottish opinion "serving without fear or favor, as they have done in the past, the best interest of Scotland, and striving to promote the material well-being and cultural life of the community."

In a separate statement, the Canadian publisher said he was "very proud to be associated with the national newspaper of Scotland." The Scotsman often is called "the Times of the North." It was founded in 1817 and is published in a 13-storey building which is one of the Scottish capital's chief landmarks.

This is Thomson's second venture in the British publishing field. Canada Review, a weekly digest of Canadian news, started publication in London last May 7.

Control of the Scotsman newspapers was bought by Thomson Company of Canada Ltd., the British subsidiary of Thomson's Canadian enterprise. Involved in the transaction is one of the best-equipped printing plants in the United Kingdom. The Scotsman has an international reputation for printing excellence.

Thomson said no changes are planned in policy of the newspapers or in the 800-member staff which runs them.

The Scotsman was founded by William Ritchie to "preserve Constitutional liberty from the encroachments of power and the distractions of anarchy." The enterprise prospered and in 1904 the paper moved into its present quarters—one of the largest structures ever built by private enterprise in Edinburgh.

Thomson publications in Canada include 14 dailies: Quebec Chronicle-Telegraph; Chatham News, Galt Reporter, Guelph Mercury, Kirkland Lake Northern News, Oshawa Times-Gazette, Port Arthur News-Chronicle, Sarnia Canadian Observer, Timmins Press, Welland Tribune, Woodstock Sentinel-Review, all in Ontario; Prince Albert Herald and Moose Jaw Times-Herald in Saskatchewan; and Vancouver News-Herald. The Thomson group also includes the St. Petersburg (Fla.) Independent and four Ontario weeklies, one of which—the Orillia Packet and Times—plans to become a daily next month.

Thomson also operates radio stations in Timmins, North Bay and Kirkland Lake, and is associated in operating stations at Kingston and Peterborough.

AERIAL LIFELINE FOR BOMBERS—The world's first jet-powered aerial tanker, a modified KB-47 B Stratojet, right, refuels another B-47 during a test run at Seattle, Wash. The receiver plane is modified with a long, streamlined refueling "probe" jutting from its nose. The tanker trails a long hose to which is attached a "drouge" or large funnel. The "receiver" plane flies below and aft of the hose so that its spear-like "probe" engages the coupling in the "drouge." Once in contact, fuel is transferred from the tanker to the bomber.

Inexperienced Teachers Bring Protest

BRACEBRIDGE (CP) — Many classrooms are being staffed by teachers who are "inexperienced, immature and untrained children," the Ontario Teachers' Federation charged Wednsday.

The claim was made in a telegram to Education Minister W. J. Dunlop challenging him to publish statistics on the extent of academic and professional training of all beginners who are classed as teachers.

The message from the OTF, holding its annual meeting here, said that it recognized the minister's "achievement in staffing Ontario's elementary schools but deplores the loose use of the term teacher as applied to many beginners."

To overcome the teacher shortage that developed in recent years, the education department is permitting students as young as 17, with grade 12 standing to become teachers if they promise to complete two six - week summer courses.

Killed On Crossing

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — John Dawson, 68, suffered fatal injuries Wednesday when the tractor he was driving was hit by a fast-moving passenger train about six miles east of here. The tractor was pulling a wagon loaded with corn. The impact tossed one tire of the tractor 540 feet down the track.

Quick Thinking Rescue

STREETSVILLE (CP) — A 40-year-old father of four leaped from a car and snatched an 87-year-old neighbor from the path of a CPR train here Tuesday. Neighbors said John Bush saved the life of William Broderick when he snatched the elderly man from the train's path. Broderick had not noticed the wig-wag signal going.

Establish Depot After Plan British Guards

CALGARY (CP)—A regimental depot based on the British Guards system and unique in the history of the Canadian Army is in operation at the Currie barracks here.

The first of seven to be set up across Canada, the depot is for the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry. All new recruits for the unit will spend their training period in the depot. There they will learn they are not only soldiers but Patricias.

Other depots are scheduled for the Royal 22nd Regiment, the Royal Canadian Regiment, the infantry, Highland and rifle regiments and the Royal Canadian Horse Artillery.

TRAINED IN DEPOT

In Britain, a new recruit is kept in his depot until he is a trained soldier, a period lasting anywhere from eight weeks to four months. Here, the recruit spends a minimum of four weeks.

At the end of that time, he has been fully documented, can walk like a soldier and can fire a rifle.

He has also learned that he is a Patricia and not a "Pat," the regimental song is the "Rik-a-Dam-Doo" and the regimental march past is "Has Anyone Seen the Colonel?"

Patricia officers like the depot system because instructors can devote more personal attention to the individual.

LONELY FIRST DAY

"For the new recruit, a soldier's first day with his unit can be pretty lonely," they say. "The depot gives the recruit a firm base to stand on. If he gets into difficulties, it is easily spotted and sorted out."

The training program at Currie is tailored for 160-200 men organized on a three-platoon basis. The system can be easily expanded if necessary.

The depot sees that the colors are in safe keeping, looks after all regimental history, the museum and silver in the officers' mess. It is responsible for the paper work and the flow of recruits from the battalions at home to those serving overseas.

Fix-It-Yourself Fever Hits Amateur Builders

CALGARY (CP)—Fix-it-yourself fever in Calga rhyas led to an fevr in Calgary has led to an building materials. The high cost of contract jobs, a trend to smaller houses and a rise in home-ownership has created the handyman husband.

Though the new activity in amateur building has been dictated by economcis, the job has been made easier by new tools and materials.

Plywood, formerly used only by hobbyists for fretwork on a winter's evening, now is practically pushed heavy lumber right off the market for almost everything from home construction to boat building.

The British Columbia-manufactured plywood has become so popular with amateur carpenters that one Calgary lumber dealer reports his sales have shot up by 500 per cent since the Second World War.

What really sparked the amazing do-it-yourself development was the high cost of professional work combined with a scarcity of skilled workmn. This year it costs at least $300 here to have the interior of a small house painted and $3 an hour for work to the exterior.

Another important factor was the housing shortage. Many families converted their homes to create extra bedrooms for rent. Many found it profitable to convert basements and attics into suites.

Firms dealing in tools, paints and lumber were quick to recognize the rising demand.

Lumber dealers expanded their business to meet them half-way. They sold materials by instalments presented handbooks and blueprints for the amateur and dreamed up prefabricated buildings he could speedily erect.

Gen. Jonathan Wainwright Hero Of Corregidor Dies

SAN ANTONIO. (AP)—Gen. Jonathan M. Wainwright, the gaunt hero who kept his troops fighting the Japanese while the United States gathered strength for the Pacific war, died in a coma Wednesday.

The defender of Corregidor—known as Skinny—died in Brooke Army Hospital a day after his second stroke in 18 days.

Doctors said the rough treatment Wainwright suffered as a prisoner of the Japanese contributed to his death. He died at 1:27 p.m.

Wainwright, who was 70 on Aug. 23, went to the hospital July 6 from Fiddlers Green, the home he bought after retiring from the army and named for the legendary place where brave U.S. cavalrymen go after death. He was an old horseman.

His son, Capt. Jonathan M. Wainwright V, of the U.S. Navy, Norfolk, Va., was a constant companion during his fatal illness.

LAPSED INTO COMA

Wainwright suffered his first cerebral thrombosis on Aug. 13. Doctors said Tuesday he had been stricken with a second stroke. He lapsed into a coma and did not regain consciousness.

At the time of his death, Wainwright was chairman of the board of a life insurance company here.

He retired from the army Aug. 31, 1947, after more than 45 years of service. His last post was as commander of the U.S. 4th Army.

When U.S. troops first began fighting in Korea against overwhelming odds, Wainwright said: "I feel a kindred spirit for our men in Korea . . . but they have hope. At Corregidor there was no hope."

After Wainwright's liberation from the Japanese, President Truman awarded him the Congressional Medal of Honor—the highest U.S. military honor—for his determined stand at Corregidor, the last fortress to block conquest for the Philippines in the first days of the war.

This is what the late War Secretary Henry Stimson said of Wainwright's stand:

"By prolonging the defense of the Philippines he immobilized a large enemy army for sufficient time to permit the forces to be marshalled which finally stopped the Japanese advance."

He took command of the Philippines forces March 11, 1942, when Gen. MacArthur was ordered to Australia.

FEARED HE'D MISS OUT

Wainwright had led a dashing cavalry charge in the Philippines expedition of 1909—but he hadn't wanted to go there again when he got his orders in 1940. He expected a break in Europe and was afraid he would "miss everything."

Instead, he became a symbol of dogged courage to the United States—fighting a battle he lost only because his country was not prepared to send him help.

Wainwright rallied his "grim, gaunt and ghostly men" in the old fortress of Corregidor and they held until—food and ammunition gone and bodies worn out—he had to surrender his command May 6, 1942.

The Japanese held Wainwright prisoner for three years, three months and 18 days. He said his jailers often beat him.

Wainwright carried 180 pounds on his ramrod-straight, six-foot-three frame in his physical prime. He was down to 120 pounds when he was freed.

Wainwright stood beside MacArthur on the battleship Missouri to accept the Japanese surrender.

NEWS IN BACK-TO-SCHOOL FASHIONS for small fry places emphasis squarely on fabrics. We show here washable, permanently pleated skirt (left) worn with nylon pima blouse with puffed sleeves and pleated jabot. The two-piece suit (centre) is in new rayon-and-cotton corduroy combination in smoky blue shade. Gored skirt is coupled with boxy jacket. Pale beige dress (right) is completely practical because it's 95 per cent orlon and five per cent nylon and can be washed in the washing machine. Velvet belt is elasticized for perfect fit.

Washable School Clothes Save Wear On Mother

NEW YORK (NEA)—Fashion has plenty to offer the back-to-school set this fall. Lots of fabric interest, news in necklines, many dark, polished cottons, jumper dresses, little weskits, quilted skirts.

But mother will love the fabrics most. There's a definite emphasis on fabrics that can really take punishment and come back for more—tweed, denim, nylon pima, corduroy, orlon-and-nylon combinations, the new rayon-and-cotton corduroy.

Pleating is the permanent type for the most part. And mother gets an extra break in the orlon-and-nylon dresses—with woolly look and high-fashion styling—that go right into the washing machine.

A good deal of fashion ingenuity has gone into the cutting of these small styles. Sometimes corduroy separates rate high-fashion capeskin touches. Or an old standby like gray flannel gets pink capeskin dots as new and refreshing trim.

The highly washable orlon dresses are not neglected; these have self-pleated yokes, touches of velvet, little white pique collars or high-style tucking.

The coordinated wardrobe is one that mother will love for both its practicality and its prettiness. Here, a two-piece corduroy suit is paired off with permanently-pleated skirt, a nylon pima blouse and additional corduroy jacket. Thus, five pieces offer a variety of imaginative switches. And all are in fabrics requiring a minimum of care.

THE EXPERTS SAY:

Chinchilla Pelts Are High On The Luxury Fur Scale

By JOAN BARBERIS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The chinchilla is a small animal, fat as a butterball and worth an exclamation point fashion and financial-wise.

Canadian-raised chinchillas are making a debut on the fur market early next year and the pelts of these animals are high on the luxury fur scale.

A chinchilla is a long cry from its namesake the chinchilla rabbit, although it has prominent ears. It's about eight inches long when fully grown, has a tail somewhat like a squirrel's and big eyes.

It's a clean, quiet little fellow and a confirmed vegetarian.

The chinchilla got its name from the people credited with its discovery in the Andes mountains in Peru, the Chinchas. The animal now is practically extinct in that region.

EXPENSIVE STOCK

Canadians started buying and breeding them about 1936 and this year there are an estimated 45,000 chinchillas in the country. A pair for breeding purposes costs about $1,650 in Quebec and the Maritimes; from $1,200 to $1,500 in Ontario, and around $1,600 in the west. By the time they reach the wardrobe they're a garment that may be worth $6,000 or $50,000.

Experts say that at first chinchilla will appear here as trims—for obvious reasons.

Each tiny pelt has three distinct shades, ranging from a cool, icy blue on top, through a variety of grey tones to an underlying slate blue color. Chinchilla weighs no more than silk or rayon but because of its thickness is durable.

The animals withstand cold or heat and can be raised under practically any conditions. They have a mild disposition and make good pets.

Six young ones in a year are a pretty good average for the chinchilla family and one chinchilla coat in any family is way better than average.

Do You Scrub Floors?

Many women who are accustomed to automatic washers and ironers, electric mixers and pressure cookers, still get down on their hands and knees with an old-fashioned brush and pail to scrub the floor.

A few are able to turn this chore over to a weekly cleaning woman. The rest just don old clothing and perhaps a pair of rubber gloves and double as their own charwoman.

Out of chemistry's continuous research program for removing the drudgery from housework has come the cellulose sponge, now a familiar kitchen and bathroom accessory.

When equipped by manufacturers with a long handle and a small hand-operating wringer, this same cellulose sponge will keep the housewife's knees off hard floors and her hands out of grimy water.

Scrubbing a floor this way becomes as easy as sweeping it with a broom. Hands never touch the mop end or the water and the whole operation is performed from an erect position.

The mop is simply dipped into a pail containing a mild cleaning solution and rubbed over the floor. To lap up the loosened dirt and water, the mop end is first rinsed and then wrung out with a flip of the automatic squeezer. Since cellulose sponges soak up 20 times their weight in water, wringing is reduced to a minimum.

These sponge mops are becoming as versatile as the popular cellulose hand sponge. When moistened with clear water and squeezed until all the water has been expelled, they make excellent rug cleaners and floor dusters. The sponge has such an attraction for dust, dirt and lint that the mop should be rinsed periodically under the kitchen tap. Their long handles make them convenient for washing walls, windows, ceilings and other awkward areas. The automatic squeezer makes it easy for the housewife to control their moisture content.

Sponge mops are also handy liquid wax appliers. With usage they become sautrated with the liquid and result in a saving of wax which is often wasted when other appliers are tossed out.

These cellulose sponge mops are easy on household budgets which don't include the services of a cleaning woman and can be obtained for less than the cost of engaging outside help for one day.

Do You Know?

When chewing gum is embedded in clothing or trampled into a carpet, rub it with a piece of ice and scrape it off. If a stain remains, sponge with carbon teratchloride.

To avoid short-circuits and possible corrosion after ornate ceiling fixtures have been cleaned with soap and water, cover each lamp socket with a polythene food bag and secure it with an elastic band before you start. Be sure the wall switch is turned off to prevent an electric shock.

There is a quick, easy way to remove dust and surface dirt from carpeted stairs when time and energy are lacking to carry the vacuum cleaner up and down stairs. Brush the carpeted stairs with a cellulose sponge mop, which has been moistened in clear water and then wrung until all the water has been expelled.

Care Storing Summer Toys Ensures Use

By KAY SHERWOOD
NEA Staff Writer

Prompt attention to proper storage of summer's play gear pays off in protection of the equipment you'll set up again next summer.

Allowed to lie unused and empty in the yard, plastic play ponds, for example, invite sticks, dirt and stones that gouge holes in the material.

Inflatable animals and balls tossed around after their watery homes are gone are almost certain to be punctured.

I like to speed up the chore by having specific storage space cleared and ready for the gear. Plastic equipment can be stored almost anywhere except near a hot radiator.

To clean up the play pond before it's stored, experts recommend scrubbing the pond with a long handled brush or broom while there is water in it. I dump in mild soap flakes to help erase the dirt and stubborn spots.

Drain the pond by pressing down on one side until most of the water has run out, then tip it over and get the remaining water out of the cracks.

Wipe off the plastic and let it sun until it's thoroughly dry. Talcum powder or cornstarch sprinkled over the surface will prevent sticking.

When you fold the deflated pond, smooth out as many wrinkles as you can. Don't forget to tape the cork to a top section.

Because plastic gear can be cracked easily if mishandled when pulled out of storage, you might clip this reminder to the pond, too:

Let the folded pool warm up in the sun for several hours before you unfold it. After it's unfolded, let it stand another day in the sun before filling.

You can hasten the process which restores the pliability to the plastic by soaking the folded plastic in a tub of lukewarm water until it's soft.

Metal supports for swings and see-saws will survive the wintery damp better if the joints and bars are given a coat of grease.

Wooden or belt swing seats and teeter-totters should be unhooked and stored under cover to avoid warping and cracking.

Being of a thrifty turn of mind, I also cull the sandbox and store the best of the buckets, shovels and so on in one box against the first warm day next spring.

A THRIFTY - WISE HOMEMAKER properly stores away the plastic swimming hole when summer reaches its end. She knows that a little effort now is a money-saver come next summer.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Guides For Youngsters' Nourishing School Lunches

When your youngsters are no longer little, but 19 and 20 years of age, you have to be satisfied with standing at the front door on the first day of school and watching younger mothers' little ones start off.

This fills me with nostalgia. Is it because those days are gone forever? We must be perverse and contrary—or I must be—for I can remember wishing with all my heart that my two would grow up—and now I'm not so sure. They are so independent and absolutely bursting with plans.

David, my friend Eleanor's boy of 5, is starting to school next Tuesday. That leaves her little Roddy of 2 years for me to love to my heart's content, for he is such a dear little player with a deep down chuckle.

These little city-dwellers do not have to carry lunches but there are thousands of children who do in rural communities and at the high school level.

Get them off to a good start this year by making their sandwiches of 100% whole wheat bread, and giving them every day at least one fresh fruit and one fresh salad vegetable in their lunches.

Do not settle for sandwiches that are not nourishing. Their sandwiches should contain butter or margarine and be made of meat, or fowl or fish or eggs or cheese or nuts. Not such questionable fillings as jam or commercial sandwich spreads (which are largely boiled dressing or mayonnaise).

"COME FOR COFFEE" — In chestnut brown net and gold lace is one of the most beautiful and wearable of the ball gowns in the Fall collection of Norman Hartnell, dressmaker to Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth II. This London original is shown by James A. Ogilvy's.

Perfection Brings Success

LONDON (CP)—One of Britain's top dress designers, Peter Russell, is visiting Australia at the invitation of George's, Melbourne's famous store, to show a collection in anticipation of the tour by Queen Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh.

His visit is also a holiday for after 25 years as one of London's leading dressmakers, he has sold his interest and his salons in Carlos street to Michael (late Michael of Lachasse) the youngest member of the Incorporated Society of London Fashion Designers, of which Russell was one of the founder-members.

This does not mean that Russell has left Britain's fashion scene for good; he will return to London in November.

However, Russell says he has reached the age—he is in his early fifties—when he wants "a little time to think and to enjoy life."

One secret of his success has been his determination to achieve perfection, with the result that he included royalty and many of London's best-dressed women among his clients. His fabrics were always dyed specially for him (he invariably introduced two or three new colours each season) and often woven to his instructions.

Every ensemble had the right accessories, dyed to match. He often introduced a subtle masculine note into particularly feminine outfits, and famous stores in various parts of the Commonwealth would buy unseen from his collections.

Russell is sending out to Melbourne toiles of models he has already designed and will begin work again with new ideas in the Melbourne workrooms.

Since he has been a planter in Malaya and is still a farmer in England, he says he is delighted to have the opportunity of enjoying Australian life, if only for a few months.

Queen's Dressmaker Shows Skirts Slightly Shorter

By MURIEL PENN

LONDON (Reuters) — Norman Hartnell, the Queen's dressmaker, showing his full autumn and winter fashion collection for the first time Tuesday, shortened slightly the skirts of his suits and cocktail dresses, but kept the top coats well below mid-calf.

The first of the London couturiers to show a collection made since Christian Dior startled smart women throughout the world with his new short hemline at the end of July, Hartnell made no concessions to his Paris colleague.

His suits and cocktail dresses had hemlines averagnig, on the medium height woman, between 14 and 15 inches off the ground—which means mid-calf length.

A spokesman of his firm said emphatically, "Our skirts are the length which fit the dresses. We are not competing with Dior."

One model which may—or may not—foreshadow things to come at the next seasonal collections in January was a red taffeta evening dress named Dippy, which had a new hemline dipping at the front and back and raised at the sides to reveal the ankles.

This model also featured bunched fullness on the hips, contrasting with a molded pintucked bodice and flat pin-tucked back and front.

Particular interest centred in Hartnell's collection, since it is known that his workrooms are busy on models for the Queen's wardrobe for her forthcoming Australia-New Zealand tour which starts Nov. 23.

If the coats, suits and dresses shown today are anything to go by, that wardrobe will follow the Queen's favorite Princess line with the molded, feminine silhouette and slightly rounded hips which have been featured also by the other London couturiers for the coming season.

The collection which Hartnell showed today features no extreme lines, either in barrel shapes or flapper looks, and it contains only two of those elaborately embroidered evening dresses for which Hartnell is famous.

White mink, throughout the years, has been put to many and varied uses. But surely never before has it been used to trim an umbrella.

Hartnell has used it to cuff the cover to a long slender umbrella carried with a most attractive "umbrella time" model called cats and dogs. The coat, cut on Princess lines, is in waterproof velvet trimmed with a large white mink collar. With it goes a tiny flat white mink hat covered with a filmy veil.

Beauty Operators See New Methods At All Day Clinic

Color continues to highlight the hair stylings favored for this fall, with pastel tints being the new interest.

Hairdressers of Peterborough and the district, coming from as far away as Orillia and Picton, attended an all-day beauty clinic Wednesday, held by Ontario hair beauty suppliers at the Club Aragon, and were shown the latest methods and procedure in coloring, shaping and styling and permanent waving.

All phases of beauty shop routine were going on at the same time on the platform, the operators being experienced people chosen for this annual clinic.

The coloring took the time of the two operators, working on three models, for most of the day, and an outsider was led to wonder that the cost of having one's hair color changed is not greater than is charged locally. Of course, the models endured the process for a similar length of time, but they were rewarded by prettier heads of hair in the end.

An older woman had her all-white hair bleached and changed to a silver white. The young matron became a golden blonde and a younger matron, who is naturally a blonde, was to take on a more glamorous shade than ever from this new pastel tint line by a famous maker of hair color products.

It was pointed to the beauty operators that one of their biggest jobs is to guide the customer on what products to use on her hair if she intends to do it herself.

It is well known to the profession that more and more women are buying tints, dyes, shampoos and permanent waving kits at the drug store and using them at home. They know why, too—because it is cheaper. They also know that nine times out of ten the woman comes to them later, in a state of tears usually, and they are asked to straighten out a variety of trouble.

Are they annoyed? Well, no—because the treatments this customer will need are most likely to put more money than ever into their tills. Yet, they were asked to guide her in what she does use, and they will do it.

The Peterborough owner of two popular hairdressing establishments explained this situation thus: "The products you buy at the drug store are just as good, or probably the same, as we would use, but it is the method which makes the difference. Even though directions may be followed to the letter, there is need for understanding of hair qualities and the reactions of the chemicals of the product and the chemicals of the body. Then, too, there is the cutting of the hair which can only be done by a competent and experienced stylist to be attractive."

Cutting and styling techniques with advice on when to use the razor and when to use the shears for the desired effect were demonstrated by Marcelle Peron, a Frenchman who established himself in Guelph. He did not make the hair noticeably short, but concentrated on line, having in mind the shape of the head and face.

A neutralizing cream out of a tube was demonstrated in the permanent section. The operator impressed a point that the type of shampoo used before a wave may have much to do with whether a good curl is achieved.

Omemee Couple Celebrate 50th Wedding Anniversary

OMEMEE (ENS)—Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Fisher, of Omemee, were at home to their friends on Wednesday, the occasion of their 50th wedding anniversary. All but four of their 50 years were spent where they now reside.

They were showered with cards of congratulations and good wishes and received many gifts and floral tributes. Among them was a bouquet of 50 golden roses, a gift from the Women's Institute.

Their four daughters and daughter-in-law were hostesses at the reception. Pouring tea were the bridesmand of 50 years ago, Mrs. F. LeBarge, of Toronto, and Mrs. Eva Lloyd, of Omemee, who also was a guest at their wedding. Table decorations were in white and gold, centred with a three-tiered wedding cake with gold decorations.

Out-of-town guests were from Toronto, Peterborough, Lindsay, Cobourg and Birdsall.

SON OF CAVAN BLAZER

Mr. Fisher is of Irish descent, the son of a "Cavan Blazer," the late William Fisher, and Ann Ingram. He loves to tell of the escapades of that group.

He shared the farm home with four brothers and three sisters. Of these, only two brothers, Amos of Cavan and Nelson of Toronto, and one sister (Carrie), Mrs. Fred LeBarge of Toronto, are now living. The others were William, David, Isaac, Mrs. Ben LeBar (Isabel), and Mrs. Ben Hallaway (Jennie).

Mrs. Fisher's father, the late Edward Lloyd, was a Welshman who, with his wife, the late Mary Ann Hawn, farmed at Maple Lake in Haliburton. After Mr. Lloyd's death, the family moved to Omemee, when Mrs. Fisher, formerly Ann Jane Lloyd, was six years old. They were seven: David, Ellis, Alfred, Mary (Mrs. William Starr), Margaret (Mrs. Owen Johnson), Ann Jane and Violet (Mrs. William Hudson). Only Mrs. Fisher and Mrs. Hudson, of Toronto, are now living.

Mr. and Mrs. Fisher were married at the home of the bride's mother, across the street and one lot down from where they now live. The late Rev. James H. Locke officiated. The late David Lloyd, brother of the bride, was groomsman, and the bridesmaid was Carrie Fisher, sister of the groom.

FIRST MEETING

Mrs. Fisher relates that she first saw Sam on a crowded railway coach on the way home from Lindsay Fair. When he noticed her standing, he rose and gave her his seat. But the romance did not begin until their next chance meeting at a Christmas concert in the old Omemee hall.

After their marriage, they lived one year in Bethany and three in Millbrook before settling in Omemee. There were eight children: Lloyd of Toronto, Hector of Omemee, the twins Pearl and Grace (Mrs. George Robbins and Mrs. John Wallace, of Toronto), Vera (Mrs. Percy Legier) of Toronto, William, Marion (Mrs. T. J. Pogue) and Edgar, all of Omemee. Another child, Helen, died in infancy.

Mr. Fisher was a CNR section man until his retirement in 1946.

Mrs. Fisher thinks it was as easy to raise a family of eight then as the twos and threes of present generation families. "We weren't so fussy," she says. "People had much less of everything, but we were just as happy and more contented."

In 1924, the Fishers suffered a reverse when their home was burned, but they rebuilt within the year the comfortable little home where their children and grandchildren now love to visit them. They have 14 grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

Mr. Fisher enjoys splendid health and, although a railway pensioner, has never quit working. Besides assisting his wife, who is now in poor health, he finds time for various odd jobs about town. He is a staunch Orangeman and seldom misses a parade.

Mrs. Fisher was active in the Women's Institute as long as her health permitted. They were Methodists before church union.

Home and School Association News

MILLBROOK

MILLBROOK (ENS). — The executive of the Home and School Association met at the home of Mrs. Homer Ouellette, vice-president. The president, Mrs. B. B. Dawson, was in the chair.

Plans were made for the first meeting of the year on September 14, when members of the Durham District High School board and the local Public School board will be special guests. Members of both public and high school staffs are to have special invitations to attend, and new teachers will be introduced.

Parents will have the opportunity to ask the boards questions on anything relating to school management.

Frosty Treats For Youngsters - Frozen Suckers

The cost of ice or sherbet pops for the youngsters really mounts when the weather is warm. But, you can save money by making these treats at home.

Simply use packaged sherbet mix. It's already sweetened and flavored. Just mix it with water, or milk for extra nutrition. The children have a choice of three refreshing fruit flavors—lemon, orange or raspberry. One package makes four to six large frozen suckers, or 10 or 12 smaller ones—for just a few pennies each.

Sherbet pops are so simple to make the children can keep themselves supplied. Here are the directions:

1. Pour 2 cups water (or 1 cup milk and 1 cup water) and contents of package of sherbet mix into a jar—a quart canning jar or shaker will do nicely. Cover jar and shake vigorously until sherbet mix is dissolved.

2. Pour mixture into moulds. (Special frozen sucker moulds, complete with sticks, are available. Or use paper cups, muffin tins or frozen fruit juice cans. Use paper or wooden spoons, or wooden sticks in each frozen sucker. Insert when mixture is partially frozen.)

3. Place in freezing compartment until frozen firm. (If you don't have enough moulds to freeze all the sherbet mixture at once, refrigerate it in the covered jar.)

4. When suckers are frozen, remove and refill mould. Wrap frozen sherbet pops in foil or wax paper and store in freezing unit.)

Faith And Trust Subject Of WA

BETHANY (ENS)—The Women's Association of the United Church met in the Sunday School room with Mrs. Mansell Finney presiding. Mrs. C. Cummiskey read the scripture lesson with Mrs. Lloyd Kennedy giving the explanation and leading in prayer.

Plans were made to cater for a wedding the latter part of the month.

The program was in charge of Miss Elsie Richardson. Mrs. A. H. Monk gave a reading "Try Giving Yourself." Mrs. R. Carr sang "Someday I'll Understand." Mrs. Clarence Rowan gave the topic on "Faith and Trust." "All things work together for good for them that love God. The difference between a believer in the everlasting mercies of a just and loving God and one who has no faith may be summed up this way . . . calamities will come, bombs and bullets and influenza and death to all alike; not all in the face of these can assert: In all this I see God. That is the difference. If we believe in God at all it is not in immunity from disaster, but in freedom from the thraldom of despair, freedom from fear and doubt for at the very foundation of our belief in God is the confidence that in this world with its calamities, illness, death, separations and loneliness, there is the Divine purpose that God is in control. We must have faith and trust."

Miss Richardson conducted a Bible contest, with Mrs. A. H. Monk having the high score. Meeting was concluded with the hymn "Blest Be The Tie That Binds" and the benediction. A social hour was enjoyed during which Mrs. C. Rowan, Mrs. C. Cummiskey and Mrs. J. J. Clark served lunch, with Mrs. Monk expressing the thanks of the ladies to the hostess group.

Hair Habits Clue To You

Teenagers, your classmates sit behind you at school desks and perhaps form opinions about you from your hair style and grooming. Here are some hair habits you won't want to fall into, if you would have your classmates' admiration.

1. Combing hair with fingers while listening to lectures or twining your fingers around a favorite curl.

2. Scratching your scalp thoughtfully. This means your hair and scalp need oil treatments, unless it's just a bad habit.

3. Poorly conditioned hair that causes dandruff and loose hairs to fall on your shoulders and back.

4 Going without a shampoo for too long so that an ever-widening circle of grease spreads from the centre of your scalp. People who are taller than you are see this.

5 Overnight permanents, especially when the hair is long and in need of thinning, that cause a frizzy halo of fluff to stand out like a bushwoman's.

6. Absolutely straight hair that tends to stringiness. Set it if only need not aim for curliness.

7 An over sophisticated hairdo that belongs on a woman, not a girl. The latest high-style hair fashions are, in most cases, not suitable for girls of school age.

Hats As Big As Minutes

NEW YORK—New French hats are about as big as minutes in the collection picked recently by Tatiana in Paris and being shown here now.

Turbans and pillboxes all play second fiddle to hair-do's. Worn forward or pushed way back, they show forehead or nape of the neck and never hide the essential shape of the head.

Designers involved are all in the big-name league of French millinery—Fath, Orcel, Paulette, Dior, Balenciaga, Cange, Reboux, St. Cyr, Svend and LeGroux Soeurs.

Paulette, full of fun and imagination, likes her little hats exposing face and hiding back hair. Her grey jersey cap has a back drape into which you can tuck straggly ends.

Paulette's cocktail hats are second size, if the daytime shapes are minutes. Three black velvet clubs from a bridge deck are strung on a wire and pulled together with a veil. Pronged caps that look like starfish are made of white or blond velvet.

VEILED HORSESHOES

To wear with grey clothes, a pair of grey felt horseshoes are studded with gold nailheads, wired together and veiled.

Little tailored pillboxes come from Balenciaga. Trimmed with neckties-neat bows or fabric feathers, they are worn forward primly at the edge of the hairline.

Hats created originally to go with Dior's new silhouettes all have back interest—like velvet flounces or prongs that do double duty to decorate and clip on.

Though most of the Paris hats are shallow, a few are as deep and cover-up as inverted bowls. An amusing hat by Svend hides the whole hair-do. It has a wide tab that can be buttoned under the chin or across the back.

from Kellogg's

THE CRISP, CRISP FLAKES WITH THE DEEP, DEEP FLAVOR

Slow baked to a rich, golden toast in our radiant ovens . . . Kellogg's Corn Flakes come to you so fresh you can almost catch the piping hot aroma drifting from the oven doors.

They're the number one flakes all over Canada—and in the whole, wide world. They're the original corn flakes developed by W. K. Kellogg and flavored to his still-secret recipe—a flavor that has never been duplicated. As Mr. Kellogg said, "They won their favor through their flavor."

FRESH FROM LONDON

No wonder your Kellogg's Corn Flakes reach your table in sparkling fresh milk and extra crispness. They're toasted fresh daily in our plant (London, Ontario—right here in Canada)

HOW DO YOU WANT your fall coat, short of long? Barrel-shaped or redingote? Fur-trimmed or not? Paris has coats every way, in widths from the very slender to the very wide, in varying lengths, trimmed or untrimmed. The wide coat (left) is typical of the Dior collection. A tricky drape starting high at the waistline marks the back interest in this slate gray faille for informal evening wear. It's in the shorter length, is worn here with gray jersey toque and slim-heeled satin pumps. For formal town wear (right), Manguin has this bronze silk ottoman redingote with restrained fullness and rounded shoulder width. Mink makes the high round collar and the cuffs that finish off seven-eighths sleeves.

THE MOVIE COLUMN:

No Pitcher, Star Would Quit 3-D

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Patricia Medina, one of Britain's lovelier loans to the United States, is one actress who doesn't care if she ever makes another 3-D movie.

"I'm through with 3-D," she asserts. "Or rather, I should say that 3-D is through with me."

"My aim is too poor," she explains.

Much ha. been written about 3-D but always from the audience point of view, the discomfiture of glasses and the continual ducking. Now comes Miss Medina with the first complaint, to my knowledge, from the players' side.

Patricia's last try at 3-D was at Columbia where she worked for producer Sam Katzman in "Drums of Tahiti." Katzman is a great gimmick man and it followed that his 3-D picture would be loaded with gimmicks.

CALLS FOR TOSS

One of the called for Pat to pick up a cold cream jar and hurl it toward the camera, ultimately to splatter over bespectacled audiences.

"I spent the whole day grabbing that jar and throwing it. I failed miserably. Finally, the director said to skip it until the end of the picture.

"Here I was, an actress with 10 years of English and American experience behind me, winding up as a complete idiot on the set.

"It was pathetic. Some of my friends among the crew took great pains to help me. Some even cheered me on the sidelines but I was hopeless."

At the end of the shooting schedule, the director tried again.

This proved even more embarrassing to Patricia. Technicians had rigged up an elaborate cord arrangement whereby she could not possibly toss the jar out of camera range.

REALLY HURT

"This really hurt because this sort of treatment is usually reserved for child and animal actors. But even with the cord I failed. I doubt if they can salvage any of the takes for the movie.

"The director was very kind. He assured me he wasn't critical of my acting ability but hinted that I would have to improve my throwing arm if I wanted to continue in 3-D."

The experience so unnerved her that when producers Bob Fellows and John Wayne wanted her for their "Plunder of the Sun," she didn't even ask about the role.

"All I wanted to know was whether it was flat or 3-D. Thank heavens, it was a good old flattie."

DOROTHY DIX:

Childless Couple Criticized For Fondness For Children

DEAR MISS DIX: We have been married several years, and, to our great disappointment, have no children. We are very fond of the young people around us and delight in taking them to our lodge at the lake to swim, for picnics, or to have them in for an evening of games and popping corn. We are very careful about these groups; the youngsters are never in the house alone and their parents all approve of their being with us. Rarely do we even have a mixed group; usually it's an all-girl or all-boy party. Most of them are high-school juniors or seniors. What's upsetting me is that many people in the neighborhood are beginning to criticize us because we are so much with the young folks, rather than with those our own age (I am 35, and my husband 41). My husband and I both work, and enjoy spending our free time with young people.

Mrs. G.

ANSWER: Directing the social activities of teen-agers is a demanding job, for which you and your husband seem singularly well equipped. Since the criticism comes from others than the parents of the children you entertain, I think it can be disregarded. I would however, make two suggestions. One, that you don't give up the companionship of your contemporaries altogether, and, two, that you try to direct your talents to more organized activity.

There is a tremendous need in most communities for people like you and your husband, who understand adolescents and are willing to work with them. If you would continue your present course, under the auspices of a church, or community club, the scope of your wark could be extended to include more teensters giving them all a chance to develop socially.

You might begin with a square-dancing session, then go to round dancing, putting more stress on the relationship of the youngsters to each other, rather than between them and you older people. You have a wonderful opportunity here for service among the younger people of your community, but I do think a wider field is the answer to your problem rather than restriction to small groups.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: For the past several months I've been meeting the same boy at our church dances. He walks me home, but never asks for a regular date. Finally, he admitted the reason he doesn't call for me is that he's afraid to meet my parents. He is very shy, but my parents want to meet him, since they knew about our being at the dances together.

MILLY H.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Talk the matter over with Mom, and see if she can't a more or less casual way to meet the boy. It's not a bit uncommon for adolescent boys to be scared stiff at the prospect of meeting a girl's parents, but once the first step is taken, they get along well.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: My husband recently read of the marriage of one of his former sweethearts. He called her mother, and with with great interest inquired about the details of the wedding. I thought it was out of order. We have had several quarrels over the matter, but he won't admit he's wrong.

MRS. G.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Much ado about nothing! There was nothing in your husband's conduct to warrant a quarrel. Since he had probably been acquainted with many of the girl's friends, his interest in knowing who was in the wedding party, etc; was fairly natural. Why not forget the incident?

Friends Honor Roseneath Couple

ROSENEATH (ENS)—Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Arthur were taken by surprise on Monday evening at their farm home six miles west of Roseneath, when some 60 close friends and enighbors gathered at their home in honor of their 25th wedding anniversary. There was a program of music. James L. Timlin read an address and Mr. Harold Davidson made the presentation of a large table lamp with a glazed pottery base, on behalf of the gathering.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur made appropriate replies and the ladies served refreshments.

On the evening of Saturday, August 29, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur entertained their immediate family at dinner and the family presented their parents with 25 silver dollars as an anniversary gift.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur, the former Grace Blodgett, were married at the United Church parsonage, the Rev. Redvers Brown, resident Roseneath, August 29, 1928, by minister here at that time.

Their entire married life has been spent on the Arthur homestead. They have four daughters, Mrs. Leo Linton (Lois), Blanche and Joyce, of Cobourg, and Linda at home.

They are members and regular attendants of Roseneath United Church and Woodvale Farm Forum. Mrs. Arthur is an active member of Centenary WA, and Mr. Arthur has served as a member of the trustee board, Alnwick township school area.

Don't Approve Regulation

LONDON (AP)—Lord Nuffield Foundation today lashed out at recent proposals to regulate such philanthropic organizations.

Trustees of the Nuffield Foundation, established 10 years ago by motor magnate Lord Nuffield, [illegible] their annual report:

"Trusts and foundations are part, and sometimes the financial mainspring, of voluntary action.

"It is often the function of the voluntary movement to sponsor minority opinions, which may be unpopular opinions, advocating or trying out unorthodox action. For that reason, and not from any doctrinaire obsession, this foundation is unrepentant in its repetition that freedom—which includes the freedom to make mistakes—is an important condition of adventurous voluntary action."

Some British political leaders recently have proposed registration and controls for foundations.

Delay Channel Swim Till Mid-September

DOVER, England (AP) — Florence Chadwick's bid to set a record for the England-France channel swim and to "see how far I can swim on the return journey" was put off today until at least mid-September.

Tom Dawson, her Royal Navy navigator, made the announcement after checking weather and tide reports.

HE'S GOT HIS BUTTONS — J. C. Ramsbarger, of Topeka, Kans., looks like a decorated military hero as he wears a "few" of his political campaign buttons. He has been collecting them since the 1890's. To avoid conflict he keeps Republicans on the right and Democrts on the left.

Dueling Took Many Lives Over Trivial Arguments

WASHINGTON—"If your courage is equal to your impudence, you will meet me tonight in the wood."..."Act like a man if you can and spare me the pain of publishing you to the world for an insolent, slanderous, prevaricating poltroon."

Challenges like these have for centuries sent men out to duel and die to satisfy affronted honor and to prove themselves no cowards. Even today, dueling is legal in some countries—Uruguay, for example, which recently found it advisable at least to ban radio broadcasts of "affairs of honor."

Formal dueling, as distinguished from ordinary fighting between individuals holding different opinions, began in medieval times. Not only personal and family quarrels, but legal questions were decided in the duel.

NO HOLDS BARRED

Men have fought with meat skewers, scissors, whips and harpoons. They have dueled in the dark, drawn lots for poisoned drinks and fought while tied together. In 1808 a huge Paris throng watched two men in balloons shoot it out with blunderbusses. One balloon was shot down and the duelist aboard killed when he tumbled out upon a rooftop.

SHOTGUNS AT FOUR PACES

A pair of distinguished Virginia cousins fought with slug-loaded fowling pieces at four paces after spurning proposals to jump together from the Capitol dome, sit on a burning powder keg, or fight with dirks. One was killed, the other badly wounded.

"I'm a gone community," said a Californian nonchalantly as he went to his end, reflecting the raw courage that has characterized many duels. Two Frenchmen fought to the death with billiard balls.

Sometimes duels followed astonishingly trivial provocations. A French youth had to fight because he was carrying violets, emblems of imperialism. Dying, he revealed the flowers were for his mother on her birthday.

A dancer waltzed against another, provoking a challenge. An argument as to whether anchovies grew on trees caused a fight. An Italian duelled a score of times to prove that Dante was a better poet than Ariosto, then confessed he had read neither.

Although it meant being proclaimed a coward, men sometimes refused to fight. Said a Georgia judge threatened with "posting" in the newspapers: "I would rather fill 10 newspapers than one coffin."

Again, a French writer replied to a challenger: "The game is not equal: You are big and I am little; you can fight and I cannot; you are brave and I am not. However, if you want to kill me, I will consider myself dead."

The tragedy of duelling was the appalling waste of a nation's men of standing and talent. Alexander Hamilton's death at 47 years of age was a bitter example. During a single decade of the 17th century, France lost 6,000 men, many of them distinguished, to the duelling sword and pistol.

Want Direct Dealings With Russia

SEOUL, Korea (Reuters) — A South Korean intelligence source said today Kim Il Sung, North Korean prime minister, will ask the Kremlin to resume "direct and exclusive" relationship between Russia and North Korea.

Pyongyang Communist radio announced two days ago that Kim Il Sung had left North Korea for Moscow.

The South Korean source said Kim would appeal to the Kremlin for help "in eliminating Chinese control and influence in North Korea" which had increased greatly with China's participation in the Korean war.

Quoting secret information said to have reached Seoul from North Korea, the source said Kim had gone to Moscow with a three-point request.

The source said he would ask for the conclusion of a secret defence pact between Russia and North Korea, independent of any agreement between Communist China and North Korea.

He would also ask for economic and financial aid for North Korean rehabilitation, and the conclusion of an economic agreement for a 10-year reconstruction program.

Lastly, he would ask that a large number of North Koreans be invited for training in Russia.

Call Freud "Unscientific"

By BOB JOYCE

MONTREAL (CP)—Soviet scientists, running true to recent form, today lined up squarely behind Russia's former great physiologist, I. P. Pavlov, and blasted the theories of Sigmund Freud as unscientific.

Dr. K. M. Bykov of Leningrad, regarded as leader of the 10-man Russian team attending the 19th International Physiological Congress, told a symposium Pavlov's discovery of conditioned reflexes marked the start of "a new epoch in the history of natural science and the humanities."

In contrast, Freud's theories resulted in "reactionary and mystical ideas" about psychical processes.

Suggestions that something unconscious and deep-seated such as a "soul" guided the inclinations or behavior of humans led scientists away from "genuinely scientific knowledge" of intricate psychological phenomena.

Soviet physiologists, in what is regarded in some quarters as an unwarranted extension of Pavlov's theories, hold both the mind and thoughts of living beings are physical objects and can be dealt with in a materialistic or objective fashion.

Canada's Balance Shows Deficit

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's balance of international payments showed a deficit of $365,000,000 in the first half of 1953 as dollar expenditures abroad climbed sharply and earnings eased, the bureau of statistics reported today.

This unfavorable balance, compared with a surplus of $69,000,000 in the first half of 1952, reflected heavy imports of merchandise with lagging exports, a large outward flow of tourist dollars and interest and dividend payments.

Current receipts from merchandise exports, gold, tourist spending in Canada, interest and dividends, freight and shipping and other dollar inflows declined by $78,000,000 to $2,613,000,000 from $2,691,000,000.

Payments on merchandise imports, travel expenditures abroad, interest and dividends and other items rose by $356,000,000 to $2,978,000,000 from $2,622,000,000.

Sign New Contract With Guelph Plant

HAMILTON (CP)—The United Textile Workers of America (CIO-CCL) said today it has signed a new wage-hours contract with Zephyr textiles limited at Guelph.

Two hundred workers at the plant will get wage boosts ranging from nine cents to 20 cents an hour. The work week was cut from 44 to 40 hours for production workers and 48 to 44 for cutters and maintenance workers.

The announcement was made here by the southwestern Ontario joint board of the union. The contract, for Local 1328, allows for wage increases of from nine to 20 cents an hour for time workers and 8½ cents an hour for piece workers.

Mitterand Quits In Huff Over Policy

PARIS (AP)—Minister of State Francois Mitterrand resigned from the French cabinet today in protest over the government's policies regarding the troubled North African protectorates France rules.

The 37-year-old minister, most liberal member of Premier Joseph Laniel's right-wing coalition government, had a talk with Laniel this morning, but refused to withdraw his resignation.

A long-standing feud between Mitterrand and Foreign Minister Georges Bidault came to a head during a cabinet meeting Wednesday when Bidault nominated a little-known civil servant, Pierre Voizard, as new resident-general in Tunisia.

NOTHING PERSONAL

Mitterrand explained today he had nothing against Voizard personally, but thought the government first should formulate a new policy toward Tunisia and Morocco—both of which have been in turmoil over nationalist demands for indpendence from France—before naming a new man.

Mitterrand has favored dealing directly with the nationalist party in Tunisia and letting the Bey of Tunis initiate reforms rather than forcing him to rubber-stamp French plans.

Mitterrand's resignation was not expected to endanger the life of the Laniel cabinet.

FREEDOM VILLAGE

When the prisoners arrived at Freedom Village, near Panmunjom, the Canadian Red Cross took over and Griffiths was loud in his praise of those who made up this organization in South Korea.

"They gave us anything we wanted, and anything they could find that they thought we might want", said Griffiths.

One Canadian girl of the Red Cross, whom Griffiths knew only as 'Mildred', was a native of Winnipeg. "She accompanied us right from Freedom Village to Seoul, and even sent an ambulance down with several cases of soft drinks we had asked for further up the line", he remarked.

'Mildred' will long be remembered by many Canadian ex-PoWs for her thoughtfulness in providing chocolate bars, books, cigarettes, cokes and practically anything else she could lay her hands on, to help make the PoWs lot a happier one.

of 'Mildred' was at Britannia Camp, south of Freedom Village, handing out cokes and chocolate bars, in a country where these items were thought to be non-existant.

EAR RING FAD

Griffiths described briefly a fad that penetrated to some of the camps. This fad was to pierece the ear lobes and insert home-made ear-rings. "It was just something to do, and gave us something to talk and think about", he said.

He was the only Canadian to take up the new fad, but many of the American prisoners busied themselves at it. Making the ear rings occupied more time, and the Americans monopolized this private-enterprise business also.

Griffiths, on his arrival at his home, wore an ear ring given him by a girl in Vancouver. "It's not as big and heavy as the one's the Americans made," he said.

Just what Griffiths' future in the army will be, he isn't yet sure He is only sure of one thing. He is going to enjoy 64 days of freedom at his home near Brighton—and have breakfast in bed on at least some of those days.

Advertising Manager W H. Watson Dies

MONTREAL (CP) — William Harold Watson, widely known in the newspaper advertising business in Eastern Canada and the western United States, died Wednesday after a long illness at his home in nearby St. Eustache-sur-le-Lac.

He was classified manager of the Montreal Star and brought to his work experience gained on newspapers in Toronto, where he was born in 1897, and in California and Arizona. He had not been active in business for two years because of ill health.

TAKE A SPIN — George Schmidt of North Bellmore, N.Y., demonstrates his new "Para-Copter," which he says anyone can fly after 45 minutes of instruction. The self-starting, pulse-jet-powered craft weighs 225 pounds, and will be used for rescue and training purposes.

U.S. Must Keep Strength At High Level

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Defence Secretary Charles E. Wilson told the closing session of the American Legion national convention today that in the foreseeable future the U.S. must not again let its military strength drop to "anything like the low level" that existed after two world wars.

Wilson said the Korean invasion brought home to the people the realities of the situation that exists in the world today.

Wilson gave the legionnaires what he called a "six-months progress report" on defence department activities.

He said there has been "considerable discussion and some criticism" of the current air force program.

STRENGTH INCREASING

"The current effective combat strength of our air force is building up rapidly and will continue to do so," he said.

Wilson emphasized that this country must "continue to have air power second to none."

The criticism he referred to has $5,000,000,000 cut in the air force budget and a reduction from 143 to 120 wings in the air force.

He said the reduced budget for fiscal 1954 "anticipated progress in making intelligent savings and in improving the effectiveness of the entire defence organization."

Canadian Buyers Seeking Larger "Small English Car"

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadian purchases of British automobiles are shifting to models larger than the predominant "small English car."

This shift is one of the more notable developments in United Kingdom car sales in Canada, a British trade official said in an interview here.

In the first five months of this year 28 per cent of imported British cars had cylinder displacements of 1¾ litres, as compared with the 1¼ litre motors of the majority of such imports.

"This suggests an intermediate [illegible] cars in Canada," the official said.

The average "intermediate" car is of 60 and 80 horsepower, he said, and is still below the 100 to 120 horsepower of the average Canadian-built car.

In the last few years, nearly all models have been modified to meet Canadian conditions.

"Most manufacturers have tried to improve the dust resistance of their cars," the official said. "In England it's hard to find a road that isn't paved, while in Canada it's only too easy."

Other changes include improved heaters—standard equipment in some models—softer spring suspensions to meet rougher road conditions and adaptations to improve cold-weather starting.

The official, who recently returned from a visit to England, said British manufacturers are trying to avoid a repetition of the situatoin in 1951, when optimistic forecasts of sales fell through in a general slump in the auto market and thousands of cars went unsold.

"Cars are flowing over in relation to the demand and there's not much likelihood of a recurrence of the 1951 situation," he said.

One problem faced by British makers, however, is that of forecasting in the winter what the spring and summer demand will be. This must be done in order to get shipping space and arrange production schedules.

One British manufacturer reported he could not meet the Canadian demand for his cars, the official said, but that was not a general situation. Most makers would ship more cars to Canada if the demand increased.

Statistics of U. K. automobile exports and sales in Canada vary, due mostly to a time lag in some of the figures.

The Society of Motor Manufacturers and Traders, which represents British manufacturers, said passenger car imports to Canada totalled 20,778 in the first six months of this year—more than double the 8,368 exported in the same period of 1952.

The society put sales in Canada at 13,766 in the first six months of the year, an increase of 1,316 from 12,450 in the comparable period of last year. Canada's bureau of statistics put the figures higher, but showed a smaller increase—14,846 this year, which was 488 more than 14,358 in the first six months of last year.

Last of radar equipment and USAF personnel leave Chodo Island aboard LST 1073.

Old Ones of Chado Left Behind By Truce

By EDWARD R. KENNEDY, NEA Special Correspondent

FOR MORE THAN TWO YEARS a vital UN "listening Post," Chodo Island, some 80 miles below the Yalu River, off the coast of North Korea, today is the home of 10 people, all over 60, all tired or sick. They, alone of 4,000 civilians on Chodo, chose to remain when, following the Korean truce, the island was abandoned by UN forces. When withdrawing, allied forces raided their own stores to leave food, blankets, small comforts such as cigarettes for the Old Ones. Cut off from further supplies by the truce demarcation line, the oldsters wait for death or Communist occupation. They care little which comes first—for there's only a little time to go. Revive Interest In Canal Across Cape Of Good Hope

By LOUIS WIID

CAPETOWN, South Africa (Reuters)—Current plans to expand Capetown's production of electricity through coal-fired steam generators have revived interest in the ancient plan of cutting a canal across the Cape of Good Hope.

The canal would link Capetown's Table Bay harbor with False Bay, on which Britain's naval base of Simonstown is located.

Such a canal would offer few engineering difficulties as it only has to traverse some 10 miles of flat sandy land linking the two bays.

Once completed, ships would be able to sail between the two harbors in about an hour, instead of making the long journey south down the peninsula's rugged coastline to Cape Point, often athwart heavy Atlantic rollers.

HARBOR EXPANSION

The project could also form the backbone for future expansion of Capetown's harbor, now occupying most of the suitable space at the foot of Table mountain.

With a ship canal, sea-going vessels could tie up at docks inland, within easy reach of the city's expanding new industries.

The project is as old as the city. Three centuries ago, the very first settlers dreamed of a canal, over those same flat lands. They wanted to turn the Cape of Good Hope into an island, and therefore a fortress, against the cattle raids of native tribes.

The plan is being pushed again now because the city has to face the problem of a large expansion of power needs during the next 10 years.

NEED MORE POWER

Its supporters point to the big advantage of being able to set up power stations without expensive cooling towers. The cost of cooling towers is $140,000 a year. But power stations built on a canal close to the cold icy waters of Table Bay would not need them.

The canal could also help drain the flat water-logged sandy Cape flats lying to the east and north of the city, and end flooding of homes in the native section of the city.

Crash Injuries Fatal

OSHAWA (CP)—Robert Tegart, 23, of Toronto, who worked in Oshawa as a radio announcer, died Wednesday night of injuries suffered three weeks ago in an automobile-truck collision that also took the life of Bob Stelle, 21, assistant engineer at the Oshawa radio station. Two other persons were less

Anglican Church "Missed Bus" In Indians' Need

FORT WILLIAM (CP)—The Anglical church "missed the bus" years ago by not recognizing the need of Canadian Indians for a native ministry says Frank Anfield, church superintendent of Indian affairs at Prince Rupert, B. C.

At a joint meeting here Tuesday of the executive council of the General Synod and board of management of the missionary society, Mr. Anfield said, "unless the Indians raise their own clergy, teachers and nurses, they won't have any because we apparently are unable to supply them."

Several speakers said that various evangelistic sects have recently entered the Indian mission field. It was announced that a commission will be set up to study the Indian problem.

The week-long meetings of the church continued today and a gift by an anonymous donor of $50,000 to raise stipends of the clergy was announced. Also announced was the retirement of the Rt. Rev. J. Lofthouse, bishop of Keewatin.

Tonight a thanksgiving service marking the 50th anniversary of the missionary society will be held at St. Paul's.

Other highlights of the session: The church decided to take no action in claiming compensation for war losses of church property in China and Japan.

Approved a special Arctic allowance of $400 a year for married men and $200 a year for single men.

Truman To Appear On Ford's TV Show

NEW YORK (AP)—Variety, the entertainment industry trade paper, reported today that former President Harry Truman will make his first commercial television appearance Sept. 20 and will be paid about $8,000.

The report said he will appear for 10 minutes on "Excursion," a Ford Foundation program over NBC aimed at younger folk, to discuss opportunities in America and the Point 4 program to aid underdeveloped nations.

Small Colleges Could Bring Back Unity Of Knowledge

ANTIGONISH, N. S. (CP)—Governor-General Vincent Massey said today that the small liberal arts college can do much to restore the unity of knowledge which Canadians are losing.

In an address prepared for the centenary convocation of St. Francis Xavier University here, Mr. Massey said that in English-speaking universities there has been increasingly in unhappy tendency to divide institutions of higher learning into the secular ones, which worship science, and the religious, which may regard scientific studies at best with some suspicion.

At least two Christian conceptions had done much to encourage and inspire scientific study: Monotheism, order in the universe, the scientists's first axiom, and a love of nature.

"I find expressed, not once but many times, in academic circles, the fear that with the loss of that sense of divine meaning and purpose which first directed and inspired scientific studies, the very meaning and purpose of science may be lost. And a purposeless exploration of the powers of the universe by those unconscious of its meaning is a process that one fears even to contemplate."

Large universities were in danger of losing not only the community of scholars but also the unity of knowledge. The smaller ones, while retaining the community of scholars, might also lose sight of the unity of knowledge if, devoted to their exclusive and special interests, they lost sight of their universal mission.

"A true and living restoration in the universities of this unity of knowledge could do immense service to our country and to our civilization. . . ."

Say Ontario To Swelter 1 More Day

Weatherman Reports Slowdown Over Lake Michigan

TORONTO (CP)— Southern Ontario must swelter for another day. The cool air and showers moving in from the Rockies slowed down over Lake Michigan during the night and upset the weatherman's prediction. The rains will not reach the southern part of the province until late tonight.

The revised outlook calls for a probable high today of 85 in Toronto, Hamilton, St. Catharines, London, Wingham, Windsor and St. Thomas. Humidity still will be fairly high.

The Labor Day week-end is expected to be cooler.

The long hot spell, extending across most of Ontario and southern Quebec and reaching far down into the United States, has had widespread effects.

Six-thousand day workers at the General Motors plant in Oshawa were sent home Thursday because of the heat. The night shift reported as usual.

Water consumption in Windsor, Ont., broke all records Thursday, reaching 25,750,000 gallons. Heavy bunker-type oil that usually requires heat to make it flow from the tanks flowed freely without extra warming when a tanker was unloaded at Port Stanley, near St. Thomas.

Officials of the Ontario lands and forests department welcomes word of cooler weather and showers in Northern Ontario where rangers are leading the fight against 98 bush fires. At the same time, they said there was a possibility of lightning storms starting new blazes in the dry north country.

NOT SNOW CLOUDS—but snow fences piled against a fence are waiting coolly for the heat to subside and the inevitable winter to return. Before long the fences will be put into use and the heat will be just a memory.—(Examiner Staff Photo)

Ontario Forest Fires Spread

TORONTO (CP)—Huge clouds of smoke billowed across Northern Ontario forests today as lightning storms and a blazing sun sent new fires raging through rich timber in the worst fire scourge in 25 years. At least 118 fires were burning, 12 of them out of control. More than 2,400 firefighters, exhausted after fighting the outbreaks for a week, were losing ground in some areas as flames spread swiftly on parched jackpine, hardwood and white birch trees. Twenty blazes broke out on Thursday night and early today. Most of the new fires were in the North Bay area, where nearly 1,200 men are battling the biggest blaze in the province.

New fires were also reported to be mushrooming in Tweed, Gogama, Lindsay, Sudbury and Pembroke.

SEVEN FIRES STARTED

A dry lightning storm that sped over the region Thursday afternoon started seven fires—four in the Tweed area and three in the Lindsay district. Three other fires were started in the Lindsay area that could not be blamed on lightning.

"Fortunately," said W. B. Greenwood, regional forester in Peterborough, "all the fires were caught while they were still small."

Pilot Tom Mathias of Peterborough spotted six of the fires in the Lindsay region from his aircraft.

RANGERS HANDICAPPED

A haze over the area prevented rangers in fire towers from being able to spot the fires effectively.

Today, the hydro commission turned over a helicopter, that happened to be in the area patrolling hydro lines, to the department of lands and forests. It is hunting for fires that might have been missed.

All the fires started in the area are under control or are being patrolled. Some have been put out.

A department Beaver aircraft that was in the region last weekend was moved out when all but

White-Haired Gen. Dean Freed After Long Captivity

PANMUNJOM (CP)—Maj.-Gen. William F. Dean was at last released by the Communists today and 275 other Americans—largest group thus far—were promised by the Reds Saturday, the second-last day of the Korean war prisoner exchange. Caked with dust, his hair now white, Dean rode a jeep back to freedom—the 91st of 95 Americans freed today. Three long and lonely years of Red captivity were behind the gaunt former commander of the U.S. 24th Division.

He won a Medal of Honor battling the Reds alongside his soldiers in the bloody streets of Taejon in the birth of the war—then was turned over to the Reds by a traitorous Korean after he was cut off from his own troops.

Dean was the highest-ranking UN officer to fall into the hands of the Reds.

Capt. Joseph Michael Liston of Ottawa, freed in Thursday's chapter of Operation "Big Switch," was the highest ranking Canadian Army officer held in a Communist prisoner compound.

Liston, freed with five other Canadians Thursday, said he believed all Canadians held by the Reds have now been released.

Reds Attempted Get Confession

BRITANNIA CAMP, Korea (AP) A Canadian corporal said Thursday the Reds threatened him and threw him in solitary confinement, trying to extort a "confession" because they found out he once was stationed at the riot-torn Allied prison camps on Koje Island.

The soldier, Cpl. John Jollymore of Toronto, said another Canadian and two Americans also were targets of the Reds for their duty on Koje. He identified the other Canadian as L. Cpl. Gerald McKinney, 21, of Melita, Man. Both were released Thursday.

Jollymore, 23, said the Chinese tried to make him confess to crimes against Red prisoners of war. He said they wanted him to admit joining in "massacres"—which actually were riots by die-hard Reds.

"Of course, I refused," he added. [illegible] Reds kept [illegible] but did not use physical torture.

"They kicked me once," he said, "and one time when the interrogator was pointing at me his finger went right down my throat."

Ottawa Losses On Pork May Reach $50,000,000

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal government's losses on its pork and beef operations—offshoots of last year's outbreak of foot-and-mouth disease—may reach about $50,000,000, it was learned Thursday.

The sum of $32,000,000 has already been written off—in last February's budget — and Parliament may be asked to write off the remainder of the loss next spring.

Price-support operations in both products were undertaken by the government last year as an emergency move to prevent collapse of the Canadian meat industry at a time when Canada's biggest market, the United States, had barred imports from Canada.

So far the government has taken the biggest loss—about $30,000,000—in beef. It purchased about 85,000,000 pounds of surplus beef from Canadian producers last year. It disposed of 70,000,000 pounds in a beef exchange deal with Britain and sold about 5,000,000 pounds on the domestic market.

It still has approximately 10,000,000 pounds in storage.

The government would like to get rid of more of its surplus pork. Altogether, it purchased about 98,000,000 pounds of pork for canning last year and though sales have been running at about 1,000,000 pounds a week, there's still about 50,000,000 pounds in government storage and carrying charges are mounting.

Federal sales are being made at a continuous loss. The government purchased the canning pork at an average of about 57 cents a pound and is selling it at about 37 cents a pound wholesale.

India Angry At Dulles Too

NEW DELHI (AP)—Popularity of the United States fell to a new low in India today as an angry press—and some political figures—reacted to State Secretary John Foster Dulles' remarks about this country's neutral role in Korea.

Dulles told the American legion convention in St. Louis Tusday the successful fight by the United States to keep India out of the Korean peace conference was no reflection on India. But he added that disbarment from the peace conference was the price India must pay for the privilege of refraining from the fight against Communist aggression during the Korean war.

Dulles told the legionnaires South Korea was distrustful of India because she did not join in the fight, but that the U. S. recognized India's privilege to stay out of the war.

Police Search Bush For Gun

TIMMINS (CP)—Police combed thick bush around the strike-bound Broulan Reef gold mines today in search of a revolver believed used in Thursday's gun fight between two men and 30 officers.

Ontario provincial police started searching the area shortly after a local official of the United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL) and a miner were arrested and [illegible] and attempted arson.

The two men, Patrick Walsh, 26, president of the union local at McIntyre Gold Mines, and Alphonse Norkum, 32, were also booked on charges of carrying offensive weapons. They were held without bail.

Police said they will appear for a preliminary hearing Saturday. Six other Timmins miners, charged with intimidation and possession of offensive weapons last week, will also appear.

Ballot Boxes Arrive At Union Offices

MONTREAL (CP)—Ballot boxes containing the votes of 4,000 seamen have started arriving at the offices of the Seafarers' International Union (AFL-TLC) for counting by a firm of auditors.

A union spokesman said today the results probably won't be known until "sometime after the coming week-end." It had been believed the result might have been available today.

SIU members voted on whether to strike to back up demands for a 40-hour week with overtime pay for Saturday and Sunday work.

Dulles' Talk Sets Off New Furore

Fear Endorsement Of Adenauer May Prove Boomerang

BONN (AP)—West German Socialists hurled fresh denunciations today at U.S. State Secretary John Foster Dulles in an effort to turn his open support for re-election of Chancellor Konrad Adenauer into a boomerang which would sweep the neutralist opposition to power.

The anti-Communist Socialists—who are also anti-rearmament and anti-alliance with either East or West—jumped with both feet on Dulles' statement Thursday at a Washington press conference that defeat of Adenauer would delay solution of the problem of this divided country.

Socialist chief Erich Ollenhauer charged the United States with "shocking political interference" in the campaign leading up to Sunday's voting.

'COMPLETELY REVOLTED'

Hamburg's Socialist mayor Max Brauer, formerly a naturalized U.S. citizen, said he was "completely revolted" by the Dulles statement, which overnight has become the hottest issue in the closing days of the campaign.

Adolf Arndt, a leading Socialist member of Parliament, said the "intervention by Secretary Dulles in the German election degrades and insults the whole German people."

It became more and more obvious that the Socialists hoped to turn the U.S. endorsement of Adenauer against the chancellor's bid for re-election.

The Socialist party — chief opposition to Adenauer's Christian Democrats and two allied parties in the present coalition — issued an official protest statement.

"This is a vicious attempt by the American government to interfere in the German election," the Socialist party protest said. "One of the most shocking political interferences in this election campaign," Socialist chairman Erich Ollenhauer echoed in a campaign speech Thursday night.

"The American government must not complain if this causes an anti-American reaction from the German people," Ollenhauer warned.

HOPE ADENAUER TO WIN

It is no secret that most American officials hope Adenauer will win and approve his program of rearmament in close alliance with the West. By contrast, they oppose the Socialists' advocacy of neutrality in the cold war. The choice between the two policies has been the major campaign issue.

For two years, however, the American high commission office has been promoting increased German sovereignty and carefully avoiding intervention in German self-government.

Adenauer strongly defended Dulles' right to comment on the election. He told a campaign rally in Bonn that Dulles' opinion of who should win is "important because he has a detached view of what is happening in our campaign."

Adenauer also told the Bonn voters they must decide in Sunday's election "whether you want America, Britain and the six Schu-

DULLES' TALK

U.S. Officials [illegible]

WASHINGTON (AP) — United States officials crossed their fingers today in concern over what effect State Secretary Dulles' outspoken endorsement of West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer may have on the German elections.

The fate of Adenauer's coalition government, which is friendly to the United States and other Western powers, is at stake in elections on Sunday.

The United States traditionally has kept hands off elections in foreign lands to avoid any appearance of outside interference. But at his press conference Thursday, Dules threw that tradition out the window in Adenauer's case.

Senator Lister Hill (Dem.-Ala.) said that while he agrees with Dulles that Adenauer's election would benefit the United States greatly, he doesn't believe the state secretary should undertake to tell any other people how they should vote.

"Any nation usually resents outside interference in its election and reacts against it," the Alabama senator observed. "It is a dangerous thing when outsiders, particularly an official of another government, attempt to influence an election in any nation."

RCAF Band Plays For Queen At Braemar

BRAEMAR, Scotland (CP)—The pipe band of the RCAF in Britain reached the highlight of its short career Thursday when it played before the Queen at the Braemar Highland gathering.

The Duke of Edinburgh made sure that she recognized the Canadians.

The 19-member group formed part of the Queen's honor guard at this most celebrated annual Highland games gathering. Later, it took part in the massed pipe band display and wound up with a solo appearance before the audience of 40,00.

Attired in the official RCAF plaid, the airmen-pipers from No. 1 fighter wing at North Luffenham won immediate approval. They are the first Canadian band ever to play at the gathering.

The unique plaid of the RCAF, designed during the Second World War, drew hundreds of questions. It is officially recognized by the Lyon king of arms at Edinburgh and is filed in Edinburgh Castle along with the rest of the authentic Scots plaids.

Storm Damage

CHATHAM (CP)—Mounting damage is being reported from a brief wind, hail and electrical storm which struck a section of south Kent in the Blenheim area this morning. Several hundred plum trees in the Broadwood Brother's orchard at Cedar Springs were destroyed. Tobacco crops on several farms were battered by hail. A calf and several chickens died when a barn collapsed at the farm of Peter Debecker at Raleigh.

Girl Swimmer Crosses Channel In 14 Hours

WISSANT, France (AP)—Florence Chadwick gave up her attempted round-trip swim of the English channel tonight after 16 hours and seven minutes in the chilly waters.

The California woman covered the distance to France from England in the record time of 14 hours and 42 minutes.

Coming ashore in France only long enough to eat an orange and take some sugar, she waded back into the water to attempt the return swim, although she expressed little hope of completing the swim to Dover.

SOME ROUGH WATER

Although the finish was made in flat seas the first part of the swim began Thursday night at 6:21 p. m. at St. Margaret Bay in rough and rolling swells.

The successful attempt against the official record of 15 hours 31 minutes held by England's Tom Blower came after about 25 postponements and one unsuccessful attempt this summer.

A swim in August of this year by Abdel Litif Abou Heif in 13 hours, 45 minutes has not been recognized by the English Channel Swimming Association for technical reasons. Unofficial conversations in Dover indicated that it will not be recognized.

Official observer Freddy Overton, who went along on the Chadwick swim, said he is confident the time of the 33-year-old San Diego girl will be accepted.

She landed here at 8:03 a. m.

6 Jet Planes Crash In Japan

TOKYO (AP)—Six U. S. jet fighters crashed in western Japan today after running out of fuel in "vile weather," the air force said.

Five pilots were reported safe, but the sixth was still missing late tonight.

The air force said five Sabres were lost in one flight and an F-84 Thunderbolt in another.

The air force said three pilots crash-landed with only minor injuries, and two others parachuted and were listed as "probably safe."

The sixth—one of the Sabre pilots—was missing somewhere in the same general area where the others went down.

The air force blamed a violent weather front that built up suddenly and slapped a lid over the jet's Japan bases.

Penalizes Policemen For Avoiding Funeral

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (AP)—Chief John A. Kinney has penalized more than 50 policemen for not attending the funeral of a fellow member of the force.

I issue an order, that order is to be obeyed."

Kinney posted an order Saturday telling all off-duty members of the force to attend the funeral Monday for patrolman Eddie Ryan, who had been on the force for 32 years.

Cost-of-Living Up Three-Tenths Point For Third Month

OTTAWA (CP)—The consumer price index, a barometer of living costs, rose by three-tenths of a point during July to 115.7 from 115.4, the bureau of statistics reported today. It was the third consecutive monthly jump, powered by price boosts mainly in items other than food. Price increases were shown for men's clothing, rent, fuel oil, gasoline, hospital rates and knitting yarn. Within the food group a substantial drop in the price of vegetables, coupled with decreases for fresh fruits and beef, was over-balanced by increases for bread, coffee, eggs, pork products and lamb.

The index, based on 1949 prices equalling 100, reached a peak of 118.2 in December, 1951. Previous to the recent three monthly increases, the index had dropped for six consecutive months.

OLD INDEX ROSE

The old cost - of - living index, based on 1935-39 prices equalling 100, rose during July to 186.4, a jump of two-fifths of a point, from 186.

This was the third consecutive increase for this yardstick, but it was still below the all-time high of 191.5 in December, 1951.

In the consumer price index, the food sub-group which had been the main propelling force in previous advances, edged ahead only slightly to 112.8 from 112.7.

The shelter column, which reflects changes in both rents and home ownership costs, rose to a new high of 124.1 from 123.9.

CLOTHING INCREASE

The clothing column also made a slight advance to 110.4 from 110.3. This was still below the all-time high of 115.2 in November, 1951.

With higher costs showing for fuel oil and home furnishings and cleaning supplies, the household operations column jumped to a new high of 117.2 from 117.

But the biggest group index change was shown by the column "Other commodities and services" which moved up three-fifths of a point to 115.8 from 115.2, reflecting higher prices for gasoline and hospital rates.

Passenger Train Sideswipes Freight

TORONTO (CP)—A Canadian National Railways passenger train sideswiped a freight train at a track switch in Toronto's eastern outskirts this morning. The freight engine was derailed but no one was hurt.

The passenger train, en route from Belleville to Toronto, hit the east-bound freight at Danforth and Midland avenues. Several persons aboard the passenger train were shaken up but none required medical treatment.

The accident happened as the two trains crossed a switch. The last car of the passenger train caught the freight's engine. The freight was heading for Whitby.

Ambulances and doctors were ordered to the scene when first reports said several persons were injured. Buses arrived shortly afterwards and took passengers to the Union Station terminal.

Wheat Surpluses Can Help Peace

FORT WILLIAM (CP)—Canada can do more to further world peace by distributing her wheat surpluses to the hungry people of the world than by arming for war, Welfare Minister Goodfellow of Ontario told the Ontario Association of Managers and Matrons for Homes for the Aged today.

"write off as surpluses" any excess wheat stocks she may have and send them to needy peoples.

"There is something wrong with an economy when there is talk of controlled acreage when people are hungry," he said.

Yugoslavia Gives Italy Warning About Troops

BELGRADE (CP) — Yugoslavia today threatened to send troops to the Italian-Yugoslav frontier unless Italy ceases "military demonstrations" in that area.

The warning was contained in a note—fourth in three days—sent by President Tito's government to Italy's foreign ministry in Rome as a result of new tension in the over the future of the free territory of Trieste.

"If the Yugoslav government establishes that the Italian government continues to adhere to the abnormal situation on the border, it will be forced to undertake corresponding measures on its territory," the new note said.

In plain terms, this means Yugoslavia plans to march in troops to back up her frontier guards in the Gorizia region, north of Trieste, unless Italy withdraws the forces on the opposite side of the frontier there.

The note described as unsatisfactory Italy's rejection of three previous Yugoslav complaints concerning border incidents of the last week.

The Yugoslavs say Italy had two divisions (20,000 to 30,000 men) in the area and Italian detachments twice have strayed onto Yugoslav soil.

The note protested Italy's action in undertaking a military demonstration along the border "when normal diplomatic channels exist through which an explanation could have been sought about differences between the two countries."

(In Rome, a foreign ministry spokesman said "there has been no military demonstration on the Yugoslav border." Italy contends the manoeuvres are strictly routine.)

In both government and diplomatic circles of Belgrade, the theory was advanced that the new government of Premier Giuseppe Pella has seized upon the Trieste issue to sidetrack Italian disputes over domestic affairs.

SEEK SHOWDOWN

President Tito's government apparently seeks a showdown on the whole Trieste question. He is expected to outline Yugoslavia's position in a major speech Sunday.

Canada Sends Food To Japan

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian government today donated $50,000 worth of canned pork and dried skimmed milk for flood relief in Japan.

The external affairs department said it was expected that the foodstuffs would be shipped from Vancouver by the end of the month. The shipment will be made up of 95,200 pounds of dried skimmed milk and 144,000 pounds of canned [illegible]

The Canadian Red Cross already has made $20,000 available to the Japanese Red Cross for relief work. In addition, Commonwealth forces in Korea, including the Canadian 25th infantry brigade, have contributed relief supplies.

Canadian Ships Visit N.Y.

Sailors Donate Blood For Red Cross

NEW YORK (CP)—The Canadian aircraft carrier Magnificent and the cruiser Quebec arrived in New York for a four-day visit today and 400 of their officers and men immediately volunteered to donate blood to the American Red Cross.

Seamen and officers alike stretched out on tables laid under the canvass awnings of the Quebec's quarter-deck while Red Cross nurses took their blood. Officers said it was the first time in their memory a quarter deck had been used for such a purpose.

Many men who had recently given blood at Saint John tried to volunteer again but had to be turned down.

Hon. Ray Lawson, Canadian consul-general in New York welcomed the ships to U. S. navy docks in the lower Hudson river.

MEN VOLUNTEERED

Commodore Herbert S. Rayner, DSC, captain of the carrier and commander of the two-ship task group, said his officers and men volunteered when he told them of the serious shortage of blood being experienced by the American Red Cross, particularly in its efforts to make available more of the blood derivative, gamma globulin, to fight poliomyelities.

The "Maggie" and the Quebec broke off manoeuvres with units of the American fleet in the Atlantic Thursday to make the New York visit. After a round of entertainment for the 1,700-man complement, they will leave Tuesday, the Magnificent for Norfolk, Va. and the Quebec for Halifax.

JOIN MANOEUVRES

Later both ships will take part in Exercise Mariner off Britain, involving the naval forces of eight NATO countries.

New York hospitality was laid on thick for the visiting Canadians. Television sets were immediately put aboard both ships. There was a city hall reception for the officers. Ratings were to be treated to tours, theatres, and ball games. Some were to appear on television.

A group of Canadian wives who came to New York to see their sailor husbands here, were at Pier 26 to greet the ships. First to embrace her husband was Jean Galloway, wife of Lt.-Cmdr. Stanley Galloway of Kenora, Ont., second electrical officer on Magnificent.

Urges Countries Unite Against Locusts

LONDON (Reuters) — Food-devouring desert locusts, increasing at a phenomenal rate, are threatening 30 Asian and African countries, a scientific expert warned Thursday.

Dr. Boris P. Uvarov, director of the anti-locust research centre here, appealed to the countries lying in the "danger zone" to bury their political differences and unite against the voracious pests.

He said the main reason for the rapid increase of the desert locusts is the failure of these countries to join in international control campaigns.

GREAT DANGER

If they remain unchecked, the swarms of locusts have before them a breeding area stretching from the North Atlantic and Mediterranean coast of Africa through the entire Middle East and across the Arabian peninsula to India, Pakistan and the Soviet republics in central Asia.

Dr. Uvarov said that to keep a locust breeding ground under control there must be a regular killing of virtually 99 out of every 100.

He said the immediate threat is to Kenya, Britain's fertile East African colony. He also reported that several swarms have been seen in Nigeria for the first time.

Vatican Slams Plush Party

VATICAN CITY (AP)—The Vatican City newspaper L'Osservatore Romano, in an editorial entitled "Criminal Folly," today criticized the lavish costume ball thrown at Biarritz, France, Tuesday night by the Marquis de Cuevas.

Estimated cost of the party ranged from $85,000 to more than $100,000.

The editorial said:

"Festivals such as that of Biarritz have no justification.

"They have no direct explanation.

More than anything else they are in bad taste. They are folly.

"They are a mockery and an insult to misery and sadness.

"They are an insult to Christianity for their pagan and low tone."

London Has Severe Storm

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—A bolt of lightning flashed through the bedroom of the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Strupat, suburban Wellington road where the parents were asleep with their son, John, aged two months. The parents were stunned by the bolt that damaged a corner of the house and a chimney. The baby slept through it all.

Another bolt tore a huge hole in the roof of Ramsden Manufacturing Ltd., and with the rain that poured in, caused damage estimated between $15,000 and $20,000 by G. J. R. Ramsden, president. The hole in the roof was 25 by 110 feet.

Another bolt hit the chimney at the home of W. E. Hunter and shot the bricks onto a neighbor's car, wrecking its roof.

Hope To Sidetrack Red China Issue

a few of the 19 fires were put out.

The department of lands and forests said "men are being rushed to the areas."

Although there were light rains in the stricken areas Thursday night, the fires continued to eat acre upon acre of timber from Manitoba to Quebec. Damag figures are well over $1,000,000. Two men and a boy have died fighting the outbreaks, which have destroyed more than 50,000 acres of forest land.

The most serious blaze is raging uncheked in Gladman township in the North Bay district. Out of control for a week, it has destroyed more than 2,400 acres of mixed timber and white birch.

A forestry official in the area said forest conditions are the worst he has seen in 25 years. No heavy rain has fallen in the stricken areas since Ontario's heat wave started 11 days ago.

A spokesman for the lands and forests department said:

"There is no sign of heavy rain. New fires are breaking out just about as fast as our men start to make good ground."

man plan nations as Germany's friends, or whether Germany turns its back on these nations."

"Germany needs friends," he warned. "Without strong friends Germany can never attain reunification."

Ollenhauer attacked Adenauer's "policy of strength" in a radio address and predicted it would lead to Germany's ruin instead of its reunification.

"The German people should remember where once the policy of military strength led them," the Socialist chief declared.

He argued that West Germany must remain unarmed and neutral if it expects Soviet Russia to consider giving up its occupation of East Germany.

HOPELESS FUTURE

Adenauer countred by asking "what would be the future of a neutralized Germany lying between the Russians on one side and France with its big Communist party on the other? We would be a second or third class power—a no-man's land that could not defend itself."

The dispute over Dulles' statement temporarily shoved into the background the menace of big-scale violence by Communist thugs sent in to wreck the voting.

The West German interior ministry claimed it had shattered a big Red plot by arresting 7,500 of the agents sent in from East Germany and had assured the tranquility of Sunday's voting by mobilizing a civilian army of 4,000,000 youths and athletes to back up the police.

Today, Dean told of three empty years in a Red prison without once seeing a fellow-countryman.

He told of grueling sessions of questioning—one time for 68 sleepless hours.

Except for the questioning and long marches, Dean said, the Reds treated him reasonably well, especially in the latter part of his captivity.

However, the 54-year-old general showed the wear of his years under communism. His hair, once sandy red, was dull white. Although he appeared healthy, he was obviously thin under the faded blue uniform of a prisoner of war.

Dean was greeted by cheers and echoing applause at the exchange point.

ASKS ABOUT MEN

A Red official detained him in the jeep briefly to check off his name on a list, then waved him down into a cluster of Americans.

Almost immediately, Dean asked about his men of the 24th division.

From Panmunjom he was taken to nearby Freedom Village, where he was met by top officers, including Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor.

"I am certainly happy to be back and to be home . . . You all look better to me than I do to you, I'm sure," he said.

Gen. Mark Clark, UN Far East commander, flew from his Tokyo headquarters to greet the returning soldier.

Yugoslavia

There was widspread speculation that he may:

1. Ask the Big Three Western powers to rescind their 1948 declaration which called for the return of all the Trieste free territory to Italy.

2. Claim on behalf of Yugoslavia all of Trieste—Zone A, which under terms of the Italian peace treaty was placed under Anglo-American jurisdiction; and Zone B, which was put under Yugoslav control. It is believed here this largely would be for bargaining purposes before a final decision on the territorial question.

Italian Papers Lash Dulles

ROME (AP)—A source close to Premier Giuseppe Pella today described as distressing State Secretary John Foster Dulles' press conference remark that the United States is open - minded about whether Italy should get disputed Trieste. Newspapers of all political complexions spoke out bitterly against the statement.

Dulles Thursday entered the long Italian-Yugoslav quarrel over the free territory at the head of the Adriatic. He told reporters in Washington that the U.S. government is open-minded about alternatives to the Western Big Three's 1948 proposal to return the entire territory ever to Italy, but that no satisfactory alternative has turned up yet.

The three-power decision by the United States, Britain and France in 1948 for the eventual return of the strategic territory to Italy has been one of Italy's main arguing points in its fight with neighboring Yugoslavia.

Hold 2 Captains Guilty In Superior Collision

Scotiadoc and Burlington responsible for the June 20 collision which sank the Scotiadoc in Lake Superior with a cargo of wheat. The board, which concluded its hearing July 12, said Capt. George E. Morris, skipper of the Scotiadoc, was 75 per cent responsible for the collision. Capt. George S. Ward, captain of the Burlington, was held 25 per cent to blame.

Capt. Morris' licence was suspended until July 1, 1954. Capt. Ward is under suspension for two months, the board said.

FAILED TO OBEY RULES

The inquiry, under Mr. Justice Dalton C. Wells of the Ontario Supreme Court, found that neither skipper had followed safety rules to the letter prior to the collision in which Wallace McDermid, a seaman from Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., lost his life.

Mr. Justice Wells largely discredited the evidence of Capt. Ward and said he would have made the suspension longer except for the captain's "previous good record." He said he did not accept Capt. Ward's denial that entries in the Burlington's log book were changed after the collision.

Costs of the inquiry were set at $3,600, with N. M. Paterson and Sons, Ltd., owners of the Scotiadoc, being assessed 75 per cent, or $2,700. The balance of $900 is to be paid by Canada Steamship Lines Ltd., owners of the Burlington.

Mr. Justice Wells also urged that consideration "be given to putting some direct responsibility on owners" to see that safety regulations on lake ships are carried out by masters and crews.

SAFETY REGULATIONS

Mr. Justice Wells found that both the Scotiadoc and Burlington were travelling "at a reckless speed," having regard to the prevailing conditions of a rough sea and poor visibility.

Mr. Justice Wells said Capt. Morris did not use his radio-telephone at any time just before the collision. He also said there was a lack of adequate watch on the Scotiadoc because of the absence from the wheelhouse of first mate William Crosson at a vital time.

"In our opinion, Capt. Ward of the Burlington, if he had been properly and carefully reading his radar screen, should have seen the Scotiadoc earlier than he did."

Report 7 Men On Missing Quebec Plane

ROBERVAL, Que. (CP) — The number of men aboard a Mont Laurier Airways plane, missing since Aug. 25 in northern Quebec, today was fixed at seven, two more than reported earlier.

Poor radio communications were blamed for the lack of information on the passengers, until a search plane returned with their names from Fort Chimo, on Ungava Bay.

Three passengers and two crew members were known to have been aboard the pontoon-equipped Norseman which disappeared on a 600-mile flight from Fort Chimo's seaplane base at Lake Stewart to this Lake St. John town.

Capt. J. F. Henley of Maritime Central Airways, who landed his Canso at Bagotville's RCAF station, 50 miles east of here, said there "definitely" were seven men aboard the missing aircraft.

He identified the two additional passengers as J. Ray Vanstone, a Toronto student, and a man named Levesque, whose first name he could not give.

The information followed a report from a Mont Laurier Airways spokesman regarding the possibility that there might be seven missing men. The spokesman could not be sure of the report picked up during a broken radio conversation between here and Fort Chimo.

Weather disturbances have disrupted radio communications in the far reaches of Ungava, so information was not easily obtained.

Passengers identified earlier were: H. Theinhaus, a German geologist, K. Koetan, a Dutch engineer, and Victor Abel, of Senneterre, Que., a bush traveller with Fenimore Mines Company, whose iron ore holdings in the Ungava Bay region the group had inspected.

Cabinet Changes Announced By Churchill

LONDON (CP)—Prime Minister Churchill Thursday lightly reshuffled his cabinet—making few changes in top positions but foreshadowing expected major changes in the near future.

The reshuffle left Anthony Eden at least temporarily in charge of the foreign office.

But it abolished the much-criticized system of "cabinet overlords," introduced by Churchill when he took office two years ago.

Lord Leathers, 70, minister for the co-ordination of transport, fuel and power, is dropped and his post abolished. He has been anxious to resign from politics.

DROPS SALTER

The prime minister also dropped Sir Arthur Salter, 72, as minister of materials. This job has ceased to be of top importance since the government handed the purchasing of many raw materials back from state control to private hands. The remaining duties of this post are passed to Lord Woolton, 70, chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster.

The overlord system, which put several senior peers in over-all charge of groups of departments, has been unpopular not only with Socialists but with a large section of the Conservative party. Critics said it tied the hands and initiative of the departmental ministers.

Churchill increased the size of his cabinet—from 17 to 19. While dropping Lord Leathers, he gave cabinet status to three departmental chiefs—Sir Thomas Dugdale, 56, minister of agriculture and fisheries; Florence Horsbrugh, minister of education, and Maj. Gwilym Lloyd George, 42, ministes of food.

Library Raises Insurance By $94,000

The board of the Peterborough Public Library Thursday night at their monthly meeting decided to raise the insurance on their building contents and books.

Insurance on the books in the library has been raised from $25,000 to $40,000. This coverage reported William Graft, chief librarian of the library, is to be compared with the standards set on book value for insurance purposes, by the American Library Association.

Insurance on the contents in the building was also raised from $5,000 to $20,000. Insurance on the building has been raised from $86,000 to $150,000, an increase of $64,000. The Insurance Committee also recommended that the Branch Library's contents be raised from $12,000 to $15,000, an increase of $3,000.

RECEIVED GRANT

It was reported by Mr. Graff that the library had received their grant of $12,737 from the Department of Education. This is the first time that the grant has been paid in full.

Mr. Graff also reported that there was an increase in the Adult Circulation department during the summer months of 6,544. In the Juvenile Department there was an increase of 2,249. The total increase for the two departments was 8,803.

The auditorium was used 24 times during June, July and August, and the committee rooms 27 times. During July there were 50 books deposited at the following playgrounds for the children Turner Hamilton, Riverside, Inverlea, King Edward, and Fleming Place Parks. There were subsequent visits made throughout the summer to the parks providing more books.

Refreshing Breezes Cool U.S. Sun-Baked Midwest

CHICAGO (CP)—Cool northern breezes and refreshing showers spread across th sun-baked Midwest today bringing happy relief from a prolonged heat wave.

Hot and humid weather, however, continued in wide areas in the eastern sections of the country. But there was hope of an early break, probably by Saturday.

The cool air mass from Canada, heading eastward and southward, pushed back the torrid stagnant air that had held a tight grip over the Midwest for as long as 11 days. Temperatures tumbled as much as 30 degrees. A band of showers about 100 to 200 miles wide were general along the leading edge of the cool air from Wisconsin southward into eastern Iowa, northwestern Illinois, Missouri and northeast Texas.

BRING GREATER RELIEF

Weather bureau officials said the cool mass would cover all of Michigan and Indiana by late today. There was indication that it would continue eastward and southward and bring relief to other heat-stricken areas.

Showers were forecast for sections about 160 miles to the rear of the cooler air, extending over eastern Wisconsin, Michigan, Illinois and Indiana.

Chicago, sweltering with other areas from the Rockies to the Atlantic coast in the summer season's longest heat wave, got the welcome relief about midnight.

It was a hot and sticky 97 in Chicago Thursday, the 10th straight day of 95 degrees or higher. It continued muggy with readings in the 80s before midnight. Four hours after the cool air moved in, it was a delightful 63. The forecast was for readings in the low 70s today and a chilly 50 tonight.

As the break in the heat wave came to the mid-continent, the toll of dead attributed to the hot weather mounted to at least 134. The searing heat also has caused millions of dollars damage to crops, livestock and pasture lands.

2-WEEKS DRY SPELL

Thursday's rainfall broke a dry spell of more than two weeks in many midwest and southwest areas. Farmers welcomed the beneficial showers, although in some areas they came too late.

In the eastern half of the country, Elmira, N. Y., reported a top temperature of 105 and the 100 at Binghamton broke a 24-year record for the date. It also was 100 in Albany and the 99 at Rochester was an all-time high for September.

In Philadelphia thermometers reached 100 and Washington hit 98.

Deaths attributed to the heat numbered 33 in Illinois; 20 each in Massachusetts and Pennsylvania; 12 in New York; seven each in Ohio and Maine; six in New Hampshire; five in New Jersey; three each in Texas, Rhode Island, Vermont and Minnesota; and two each in Wisconsin, Indiana, Maryland, Michigan, Missouri, and Washington, D. C.

Plane Reduction Shocking' Senators Say

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two Democratic senators today labelled a reduction in the U. S. Air Force's production program "shocking" and "dangrous," and Senator Charles Potter (Rep.-Mich.) asked for disclosure of all the facts involved in the $750,000,000 cutback.

Senatorial criticism began to erupt with publication of reports, later modified that plans to purchase 1,000 planes had been cancelled. The aircraft reduction is apart from the $5,000,000,000 cut earlier this year from the air force budget.

However, James H. Douglas, acting air force secretary, told reporters the striking power of the strategic air command would not be effected "materially" by th reluction, which he said was not an economy move.

REVISED ESTIMATES

Instead, he said, it followed from revised estimates of what the air force needs and will release money for other types of aircraft, some perhaps to be obligated this fiscal year. Douglas also said that while some existing contracts were affected, it was mainly future aircraft procurement plans that were hit.

Defence Secretary Charles Wilson said changes were being made "so we can spend the money for the right thing at the right time and for the right purpose." He declared the reduction would not affect the current production rate of 1,000 airplanes a month, nor prevent the air force from reaching its goal of 120 wings.

Scientists Seek To Speed Up Childbirth

MONTREAL (CP)—In an attempt to speed up childbirth, Irish scientists are attempting to determine the reaseon labor pains stare when they do.

Professor W. J. E. Jessop of Ireland's Royal College of Surgeons, here to attend the 19th International Physiological Congress, said in an interview Thursday he and Dr. T. E. Bradshaw of Dublin have been carrying out tests on hormone activity in pregnancy.

"We want to find a way to speed up the onset of labor, because in many cases where a woman's pelvic structure is small, she has difficulty ginving birth to a child the doctor said. "It would also be useful sometimes to effect an earlier natural delivery in cases where the mother-to-be was sick."

Professor Jessop said other specialists in Boston and in Edinburgh were also working on the problem independently. Present methods of artificially inducing labor were not always satisfactory.

The professor flew here from England where he attended the world medical educational conference last week. At the Montreal congress he presented a paper outlining results of experiments he and Dr. Bradshaw have been conducting during the last four years.

"We thought we might get a clue to what we were looking for, by studying hormones associated with pregnancy," he said. "Amounts of these hormones manufactured by the glands increases as pregnancy proceeds.

"At a certain stage of pregnancy we expected the amount of the hormone we were studying would decrease which might explain why a woman came into labor when she did.

"Unfortunately amounts of the particular hormone we were studying didn't diminish sufficiently to identify it as the cause of the start of labor. We'll have to start the search again, I suppose."

GRAZ, Austria (Reuters) — The pipe-smoking habits of a five-year-old boy caused a fire which razed an entire farm, police said Thursday. The hay caught fire and the farm and most of the crop were destroyed.

2 Missionaries Safe In Arctic

COPPERMINE, N. W. T. (CP)—Two Roman Catholic missionaries missing 21 days along the bleak Arctic coast about 100 miles northwest of Coppermine, arrived here by plane Wednesday.

The Rev. M. Metayer, 39, and the Rev. H. Tardy, 36, members of the Oblate Order and both veterans of the Arctic, looked none the worse for their experience and said they were short of nothing except tea and sugar before they were spotted Monday by the crew of an RCAF search plane from Vancouver.

The priests and four Eskimos travelling with them were picked up by a Roman Catholic mission aircraft. They had left their lonely mission at Holman Island, more than 20 miles northwest of Coppermine, Aug. 12 in an 18-foot boat to pick up winter supplies at Coppermine and became lost en route.

Prisoners Return

The armistice in Korea and the political talks before and after it take on local significance with the return of Canadian prisoners of war to their homes in various parts of Canada. Their repatriation makes the war in Korea real, the armistice and political negotiations newly significant in many homes and towns from Victoria to St. John's. The far-off has become close and real.

* * *

Many veterans of the Korean war have returned to their families in this district; so also have several former prisoners of the Reds. They are guarded in their reports of the treatment given them, but on the whole, we have heard nothing worse from their mouths than one might have expected from a prisoner taken during any war of this century. Undoubtedly the Reds (Korean and Chinese) committed atrocities; on the other hand, they have not been devoid of humanity. Few prisoners died from starvation, few from other kinds of maltreatment. A prisoner of war is never in a happy position. He is incarcerated away from family and native land and the foods and customs to which he is used. From an active and relatively free life, he is suddenly put under guard and forced to lead an inactive existence under sometimes crude and unkind conditions. The mental difficulties are probably greater than the physical; for the mind is more fragile than the body. The human frame has great capacities to survive; the mind is no stronger than the spirit. This is a condition of humanity; if it were otherwise, man would be brute animal.

* * *

We are glad to see the returned prisoners of war in this district looking fit, and smiling. We wish them joy in their two months' leave. Their presence among us may be a reminder that what takes place at U.N., what the course of NATO, and the diplomatic negotiations affecting the Far East, are important to every one of us, as Canadians and as men in this complex world.

Whose "Golden Hinge"?

When Field Marshal Montgomery was in Toronto to open the exhibition last week he spoke of Canada as the golden hinge between the new world and the old. The New York Times has taken up the words—and other points in the address—and notes Viscount Montgomery's ability to turn a colourful phrase.

Yet, hearing it, "golden hinge" or "hinge of purest gold" seemed an echo. Did Churchill do it before Montgomery? No, Churchill's phrase—devised as long ago as 1930—was "linchpin." "No state, no country, no band of men can more truly be described as the linchpin of peace and world progress." Golden hinge? Ah, we remember—the title of a book on Canada by Leslie Roberts, published only last year.

Had Montgomery read it, or remembered the title, and was unconsciously echoing it? No—Leslie Robert was echoing Montgomery. It is a phrase Montgomery himself used in Quebec, on his previous visit to this country: "There stands Canada, a hinge between the Old World and the New; a hinge of purest gold."

So last week in Toronto Montgomery was an echo of himself a couple of years ago in Quebec. A good phrase, and why should he not use it again? As a matter of fact, important speech-makers very often use the same speeches in different parts of the country, and even, like preachers, dig up their [illegible] parts of the very [illegible] not? Good speeches are not easy to prepare. It is characteristic of the great general to repeat successes (a military axiom never to reinforce failure) and if he is going to quote any man, who more pleasing to echo than himself?

The New York Times' comment on Montgomery's Toronto speeches—reprinted on this page today—had itself a very pretty allusion. "American policy . . . has been enormously influenced by the fact that on our longest frontier we have had a free and friendly nation. Our history would have been quite different if our national anthem had been "Die Wacht am Windsor Canal."

We are reminded of an incident on a guided tour of the ramparts of Quebec. The young guide spoke English, for the benefit of the crowd of American tourists trailing him. He showed how expertly the embrasures had been designed for protection against the enemy. He showed how well the guns had been sited against the enemy approaching from the south. He showed how the enemy could be trapped by cross-fire. An Ontario wag tagging along with the tourists asked "What enemy?" He well knew that the existing defences of Quebec had been built largely after the war of 1812. The guide looked over his crowd of American tourists, hesitated, blushed, and did not answer. "What enemy?" the teaser insisted. So the young guide had to say "The Americans." Some of the visitors were surprised by the answer; they had never considered the U.S. as an enemy of Canada. Others were as embarrassed as the guide. The Ontario interloper slipped away in the ensuing consternation. So friendly and close have Canadians and Americans been for so many generations, that it is uncivil even to think historically of the U.S. as an enemy. We do not set a watch on Windsor Canal or lock the casket of which Canada is the golden hinge.

New Mood In Russia

Russia has turned her emphasis from heavy industry and production for war, to production of consumer goods, especially food and clothing. The Kremlin seems determined on making the people happy, by proclaiming how bright and beautiful are the good days of plenty now at hand. For the first time in Soviet history, things like boots and shoes, furniture and textiles, are being given more prominence and publicity than coal and steel. "For more lasting and beautiful footwear" shouts the newspaper Pravda, in the space usually reserved for exhortations to foundrymen and reprimands to Western warmongers. Fashion notes are making an appearance, and they are advertising artificial silks, artificial fur and the production of patent leather shoes.

Western observers find this new campaign and emphasis rather amusing. One of our European correspondents reports that behind this absurd and rather crass naivete there is a long-frustrated desire. It found expression when Prime Minister Malenkov admitted to the Supreme Soviet that when it came to clothes and household amenities, Soviet citizens preferred goods imported from abroad to the Russian product. That was another understatement: but, to the assembled delegates, it was a revolutionary admission of what everybody knew. The Soviet union is not only far behind the Western World in quantity production of consumer goods; what it does produce is usually shoddy in the extreme.

This is still true, even though the standard of living has been steadily rising since 1947, when it touched rock-bottom; and already there is more of everything for everybody, at least in the big towns.

Malenkov has now promised that there will now be more of everything for everybody all over the Soviet Union, not only in the big towns, and that the "more" will also be "better." His promise was given such prominence at the time, and has been so heavily elaborated since, that he can hardly go back on it.

Stalin frequently used to tell his subjects that better times were round the corner; but never once did he deviate from the policy of making better times impossible—from the policy, that is to say, of putting every ounce of energy and material into heavy industry, capital construction and armaments, and neglecting the consumer. Malenkov has changed that. He has raised the five-year plan target for consumer goods, not simply by announcing a pious hope, but, practically, by diverting materials and factory space from heavy industry. Above all, he has diverted efforts to the priority building of factories designed especially for consumer goods. On top of this, with his new agricultural policy he is giving peasants a chance to earn enough money to buy the new goods when they appear.

Our correspondent concludes: "So long as the present drive for quality, finish and variety continues, the Soviet Press will make more amusing reading. Perhaps the day is not far off when we shall be able to read in 'Pravda' a long discussion on the mechanical, aesthetic and ideological advantages of the uplift brassiere, written in the style of the in[illegible] east over this country can hardly have been called a heat wave—rather, it was an eddy, when there was any movement of air at all. Scientific explanations have been given for the cause but, they were so long and involved that one's brow, dripping perspiration, could not bear an extra wrinkle to follow the reasoning. Now the heat has subsided, and very soon we may be looking back to the fortnight as something rather delicious—particularly the evenings. When in the history of Canadian weather has there been a September evening before when the thermometer registered 88 at nine o'clock and the air was as quiet and warm as that over the Isle of Capri in midsummer?

Now that our readers have cooled down a little, we remind them that in two months chill bleak November will have descended, and Christmas is exactly sixteen weeks from this day.

PORTRAIT OF MEDICAL STUDENT

A Guy's Man: M.D's In Training

By PAUL FERRIS

LAST WEEK we had an important conference in London — a world conference on medical education— which gave to many people their first insight into the life of the medical student. One popular newspaper even went as far as to use a report on the conference as its main news story of the day. "Watching students are wasting their time," said the headlines. "Surgeon attacks (theatricals) at operations." And there was a photograph of a row of young men in surgical masks, who seemed to be peering anxiously down at their boots.

The point was made by a leading surgeon, Sir Geoffrey Jefferson. His criticism —that medical students in the great teaching hospitals of Britain would often be employed better in the wards than in the operating theatres — was not the only one that emerged from the conference. Doctors, delegates from all over the world, heard it suggested that students who paid too much attention to books and too little to patients were "stupid," that there was a risk of "mass-producing" specialists: that the choice of doctors for teaching purposes was not always satisfactory.

* * *

AFTER so much criticism, this week seemed as good a time as any to see how one of London's teaching hospitals does work. I went down to Guy's Hospital, just south of the River Thames, and talked with many students. They come from all over Britain, from America and from most parts of the British Commonwealth; and it was strange, as it always is strange, to see in practice the systems that speakers at a conference analyse so glibly and criticise so neatly.

A Pakistani student, for instance, seemed surprised that anyone should think he or his colleagues spent too much time studying text-books. He said that sometimes they seemed almost to live in the wards, or in outpatients' department, taking specimens of blood, writing up the case histories of patients, examining fractures, as well as doing such routine in jobs as taking temperatures and pulses. And he thought this was without doubt the best way to learn.

* * *

A STUDENT from Wales wanted to know how much the medical conference had had to say about money. For the five years of his training at Guy's—he had already done four of them—the local education authority in his home town made him a grant. "Enough?" I asked. "Nothing like enough!" he snapped. And when he became a doctor, I asked, what about that? He said he wanted to go on working at Guy's; and if he did, he would be paid at the rate of £250 a year for the first six months; £350 a year for the next six months; £450 for the third six months; in all cases, less a hundred pounds a year for his keep.

He pointed out that he would have to do his two years' compulsory service in the Armed Forces before that; so that at the age of twenty-six or twenty-seven he would be earning the salary of, say, a top-grade shorthand typist; and certainly earning less than an efficient coal miner or tinplate hand, who would, moreover, have been a paid worker for some years, not beginning to draw a salary after an expensive education, and five years in the shadow of the tall grey walls of Guy's.

* * *

THOSE TWO YEARS of Army service, of course, have helped reshape the lives of medical students; as they have helped reshape the lives of all Britain's young men, to an extent that is, perhaps, not fully realised. I have a friend who was trained at Guy's and qualified brilliantly just eighteen months ago. Before the war he would probably, by this time, have been established in the eyes of his seniors as a young man of great promise; he would be in contact with famous specialists like Sir John Conybeare and Mr. R. C. Brock, notable as the surgeon whose thoracic unit has been successful in treating "blue babies."

But my friend is not living in a bed sitting room just round the corner from the hospital, nor does he go out to dine with Harley Street specialists; he is a captain at a British Army hospital in Nyeri, in Kenya, in the middle of Mau Mau terrorist country. Before he was posted to Kenya he was in the Suez Canal zone of Egypt and he learned to keep his revolver handy as well as his stethoscope. He will not return to this country until the spring of next year. Truly a reshaping —whether good or bad is not for me to say— of a young doctor's career.

* * *

AT GUY'S HOSPITAL, where there are six hundred students as well as several hundred studying dentistry, the prospect of Army service, like the prospect of much else that awaits them, seems remote; for the years of training are crowded years. A student from South Africa, wearing a white coat, with his stethoscope displayed in his pocket as punctiliously as a handkerchief, said he had had little time to follow details of the London conference. But he did not believe that at Guy's, at any rate, students wasted their time in the operating theatre; or that specialists were being mass produced; or that there was much —if any bad teaching.

He was proud of being a Guy's man (and indeed he had come a long way to be one) and proud of the reputation he and his fellows enjoy in the streets of the Borough, the district of little shops and houses that surrounds the hospital with its smell of hops and soot and vegetables. It is among the people of these streets that the Guy's men learn their craft, their lives too full for them to listen to all that the pundits are saying. And, believe me, they learn it well.

The Phobia Shortage

(LONDON TIMES)

AN American gentleman recently wrote a letter to a newspaper in which he advocated the enrichment of our, or anyhow his, language by the addition to it of the word nucleomititophobia. This graceful polysyllable, which by a happy touch of onomatopoeia incorporates the suggestion of chattering teeth, would make it possible to express in one word our fear of atom bombs. His project was criticized by another correspondent, who felt that "it might have been better to denominate the universal fear of being bombed by any type of bomb by a special type of bomb." He proffered bombophobia, rather a pretty word.

This foray across the established frontiers of etymology and psychology into the great open spaces beyond raises a question of some importance in this haggard age. Have we got all the phobias we need The thoughtful layman will scarcely find it possible to answer this question in the affirmative. He learnt in youth that there was a thing called hydrophobia, a rather old-fashioned affliction which took its name from one of its symptoms; a little later he became aware of the existence of claustrophobia and agoraphobia, and sometimes — at cocktail parties, for instance — fancied that he was suffering from a mild attack of the latter.

Then there was xenophobia, or dislike of foreigners. His own nation was notoriously immune from this failing, which more often than not was synonymous with Anglophobia, a much baser and less understandable aberration.

There, or thereabout, his acquaintance with phobias comes to an end. Surely there ought to be more of these labels to tie on to the limitless gamut of human fears? The layman himself, having led a rather sheltered life, may not personally have suffered from hippopotamophobia; but it would be silly to pretend that people are not afraid of hippopotamuses. Might not their apprehensions be easier to support if they were rationalized into a single word? We are all afraid of something; it would be more dignified and more up-to-date if we were called somethingphobes. If we go on in this desultory way, as though all our alarms and antipathies were perfectly natural things and did not need to be given high-sounding scientific names, we shall be in danger of getting ourselves classified as phobiaphobes. And that really would be rather ridiculous.

Canada "Hinge of Gold"

(NEW YORK TIMES)

VISCOUNT MONTGOMERY OF ALAMEIN has turned a phrase from time to time in his colourful career and he has never turned a better one than when he described Canada as a "hinge of pure gold" between the Old World and the New.

He applauded the Commonwealth ties and at the same time urged upon Canadians the development of their own unique culture. Likewise he urged upon them a stronger role in the NATO organization. This combination of great development at home and increasing leadership abroad could truly make Canada a "priceless" hinge, in Montgomery's words.

No thoughtful American will quarrel with his advice to the Canadians that they be not "influenced unduly" by their great neighbour to the south. "Undue" influence is the last thing that the United States should want to exert upon its warm friend and close neighbour. No one in his senses wants Canadians to be Americans. They are eminently satisfactory as Canadians.

At the same time it must be obvious that a strong interchange of influences between the two countries is inevitable.

American policy, both domestic and foreign, has been enormously influenced by the fact that on our longest frontier we have had a free and friendly nation. Our history would have been quite different if our national anthem had ever been "Die Wacht am Windsor Canal".

Similarly, the very fact that Canada is a nation of growing wealth and importance, a nation with still great frontier regions, cannot help but attract American interest.

There will be, we feel sure, an increasing number of Americans who wish to take part in the conquest of these areas and an increasing amount of American capital that will gravitate towards Canadian opportunities. Canada's growth and progress should be an inspiration and a stimulus in this country.

Each of us, likewise, can profitably experiment and experience in the other. We have many physical factors in common. We have some social factors in common. We have, above all, a community in ideals, aspirations and, we hope, standards of right and wrong.

With the free interchange of mass media in communications it is, of course, obvious that there will be American influence in Canada.

That very freedom of interchange can continue to be of great value to both countries. We cannot imagine the tragedy of a sealed border on our north. We can only hope that what influence we do exert, albeit unconsciously, will be a credit to our country and a contribution to our relationship with Canada.

Bible Message

Letter To The Editor

PRICE OF CHILDREN'S ADMISSION

Sir: Would you allow me a few lines in your column to address myself to theatre managers?

Why is it that when a film is shown that is definitely a picture for children the price of admission is raised from 15c in the afternoons to 35 cents for a child? At those prices the average workingman can't afford to send his children to see it.

If they would even advertise in advance when the trailer is being shown that prices are raised it would save the children a trip downtown in the sweltering heat for nothing.

This happened to three of mine to-day. I sent them with 45c and when they got there they were told children's admission is 35 cents each.

I believe the management would take in just as much money by charging 15 cents because more children could go. I certainly couldn't send mine at $1.05 for the afternoon.

It isn't fair either to discriminate in this way so that only the "well-off" can go. The working man's child would enjoy the picture as much as the rich man's child.

Thanking you I remain,

"DISGUSTED."

Makes Living of Sorts Out of Cigarette Ends

(Winnipeg Free Press)

No Canadian who served in Italy during the last war needs to be reminded of the trade in cigarette ends which, flourishing in all the large cities, was one of the least attractive features of that poverty-ridden society. It appears that this unpleasant commerce has survived eight years of peace; indeed it was recently the subject of an official inquiry which uncovered some rather astonishing facts.

The traffic, it should be understood, is illegal; all decent Italians are properly concerned with its health implications and the collector—"Cicciaolo" as he is called—has to play tag with law enforcement officers. Nevertheless it has quite evidently attained sizable proportions.

It would appear that about 1,500 stubs are required for a pound of mixture, which the black market manufacturers handle without benefit of disinfecting processes. To collect such a total is a hard day's work even in Rome where it is reckoned that at least 20 tons of stubs are discarded daily.

A pound of sortings (U.S.) brings 18 shillings; others sell at the cut rate of 15 shillings. Yet it was disclosed that one family of nine boys near Naples lived entirely on the proceeds of such collections, while others make a practice of breaking into automobiles, merely to empty ash-trays.

Back in depression days innumerable jokes about cigarette stubs circulated on this continent. But there is nothing amusing about the current problem in Italy and it is much to be hoped that the authorities are successful in stamping it out.

"Good thing, too—but don't tell the Old Man about it this morning."

Toronto To Get Milk Supply

TORONTO (CP) — Metropolitan Toronto can plan on having its normal milk supply during the Labor Day weekend.

Representatives of the Toronto Milk Distributors' Association and of the Milk Drivers' Union (AFL) met Thursday for four hours in Labor Minister Daley's office to discuss their dispute over eliminating Wednesday deliveries.

Mr. Daley then announced the meeting had been adjourned until Tuesday.

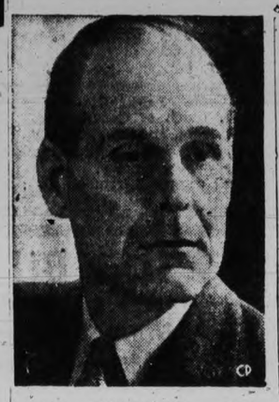
"In the public interest, the union has agreed that in the interim there will be no strike," he said.

The minister added some progress was made at Thursday's talks.

Some 1,700 union members have voted in favor of a strike.

Before they can go on strike, they must get permission from the Washington head office of the AFL Teamsters' Union, parent body of the milk drivers' local.

Mr. Thomson was named chairman of the board of Scotsman Publications, Limited, which operates The Scotsman, The Evening Dispatch and The Weekly Scotsman. The Scotsman was founded in 1817.



ON SCOTSMAN — Peter Findlay is associated with Roy H. Thomson, of Toronto, in the purchase of the Edinburgh Scotsman, one of the oldest newspapers in Britain. Mr. Findlay is the son of the late Sir John Findlay, under whose direction The Scotsman achieved much of its prestige. Control of the Scotsman newspapers was bought by Thomson Company of Canada, Ltd., the British subsidiary of Mr. Thomson's Canadian enterprises.

Dog Saves Girl's Life

TORONTO (CP) — An Alsatian dog jumped into Lake Ontario Wednesday and saved 13-year-old Billie Burke of Toronto from drowning. The girl had cramps and was trapped in weeds. The Humane Society said the dog will be given a medal for saving the girl's life.

Physiologists Face Last Busiest Day Of Congress

By BOB JOYCE

MONTREAL (CP)—Some 2,200 of the world's top physiologists, refreshed by a half-day break, march back to class-rooms at Montreal and McGill Universities today for the last and toughest day of the five-day International Physiological Congress.

They face a schedule which includes two congress symposia, a convocation ceremony, and 238 technical meetings at which 15-minute papers will be read to small groups of delegates by specialists.

But many delegates think today's star attraction won't be an official congress function but a discussion organized by the affiliated International Council of Scientific Unions.

At an open meeting presided over by Professor E. D. Adrian of Cambridge, president of Britain's Royal Society, physiologists are to ask themselves how far they have got, and what is stopping them from going ahead faster.

FEAR YOUNG MEN SCARED

The scientists are to discuss whether the chief thing holding up research is lack of men or lack of money. Many physiologists feel present-day physiological study is becoming so complicated it is scaring young men away from the field.

Back in 1825 keeping up to date on new developments was not unduly difficult. There were no scientific journals dealing with physiology and only 5,000 technical papers a year were published. Today there are some 50,000 scientific journals and scientists produce more than 2,000,000 papers annually.

Speakers at the two official symposia are to discuss the thyroid hormone and the physiology of cold.

Official congress releases indicate speakers at the morning symposium plan to review what scientists know about the formation of the thyroid hormone and its effect on the body.

The hormones produced by the thyroid glands which don't pro-tains iodine, necessary for the body's welfare. The iodine, picked up from the bloodstream by the gland, originally enters as part of the food normally eaten by an individiual.

MAY BE AFFECTED

When the gland isn't operating normally both body and mind are liable to be affected. Scientists have found individuals with weak thyroid glands which don'g produce enough iodine are sluggish, while more rapid gland action makes for faster work, quicker digestion and greater mental activity.

Leading discussion at the symposium will be Dr. E. B. Astwood of Tufts Medical School, Boston, discoverer of the drug thiouracil used to treat Graves' disease, a condition in which the thyroid overworks.

Dr. R. Michel of the College de France, Paris, Dr. E. de Robertis of Montevideo, Uruguay, and Dr. J. Gross of the States University of New York Medical Center, Brooklyn, N. Y. make-up the rest of the discussion panel.

Re-elect Hateley Parks President

SASKATOON (CP)—R. S. Hateley of Toronto Thursday was re-elected president of the Parks and Recreation Association of Canada at the close of the eighth annual convention here:

Others re-elected were J. Cropley of Deer River, Ont., secretary, and W. Oakes of New Toronto, treasurer.

M. Matthews of Belleville was named regional vice-president for Ontario.

Past president Percy Hill of Galt resigned from the executive and S. Ross Allen of Welland was named to replace him.

Next annual convention will be held at Welland. No date was set.

Weather-Watcher Used By Government

OTTAWA (CP)—Several govern-ment [illegible] have ap-

the defence, national revenue and defence production department buildings and correlates them to give a reading above or below a red line on a special weather chart. The line shows when the temperature and humidity combination has become dangerous.

It is left to department heads to decide whether or not to send their workers home. The earliest to leave are usually those in the flat-roofed wooden temporary buildings which one department head calls "boiling infernos sizzling in over 100 degree temperatures" in the current heat wave.

Wanted: Corpses

LONDON (AP) — The British Medical journal, the Lancet, reported Thursday there is a shortage of bodies in Britain. Medical students in some areas, the journal complained, have no opportunity to practice dissection. It suggested that doctors bequeath their bodies for dissection and thus set a good example.

Good Business To Keep Piece Of TV Rights

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Robert Cummings offers this tip to fellow players who want to embark on filmed television series: Get a piece of the property.

Cummings cites a potent example:

"The other night I dined at a Beverly Hills restaurant. I did a double take when the attendant came up to park my car. It was 'Amos' of the 'Amos n' Andy' TV series.

"I asked him how come. He told me that his show is being syndicated this year. That means that while he parks autos for cafe patrons in Beverly Hills, people all over the country will think him a successfull television star."

Syndication is a much-used word in Hollywood TV circles these days. With new stations opening every day, producers syndicate films that have already made the network rounds.

For instance, the "Amos n' Andy" show has 65 films completed, 13 of which have never been shown. Individual sponsors in individual towns will re-show them. No more new ones are planned. That means that old television movies now will replace old Hollywood movies on many stations.

TOO WELL IDENTIFIED

Cummings said Amos told him that he was unable to get any other TV work in town while the series is being shown around the country. He's just too well identified with the role.

The "My Hero" series which will be re-shown this year via syndication but he is more fortunate than Amos who was paid only while making his shows. Cummings owns 40 per cent of the "My Hero" series.

"To give you an idea of how much loot is involved in syndication," Cummings says, "I was offered $50,000 for my share of 'My Hero.' While I debated the price, the offer jumped until it hit $250,000.

"My business manager (Mrs. Cummings) advised me that if it was worth that much to the buyers, it was worth more to me. So I held on."

He now believes his characterization of Robert Q. Beanblossom, a wacky real estate salesman, could make him a nice fortune to leave to his children.

Cut By Neighbors For 13 Years As Red Find Dayton Man Worked Always for FBI

DAYTON, O. (AP)—Robert Dunham's neighbors wept openly when they talked to him Thursday.

Some of them hadn't talked to Dunham for a long time. He was suspected of being a Communist.

Because of the suspicion hanging over Dunham, his wife had stopped teaching Sunday school at her church.

Dunham's co-workers at a Frigidaire plant had threatened him with violence "if we are ever able to prove you're connected with the Reds."

Dunham's six children didn't play with other children in the neighborhood. The neighbors wouldn't allow it.

SON LOSES JOB

His 23-year-old son Jerry lost a job at a Dayton plant because of the suspicion.

Wednesday Dunham testified in the trial of Melvin E. Hupman, accused of falsely swearing he was not a Communist when he signed an affidavit as required by the Taft-Hartley labor law in 1949. In the last minutes of the trial, U.S. attorney Joseph Bullock electrified the courtroom crowd with the question:

"During this time (the period of Dunham's Communist party membership) did you maintain contact with the FBI?"

Dunham said: "Yes."

MAKING AMENDS

By the time Dunham reached home his telephone had started ringing. It kpet on ringing as neighbors and others who knew him got the news.

Everyone offered him good wishes and sympathy for what he had gone through during his 13 years as a pseudo-Communist.

The 43-year-old Dunham had testified in court about the activities of state and national Communist figures.

Similar testimony was given earlier by Arthur Strunk, 57, also revealed to be an agent of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

The German-born Strunk became a U.S. citizen in 1931. He belonged to the Communist party from 1944 until 1952, serving as financial secretary for seven years in Dayton.

His wife had divorced him because he "refused to give up party activities," Strunk said. She died 20 months ago, still thinking he was a Communist.

Seabrooke's Even Up Series With K's In Senior "B" By Yanking Out 3-1 Victory

Seabrooke Motors, Peterborough's entry in OASA senior "B" softball playdowns, evened the count with Kingston in their best-of-three series, by defeating the limestone city lads Thursday evening 3-1 at the East City Bowl, home of softball in the Liftlock City. It was a clean, sparkling duel throughout featuring fine twirling by both clubs, perfect fielding on the part of the victors, with sufficient clutch hitting by Seabrooke's to ensure victory in a clear-cut but close struggle.

Manager Bill Sullivan called on Jack (Lefty) Doris, ace southpaw, to halt the Kingston punch that produced a decisive duel to the tune of 8-1; and the clever portsider never looked better all season, as he carved the corners with the craft of a master slinger, to bewilder his rivals completely for eight innings. Only in the final frame, when successive bingles by Tabby Gow, Bob Curran and Bob Purcell, produced one run, was the clever hurler in difficulty. Rank, Flanagan and Firstbrook were retired in order however, to squelch further damage offensively, Doris scattered six hits, three in the final, fanned five and issued but one base on balls.

STRUCK OUT 10

Pat Deasy, using his speedy cricket like delivery, toiled effectively for Kingston also; good enough to win against an average opponent; but Seabrooke's waxed slightly hotter both offensively and defensively to spell the difference. Deasy also gave up a mere half dozen safeties, struck out no less than 10 men, and issued but two passes; as he zipped his fireball platewards in true playoff style to delight the huge crowd.

Seabrooke's tallied first in the second, when Coach Russ Scriver walked, advanced on Bus Jensen's single to first, came all the way as the drive carried far into right; and Jensen pulled up at second on the throw-in. The Motor men added a single in the third, when Bob Wyatt walked; and scored when star second-sacker Speed Currie lined a drive into centre field.

That was all until the eighth, when again Wyatt reached first, this time on a hit to left; advanced to third on Currie's spinning Texas League pop back of third that rolled into foul territory; then scored on a wild pitch.

K'S THREATEN

Kingston staged a last-minute drive to overhaul the Peterborough gang, met a measure of success, then faded like violets at eventide after three hits in a row, with Gow tripling to start the rally.

Speed Currie and Red (Boston Bruin) Sullivan were instrumental in driving in two of the winner's runs; and Bob Curran accounted for Kingston's only RBI. The visitors erred four times afield to hurt Deasy's cause, though miscues caused but one run to score and thus the Peterborough club won on their merits in a fine display.

The fielding of Bus Jensen in the mid-pasture for the winners was strictly high grade. Mark Donoghue also shone in right, with Russ Scriver a standout behind the pan. Seabrooke's infield fielded to perfection. Bob Purcell looked well at short for the visitors; with the entire team showing well, despite the few rather excusable playoff bobbles. The deciding game will be at Belleville.

Seabrooke Motors—Thompson, ss; Wyatt, 3b; Currie, 2b; Sullivan, 1b; Donoghue, rf; Scriver, c; Jensen, cf; Spencer, lf; Doris, p.

2 Young Golfers Oppose Britons

MARION, Mass. (AP)—Charles Yates, the United States Walker Cup team captain, apparently won the battle of wits against Lt.-Col. Tony Duncan, the British leader, Thursday and gave U.S. forces an edge in the international amateur golf competition today.

Yates named a pair of comparative youngsters, Sammy Urzetta of Rochester, N.Y., and 22-year-old Ken Veuturi of San Francisco as his No. 1 team to oppose Britain's Joe Carr and Ronnie White in the first of today's four Scotch foursomes matches.

Thus the lineup pits two young Americans who have been particularly "hot" in their practice sessions over the windswept, 6,545-yard Kittansett Club course against the most respected British pair.

Carr, the Dublin clothing manufacturer, is the British amateur champion and White, a 32-year-old English solicitor, never has been beaten in three Walker Cup matches.

Outboards Take Close One Against Mounts

Outboard Marines took a 4-3 victory over Mount Pleasant fastballers at Quaker park last evening to stay in the hunt for the Industrial League title and the G. K. Fraser Trophy. The Mt. Pleasant crew still leads the best-of-five final series by two games to one. No announcement has been made yet as to the date of the next game.

Marines got all their runs last night in the first inning on a walk, two errors and hits by Mongraw, Corrigan and Gordonier. They were held well in check then by good pitching and fielding. The Marines also served up neat hurling and defensive work to limit the losers to a run each in the first, fourth and sixth innings. Marines outhit their opponents 12-7. Teams:

Mt. Pleasant: Jamieson, p; Dracup, 3b; Mitchell, 1b; Byers, 2b; Crary, ss; Hickson, lf; Hope, c; Parker, rf; Crawford, cf.

Marines: White, lf; Mongraw, c; Halliday, ss; Downer, 3b; Morgan, 2b; Corrigan, cf; Blakely, rf; Gordonier, 1b; Doris, p.

Three Grid Men Fined In West

WINNIPEG (CP)—Two players and a coach of Western Interprovincial Football Union clubs have been assessed fines, league commissioner G. Sydney Halter of Winnipeg announced Thursday night.

George Trafton, coach of Winnipeg Blue Bombers, has been fined $25 for publicly criticizing game officials at a Winnipeg quarterback club meeting Aug. 30, "contrary to the commissioner's orders."

Fullback Mike King of Edmonton has been fined $25 for his conduct resulting in a match penalty when the Esks lost 7-6 to Bombers at Winnipeg, Aug. 29.

A fine of $50 was imposed on John Henry Johnson, import fullback with Calgary Stampeders, for his conduct resulting in a match penalty. Stamps lost the Aug. 31 game 16-10 to Bombers in Winnipeg.

Tonight it's men's doubles . . . choose your own partner.

The Oshawa ladies' club withdrew their open tournament that was scheduled for yesterday. It was just too hot—and we believe that to be a record—never before have we heard of a tournament being postponed because it was too hot.

The ladies continued with their club singles, last evening, but it is rather difficult to follow the draw, as yet. Some are away ahead of others; maybe in another night or two we will be able to see who's who.

The ladies are having a doubles competition, and all entries are requested to be in to the committee by next Wednesday night. A skip is asked to take a lead and a vice to pair up with a second. No "packed" pairs, please. Each pair is sure of at least three games, but the farther you go the more games you have. There will be three competitions: Primary, consolation and hard luck.

Away back in the period 1911-12-13-14, the Vancouver Athletic Club of B.C. won the Mann Cup four times as senior lacrosse champions of Canada. Of course, it was field lacrosse in those horse-and-buggy days. Only one gutted-stick team since then (and none before it) won the big trophy three straight years. Brampton did it twice, in 1930-31, and St. Catharines took it in 1940-41. But Orillia Terriers, several years after the boxla style came into effect, swept through to three Dominion championships in 1934-35-36. Referee Piper Bain as he is known today was a member of Orillia in that period. And now the Petes go west this month in an effort to annex their third straight cup. If they do, they'll tie Orillia as the only boxla club in history to do it.

The Mann Cup was presented away back in the balmy days of field lacrosse by the late Sir Donald Mann, builder of the Canadian Northern Railway, for the senior amateur lacrosse championship of Canada. It was originally a challenge trophy, like the Stanley Cup in hockey. The trophy is solid gold and valued at more than $2,500—one of the finest in sports. Petes kept it a year but left it last year in a Toronto bank for safe-keeping. In 1925, a re-organized CLA took over this cup and made definite rules regarding the teams competing for it, with the west having the series one year and the east the next. Won by Peterborough in Toronto last year, the champs must defend it this autumn in British Columbia.

Replacements On Hand

Coach Bob Thorpe hopes to have Ken (Weiner) Croft and Derry Davies here for the exhibition tilt tonight with Toronto Maitlands. Croft was second top scorer in the OLA this year and Davies is an aggressive forward, so both should fit nicely into the Petes' plays in the western series. They'll have this game this eve and the return exhibition Tuesday in Toronto to work with the Trailermen, plus several practice sessions, and that should be sufficient. The Toronto crew, awaiting senior "B" finals, are in the same boat as Petes—they have time on their hands and need a few games to keep in top shape. Victoria now leads Vancouver 2-1 out west and next game is tonight.

Our grid Orfuns push off tomorrow for a 2.30 p.m. ORFU intermediate "A" opener in Oshawa's ball park, and Cobourg comes here next Wednesday. Coach Jack Wedley predicts a really powerful pack of Red Raiders this season. Using a single wing and a "T", his practices have seen plenty of passing. Alex Khnihisky is back with the team, along with Freeman, Harper, Rorabeck, Burkhart, Bergerson, Randle, Loreno, Hood, Krawec, Pringle and others. John Tresh, husky ex-Argo junior; Bob Acton of Danforth Tech seniors; Al Coner of Ti-Cats; Jack Duffy, from Parkdale Lions; and a few more newcomers are drilling steadily now with the Raiders. Tony Kotowski will take a full squad into this first loop fray.

Those Ghostly Gridders

Toronto Marauders, new entry in this ORFU setup—a team composed largely of Negroes—make their debut in Cobourg on the morrow. Don't know much about them yet, but the Ghosts don't seem to be taking 'em too seriously, figuring Peterborough and Oshawa are the clubs to beat this season. Prexy Fred Dufton of the Rapid Wraiths is quoted as saying that, though the Ghosts have lost 14 players of the 1952 squad, the present team under Art West will be a powerful one. Newcomers are Roy Hircock from Queen's, Ted Kirwackie of Ryerson, Warren Dunlop of Danforth, and several more. Among last year's good Ghosts are Gord Burdick, Cec. Armstrong, Art Jones, Tommy Lewis, Marsh Glassford, Red Alexander, Boyd Hendry, Bob McNally, Ian Hampton, Don Hatt, Mel Taylor, Jack Reeves, etc. They also have a kicker who was with Ti-Cats three years ago. No doubt Cobourg will be tough enough.

It was 3-1 for Seabrooke's over Kingston last eve at the Bowl, and that squares their OASA senior "B" set at a win each. Deciding tilt will be staged on neutral grounds in Belleville in the immediate future. Lefty Doris pitched dandy ball against neat twirling by Pat Deasy, and the local southpaw had perfect backing afield and clutch hitting to earn the decision. The K's booted four, though just one figured in a score. Bus Jensen, Mark Donoghue and Russ Scriver shone defensively—and the infield clicked like a cup of dice. Winner meets Toronto on Sept. 16 in quarter-finals. Next Tuesday sees TPT-ers and Seabrooke's settle the city finals. IOF plays Belleville next week, too.

Eastern Horse Expected Post Favorite

WINNIPEG (CP) — An eastern horse, Chain Reaction, probably will go to the post as favorite Saturday in the Prairie's richest race, the $10,000 added Canadian Derby at Winnipeg's Polo Park.

Chain Reaction, owned by Mrs. J. Tomlinson of Toronto, boosted his stock Wednesday with a 2½-length victory in the $3,000 added Whittier Park Handicap over one mile and 70 yards. The big brown colt, son of Chop Chop, who also sired Canadiana, gave away weight to all contenders in the Whittier. Bud Giacomelli likely will again be in the saddle for the derby.

Last year's Derby was won by Lord Strome, also owned by Mrs. Tomlinson. Don Richards was aboard the winner.

TOP CONTENDERS

Other top contenders in the 24th running of the Derby over 1¼ miles for three-year-olds foaled in Canada include Virginia Fair, 1952 Winnipeg Futurity winner and more recently winner of the $5,000 added Alberta Derby; Food For Thot; Flak's First, only Canadian bred to register two victories over Virginia Fair; and Light Dust, Winnipeg's hope.

There were 184 horses named for the big race when nominations closed Jan. 1, 1951, of which 178 were eligible Jan. 1, 1953. The list was cut to 65 this spring upon payment of a subscription of $30 each. Those who enter the race must pay an additional $60, with $100 more for each horse facing starter George Dunn.

BREEDER COLLECTS

The owner of the winner picks up $6,000 and all subscription and starter fees. The breeder of the winner collects $500. Added to the winner's prize list this year is the Commonwealth Bowl, a large loving cup marked with the royal coat-of-arms, the Queen's cipher, the words of the Queen's dedication of service, and symbols representing the principal Commonwealth countries.

Magazine Scolds Marlene Stewart

NEW YORK (CP) — Marlene Stewart, 19-year-old Canadian golfing ace from Fonthill, Ont., is taken to task editorially by Life magazine for conceding a crucial 18-inch putt in the recent U.S. amateur championship.

Marlene, the British amateur champion, was eliminated from the U.S. tournament by Joyce Ziske of Waterford, Wis., when she conceded the 1½-foot putt on the extra hole playoff.

"What momentary madness could have seized Marlene Stewart?" Life asks in its editorial page. "If the 18-inch putt is not the most difficult shot in golf, it is surely the most taxing, particularly when a match depends on its successful execution."

The editorial concludes with a suggestion that Marlene stay after school and write out 500 times: "'I will never, never, never concede another 18-inch putt—especially on the 19th hole.'"

Track And Field Coaches Laud Olympic Training Plan

By GERRY MARTIN

TORONTO (CP)—Track and field coaches Thursday night were almost unanimous in praise of the first Canadian Olympic Training Plan that wound up its four-day session at the Canadian National Exhibition. There was one small note of criticism—from Graham Knox of Hamilton—who said he believed the clinic wasn't as far-reaching as he hoped.

For the athletes, from Newfoundland to British Columbia, their work has just started. Two events were held Thursday—the women's discus and the men's javelin—and today and Saturday the most representative field brought together in years is to circle the CNE cinder track.

Every province except Prince Edward Island has hand-picked athletes here for the plan designed to bring Canada out of its track and field doldrums.

This is the first Canada-wide track competition, other than Olympic and British Empire Games trials, in years, and is sponsored jointly by the CNE and a group of Canadian sportsmen. The athletes were brought here on an expense-paid trip for the clinic followed by actual competition.

AMAZED AT ENTHUSIASM

Don Canham of Michigan University and head coach at the school, said he was "amazed" at the enthusiasm shown by the coaches and athletes.

Coaches handling the various provincial teams were given pointers by Canham, Bruce Humber of Victoria, coach of Canada's 1952 Olympic team, and Rev. Bob Richards of Long Beach, Calif., Olympic pole vault champion.

Typical comment from coaches: Joey Richman, Montreal: "I was amazed at the good spirit shown by athletes with almost 100-percent attendance at the school. It's a big thing for the sport in Canada."

Eric Coy, Winnipeg, former Olympic and B.E. Games athlete: "This clinic was a terrific idea. It got Canadian coaches together to exchange ideas and to get a general picture on what the rest of the country is doing."

Archie Green, Windsor, Ont.: "By 1960 we should see concrete results of this plan. It is something that Canada has needed for a long time."

Milwaukee Braves Clip Dodgers With 6-1 Triumph

By BEN PHLEGAR, Associated Press Sports Writer

Milwaukee Braves, still cherishing pennant ambitions, hustled home today and sent out a "help wanted to beat the Dodgers" plea to the rest of the National League. The Braves need lots of help to threaten front-running Brooklyn. With 21 games to play they trail by nine. Even 21 consecutive victories wouldn't guarantee the flag unless the Dodgers were beaten at least 10 more times. Success sounds impossible. But then a year ago anybody predicting the Braves as a contender for the 1953 pennant in either major league would have been hurried off to the nearest doctor.

Milwaukee has 15 home games left, starting tonight against St. Louis Cardinals, and six road games. The Braves have played slightly better ball on the road than at home. They've won 44 and lost 27 out of town and have a 38-24 record in Milwaukee.

Brooklyn, a sensational home club this year, has only six more games at Ebbets Field and 15 on the road. The Dodgers have won 55 and lost only 16 games in Brooklyn. Away from home they've won 36 and lost 26.

The Braves gained one distinction over the Dodgers Thursday. They beat them 6-1 and ended their visits to Brooklyn with a 6-5 record, the only team in the league to gain the upper hand over the Dodgers at Ebbets Field.

Eddie Mathews broke a 1-1 tie with his 44th home run in the eighth. It came with two aboard. In the same inning Jim Pendleton belted an inside-the-park blast that scored two more. Lew Burdette won his 14th game against three losses, best record in the league.

In other games Philadelphia Phillies shaded the Cardinals 2-1 and Cincinnati thumped New York Giants 9-2. New York Yankees whipped St. Louis Browns 8-5, Cleveland climbed into a second-place tie in the American League with Chicago White Sox by beating Philadelphia Athletics 9-4 as the White Sox lost to Washington 5-1, and Detroit edged Boston 5-4.

The Yankees' lead now is 10½ games over Chicago and Cleveland with 22 to play.

The Phils' winning run against the Cards came in the eighth when Granny Hamner tripled and then scored as he knocked over catcher Del Rice during an attempted run down.

Home runs by Yogi Berra, Gil McDougald and Gene Woodling, which produced six runs, helped Eddie Lopat score his 14th victory for the Yanks.

The White Sox fell before the four-hit pitching of Bob Porterfield and Johnny Schmitz. Porterfield pitched six scoreless innings but had to give up with a back injury.

Cleveland's victory over Philadelphia was its 16th in 19 meetings this season. Rookie Dave Hoskins drove in two of the runs in winning his eighth game and his fourth in a row.

Detroit survived a Boston home run siege by Carl Olson, Hoot Evers and George Kell in the late

Red Wings Blank Springfield In 10-0 Shutout

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Rochester Red Wings are enjoying the most comfortable lead held this season by an International Baseball League club in their drive for the flag.

The Wings registered their 10th straight triumph Thursday night—a 10-0 shutout victory over Springfield Cubs—increasing their pace-setting lead over their nearest rivals to 4½ games.

The win-streak is the second in three weeks for Rochester, which now has taken 21 of its last 23 decisions in its drive from third to first spot.

George Condrick gave a good account of himself as Rochester strangled the Cubs. The hurler gave up 10 hits and only three walks in beating the tail-enders.

Next in line in the pennant race are Buffalo and Montreal. Thursday night, the Royals advanced into a virtual second-place tie with the Bisons, blanking the Herd 6-0 as Ken Wood hit a grand-slam homer and Glenn Mickens pitched a masterful five-hitter.

OUT OF RUNNING

With a little more than 10 games left to play in the schedule for each club, it would be a good bet to consider the rest of the teams out of the running for the flag.

Baltimore Orioles are in fourth spot, but 10½ games back of the leaders. Mathematically they have a chance in the race, but that's all.

Thursday night, they held on just long enough to edge Syracuse Chiefs 7-6. Dick Starr's fine relief hurling pulled the game out for them.

In another game, Ottawa Athletics bombarded four Toronto pitchers for 14 hits, including five doubles, to sink the Maple Leafs 9-4 and sweep a three-game series.

Yesterday's Stars

Batting—Eddie Mathews, Milwaukee Braves, hit his 44th home run and two doubles in the Braves' 6-1 triumph at Brooklyn.

Pitching—Lew Burdette, Milwaukee Braves, beat the Dodgers for the third time this year in registering his 14th victory against three losses, the best percentage record in the National League.

Gordon Sees Possibility Of A-Locomotive

VICTORIA (CP)—The possibility of an atomic-powered locomotive was seen Thursday by Donald Gordon, chairman and president of Canadian National Railways.

In an address prepared for delivery before a joint meeting of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce and Rotary Club, Mr. Gordon said this possibility lies beyond the gas turbine.

Meanwhile, technological progress is "constantly improving railway service, reducing costs and enhancing operating performance."

GREAT CHANGES

There have been revolutionary changes in equipment and operating methods but they have come gradually and many "have been behind the scenes." Mechanization, even in new power tools for workmen and complex machines for accounting staffs, has characterized the trend.

The railway business "is overregulated in its operations and underpaid for its services."

"Because of that condition we have concentrated our efforts on the one field in which we are still allowed latitude to exercise our own judgment—the field of technical efficiency."

The Dionne Family 19 Years After

Quints' Father Grants Rare Interview As Two Girls Prepare To Leave Home

By WADE JONES,
NEA Staff Correspondent

CALLANDER—The words did not come easy for the man with the somber brown eyes and the lined face, but they came clearly and correctly, as from someone who had just learned a new language.

"I do not necessarily want to see them married," he said. "But I want to see them happy. At my age and yours we know that some married people are unhappy. It could be harder for my girls because some men might pay attention to them just for their money. That happens, you know."

This was Oliva Dionne speaking, the father of the famed quintuplets, now 19. He was granting one of his rare interviews, just after one of the quints, Marie, had announced she will enter Quebec Convent this fall to study to become a nun. It will be the first time the famous five have been separated.

Dionne agreed to the interview only after long and involved negotiations through a mutual friend. By pre-arranged understanding, I dismissed the taxi which brought me the three miles from Callander to the house and stood alone before the gate in the high wire fence surrounding the Dionne house and grounds.

UNLOCKS GATE

After several minutes, Dionne walked out and unlocked the gate and we shook hands and started across the broad, treeless lawn toward the huge, tan-brick house which the Dionnes built and moved into eight years ago to house the entire family of 15. It's just across the road from the weatherbeaten, dilapidated old farmhouse where the quints were born the night of May 26, 1934.

We went in through the front door—after passing a blue Cadillac sitting in the garage—and turned sharply to the left into Dionne's den. It was a splendidly furnished room, with a thick rug on the floor and modern furniture.

On the wals were several big framed photographs of the quints and the whole family. There are 13 children in all, including five boys. Three are younger than the quints and five older. Their ages range from 6 to 26.

Dionne seemed a little shy at first and spent some time speaking tenderly in French to his six-year-old boy, Claude, who had come in to look for something.

Abruptly the subject of past difficulties came up—difficulties when the Gvernment took over complete control of the children through a guardianship. Suddenly the shyness vanished and Dionne was angry. He still resents the arrangement which resulted in the building of a special hospital for the babies, established a million dollar estate for them through endorsements and advertising, and changed the economic life of the entire community when they became the biggest tourist attraction in Canada.

The guardianship was established by the Province of Ontario after it was discovered that Dionne had contracted with promoters to exhibit the quints at the Chicago World's Fair. Welfare authorities believed this would have been hazardous to the health of the babies. The guardianship then was set up, with the late Dr. Allan Dafoe, who delivered the babies, in full charge of their physical well-being.

The proceeds from carefully-scrutinized endorsements were deposited in a trust fund to provide for the education and future welfare of the babies. The entire family now enjoys the proceeds of this income.

ANSWERS QUESTIONS

As he spoke of the present, Dionne's voice warmed, but some questions he wouldn't answer. Two of the quints were away from home that day, visiting a married sister. Another was taking a nap and two were in the living room with some friends showing movies on their home set.

Do the quints go out with boys? "No, not yet. Friends come to the house here and they dance and play records. People get the idea I keep the girls locked up. I don't. They go out more than most girls of their age."

How large is the trust fund of the quints?

"About $1,000,000, including the buildings," Dionne answered.

What do the girls like most? "Music, I think. They all sing and play the piano. They like movies, too, and they go to North Bay (12 miles away) for shopping."

People in North Bay see the girls on the streets frequently, but no more than two together. Townspeople say they are quiet and well-mannered.

Do any of the other girls have plans to strike out on their own like Marie? "Well, Yvonne is going to enter the Notre Dame Congregation at Montreal in September to study art. The other three—Emilie, Cecile and Annette—are going back this fall to the Institute Familial at Nicolet, Que., where the five studied last year."

Dionne said that in recent years —"to make things more normal for the quints"— all girls their age from neighboring communities came to the Dionnes' to attend classes on a boarding school basis. They were taught by the same nuns who taught the quints, and they lived in a structure originally built as a hospital for the quints and later used as a home for the family.

They skied in the winter-time and skated on a special rink, built on the property. The fenced-off lawn area of the home and adjoining buildings comprises several acres. In addition, Dionne with the help of some of his sons farms 300 acres and raises much of the feed for his herd of shorthorns.

HIS FAVORITE

As do most fathers, Dionne has a "favorite child." She is Pauline, about a year older than the quints who has done some paintings that are quite good although she has taken instructions only three years. Her father is tremendously proud of her, and believes she is a good influence on the quints—"she gives them a mark to shoot at."

The quints have made only "pretty fair grades" in school, Dionne said, but they have learned the fundamentals of housekeeping from dusting to buttonsewing.

"We haven't had any household help for several years," he said.

As we rose and started toward the front door to leave, Dionne asked me to come back to another room to see a second painting of Pauline's. The rest of the house seemed beautifully furnished. Passing the living room I peeked in and saw two of the quints with some other girls watching the movies.

I'd been told I couldn't talk with the quints and I didn't.

Have No Celebrations On War Anniversary

LONDON (Reuters) — The 14th anniversary of the start of the Second World War came and went in Britain Thursday without celebration and with few Britons aware of the fact.

Like most western countries, Britain commemorates the end of hostilities rather than that sunny Sunday morning 14 years ago.

The noisy bustle of London's traffic today was in direct contrast to the hush that settled over the entire country when Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain told radio listeners Britain had declared war on Nazi Germany.

Three Rooms Entered In Windsor Hotel

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Three rooms at the Prince Edward Hotel were entered by prowlers Wednesday night and $98 in cash was stolen from a wallet in one of them. Two men are in custody in connection with the theft.

Lorne R. Shantz of Kitchener reported the only loss. Nothing was taken from the other two rooms. Shantz said his wallet was taken from his pants pocket and thrown on the floor after the money was removed.

Police Exonerated

Aug. 19 for trying to tear clothes at Maple Leaf Stadium and later died in the Ontario Hospital at Whitby. An investigation was made by the police commission.

Police chief John Chisholm said the youth's death had led to reports that his parents had been refused permission to see him following his arrest. Inspector Herbert Harrison said: "These reports are a lie."

Uranium Discovered On Cape Breton

HALIFA (CP)—Mines Minister A. H. MacKinnon said Thursday that uranium has been discovered over a fairly wide area of a 1,000,000-acre tract on Cape Breton Island. He said the deposit may be of great value.

Mr. MacKinnon made the announcement at a dinner meeting of the Mining Exploration Corporation Ltd., of Toronto, which he said made the discovery and intends to spend $1,000,000 on exploration in the area in the next three years.

Brilliant Marksman Lt.-Col. Crowe Dies

Col. Crowe was picked for the Bisley team several times and in 1926 was commandant of the Canadian side. He first learned to shoot in England when he was 12 during a visit he made with his father.

Bright Prospect For Students

OTTAWA (CP)—A peek into the future shows a bright prospect for job-hunting university graduates, the national employment service announced Thursday.

In a special bulletin reviewing supply and demand for professionally-trained persons, the NES executive and professional division said the demand for university-trained workers generally will remain in balance with supply for the next few years.

However, there were several notable exceptions. The number of jobs available in engineering, architecture, teaching, geology and health and welfare work exceeds the available trained personnel.

In engineering, the bulletin said the demand "is definitely greater" than the supply and is apt to remain so for several years at least.

Find Business Gets Worse Under New Wheat Pact

By SYDNEY GAMPELL

LONDON (Reuters) — Business under the new International Wheat Agreement seems to go from bad to worse.

Sales for the week ending Aug. 28 totalled only 2,091,000 bushels, only about 12 per cent of what they were at the same time last year.

And Canada, one of the world's largest wheat exporters, did little more than one per cent of the wheat business she did under the old agreement in the corresponding period last year.

Canada, holding out for the agreement's maximum price of $2.05 a bushel, sold only 110,000 bushels in the week ending Aug. 28. Her sales in the corresponding week last year were 10,129,000 bushels, excluding sales to Britain which is not a member of the new agreement. Canada's sales in the week ending Aug. 28 last year, including Britain, were 10,165,900.

Australia also sold only 110,000 bushels during the week.

The 2,091,000-bushel total compares with 16,001,200 bushels sold under the agreement in the corresponding week last year, excluding wheat taken by Britain. Including Britain last year's figure is 16,404,900 bushels.

By subsidizing exports down to well below the agreement's maximum price, the United States managed to sell 1,871,000 bushels, mainly made up of 1,357,900 bushels to Japan and 330,300 to Portugal. Even this was small compared with last year's 5,872,000 bushels exported by the U.S. to all agreement countries excluding Britain.

LEAVES DOWN

The expected storm hasn't appeared as yet, to end the heat, but one glance at the grounds of Confederation Park suggests approaching autumn. Three elm trees are completely bare of leaves and the remaining trees are speedily losing their foliage. Lawns in the park are completely hidden with brown and withered leaves.

Found Guilty On 4 Charges

HASTINGS (ENS) — Lawrence Girhan, RR 1, Indian River, appeared before Magistrate R. B. Baxter in court here today, and was found guilty on four charges: Attempted theft, causing a disturbance, assaulting a police officer, and breaking jail.

He was remanded to Cobourg for sentence Sept 11. Girhan was arrested on Thursday by Chief L. Switzer, after he had been seen in the car belonging to hotel owner Ernie Jones, who called the police. He later broke out of the local jail, and was later picked up by Provincial Police, and held in the jail at Campbellford overnight.

Escaped Convicts Hiding In Kawarthas?

Somewhere in the Kawarthas three desperate men may lie in hiding, the threat of capture hanging over their heads. The trio, escaped convicts from Collins Bay Penitentiary, have been traced as far as Bailieboro where a car was stolen Tuesday night.

It would be a simple matter for the men, Joseph and Percy Coe, aged 21 and 30, of Haileybury, and James McCoey, 22, of Fort William, to disappear in the maze of lakes and woods in this district.

It is believed by many this is exactly what has happened. Provincial police in the district refuse to give a description of the car suspected in the getaway.

TRIED TO STEAL CAR

Although willing to talk, a Peterborough woman who saw three men attempting to steal a car Wednesday morning refused to give her identity.

"I don't want them to know my name," she said, reflecting on the overplayed stories of "gangland vengeance."

She described, however, how the three men were seen pushing a car owned by Melville McDougall, 230 Park St. N. out of its garage near Park Place and Sherbrooke at about 1:30 a.m.

The car owner and police were phoned but the men, unable to start the vehicle, disappeared in the meanwhile. They were later seen by another nearby resident, who was sitting on his front porch.

Deputy Chief of Police John Naples, while declining to connect the attempted theft with the Collins Bay breakout, admitted it was "possible" there was a connection.

The present situation is reminiscent of the time two escapees from Collins Bay holed up in the Buckhorn Lake area for about 15 days before being apprehended by police 22 years ago.

Ernest R. Shirley Honored By Fellow CGE Engineers

A luncheon was held at the Peterborough Golf and Country Club Thursday evening in honor of Ernest R. Shirley who retires today from the CGE after completing 35 years of continued service. W. M. Cruthers, a fellow engineer and friend of Mr. Shirley for many years, made a short speech and presented a rather unusual gift on behalf of the members of the Switch-Gear department of the plant.

One of Mr. Shirley's chief pets, while working for CGE, was the perfecting of an oil circuit breaker, designated as the H-type. A model of this invention was presented to Mr. Shirley with a complaint of faulty mechanism.

It was suggested that he refrain from resigning his active position until he completed further study of the mechanism.

DISCOVERED MONEY

Mr. Shirley was rather perplexed at the turn of events and began inspecting the model on the spot. Upon opening the rear aperture he discovered a sum of money, regained a smile and thanked the men who had made the eve of his retirement so pleasantly memorable.

Mr. Shirley first joined the CGE, when he entered the old brass department, equivalent of the present switchgear. This was in 1903 and he had just received his BA from the University of New Bruswick, said Mr. Cruthers as he gave a short history of the man. In 1912, Mr. Shirley graduated from Queen's University with his BSc. and then went into field erection work for the CGE at Kaministquai. From 1913 to 1917 he worked as assistant superintendant for the B. C. Power Co., electrical superintendant and engineer for the Canadian Exploration Co., at Copper Cliff and superintendant of the Laurentian Power Co.

In 1917 he entered the switch-gear at CGE, Peterborough, and was steadily employed for 35 years. During this time he developed and perfected the H-type Oil Circuit breaker and the line of LG218.

He was elected to the Utilities Commission in 1927 and was re-elected for four three-year terms. He was a commissioner through the difficult years of depression.

LIFE MEMBER

He has been chairman of the Peterborough branch of the Engineering Institute of Canada, and now a life member, past president of the Peterborough Curling Club, and past master of the Corinthian Lodge.

Rain City-Bound -Weatherman

Predicted showers that haven't materialized left Peterborough today still in the grip of a heat wave that shows only slight signs of lessening. Temperature at 9 a.m. today was 73, not many degrees off the average of recent morning temperatures.

But, says the weatherman, those thundershowers and that cool air from northern Michigan are creeping closer to southern and central Ontario. Late this afternoon there should be a marked difference in temperature and humidity.

Hottest day of the heat wave was recorded on the second last day of August—the 30th— when waterworks thermometers registered 94 degrees. Incidentally, that was the hottest day of August. Thursday's top was 91.

Average temperature for last month was little over the average of August, 1952, 67.2 degrees compared to 65.8. Maximum temperature for August, 1952, was 89, the minimum 45, compared to a top of 94 last month and a low of 42 (August 20).

Rainfall was about the same—2.23 inches last month and 2.29 for August, 1952. Heavy rain at the beginning of last month accounted for much of the month's total.

And while Ontario shook beads of perspiration from its collective brow, Dawson City in the Yukon shook in a maximum temperature of 56 above, as did Regina, where the maximum was the same and the minimum 45.

Moving east to Windsor, it was 99, 98 in London, 94 at Muskoka, and 91 in Ottawa.

EVERYTHING BUT RAIN

Some of the lake dwellers report nearly everything but rain last night: northern lights, lightning, occasional winds and generally a restlessness that was thought to be a sign of rain. However, nothing happened.

Meat Beats Heat

With high temperatures knocking appetites for a loop, an amateur dietitian on Water St. points out that the danger of malnutrition is almost as great as heat prostration. His solution is to eat a steak a day during the current heat wave. Simple if you can afford it. But don't forget the vegetables: Nobody wants an epidemic of beri-beri.

Two Picnics City Fare On Labor Day

Labor Day celebrations offer attractions for both children and adults—two labor picnics, a regatta at Curve Lake and Douro Doings, the annual sports day at Douro.

One city picnic is sponsored by the Peterborough and District Labor Council (CCL) and by the Peterborough Trades and Labor Council (TLC). It will be held in Nicholls Oval.

The other labor picnic is sponsored by the two city locals of the United Electric, Radio and Machine Workers of America (Independent. It will be held at Riverside Park.

Both picnics are aimed at giving the day over to the children, with free milk, ice-cream, and prizes for the winners of races. Grown-ups will also compete in races, and bingo and games of chance will provide them with outlets for their holiday spirit.

STREET DANCE

The TLC-CCL picnic will feature a draw for a power-mower, with proceeds going to defray the cost of entertaining the children. Finale will be a street dance on Aylmer St. between Charlotte and King Sts.

Children's and adults' races will feature Douro Doings, sponsored by St. Joseph's parish in Douro. There will be a softball tournament and dancing in the evening.

At Curve Lake, a regatta will feature some of the district's best canoeists, plus power boat races. It will be the second Curve Lake regatta this year. The last was held successfully Civic Holiday weekend.

Youngsters Hurt In Minor Accidents

Children were most hard-hit in holiday accident cases treated at Civic Hospital Thursday. All the injuries were of a minor nature.

William Moore, 14, son of Walter Moore, 232 Munroe Ave., sustained lacerations to the left arm and wrist when he fell on broken glass. Detained overnight at the hospital, his condition was described as satisfactory.

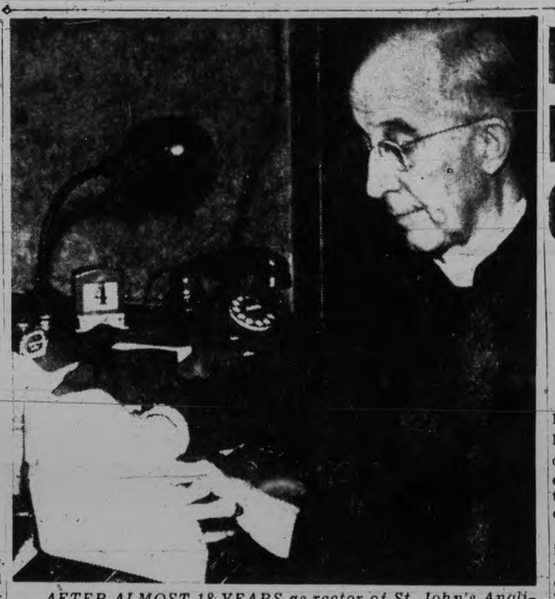
Roger Clarkson, six, son of James Clarkson of 477 McKellar St., was treated for a lacerated forehead when struck by a swing.

Elaine Earnshaw, nine, daughter of Vern Earnshaw of Apsley was treated for a cut foot she received when she jumped on a piece of glass.

Paul Levine, son of S. Z. Levine of 223 O'Caroll Ave. was released after treatment for a head cut, sustained while swimming.

LEAVES FOR KOREA

Paratrooper Louis E. Gooley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Gooley, 672 Romaine St., left London Tuesday en route to Korea. Pte. Gooley enlisted with the Second Royal Canadian Regiment at Petawawa in November, 1952. He recently received his paratrooper wings after completing training at Rivers, Manitoba. His embarkation leave was spent in Peterborough with his family.



AFTER ALMOST 18 YEARS as rector of St. John's Anglican Church, the Ven. Archdeacon W. P. Robertson has announced that he will retire on October 31, his 71st birthday, two years before the completion of 50 years in the ministry. Appointed Archdeacon of Peterborough in 1947, he will continue in that capacity for some time, as well as rector emeritus of the parish. —(Examiner Staff Photo)

W. P. Robertson To Retire As Rector Of St. John's

After serving as rector of St. John's Anglican Church, Hunter St., since 1936, the Ven. W. P. Robertson, Archdeacon of Peterborough, has announced that he will retire on October 31. No successor has yet been named. Archdeacon Robertson will be 71 the day of his retirement. Ordained at the early age of 23, he would have accomplished a ministry of 50 years had he chosen to remain active for two more years.

In a letter to his parishioners this week, he explained why he had decided to retire before his jubilee year.

The parish, which has grown extremely in numbers in recent years, now consists of between 700 and 800 families. A younger man is required to minister to the spiritual needs of all these people, he explained.

Archdeacon Robertson had sought a curate to assist him in the work, but it had been impossible to find one.

"It will be easier to find a younger rector than a curate," he said. "The shortage of men at present is very serious.

CHURCH COMES FIRST

He had reached his decision with regret, he said, and "I want you to know that this is entirely my own decision. But the interest of the Church must come before personal wishes."

At the behest of the parish committee, Archdeacon Robertson will remain rector emeritus "and give such help as I can to my successor, mainly, I suppose, in the conduct of services and sick visiting."

The Rt. Rev. A. R. Beverly, Bishop of Toronto, has also expressed his intention of retaining Archdeacon Robertson as Archdeacon of Peterborough for som time. As such, one of his duties will consist of inducting new rectors into their parishes in this district when the bishop is unable to be present.

Born in Cork, Ireland, in 1882, Archdeacon Robertson is the son of the late John Allan Robertson, a naval surgeon, and his wife, the former Lylie Pearson. His father was stationed in many parts of the world with the Royal Navy, including Esquimalt, B.C.

Archdeacon Robertson received his early education at Cork Grammar School and later graduated as Bachelor of Arts from the Royal University of Ireland. He attended divinity school at Trinity College, Dublin, where he received a first class testimonial, and in 1908 was made a Bachelor of Divinity by Durham University.

DEACON IN 1908

Meanwhile, he was ordained deacon in 1908 and was appointed assistant curate to Dr. John Paterson Smyth, rector of St. Anne's Church, Dublin, whose books on religious subjects line the shelves of many rectory studies throughout the English-speaking world.

Dr. Smyth subsequently came to Canada and urged his assistant to follow. Accordingly, the young clergyman was appointed rector of the Anglican parish in Truro, N. S., in 1913, the same year that he married Muriel Agnes Cleverly. They have one daughter Muriel, widow of the late Rev. Wilfred Henderson, former rector of St. Mark's Church, Hamilton. They have one grandson, Derek. On retirement, Archdeacon and Mrs. Robertson will reside with Mrs. Henderson at 529 Weller St.

In 1917, he was appointed rector of St. Thomas' Church, Hamilton, and was Archdeacon of Hamilton from 1929 until 1936.

An enthusiastic angler, Archdeacon Robertson made his first acquaintance with the Peterborough district through fishing trips to the Kawartha lakes, particularly Buckhorn lake, where he fished for many years while still rector of his Hamilton parish.

He continnues to pursue the sport and fishes in the waters "all around here and elsewhere." Until recently he had a cottage at Crowe lake where he could indulge in his favorite pastime. His other avocation is gardening in the rockery and flower beds of the church rectory on Brock St.

SUGGESTED TRANSFER

His predecessor at St. John's, Archdeacon R. C. Blagrave, first made the suggestion that the two men exchange parishes and in 1936 the transfer was carried out. Archdeacon Robertson has been rector of St. John's ever since, almost 18 years. He became Archdeacon of Peterborough in 1947.

Archdeacon Robertson is the ninth rector of St John's, the mother church of Peterborough's Anglican population. The parish was created in 1822 and the church was built in 1836.

The historic, ivy-clad, stone edifice is one of the oldest buildings in Peterborough, if not the oldest. The original structure consists of the present nave and tower. The chancel and choir vestries were added later.

In 1911 "The People's Chimes" were installed, by subscription from people of every denomination, to commemorate the 75th anniversary of the church. The peal of 13 bells was first heard on the Coronation Day of George V, June 22, that year, and have been rung on every civic occasion since.

Thus, the link of St. John's rector with Peterborough is a close one, with a long tradition and the announcement of Archdeacon Robertson's retirement will be of interest to the entire community.

Buckhorn Rd. Done; Next, Causeway

County Council To Decide On Bid Friday

Completion of the paving of the Buckhorn Road will likely be followed next Friday by the county council's acceptance of the lowest tender, recently received, for the building of a causeway type of crossing at Gannon's Narrows.

These two works will greatly improve the conditions of travel through stretches of the west side of the county north of the city. They have been projects of comparatively long standing, and both undertakings are to the credit of this year's county council.

Cost of the Buckhorn Road job has not yet been tabulated. Preparatory work had been carried on during the last four years, but the final stage of surfacing had been shifting in decision until this year.

Suburban Area Commission had considered paving this season about 3½ miles of the road, but negotiations with the city council and the Ontario Department of Highways developed into the entire route of 12 miles.

GAVE $14,000

As a member of the Commission Peterborough agreed to contribute $14,000 of the estimated cost, the county paying another $14,000, and the department 50% of the total. That was the special arrangement that gave final authority to the work which was done by the commission and its engineer, J. D. Keen.

The Buckhorn Road extends northerly from the county road which lies westerly from No. 28 Highway, south of Lakefield, to Buckhorn at the west end of the Oregon Trail.

Weather this summer has been ideally favorable for the paved surfacing, and the entire job is now finished and has been in traffic use this week. It is a smooth answer to the protests of motorists who had become impatient of the delays and dust for several summers while decision was pending on the ultimate details of construction and also of financing.

Placing Of Alarm Clocks Serious Problem

By JIM ENGLISH

Urged to turn my mind either off or to some worthy purpose that would help man in his unceasing struggles with tax collectors, vacuum cleaner salesmen and life in general, I scoured my mind —it took a very small brush —and now present a resume of my serious treatise entitled:

On the Strategic Location of Alarm Clocks.

Now, I'd just as soon nobody got the idea that this is a reprint of my thesis. They're not going to get hold of a masterpiece that easily. Whoever has money enough— or will trade me a cup of coffee for it —can have it.

Anybody who has owned an alarm clock knows that the machine is one of the afflictions of mankind, like black flies, hot weather, and work.

Picture the sleeper: covered with blankets and clean white sheets (or nothing at all in this weather), he dozes in supreme comfort, his mind at ease, his conscience at rest with the world until he gets up in the morning.

Probably he got to bed about midnight, give or take an hour. He knows this moment of enforced waking is on its way, and his whole being should be conditioned to it. Naturally, it isn't.

With all the fervor of a salesman's knock at the door, the alarm clock clangs out its message to whoever can hear it.

At this point we're faced with the varying reactions of the people who own and use alarm clocks. There are, roughly, four types.

First, there is the eager beaver, who rises with a bound and proclaims to all within hearing and without a shotgun the beauties of the coming day. Usually his audience is limted to one— himself.

Then, there is the slave of duty who gets up but hates himself and the alarm clock for it.

SLEEP-LOVER

Third, there is the sleep-lover who knows he can't get up without an alarm clock and very seldom with one. His best awakener is a telephone call from the office.

In the fourth place in this catalogue is the lazy man. He knows he won't get up, but he likes the feeling of turning off the alarm and falling back into his bed. This type is very, very rare. So few people can afford to be lazy.

The eager beaver and the lazy man are the only honest ones; all others have inhibitions.

But to move to more scientific ground, let us consider Whinny's Rule, or Law, propounded by Professor L. Walsmley Whinny, an eminent authority on living who has since died.

From the professor's last publication, "Hi, Living!," we quote: "Whinny's Rule, or Law, may be stated as follows, using formula: x (x-y) pi-2, equals Z."

To translate from the mathematical formula, Whinny's Law, or Rule, is this: "The distance of an alarm clock from the bed should vary directly as the relative virtue of the sleeper. Give or take a foot for every hour's sleep, or for every hour's sleep lost."

The professor, a learned man, means that the more honest you are with yourself, the closer to your bed you can place your alarm clock. It's that simple.

WHY CAGED

Some authorities on home living and on just plain living have advocated the use of a caged rooster in the bedroom. The placing of a rooster, even caged, makes the location of an alarm clock seem like child's play.

I made my own experiments over a period of a week, during which I was severely criticized for being an hour late several mornings. After this, I drew a few conclusions. Unfortunately, they were drawn on pretty flimsy paper and the baby ate them. I reproduce them from memory.

Here they are:

You must place your alarm clock just far enough from the bed that you take four steps to reach it. This is to be used if (a) you are the slave to duty or sleep-lover, and (b) if you can hear the alarm at that distance.

However, if you have difficulty hearing it, you must place the alarm clock closer to the bed so that you will be sure of hearing it. This poses a whole new set of problems which space prevents me from dealing with. At any rate, this is a most important rule, and should never be forgotten.

Mind you, you have to set your alarm.

(Author's note: My wife just finished reading this over my shoulder, and has this suggestion to offer: "If you want your husband to get up, fire off a shotgun in the bedroom." My wife has never had to fire off a shotgun to wake me up. At least I've never heard it).

Lodge Owner Admits Had Slot Machines

Pleading guilty to a charge of keeping a common gaming house, Leslie Edward, proprietor of the Maple Leaf Hotel, Kawartha Park, on Stony Lake, was fined $50 and costs in Magistrate's Court Thursday.

The charges were laid by members of the OPP anti-gambling squad who testified finding two "one-armed bandits" in the snack bar at Edward's Lodge.

Each of the two officers, Corporal J. M. Anderson and Constable Frank Armstrong, of Toronto, played the machines which took nickels and quarters. Neither won any substantial amount, nor even broke even.

In court today, the two machines were lined up against the wall with a third which is evidence on another pending charge of keeping a gaming house, also involving a Kawartha lodge owner.

SCARCE NOW

The machines were confiscated by the court, and later Corporal Anderson commented that few such machines are around any more.

"In fact," he said, "they're the first we've got this year."

The charges were laid Thursday.

Freed By Reds, Will Get Drunk

PANMUNJOM (AP) — Many prisoners freed by the Communists are asked what they intend to do first.

Said Capt. Joseph J. M. Liston of Ottawa:

"I intend to get drunk."

Liston said he is a "beer drinker, but not exclusively."

The highest-ranking Canadian officer captured by the Reds, Liston fell into Communist hands Aug. 13, 1952 when his light observation plane was shot down.

Liston said he "got only the normal amount of shoving and slapping" while a prisoner and refused to discuss details.

SUSPEND HOTEL LICENCE

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario liquor licence board Thursday suspended the beer and liquor licences of the downtown Prince George Hotel for two weeks starting next Tuesday and ordered dismissal of the entire staff of the men's beverage room and the maitre d' hotel. The board said its inspectors found waiters in the beverage room serving two glasses of beer at a time, instead of one as regulations require.

The Great Debate On Atomic Secrecy

By ALASTAIR BUCHAN

A new "great debate" is developing in Washington over the question of atomic secrecy, and is likely to gather in strength over the coming months It began before Mr. Malenkov announced that Russia had the secret of the hydrogen bomb, and before America's Atomic Energy Commission acknowledged that Russia had exploded one. But these developments have given a new impetus to the argument as to whether America should or should not relax some of the secrecy that at present surrounds the size of its atomic stockpile, give an indication to Russia and the world of the lead it holds in the atomic race, and enter into consultations with Britain, Canada and other friendly allies that would lead to a sharing of information on atomic developments.

Ranged on the side of greater candour are two of America's leading atomic scientists, the ex-chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, and some of the military leaders in the Pentagon. Ranged against it are the new chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission and at least one of its members, some of the military, and many of the politicians in Congress who are concerned with the subject.

GREATER CANDOUR

When he retired from the commission at the beginning of July, Mr. Gordon Dean, who had been its chairman for the past three years, made a strong plea for a relaxation of the secrecy which surrounds American strength in atomic research. A week earlier, Dr. Robert Oppenheimer, who was one of the leading scientists in the wartime development of the original atomic bomb, and who is still an adviser to the American Government on atomic policy, with a high reputation in both official and scientific circles, gave a magazine interview in which he pleaded for greater candour.

He made three points. First, he says that the American people cannot judge the risks involved in an atomic arms race unless they are told more about the subject itself. He thinks there has been far too much rumour and misinformation, and feels that candour will no more produce panic than ignorance produces security. Second, he believes far more attention must be given to methods of defence, both civil and military, against atomic attack than has hitherto been the case, both in America and elsewhere in the free world. Finally, like most American atomic scientists, he believes there should be a sharing of information on atomic subjects with friendly allies, notably Britain.

Unlike many American politicians, he does not use the possibility that another Fuchs (jailed for atom secrecy offence) or Pontecorvo (who fled to Russia) may turn up in the ranks of British scientists as a reason for not sharing information. Making islands out of atomic scientists is not going to produce more security but less, he says.

This view has been powerfully reinforced this week by Dr. Ralph Lapp, the former executive director of the Atomic Energy Commission's Research and Delevopment Board, who described the existing policy of secrecy as a "fiction" that had hurt America's best interests. He described as "completely untrue" the idea that the espionage of Fuchs and of the recently executed Rosenbergs had done anything to speed Russian development of the atomic and hydrogen bombs, and demanded a policy of greater publicity.

Most intelligent opinion — at least as expressed through newspapers — has supported these three points of view. Only the ardently Nationalist Right-wing Press has taken issue with them. The "New York Daily News," which has the saving grace of wrapping up its hidebound ideas in amusing language, commented: "In every contest from poker to war, it has always been considered wise to keep your opponent guessing—or, as they say, does Macy's tell Gimbels?" (Macy's and Gimbels are big department stores.)

ADVOCATED SECRECY

This argument is not always challenged in official circles. The new chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, Mr. Lewis Strauss, who served as a member of the Commission for four years, has always been an advocate of extreme secrecy, and it does not seem that he has changed his views since he returned to office, although they are to some extent at variance with those of President Eisenhower. In a speech some six weeks ago he said: "The secret weapon loses a large measure of its effectiveness when it loses its security. When it loses its security it can be turned against its inventors. If, therefore, secrecy prevents science from some cross-fertilising, it is part of the calculated risk of living in an unpeaceful world, and of the price to be paid for the sin of war."

In his view he has been backed up this week by one of the other of the AEC's four Commissioners, Mr. Eugene Zuckert, who said in a broadcast: "From the standpoint of national security we are giving the American people all the elements of information that they really need." And referring to the possibility of sharing information with Britain and America's other allies he said: "I can see no advantage either to this country or to total security." And this point of view has been supported by the statements of Senator Hickenlooper, of Iowa, the senior Senator on the joint Congressional Committee on Atomic Energy, while he was in London.

This is a subject of which a kreat deal is going to be heard in the future. If the evidence of Russian progress in nuclear weapons continues to develop as it has in recent weeks, there will have to be a serious review of the whole American position, both in regard to produetion, to the question of defence (which so far seems to have ben largely dodged by the new Administration) and to relations with its allies. By and large, the military leaders, especially those who had practical experience in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, favor a limited exchange of information with the allies on questions of atomic relations—which is not the same as a pooling of ideas among the fundamental scientists of the allied countries which Drs. Oppenheimer and Lapp desire.

However, the strong knot of opposition appears to exist in a body called the Military Liaison Committee on Atomic Energy, a joint military and civil committee set up by the original Atomic Energy Act to give the military planners a voice in atomic policy, and to compensate the Pentagon for the fact that full control was put under a separate agency. But which way the debate goes depends—like the outcome of other urgent questions—on where and how the President finally decides to exert his influence.

Carlsen Says Story Phony

SINGAPORE, (Reuters) — Capt. Kurt Carlsen was told today of reports that his former ship the Flying Enterprise had yielded some $100,000 in banknotes to treasure-hunters.

"I think the whole damn thing is phony," said the skipper who 20 months ago stuck with his ship for 13 days off the English coast. "It just doesn't make sense."

Last week at Oostende, Belgium, port officials reported that Italian salvage crews had scooped an estimated $100,000 in dollars and British pounds as they probed the ship 240 feet under the sea.

In New York Jakob Isbrandtsen, president of the line that owned the Flying Enterprise, said the ship had been carrying no such money in her safe—but said he thought the bills could have been in mailbags en route to New York.

In London, a spokesman for an insurance company which helped arrange the salvage work said the money definitely had been in mail bags.

Canadian Elected First President

MONTREAL (CP)—A Canadian today was elected the first president of the newly-formed International Union of Physiological Sciences.

Dr. Charles H. Best of Toronto, co-discover of insulin with the late Sir Frederick Banting, was chosen at a council meeting held at the 19th International Physiological Congress. Dr. Best is president of the current congress.

Prof. M. B. Visscher of the University of Minnesota, was elected secretary of the new body's 11-man council.

The international union came into being Wednesday. It replaces the permanent committee of the congress, established at Basle in 1887.

Tentatively Draft Suez Solution

CAIRO (AP)—A high Egyptian source said today Britain will not insist upon Iran, Turkey and Greece being included among the countries that could activate the giant Suez canal base for Western use if threatened with attack.

The source made the statement as Britain's chief negotiator, Lt.-Gen. Sir Brian Robertson, prepared to depart Friday for London with what is believed will be a tentative draft of a Suez solution.

Britain had asked in informal talks that a threat of attack on Iran, Turkey and Greece be considered an emergency that would make the base available to the Western powers. Egypt insisted the West be allowed to step in only at a thrat of attack on strictly Arab countries.

Win 13 Titles In Sheep Judging

TORONTO (CP)—Ephriam Snell and sons of Clinton Thursday swept 13 of 14 titles in judging of Leicester sheep at the Canadian National Exhibition.

Snell had the champion and reserve champion ram and champion and reserve champion ewe. His entries also won ram two shears and over; ram, shearling; ram lamb; ewe two shears and over; ewe shearling; ewe lamb; pen of one ram, two ewes two ewe lambs; yearling pen and best pen awards.

Ralph Young of Caistor Centre took the award for the best pen of four lambs.

T. C. Glaspell of Oshawa and Charles J. Shore of Glanworth took the top honors in the Cotswold sheep division.

Glaspell won the champion ewe and reserve champion ram.

H. M. Lee and Son of Highgate, took 12 of the 14 awards in the Lincoln sheep division, winning both champion and reserve champion ram and ewe.

Rail Conductors Cancel Strike

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government today announced the Order of Railway Conductors has cancelled a strike called for Sept. 10.

The national mediation board said that representatives of the carriers and the conductors union had agreed to postpone negotiations on the issue until after Oct. 1.

That is the date other major railroad unions are expected to file new demands for increased pay and improved working conditions.

The conductors union, which claims 35,000 members, had pushed a demand for new pay rates graduated to the relative size of locomotives.

Refuses To Rehire Four UN Employees

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) UN Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold says he won't rehire four American employees, ousted in connection with United States loyalty probes, despite a UN tribunal's order for their reinstatement.

Hammarskjold announced his stand late Wednesday night as the Senate internal sub-committee ordered an investigation into the tribunal's ruling that the firing of 11 American UN employees—including the four—was illegal. All 11 had refused to answer questions about alleged Communist ties.

In his statement, Hammarskjold said rehiring the four employees would be "inadvisable from the point of view which it is my duty to take into consideration." He did not elaborate this point, but asserted that the assembly statute setting up the tribunal gave him the authority to reject its rulings.

UN officials had estimated that indemnities and salary payments to the other seven would amount to about $135,000.

8 More PoWs Arrive By Plane From Tokyo

VANCOUVER (CP)—Eight more Canadian prisoners of war—seven of them from Eastern Canada arrived here Thursday by air from Tokyo.

The group included three from Ontario: Pte. Donald Gunn, Toronto; Pte. Victor Percy, Windsor, and Cpl. Ernest Taylor, Preston, all of the 3rd battalion, Royal Canadian Regiment.

KILLED 2,500

An estimated 215,000 auto accidents in Canada in 1952 killed more than 2,500 persons.

OverpoweredByPolice In Soybean Field

AMHERSTBURG (CP) — John Shura was overpowered in a soybean field by provincial police early Thursday. The officers wrested a .410 shotgun from him after he had threatened to shoot everyone in sight, police said.

Police said Shura went to Amherstburg Wednesday with his brother, Frank, and after drinking a number of beers refused to go home. Frank went home but John stayed in this town 17 miles south of Windsor. When he turned up at a farm home police were called and he was found in a nearby field brandishing the gun.

FASTEST PLANE—Although the swept-wing Hawker fighter has travelled faster than any other plane, officially a technicality keeps her from claiming a world's speed record. The Royal Aero Club of Britain has announced that the Hawker raced four times over an official three kilometre course at an average speed of 722 miles an hour. That exceeded the previous record set by a Sabre jet fighter of 715.69 miles an hour. However, rules of the Federation Aeronautique Internationale demand a new record to be one per cent faster than the previous, which would require a speed of 722.85 miles an hour.

Railways Undergone Revolution In Equipment, Operating Methods

VICTORIA.— Technological progress is constantly improving railway service, reducing costs, and enhancing operating performance, Donald Gordon, chairman and president of the Canadian National Railways, said here Thursday in an address before a joint meeting of the Chamber of Commerce and Rotary Club.

"There has been what amounts to a revolution in equipment and operating methods," he declared, "but it has come so gradually—and so many of the changes have been behind the scenes—that the public is hardly conscious of these improvements. Mechanization is the main characteristic of this trend, and whether it is reflected in new power tools for our section crews and repair shop men, or in complex machines for our accounting staff, the objective is the same—we are taking advantage of advances in engineering science to improve our operating efficiency and reduce costs.

OVER-REGULATED

"One of the facts of life in the railway business is that it is over-regulated in its operations and under-paid for its services," Mr. Gordon continued. "Because of that condition we have concentrated our efforts on the one field in which we are still allowed latitude to exercise our own judgment—the field of technical efficiency."

Changes and refinements will continue to be made, he said, "but progress is seldom a comfortable thing. Dieselization, for example, has meant a number of serious problems for a variety of people—for manufacturers of steam locomotives, for coal producers, for railway employees involved in the shifting of repair and servicing facilities and, in some cases, for whole communities.

"This is the history of all major technological changes. The railway itself was unpleasantly affected by the advent of the internal combustion engine — to which we owe the increasing competition we now face from trucks, buses and aeroplanes—but like everybody else who experiences the tyranny of change, we have to adapt ourselves to changing circumstances."

Mr. Gordon cited the CNR's dieselization program as one example of how the railway is keeping pace with technological progress. However, he added that the CNR is not in any sense committed to the universal adoption of any single type of motive power. The diesel is not the last word in motive power, he stated. Research is currently being carried on in many quarters with the aim of developing new power plants, and the CNR is keeping a close check on all developments in the motive power field so that it will be able to take advantage of the most efficient techniques as they become available. He said that the gas turbine locomotive, when perfected, might prove superior to the diesel in selected classes of service, and that it would likely show to best advantage under Canadian winter conditions, for its power output increases greatly under low temperatures.

Perfect Score For Prisoner

OTTAWA (CP) — The army Thursday acknowledged a perfect score for L./Cpl. Paul Dugal, who came out of Communist captivity with a little black notebook and the names of 16 fellow Canadians who were Korean war prisoners.

In April, when the Quebec City soldier, a member of the Royal 22nd Regiment, was released in a wounded prisoner exchange, the army listed only one Canadian prisoner-of-war.

But Dugal brought with him in a notebook he managed to hide from the Reds a listing of 15 others. Later he remembered having seen a 16th—Capt. Joseph Michael Liston, of Ottawa.

The army checked Dugal's story closely. They confronted him with bundles of pictures which included the 16 men. The lance-corporal was able to pick out every one. Moreover, his memory of events and other details convinced the army authorities he was right.

On the strength of his evidence alone, the army listed all 16 officially as prisoners-of-war. From other sources they brought the list up to 18.

The last six prisoners released last night by the Communists were the last of the 18. All six were listed by Dugal.

Banned From Highway

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Mrs. Latefah Hakim of Detroit Thursday was found criminally responsible for a two-car crash in which three persons were killed June 14. She was convicted by magistrate Fred K. Jasperson on a charge of dangerous driving and fined $150 and costs. In addition, she was denied the right to drive in Canada for two years. Killed in the crash were Mrs. Ethel Rubach, Marlene Rubach and Mrs. Robert Keane, all of Windsor.

Confirm PC's Election

ST. JOSEPH DE BEAUCE, Que. (CP)—A judicial recount of ballots cast in the Aug. 10 federal election in Dorchester riding gave Progressive Conservative Robert Perron a 106-vote majority over his Liberal opponent, Armand Landry. The recount was requested by Mr. Landry. The count election night showed Mr. Perron had a majority of 104 votes.

Expect Attendance Now To Pick Up At Exhibition

TORONTO (CP)—Cooler weather forecast for today, Press and Advertising Day, is expected to bring the crowds to the Canadian National Exhibition.

The worst heat wave in years has kept down attendance at the big fair since its opening a week ago today.

Attendance Thursday was 167,500, compared with 197,000 on the corresponding day last year.

Total attendance so far this year is 1,038,000, as against 1,153,500 for the first six days of the 1952 exhibition.

Because many youngsters stayed away on Children's Day last Monday, when the temperature hit the mid-90s, fair officials have declared today and Saturday additional children's days. Passes which would have admitted schoolchildren to the grounds Monday will be honored today.

TRACK EVENTS

Track and field events continue to feature the athletic scene today and the water skiing championships go on all day along the waterfront.

There will be more judging of cattle and sheep.

A power failure at a city substation plunged the exhibition grounds into darkness for about 12 minutes Thursday night. The blackout came midway through the grandstand performance and the 25,000 persons in the audience had an impromptu singsong for five minutes until emergency lighting went into operation on the giant stage. Army searchlights with their own generators brightened the grounds until the regular lights went on again.

NO INFERIORITY COMPLEX

Canada need no longer have an "inferiority complex" about her place in the cultural world, Tom Patterson, general manager of the Stratford Shakespearian Festival said in an address to a director's luncheon Thursday.

The festival, with its Canadian actors and actresses, has put Canada on the cultural map, Mr. Patterson said.

He listed a few other things he thought the festival had accomolished.

"It gave Canadians a pride in their country," he said. It gave the Canadian actor a "new dignity" and a "new humility."

Ludar of Blue Baf, an English setter owned by William C. Sears of Birmingham, Mich., was judged best dog in the show.

Ludar of Blue Bar, an international champion, also won first prize in the sporting dog group.

Best Canadian-bred dog was a black American cocker spaniel—Champion Lapaloma's Dream Boy—owned by J. I. Florence, of Ottawa.

Let Paraplegic Seek Damages In U.S. Courts

TORONTO (CP)—Chief Justice J. C. McRuer Thursday ruled that Melvin Ball of Niagara Falls, Ont., a paraplegic as a result of a 1951 collision between two United States railway trains, will be allowed to sue for damages in the U.S. courts.

Ball is suing the Chesapeake and Ohio and the New York Central railway companies for $500,000 for injuries he suffered when two trains collided in New York state.

While in a Toronto hospital, he signed away his rights to sue in a transaction with the workmen's compensation board. He has twice been refused a declaration that the papers are null and void. He has offered to repay some $13,000 he has received from the board for medical expenses.

The U.S. railways Thursday claimed the suit is vexatious because they may be liable for a multiplicity of damage actions in different courts, all based on the same set of facts.

Chief Justice McRuer said there is no question of multiplicity and added that foreign courts should be allowed to dispense justice in their areas.

Uranium Hunt Active

EDMONTON (CP)—The "uranium rush" in northeastern Alberta continues. The Alberta department of mines said Thursday that 1,030 claims have been recorded since uranium was discovered last fall. Uranium finds on both the Saskatchewan and Alberta sides of the interprovincial border focused mining interest in the Lake Athabasca region.

Anti-Discrimination Laws Must Have Support—Gregg

OTTAWA (CP)—Labor Minister Gregg today said in a Labor Day message that law against discrimination in employment must have the moral support of the community to have a real and lasting effect.

Mr. Gregg's message:

"Although organized labor down through the years has championed a great variety of worthy causes in every field of human endeavor, all these efforts have had in common one basic objective—equality of opportunity for all. Thus it is appropriate, I think, that on Labor Day we consider those areas of intolerance which deny the right of any of our people to share in the benefits which are offered by the great social and economic advances of recent years.

"Discrimination in employment because of race, color or religion is an ugly thing which Canadians as a democratic people cannot condone, and legislation, outlawing discrimination in employment in industries within federal jurisdiction, was passed this year by Parliament without a dissenting voice. But such legislation, to have real and lasting effect, must have the moral support of the Canadian community—of employers, of trade unions, and of every individual who truly believes we all have equal rights before man as before God.

CAN'T ALWAYS LEGISLATE

"Further, discrimination in employment is not always of a nature which would suggest solution by legislation.

Older workers and physically handicapped workers too often find it difficult, if not impossible, to obtain employment even though they are ready and able to work. Fortunately, a great many employers in all parts of Canada, fully supported by trade unions, in recent years have modified their employment policies and opened their doors to older workers and the handicapped and by their example and fruitful experience have greatly widened the employment horizon for workers in these categories. But much still remains to be done.

"In the final analysis, the solution to the problem of discrimination lies in education. Here each one of us can help. Not only through the organizations to which we belong, but in our daily associations with others we can do much to encourage tolerance if we do no more than remind our friends and fellow workers now and then that the practice of the golden rule—to do unto others as we would be done by—will make our country a better place to live for all."

Uranium Strike At Bruce Mines

BRUCE MINES (CP)—A "high grade" uranium strike at Bruce Mines, 40 miles east of Sault Ste. Marie, and the registration of 120 claims blanketing the town and adjacent township for a radius of three to four miles were announced Thursday by H. D. Peterson, a district magistrate.

Credit for the strike was given to two veteran Bruce Mines mining men, James A. Grexton and Harry Wing. They told Mr. Peterson that geiger counter registrations were "so strong at times that the count could not be measured."

Mr. Peterson said he had registered Thursday 120 claims at the mining recorders' office at Sault Ste. Marie for Grexton-Wing and other Bruce mines interests.

Bears Her Baby In Iron Lung, Mother Dies

PORT ARTHUR — A young mother, who gave birth to a baby earlier this week while in an iron lung suffering from polio, lost her fight for life Thursday. Her infant son is reported in good condition in General Hospital here.

Mrs. Laila Rowe, 27, was admitted to isolation hospital last Monday at noon. The mother was separated from the child immediately following the birth. She leaves her husband and three other children.

The woman's death brings to three the number of persons who have succumbed from polio at the Lakehead. Others were Mervin Jen Nicols, 31, Fort William clergyman, and Frank Van Norman, 24, former Fort William hockey star.

Total of polio cases at the Lakehead now stands at 37, 20 in Fort William.

Jailed Four Years For Armed Robbery

SIMCOE (CP)—Paul Badeau, 18, of Sherbrooke, Que., was sentenced Thursday to four years in Kingston Penitentiary by magistrate H. P. Innes.

Last week Badeau pleaded guilty to attempted armed robbery and was remanded in custody for sentence.

He was charged following an attempt to hold up Jack (Sandy) Woods, of Port Dover in his jewelry store Aug. 22.

PUTTING ON THE BIARRITZ—In one of the fanciest parties of the season, the Marquis de Cuevas threw a $100,000 shindig in Biarritz, France. Guests, like these ladies, dolled up in 18th Century outfits. Even the waters of Chiberta Lake were perfumed for the occasion, which didn't disturb the swans any. The gals decided i twasn't every day they could cool off their feet in a perfumed lake.

Would Like U.K. Immigrants

FORT WILLIAM (CP) — More British immigration to Canada was urged Thursday by leaders of the Church of England in Canada.

The executive council of the general synod and the council for social services urged clergy and laity to co-operate with labor and immigration authorities in finding employment and housing for prospective British settlers.

The church leaders said their plea rested on two principles. The first was to "establish a sufficient 'cushion' of British people to maintain the stability of our democratic way of life, our parliamentary and economic systems and our political institutions."

The second was the need to relieve the population pressure in Britain.

Jr. Of Thrush Haven Farm, Son Of Edson Storey, Contends for Tamworth Pig

The market price of hogs is only indirectly of interest to Esmond Storey and Sons of Thrush Haven Farm, in the fifth concession of Emily township.

Mr. Storey and his two 4-H Club boys followed with approval the ascending quotation this summer up to $36 the hundred pounds chiefly because it reflected strength in the market with assurance of an income [illegible] ers that would enable them to buy good pigs.

The specialty at Thrush Haven, that attractive and fanciful name for a farmstead, is purebred Tamworth hogs. Only an occasional cull is sold from the Storey farm to a packing plant.

Alon and Ray Storey are just as confirmed as their father in the family preference for the red Tamworth breed even if it is the exception to the general run of white Yorkshires in this section of the province and farther afield.

RAY IS "JUST BOY"

Ray, the younger son, is only twelve, but he is a modestly vocal and convincing advocate of the merits of his pigs. There is nothing brash about him. Ray is just a boy of pleasing manner and an enthusiasm that wins sympathy and attention. The fundamental of salesmanship, conviction of the worth of the goods he is offering for sale, underscores the boy's presentation when he gets a listener to his account of the Tamworth pig. His conviction embraces a boy's affection for the farm animals which appeal to him somewhat like the pet sheep so often seen around country homes.

"In twelve years, my father has sold practically all our pigs for breeding," Ray said the other afternoon. "One of them we sold to J. R. Kelsey of Woodville, and he won the grand championship at the Royal with it. The farthest sale we ever made was to a breeder near Lethbridge, Alberta. My father belongs to the Ontario Swine Breeders' Association, and I think it was at one of the conventions that he met the man from the west.

We have shown our Tamworths at Peterborough and Lindsay Exhibitions, and we usually do all right. We have won junior championships at both fairs."

SAYS "TAM" THRIFTY

Ray said the Tam is an easy doer and is also easy to handle. That phrase "easy doer" means that the red pig doesn't need any feed pampering and that he'll thrive where another breed isn't likely to do so well.

And, easy to handle: "You never have any trouble with a Tamworth" Ray said as a herd boar thrust out his long snout to be rubbed.

"Some people said the pigs would root up the pasture field. Well, they have been in our pastures this season, and there are no signs of "rooting up."

"There's nothing vicious about the Tamworth pig," the twelve year old boy affirmed with a note of emphasis. That is true, he said, of the males and also the sows with young litters. "And they are economical to keep and feed, and that is something you have to think of. They are not only quiet but they are careful of their litters. That's what I know, any way. We have 45 to 50 in the herd now. The most of them are changed about every three years, and so far I have yet to see a cross one."

The junior partner at Thrush Haven Farm should give any of the Yorkshire lads quite an argument if they ever got together in debate. This isn't related as a boost for the Tams. It is rather an impression of a farm boy's enthusiasm for the pigs that he is helping to raise. In that experience day after day he feels that he knows them for exactly what they are. What if some of them had just dragged themselves out of a muddy wallow in the shade! A flushing of water washes that off and restores the red of their bristly hair.

TYPICAL OF 4-H YOUTH

Ray is an auburn haired youngster with freckles under his eyes, and typical of the farm youth the 4-H Clubs are preparing to be Junior Farmers and then [illegible] training to take their place as adults. Probably he doesn't know that he has found the secret of selling, how to convince people of values of which he himself is genuinely certain. Maybe someday, Ray won't be a farmer. When he grows up he may turn out to be a salesman.

Obviously, the Storeys of Thrush Haven haven't picked out an easy sales job, promoting Tamworths against the opposition of the more common Yorkshires. Edson Storey began his experience with grade reds, but swung around to the purebreds. His two young sons endorse his choice.

NOTHING TO BE MELANCHOLY ABOUT — Mrs. Theodore Spurgeon, of Kansas City, Kan., and her grandchildren, Theodore Beach and Bonnie Docute, hold three of the 26 watermelons that are growing on a volunteer vine near her home. Like Topsy, the vine just "grew." She estimates the weight of the melon she's holding to be 30 pounds. The vine grew from seeds dropped in the yard while the family ate watermelon last summer.

Brother, Sister Both Blind Operate Farm

READLYN, Sask. (CP) — Blind Emil Strand and his sister Lena who has only seven per cent of normal vision own a half-section stock farm near here which they run without outside help.

"I find many examples of courageous enterprise on the part of those without sight but one of the most outstanding is the story which is being lived by Emil and Lena Strand," says R. V. Rudolph, field and social worker for the Canadian National Institute for the Blind in southern Saskatchewan.

Cattle, chief source of income on the Strand farm, are fed, milked and cared for by Emil. The day Mr. Rudolph visited him, Emil proudly showed off a new plank floor he was laying in the barn.

BUILDS FENCES

"He showed me fences he had built himself," the CNIB official said. "Their neatness would have done credit to any artisan who had all his faculties."

A bell on the neck of one of the cows leads Emil to the herd in the 200-acre pasture. Rover, a collie, assists him in stabling the cattle.

Emil uses a team of horses to clean the stable and haul feed and seed grain. He told Mr. Rudolph he had never broken off a gate post while driving his team and wagon.

"Although he spoke casually of riding on horseback over to the neighboring farms, he gaped in near disbelief when told that some totally blind men and women travel by themselves about the great Canadian cities," Mr. Rudolph said.

"It is equally difficult for the city-dwelling blind person to understand how Emil finds his way on foot, on horseback, or with team and wagon around his 320-acre holding."

OPERATED BINDER

Neighbors tell of the time Emil was unable to get a hired man to run his binder during the harvest. Emil finally got a young boy to drive the tractor and, with a rope from the tractor operator to his wrist, he rode the binder himself and cut his crop. His sense of balance told him when it was necessary to tilt the platform of the binder, and a tug on the rope told him when to dump the bundle carrier.

After the crop was cut, Emil stooked it himself. Neighbors said the rows of stooked grain were straighter than those in the next field which had been stooked by a sighted man.

Change In Judging Cattle Peterborough Exhibition

Farmers who like to see the display of cattle at the Peterborough Exhibition September 15-19 are reminded of a radical change in the timing of judging of the dairy and beef entries as groups.

Instead of all that stock parading for ribbons Thursday and Friday, the dairy cattle will be judged on Wednesday and the beef breeds on Friday. Separate judges have been engaged for the individual classes, and the intimations are pointing to record entries across the board of the eight listed breeds.

That is the bright prospect of president N. W. McConkey. Hope may be father of the thought, but apart from that aspect, he says breeders are more interested than ever in showing their good cattle. They are seeking not only the prizes, but especially the ribbons, their significance and generally highly desirable advertising.

"The county Holstein shows are proving that trend," Mr. McConkey said. "When cattle were comparatively scarce, and it was a seller's market, the idea of good advertising was not as sharp a consideration as it is today. By the time of our Exhibition we should be into autumn weather.

Dividing the judging as we are doing this year is an accommodation to exhibitors. It will be some reduction in the time they have to spend here. To our directors it seemed from experience that we would avoid the necessity of having to place quite a number of animals under canvas cover outside. Those are the reasons for the two judging days, Wednesday and Friday."

Mr. McConkey says he is confident there will be a big show of Holsteins, a new record in Guernseys, "and what I have been hearing is that there will be more Ayrshires and Jerseys. We can feel pretty sure that the Dual Purpose Shorthorn breeders will be with us with another big entry list. The same goes for the beef breeds, Herefords, Shorthorns and Aberdeen-Angus.

The dairy cattle are expected to be removed from the barns Thursday just ahead of the incoming beef stock.

Both rural and urban school children will have a chance to win bicycles that are being given by director Don McGillis, one for boys and one for girls. The draw will be in front of the grandstand.

Another change the young people and their parents are requested to notice is Children's Day date —Tuesday, September 15. Tickets are going to be distributed through rural schools as a convenience to the young folks of the townships and villages.

Thursday will be Junior Farmers' Day. Final report of the prospective entries have not yet been issued from F. C. Paterson's office.

Directors have booked their grandstand attractions through George Hamid, of New York, going back to that agency from which the best shows in the history of the Exhibition were engaged.

County Council Drafts Day's Outing For Guests

Peterborough county council has prepared an interesting program for the visit Wednesday, September 9, of the members of the council of Victoria-Haliburton, accompanied by some of their officials.

This event stands out in the exchange in amenities of the representatives of the neighboring municipalities. In a way it is a busmen's holiday with an itinerary that takes the entire company over Peterborough county roads giving access to both the west and east sections, as far as the Nepheline Mines almost within sight of the Hastings county boundary.

The visitors from Victoria-Haliburton are due at the Court House at 10 a.m. They will be conducted through the county buildings and will go on to the new City Hall, where they will be welcomed by Mayor Hugh Waddell. After looking through the City Hall, police court rooms and station, with the members of Peterborough County Council and some of its officials, the motorcade proceeds on its route by way of Hunter St. past the Quaker Oats Company. St. Joseph's Hospital, Nicholls Oval, with a stop at the county machine storage buildings on Armour Road.

From there, they return to Armour's Hill, the Lift Lock and Western Clock Co., south to Downer's Corners, and west on Lansdowne St. through the industrial section of the southwest of the city, thence to Civic Hospital, and Jackson Park, and back to the Empress Hotel for lunch at 12:30 p.m.

NEW BUCKHORN ROAD

In the afternoon the itinerary starts from the Empress to the Chemong Rd. and new causeway; to the middle line of Smith, and south to the Lakefield Highway at Peterborough's filtration plant; then to Lakefield, and the recently surfaced Buckhorn Road from the vicinity of Peterborough County Home.

That road job was completed last Friday, and according to Reeve R. R. Stewart, who has been over it, "the road is in excellent condition." And so to Buckhorn, turning east over what used to be known as the Oregon Trail, and a call, by invitation, upon G. K. Fraser, MP, and Mrs. Fraser; then to Lakefield and aagin by invitation to the Nepheline Mine. The trip continues down the 9th Line of Dummer to Norwood, where there is a new High School to be visited, if there is time, and finally by No. 7 Highway to the Kawartha Club for dinner about 7 p.m.

It was reported yesterday that Premier Leslie M. Frost may be able to join the party at some stage of its journeying. The day's outing and fraternization will be concluded with a few speeches after dinner.

This is an evidence of the new spirit in seeing and discussing county properties and institutions which stems from the initiative in hospitality by Victoria-Haliburton. It is also an outcome of the motor age's easy travel on roads that have been variously improved to standards of county and provincial construction.

Falls 175 Feet, Lives

HAMILTON (CP)—A 30-year-old steelworker survived a 175-foot fall from a bridge to a railway track Wednesday night and was dragged clear of the track just as a train roared past, police said. They identified him as Albert Fourner of Hamilton and said he is in critical condition with broken legs and internal injuries.

What Makes Fish Bite

May Clear Up Mystery Involving Old Fish Tale

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J — The age-old question of what makes some fish bite and others pass uptempting morsels on baited hooks, one that has puzzled anglers the world over, is the subject of an experiment at Rutgers University here.

Dr. James R. Westman, chairman of the university's Department of Wildlife Conservation and Management, is trying to determine what factors, other than hunger, cause fish to nibble.

Two large tanks, several mirrors, some hungry and some well fed bass and a fishing pole are being used in the study.

As a start, Dr. Westman has two bass in a five-foot tank containing sixty-five gallons of water.

"We'll stuff them with food and then fish for them," he explained. "The use of more fish and several mirrors to create an illusion of abundance will follow. And we'll 'punish' the fish a bit when we do hook them so as to explore the 'education' factor."

SOME MEAN ENOUGH TO BITE

Dr. Westman believes that some species of fish are mean enough to bite whether they are hungry or literally "filled to the gills," while others are cautious even though they crave food. He believes further that both the aggressive and the bashful fish may be moved by a spirit of competition, since either may strike for a lure if a sufficient number of other fish is around.

Dr. Westman said it already had been demonstrated in tests that, after a certain percentage of fish in a stocked pond had been caught the response factor dropped. "Apparently catching about 30 per cent of the fish may result in an almost negative response from the remaining 70 per cent," he reported.

So far, Dr. Westman finds that competition, other than hunger, may be the main reason fish bite.

While bass are being used in the experiment, other species of fish will be tested later, Dr. Westman and his staff plan to enlarge the operation to ponds where temperature, time of day, light and other factors will be studied.

Dr. Westman also has been working on a related project—the study of the rate of survival among fish groups stocked at ages ranging from a few days to several years. Experiments completed to date show that fingerlings —the infants— have little chance of surviving while those 1 year old thrive.

The two experiments should provide bigger, better and more numerous catches, Dr. Westman contends.

Projects To Teach Indians New Methods Multiply

Some eighty-one village schemes known as "Community Projects," to teach people simple irrigation and economic cultivation methods are now being operated in India under a government programme which was started only a few months ago. Each project covers about 100,000 people, and it is hoped to have 1,200 projects working by the end of 1956.

A "Project" includes usually about three to five villages, and is in charge of one project worker, whose task is to persuade the villagers of the benefits of improved cultivation. He starts by taking part in village councils and gaining the confidence of the villagers. He then introduces special seed for crops given by the government, and asks several cultivators to try them out. While the seed grows the project worker turns his attention to adult education, implements, irrigation methods and the like, following lines determined by the villager's specific needs.

When successful results of the experimental crops are seen, another experimental planting is tried the following year to varify that the seed is suitable for the area. In the third year, the whole village is provided with new seed.

The scheme lays great emphasis on training "untouchables" as the village workers on equal terms with other villagers.

The need for education is felt as a consequence of the improvements in the village, and literacy classes are organized, run mostly by literate villagers who are given a 25- day adult education course and who are paid for the classes.

All-Canadian Sale

The purebred Holstein herd of L. N. Touchstone, Griffin, Georgia, U.S.A., was dispersed recently with 71 head bringing a total of $28,635 for the excellent general average of $403.

The offering consisted entirely of animals imported from Canada during the past five years and their offspring. The buyers were from widely scattered sections of Georgia, North Carolina and Florida.

The cattle sold well throughout, there being no exceptionally high prices. The top figure was $585 paid by H. Nelton, Hagersville, N.C., for the 7-year-old cow, Merlaw Rag Apple Betsy, who was bred by Mervin F. Facey, New Hamburg, Ont. The second highest price of $550 was secured for a three-year-old heifer, imported in dam from Canada, the dam having been bred by W. H. Dolson, Georgetown, Ont.

Farm Workers Invade Western Canada

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Farm workers across the country have started their annual invasion of Western Canada to help bring in the second largest grain crop in history.

The three Prairie provinces have asked for at least 4,500 men and expect to have their quota filled by the end of this week. Some 50 to 100 workers a day are arriving at western areas, a Canadian Press survey shows today.

This year's wages are expected to range from $6 to $8 a day, a slight drop from 1952 when most workers were getting $9. Increased farm production costs are blamed for the decrease in the wage scale.

The general starting rate is expected to be $7, with combine operators slightly higher.

Cutting has already started in parts of Saskatchewan and Alberta despite a late start and higher than average hail losses. Reduced acreage in Alberta has cut production there, while Manitoba authorities predict higher production than last year.

WHEAT CUTTING SOON

Wheat cutting is expected to be earlier than expected, the warm and sunny weather of the last few weeks ripening grain quickly.

The Saskatchewan yield is expected to average 22.7 bushels an acre for a crop second only to last year's record output when 435,000,000 bushels of wheat, 109,000,000 bushels of oats, 84,000,000 bushels of barley, 10,000,000 bushels of rye, 5,000,000 bushels of spring rye and 3,700,000 bushels of flax were harvested.

Oats and barley will be considerably above average, but the final outcome will depend on weather and the length of the frost-free period required for a good harvest.

The acreage reduction in Alberta leaves little hope of meeting the 1952 record 419,000,000 bushels of grain. Last year, the province went over the 100,000,000-bushel mark in barley production and harvested 100,000 bushels more wheat than in 1927, 1928 and 1942.

Alberta prospects this autumn point to a total grain harvest of about 398,000,000 bushels.

EDMONTON DEMAND

The heaviest demand for workers in Alberta comes from sections east of Edmonton and the districts between Edmonton and Calgary. Farms in the Lethbridge area and the northern Peace River districts rarely take more than a few hundred men each year.

Labor officials in Ontario say the province has been providing about 55 workers a day for the West. This compares with about 150 a day last year, but the difference is said to be accounted for by variations in crop conditions. Workers are able to move from one farm to another this autumn.

Few Quebec farm workers are moving west because of a shortage of farm help there.

British Columbia and the Maritimes have their own harvest problems. They are not expected to lend help to the Prairies. Fine weather along the Pacific Coast has produced a bumper fruit crop in B.C.

THRESHER OUT OF THE PAST—It might resemble an ancient train chugging along at full speed, but it's only an old steam-powered threshing machine owned by Arthur Flack, of Alpha, Ill. Flack said he bought the machine just "for some fun," but he's been able to thresh 37 acres of oats on his 160-acre farm without any trouble. He also made a hit with his neighbors, who flocked to his farm when they saw the dark pillars of smoke rise skyward.

ROSE, LARSEN DEFEATED

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP)—The world's four top tennis amateurs of the moment—Vic Seixas and Tony Trabert of the United States and Ken Rosewall and Lewis Hoad of Australia — swept unchecked Thursday into the quarter finals of the U.S. national championships.

But below that level the tournament was subjected to a pair of jarring upsets.

Shoveled into the discard were Mervyn Rose, the Australian Davis Cupper who is officially ranked No. 1 in his country, and Art Larsen of San Leandro, Calif., the 1950 U.S. champion.

Rose, the lefthander whom some had fancied as a possible finalist, bowed to Budge Patty of Los Angeles, a former Wimbledon champion, 7-9, 6-4, 6-2, 6-3. After losing the first set, Patty played brilliant tennis.

Larsen, after winning the first two sets from Sven Davidson of Sweden, the seventh-ranked foreigner, couldn't maintain his form. The final score was 1-6, 3-6, 6-1, 6-4, 6-4.

Seixas, the current Wimbledon king, established himself a firm favorite polishing off Billy Talbert of New York City 6-2, 6-0, 6-0.

Rosewall, the second foreign seed took the measure of Tom Brown, Jr., San Francisco lawyer, 9-7, 7-5, 6-2. Hoad, the Australian No. 2, defeated Ham Richardson of Baton Rouge, La., the intercollegiate champion, 6-3, 6-4, 6-4.

Trabert, seeded second to Seixas among the home forces, turned back Ian Ayre of Australia, 6-2, 7-5, 6-2, thus reducing the Aussie threat to two players.

SARNIA DOWNS DUNDAS

SARNIA (CP)—Sarnia Beavers Thursday night moved ahead 3-2 in their Ontario Lacrosse Association intermediate A semi-final by downing Dundas Hornets 9-4. Dundas coach Norm Shortredge was ejected from the game with a match penalty for his assault on referee Pat Paterson of Windsor during a fracas at the end of the second quarter. Paterson suffered cuts under both eyes.

SNOWSHOERS TO MEET

MONTREAL (CP)—Snowshoers from Maine, New Hampshire, Ontario and Quebec will attend the annual meeting of the international snowshoers' committee in Sherbrooke, Que., this weekend. Among items the committee will discuss is the site of the next international snowshoers convention.

REARDON SYDNEY COACH

SYDNEY, N.S. (CP) — Terry Reardon, coach of Providence Reds of the American Hockey League the last six years, agreed Thursday to coach Sydney Millionaires of the Maritime Major Hockey League.

HARNESS RACER KILLED

FOXBORO, Mass. (AP)—Joseph Bolduc, 79, of New Bedford, one of harness racing's oldest drivers, died early today in hospital of injuries received in a three-horse collision at Bay State Raceway. Bolduc, a native of Valleyfield, Que., who raced harness horses as a sideline to his grocery and real estate business, suffered a fractured skull in the crash Thursday night.

RIZZUTO RECOVERS

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Phil Rizzuto, veteran New York Yankee shortstop, headed back to New York Thursday night after recovering from an attack of heat fatigue and food poisoning. Rizzuto had planned to fly to Washington, where the club plays Saturday and Sunday, but decided to go home and rejoin the Yanks in time for Saturday's game. He collapsed after Wednesday night's game with St. Louis Browns.

5 Race Horses Killed In Barn Fire

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y. (AP)—Five harness horses perished early today as fire levelled a 20-stall barn near the Saratoga Raceway.

Four horses died in the flaming stables. Sterling Hanover, an 11-year-old trotter, was led from the burning barn but had to be destroyed.

The others were:

Lottie Spencer, a six-year-old pacing mare, and Capreak, a two-year-old trotting filly, both owned by Ellsworth Jones of Corinth.

Clancy's Boom, a four-year-old pacing gelding owned by F. J. McGovern, and Thomas Judge, both of North Adams, Mass.

Melba Diamond, a three-year-old trotting filly owned by Mr. and Mrs. Wilburn Hart of West Simsbury, Conn.

The cause of the fire has not been determined, firemen said.

Sterling Hanover, who also was owned by the Harts, ran the fastest mile of his career last Saturday, when Saratoga Raceway closed its 64-night summer meeting. He was timed in 2:09 3-5.

No Horses On Payroll In Army Exhibit

TORONTO (CP)—Defence Minister Claxton spoke briefly at a Canadian National Exhibition directors' luncheon Wednesday.

He urged guests to visit the armed services show at the exhibition and added:

"I assure you that you will not find any horses on the payroll when you visit the show."

His audience, mostly executives of the food industry, roared in laughter.

Call For Action In Outlawing Of Communism

A call for action by the federal government to outlaw Communism is among the resolutions to be studied by The Canadian Chamber of Commerce—Canada's national business organization — at its annual meeting in Edmonton, September 14-17.

The fact that the interest of businessmen in national affairs runs high at present is reflected in the list of resolutions on a variety of topics submitted by Boards of Trade and Chambers of Commerce for consideration by the Canadian Chamber's annual meeting. These will be voted on at the convention (each Board or Chamber having a vote of equal weight, irrespective of size), and out of this will come the Chamber's policy for the year ahead. Following the annual meeting, Chamber's policy statements and resolutions are presented to the federal government.

Attention is focussed on the problem of Communism by the Dorval (Quebec) Chamber of Commerce. It urges federal government to enact legislation to outlaw Communism and Communist organizations in Canada. The resolution objects to the fact that the Labor Progressive Party was granted "radio time and other democratic privileges during the election campaign."

The Newfoundland Board of Trade says Canada should give close attention to the conservation and development of its fishery resources by all possible means and "particularly by striving for the removal of quota and currency barriers against Canadian fish in world markets."

From New Brunswick, the Saint John Board of Trade asks that every effort be made "to secure as far as possible all traffic whether for export or import via Canadian ports."

The Prince George (B.C.) Board of Trade asks the Canadian Chamber to seek U.S. Chamber support in opposing a "strong movement in the U.S. to have the government increase the tariff on lumber imports to that country which is an important market for Canadian lumber."

Several of the resolutions are concerned with taxation and fiscal matters. For example, the Vancouver Board of Trade believes charitable donations reported by taxpayers which are in excess of the amounts permitted for a tax year should be claimable against the taxable income of the previous year or the next succeeding five years. In the opinion of the Toronto Board of Trade, further steps should be taken by the government to eliminate double taxation of corporate earnings.

A review by the government of the entire sales tax structure is urged by the Edmonton Chamber of Commerce. This should be done, it is stated, "with a view to removing anomalies and undue complexities in order to provide simplicity and certainty to business administration and to ensure equity of tax distribution."

Brandon (Man.) Chamber of Commerce requests the Canadian Chamber to look into the "burdensome trend in government" whereby private business must collect a variety of taxes and provide an increasing volume of statistical information for the government.

In addition to all the new resolutions submitted by individual Boards of Trade and Chambers of Commerce (of which only a few have been mentioned), the national meeting of businessmen at Edmonton will review its general policy on such things as immigration, trade, public finance and taxation, freedom of enterprise, and natural resources.

Newport Dream Breaks Two World Records

DUQUOIN, Ill. (AP)—Newport Dream, owned by the Newport Stock Farm of South Plainfield, N.J., broke two world records for two-year-old trotters Thursday at the Duquoin State Fair.

The colt shattered the 1949 mark set by Lusty Song in the $26,000 Castleton two-year-old trot by winning the second heat in 2:01 3-5. The old record was 2:02 1-5.

Newport Dream's first heat victory in 2:03 3-5 gave him a combined time of 4:05 1-5 to break the previous mark of 4:05 1-2 set by Titan Hanover in 1944.

Thousands Of Salmon Spawning In B.C. River

VANCOUVER (CP)—Thousands of sockeye salmon, wine red as they prepare for death, are completing their life cycle along a three-mile stretch of the Horsefly river in central British Columbia.

The river is almost a solid mass of spawning fish, churning the gravel to prepare nests for their eggs, fighting among themselves, using up their last energy to propagate the species.

The miraculous influx of fish in the Horsefly river will ultimately mean the addition of millions of dollars to the value to the sockeye production of the Fraser river system, which only a few years ago was written off as close to extinction.

Roy Jackson, assistant director of the International Pacific Salmon Commission, who accompanied reporters to the river, said: "In the cycle year of 1909 more than 4,000,000 spawners were counted in it. Old-timers in Horsefly say the smell was so bad the villagers were driven from their homes."

But disastrous rockslides in 1913 and 1914 wiped out the run. A dam built for a placer mining project just about completed the destruction.

HOPE FOR REHABILITATION

Two cycles ago, in 1949, only 3,000 sockeye got through to the Horsefly. Now the river teems with 100,000 fish and the commission hopes for complete rehabilitation four years from now.

The change was mostly brought about by the Hell's Gate fishway—a fish-ladder project launched about 10 years ago.

The unerring return of the sockeye to the rearing grounds is one of nature's miracles. Not only do the fish manage to find their way back to the exact spot where they were hatched, but they also time their entry into the mouth of the Fraser to coincide with the period when the water temperature is about 50 degrees, necessary for successful spawning.

The 90,000 square-mile Fraser watershed has seven major sockeye spawning areas, Early and Late Stuart, Fraser Lake-Francois, Quesnel, Adams, Chilco and Seton.

After the spectacular success of restoring the Quesnel run, which spawns in Horsefly river, fisheries men are eyeing three new potential spawning areas which could increase the Fraser catch by millions of fish. Sockeye spawn now in only four miles of the upper Horsefly. There are 34 miles of stream bed which may come into production.

Wearing Costume Jewellery A Game Played For Beauty

Costume jewelry can light up your beauty as well as your costume. But you've got to know the rules of this little game to play it well. Here are some of the ins and outs:

THE TRIANGLE

If the imaginary triangle that lies with its base stretching from ear tip to ear tip, with its third corner nestling in the hollow of your throat, is a slender tapering triangle, here are your tricks: wear chokers mixed or matched and bold, chunky earrings; allow at least an inch between the tips of your earrings and your choker.

The girl with a short, squatty imaginary triangle tends to have a short neck and roundish or squarish face. She can wear slender waterfall earrings, but never a ball or a hoop. The tiny delicate button or seed earrings are beautifiers for her. Her necklace might be a long dangling strand of pearls, knotted just above the waist. A choker does not belong in her jewel box.

If yours is an ideal triangle, with all sides even, you can wear what you please.

But that's not all about jewelry and faces. Magnificent earrings and necklaces can call attention away from facial irregularities. For instance, jawlines are softened, noses seem more elegant when bold, curved lines of jewelry are placed nearby.

Going below your throat now: you can make your figure prettier with jewelry. For example, an overly generous bosom is beautified with an angular, delicate pair of pins, worn off center. Not so with a large, roundish pin, especially when plunked in the middle. Thinner girls, however, can wear huge sparklers as they wish.

A tiny waistline is flattered with a fob, a clip or a large medallion at the belt. A broad-waisted girl, however, wears jewellery at her midriff on a narrow belt and she places the jewel, a largish one, at the centre.

A tiny, subtle pin "gets lost" on a tall, skinny girl or on the girl that's plump. Each of these girls wants to wear an important pin

Rice And Cheese Main Dish With Green Peas

Really sharp! Here is a new and different idea for a delicious main dish which packs a terrific eating punch. The exciting flavor of Swiss cheese is a "natural" to combine with tender inexpensive rice. The rice and cheese are spiked with tomato flavor and tinted red—which in contrast to the green peas placed in the center of the "spoon fashioned" ring, make a dish as eye appealing as it is tongue tingling.

Ingredients:

2 tablespoons butter or margarine, ½ cup chopped onion, ½ cup chopped green pepper, 2 cups uncooked rice, 1, No. 2 can tomatoes (2½ cups), 2 teaspoons salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, 3½ cups water, 1½ cups grated Swiss cheese, 4 cups hot, cooked and seasoned green peas.

Method:

Melt butter or margarine in a 3-quart or larger saucepan. Add onion and cook until tender and a yellowish color. Add green pepper, rice, tomatoes, salt, pepper and water. Bring to a vigorous boil. Turn the heat as low as possible. Cover saucepan with a lid and leave over this low heat for 14 minutes. Turn off the heat. Add the Swiss cheese and mix well. If the rice has not absorbed all of the liquid, cook over a low heat, stirring constantly, until the excess liquid is absorbed.

Place the hot rice and cheese mixture on a platter and with a spoon form the mixture into a ring with a center large enough to hold the peas. Fill the center with the peas and serve immediately.

This recipe makes 10 servings.

Melon A La Mode

Select ripe honeydew melon. Chill well.

To make sherbet, combine 1 cup milk and 1 cup water. Add contents of package of raspberry sherbet mix. Beat with rotary beater until dissolved—about 2 minutes. Pour mixture into refrigerator tray and place in freezing compartment. When mixture is firmly frozen, remove from tray to bowl. Break up into small lumps with fork or potato masher. Beat with electric or hand beater until free from lumps but still a thick mush. Return to refrigerator tray and freeze until firm, but not too hard.

Cut melon in half or quarters and fill centre with a scoop of raspberry sherbet. Garnish with a sprig of mint, if desired.

QUICKIE: Serve homemade lemon sherbet in a half or quarter of chilled canteloupe. A squeeze of lemon or lime over all will bring out the fruit flavors.

ANOTHER QUICKIE: Sherbet made with wine is a "real cool" cooler. Use ¼ cup red or white wine in place of ¼ cup water in basic sherbet recipe. Served with fruit salad it adds special flavor.

Knox WMS Meets

Meetings of Knox Church WMS were resumed after summer vacation on Wednesday with the president, Mrs. P. Clegg in charge, in the church parlour.

Twenty-seven sick visits recorded. The treasurer's report showed a satisfactory position, though the expense fund is low. Reports on the United Church Training School Building Fund campaign, and on Mission Band activities and expenses, were given and discussed.

Arrangements were made for a paper collection to be made on September 22nd. Mrs. Clegg conducted a brief worship service, the theme being "Where'er the Sun", appropriate hymn, psalm, and prayer being used.

Mrs. Clegg then introduced the new study book, "Where'er the Sun", describing the life and task of the church throughout the world.

The book follows the sun from country to country, showing the accomplishments and shortcomings of the church in the world to-day.

How To Wash Fragile Blouse

Acetate is a favorite fibre with kirls who enjoy its subdued sheen, cool (but not clammy) feel, absorbency, and soft, smooth touch on the skin.

You have to be gentle with a garment made from this fibre. It has a delicate look and actually it is delicate. If you have a beautiful peignoir, blouse or other luxury type of garment made from acetate, here's how to care for it:

Wash in lukewarm water only with mild soapsuds or detergent.

If you're using the washing machine, put the garment in a mesh bag. First test for colorfastness. Don't put it in among dark colors.

The garment should be faintly damp for pressing. Acetate dries in almost no time at all.

Press on the wrong side. You want the natural bloss of acetate, not an excessive shine. No heavyweight muscular pressure on the iron is necessary. Just glide over the surface, with the grain, and the heat will take care of the wrinkles. It should be a very low heat because acetate can melt under a too-warm iron. Finish details on the right side, using a piece of thin muslin for a press cloth.

Your pressing job is over in minutes because you needn't press bone-dry. Air and the slight steam left in the garment will finish the blouse for you when you hang it up (on a padded hanger).

Beat The Heat Wave With Dinner On The Terrace

Dinner on the terrace—what a treat these hot days—especially for those of your family who are shut up in offices or factories from eight to five. Let them catch those few remaining hours of sunlight by serving your meal outdoors. Prepare the food in the kitchen as usual, then carry it to an attractively set table on the porch or patio for serving.

Of course, you'll want foods that can be easily carried, foods that won't lose their original temperature or texture too quickly.

Here's a menu we'd suggest:

Jellied Consomme with Lemon Wedge Garnish
Chicken Tetrazzini
Buttered Peas
Blueberry Muffins Butter
Fresh Fruit Sundaes
Iced Tea or Coffee

The jellied consomme, cool and shimmery, makes a refreshing starter. Simply place an unopened can of consomme in the refrigerator to chill about 6 to 8 hours before you want to serve it. You do not need to add any gelatin; the soup as it's sealed in the tin will jell to the right consistency. Just before you set down to the table spoon the consomme into chilled cups and garnish with lemon wedges.

Chicken Tetrazzini, an adaptation of an old Italian casserole, combines tender bits of chicken, spaghetti in tomato sauce and cream of mushroom soup.

CHICKEN TETRAZZINI

1½ cups diced, cooken chicken
2 15-ounce cans spaghetti, tomato sauce and Cheese
1 10-ounce can condensed cream of mushroom soup, undiluted
¼ teaspoon rubbed sage or crushed dried rosemary.
¼ cup bread crumbs
1 tablespoon melted shortening

Heat oven to 375 degrees F. (moderately hot). Combine first 4 ingredients in 2-quart casserole; sprinkle over spaghetti mixture. Bake, uncovered at 375 degrees F. for 35 minutes or until hot. Makes 6 servings.

Sew Baby Clothes—Machine

Who does not love to sew for a new baby? The hopeful mother, grandmother, older sisters, aunts, happy women friends—all set to work wreathed in smiles and debating the age-old question: girl or boy?

Sewing centers report that more and more mothers are using their sewing machines even for delicate details, once traditionally done by hand, when sewing baby clothes. Use a fine machine needle and fine cotton thread, say the experts. Set the machine for a tiny sewing stitch, and your baby things will be as dainty as grandmother's were, with half the tedious hours of handwork. Sewing centres advise choosing fine nainsook or batiste for baby dresses, nainsook or long cloth for slips and nighties, and fine flannel, cashmere or crepe de chine for sacques, kimonos or wrappers.

Baby's sheer garments are best finished with French seams. For those who favor traditional hand sewing for some details, it is advisable to sew the first stitching of the seam by machine and the second stitching by hand. The machine-stitched under seam will stand up to washing, and hold when the baby gets lively enough to wriggle and kick.

Stitching on hems at neck, sleeves and round the bottom of dresses can be fine and small if done with the foot-hemmer. If a rolled effect is desired the edge-stitcher should be used. The tucker will sew pin tucks of the finest width. These tucks are esential in the yoke of a baby dress for fullness to permit the infant freedom of movement. The edge-stitcher, foot-hemmer and zigzagger are all useful in the various steps in applying lace.

If you are not familiar with the use of these attachments, sewing centres will show you how they work.

Several of the new machine fashion stitches, recently introduced and, all done without attachments, are ideal for embroidering baby clothes. One of the prettiest of the tiny stitches is the spark stitch.

A final suggestion. When buying materials you can save time and expense by getting several yards of fabric at a time. Often by careful pattern arrangement three or four dresses can be cut from two or three yards of fabric. Cut several garments at once. Assemble the parts of each. Have fine cotton thread, a fine machine needle and attachments ready. Then do the same operation on each garment one after the other. First sew the seams, then the tucking, then the trim. The garments for your layette will multiply like magic if you carry out this plan.

Readers' Friday Column Conducted By Mary Moore

QUESTION: Could you please send me a copy of a list of foods etc., for sandwiches at a reception for 150 people? You published it sometime last Fall. I would be very much obliged if you could help me in this respect.

Mrs. S. C.

ANSWER: I think it must be the release for October 30, 1952, you are referring to, where I describe the sandwiches we made for 200 people attending our Annual Press Club Bridge party. If so you will have it in the mail shortly.

LETTER: First I must congratulate on the masterpiece of Aug. 4 many will benefit from such sound advice, so practical and proven. I suggest that your salary be increased at least 25 per cent. for your great knowledge and love of people which understandably reaches out to us all—whether homebodies, frustrated bride-cooks or just like me. Those bewildered gals — mothers of young fry— who wonder why "Junior" does such dreadful things, will breathe easy again and practice M. M.'s method (at the same time throw away those costly and sometimes confusing books on child-psychology) when I read of your friends going to the Coast I wondered if it was possible for you to join them you give so much of yourself every day to us all. With thanks for your great help to me personally. M. M. C.

ANSWER: Of course I could not print your letter in full for it was full of such personal and heart-warming news. You give me too much credit. You know to Whom it belongs. With all my heart I hope your family circle is never broken again and that your son recovers his full health and strength— which I believe he can and still. It might amuse you to know that when the Special Delivery Postman brought your letter I was in the garden picking black currants. I was so thrilled at your news I dropped a whole pint box of them.

QUESTION: Again I am taking the liberty of writing for your receipts. I am a diabetic and would appreciate it very much if you would send me your receipt for doing peaches canned without sugar. I buy them in stores and they are quite good but just water-packed, but I would like to do my own. Mrs. W. G.

ANSWER: I hope you saw last Tuesday's column with recipe for Sugarless Canned peaches.

QUESTION: My sister's husband is English and he loves Red Currant Pie. They are coming to visit us this month and I would dearly love to surprise him with one. We have our own currants and I have picked them and have fast-frozen them. This is an experiment with me, but with your help I hope I turn out something real good. Delia.

ANWER: All power to you Delia. Red Current Pie is delicious.

RED CURRANT PIE (1-crust).

To three egg yolks add ¼ cup water and beat very well. Mix together 1 cup sugar and ¼ cup flour and stir this into the egg mixture until perfectly smooth. Add 1 or 1½ cups washed and stemmed red currants. Pour into pastry-lined pie plate and bake at 450 deg. Fahr. for 10 minutes, then reduce heat to 325 for 20 minutes. Remove from oven and cover with meringue made from the 3 leftover egg whites beaten until stiff with 6 tablespoons sugar. Return to oven to cook and brown meringue for about 12 or 15 minutes. This pie is good too, if ¾ cup each currants and raspberries are used in place of 1 or 1½ cups currants.

BACK TO SCHOOL — This little six-year-old is all prepared for his first day of school. He's equipped with his books and dressed in a new hand-knitted shrink - proof wool sweater in pale green with dark green plane. The three-ply sock sweater yarn, grey flannel shorts and socks complete his outfit.

HATS ARE MORE IMPORTANT LOOKING this fall in order to be good companions for the slimmed down fashion silhouette. They are either very deep or somewhat shallow. We show here deep cloche by Peg Fischer in taupe velours (upper left). This has tall, sloping, telescoped crown and narrow, lifted brim. Trim is wide band of gold bullion, brown velvet ribbon and rhinestones. Helmet cap by Sally Victor (upper cnetre) is emerald green jersey embroidered all over with flower appliques of russet suede and black kid leather. She also does a pixie-crowned turban (upper right) in cocoa suede. High, pointed crown is draped in halo of suede in shades of russet and gold. High, square-crowned cloche in lovebird blue velours (lower left) by John Frederics has wide band of brown-and-white printed wool jersey draped around crown. Emme's shallow black velvet pillbox (lower centre) has rolling cuff brim of white feathers lifted at front. Profile toque of two-toned blue velvet (lower right) has deep pleats folded into sharp bicorne points. Leather is important as material for the new hats.

Hats Balance Slim Lines Of 1953 Autumn Ensembles

When next you set out to buy a new hat, look for autumn's two important hat shapes: the shallow and the deep.

No matter which you pick (you'll probably take both), the hat will have more importance than in the past. This is a season of slimmed-down, pared-down suits and dresses. Thus, a hat that looks important provides the necessary balance.

The deep hat of this year harks back to the 1920's. It often covers the hair completely. This is as true of the deep cloche as it is of other silhouettes. The high, square crown is common to the cloche. Trimmings for the deep hat are either emphasized, or non-existent.

Helmet hats, important to many collections ,frequently get very deep cut at the sides but are cut draped and detailed: There are high front and back, thus revealing the brow and a ducktail of hair at the back. These often come in beaver or velours and are impressive through surface interest and through deep, clear colors such as a vivid red or turquoise.

Turbans are back. These may be deep, covering the hair, or so shallow that they are mere level toques. They are manipulated, fez crowns, pixy crowns, and soft drapes all developed as turbans.

The small, shallow hats are meant to show off the short hair-do, not hide it. Even these hats display a tendency to draping and manipulation. Within this group, the cloche appears again but in tiny, jeweled versions.

Leather, important in ready-to-wear, is equally important in hats. Leathers used most often are kid, suede and capeskin. Leather hats appear at every price level, starting with the top designers and equally available at hat bars in pin-money versions.

DOROTHY DIX:

Lads Should Help Their Mothers

DEAR MISS DIX: My next-door neighbor has a 13-year-old boy who helps with the dishes and does other work that only a girl should do. He says if he continues to live like this, he'll grow up to be a sissy. What should he do about it?

MRS. T. T.

HELPFUL IN ARMY

ANSWER: You and your friend certainly came to the wrong person for sympathy on this one. Mine is an all-male family, and from early childhood my sons have pitched in at whatever tasks befell them, including washing dishes and making beds. Nor has it diminished their masculinity one whit. They are now stalwart young men, and still willing to give a hand where it's needed. One of them has just finished a period in an army camp, where he learned, to his own astonishment, that boys who had learned co-operation at home adjusted much more completely to routine of army life than did the lads whose mothers had carefully shielded them from all forms of housework.

A family is a unit in which every member contributes something to the others of the group; the greater this mutual give-and-take, the happier is the family. Simply because children are all boys or girls doesn't lessen the cumulative effort that must go into the making of a successful household. The father who only has daughters should no more be expected to do all the gardening, lawn mowing, etc., than should the mother of sons be expected to do all the housework without help. No work is menial except in the eyes of those who see it so. Men pride themselves on their cooking prowess; why then should they look down upon the humble task of dishwashing?

Your neighbor is doing a fine job of teaching her boy, and if you sympathize with him in his protests against allotted work, you are doing him, and his family, great harm. Emulate your neighbor instead of criticizing her; her example is well worth following.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: My parents want to select all my friends, male and female, though I am 18, working, and giving most of my money toward the house. I think I'm old enough to pick my own friends. Who is right?

ALMA G.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Your parents have failed badly at the job of bringing you up if they feel that at 18 you haven't acquired the discrimination to make proper friends. Surely they don't expect to keep up this choosing for you much longer? Sometime you must set out independently and the longer they postpone letting you go on your own, the worse it will be for you.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I am 19 and going with a young man of 20. I love him very much, but since I was once engaged, he says I couldn't possibly love him now. The engagement was broken almost two years ago, and by now I've almost forgotten the fellow.

H. J.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Any young man who doesn't understand teen-agers are capable of several loves has a lot to learn about human nature. If he's that thick about one thing, he'll be qually dense about others.

Many Fast Dishes Can Be Made With Cooked Rice

Stay out of the kitchen more and more by keeping a bowl of cooked rice in the refrigerator and using this ready-to-use basic ingredient for a variety of quick and delicious dishes. Here are some combinations which will become family favorites.

For delightful party-snack foods, drop little clumps of the ready-to-use rice in a fine mesh wire basket and fry to a golden yellow in hot deep fat. This crisp French fried rice may be served with chop suey, chow mein, gravy, meat sauces or creamed combinations, or used as a snack food.

For refreshing salad, toss together ready-to-use rice, your favorite fruit or chopped or shredded vegetables and the dressing of your choice. Chill and serve on a bed of salad greens.

Add ready-to-use rice to chicken broth. Heat thoroughly and serve a delicious soup to an appreciative family. Your favorite vegetable soup is even more interesting and satisfying when some ready-to-use rice is added a short tin before serving.

Make a quick casserole main dish by combining 2 cups of ready-to-use rice, 1 pound cooked bulk sausage or ground beef, 1½ cups corn, some chopped green pepper, 2½ cups tomato juice, salt and pepper and bake at 330 degree F. until the pepper is tender and most of the liquid has been absorbed.

Add some ready-to-use rice to waffle, hotcake or muffin batter, made by your own favorite recipe or with a mix, for an intriguingly different texture. Use about 1 cup of rice for each 1½ cup of flour or mix.

For a sumptuous dessert, mix together 3 cups of ready-to-use rice, 2 eggs, 1 cup of milk, ½ cup of sugar, 1 teaspoon cinnamon and 1½ cups of sliced peaches. Bake at 350 degree F. until most of the liquid has been absorbed.

Red Cross Mobile Station Operated By Newlyweds

WINNIPEG (CP)—A young Winnipeg couple will begin married life on Canada's only nursing station on wheels. John and Ruth Evans, a school teacher and Red Cross nurse, will make their home on the Manitoba Red Cross mobile nursing station which will serve scattered northern settlements.

Mrs. Evans will be the station's nurse-in-charge, and her husband will teach school at Wabowden.

The station is a railway car that will run on the Hudson Bay line from Wabowden to Gillam. In the winter the car will be stationed in each town for alternate periods of three months. During the summer it will go to smaller points in the area.

The front end of the car is divided into three parts: Two waiting rooms and an emergency room. The back end has living quarters including a kitchen, sitting room and bathroom.

The nursing station belongs to the Canadian National Railways and at one time operated in Northern Ontario. This spring it was sent to Manitoba where it has been checked and re-equipped to service the 500-mile strip between The Pas and Churchill. Cost of administration will be shared by the Manitoba Red Cross and the provincial department of health.

SLOAN'S BACK—Mrs. Sloan Simpson, ex-wife of William O'Dwyer, former U.S. Ambassador to Mexico and ex-Mayor of New York, arrives back in the U.S. aboard the liner America. Although she still considers herself married in the eyes of the Catholic Church, she says she no longer wants to be known as Mrs. O'Dwyer.

6—In Memoriam

BOUCHER—In loving memory of Mrs. Edward Boucher, who passed away Sept. 4, 1945.
In our hearts your memory lingers
Sweetly tender, fond and true.
There is not a day dear mother
That we do not think of you.
—Sadly missed by daughters Jean and Julia, son-in-law Pat and grandchildren.

YOUNG—In loving meory of my darling wife, Gladys Maud, who passed away one year ago Sept. 4th, 1952.
I lost my soul's companion,
A life linked with my own,
And day by day I miss her more
As I walk through life alone.
—Lovingly remembered by husband Ernest E.

YOUNG—In loving memory of a dear mother.
Two dear bright eyes, a tender smile,
A loving heart that knew no guile.
Deep trust in God that all was right,
Her joy to make some other bright.
If sick or suffering one she knew
Some gentle act of love she'd do
No thought of self, but of "the other."
We know He said "Well done, dear mother."
—Ever remembered by son and daughter-in-law Alan and Madeleine.

or a grouping of small ones.

If the large girl is overweight, not merely big-boned, she must avoid the round pin and let it be angled. An overweight girl does well to keep her pin away down from chin and shoulders.

BRACELETS FLATTER

Your arms and hands may be slender and tapered or plump and squared-off. There's a bracelet flatterer for you in either case. Slender arms wear many bracelets nicely, wide and closely fitting, sometimes on two arms at once. If your arms are very long, don't wear above-elbow bracelets, no matter how much the rage they are. For broad arms wear no more than two at the same time, on one arm only. Wear them low, loose and slender.

One well-known jewellery firm has a wide range of styles available to which new ones are added each season. This firm suggests that you choose jewellery to suit your clothes, your life and your beauty needs, and never mind what "everyone" is wearing.

Farmer Shot; Hold Nephew For Murder

Arrested In Field Several Hours After Family Row

ERIN, Ont. —(CP)—A 46-year-old farmer, John Mackie, was shot through the head and heart during a family squabble early today. Police arrested Mackie's young nephew in a field several hours later and charged him with murder.

Mackie was shot to death at about 2 a. m. after a drinking session with the nephew, Jeffrey Robertson, 21, and Robertson's stepfather, Ross Overland. Police said Robertson, a crack shot in the reserve army, dashed into the woods during a heavy rain after the shooting.

At least 50 Ontario provincial police set up roadblocks and scoured bush country near this village, about 20 miles northeast of Guelph.

CONVERGED ON AREA

Police converged on the area soon after the shooting was reported. A heavy rain was falling as they fanned out over the heavily-wooded and marshy farmland, carrying shotguns and walkie-talkies.

Police said there were five persons in the farm home, just east of here, when the shooting broke out. In addition to Mackie and Robertson, they were the youth's mother, Mrs. Ross Overland, and his stepfather, and a cousin, Fred Overland, 20. Mrs. Overland is Mackie's sister.

IN BLACK MOOD

Police quoted Ross Overland, 55, as saying Mackie was in a "black mood" when he came home Friday night. They said Overland told them:

"He (Mackie) rushed into the living room and then came out to the kitchen without saying anything. Jeffrey went into the living room and noticed that a television set he had bought recently for the family had disappeared from the room. And then it all happened with terrific suddenness.

"Jeffrey grabbed for a .22 rifle hanging in the hallway. Mackie backed toward the rear kitchen door and Jeffrey fired at him. As the man went down, Jeffrey fired again. Then he stayed for a brief moment before running out of the house, still carrying the rifle."

RCAF Jets Panic French Town

NICE (AP)—Two RCAF Sabrejet fighters broke the sound barrier at 36,000 feet today and caused a near panic in this French Riviera city.

Vibrations from the noise of the Canadian planes broke windows in several parts of the city and shook the roof of the Simca automobile plant so badly that the supports are weakened.

Firemen were called by frightened residents of several sections of Nice who thought there had been a gas explosion.

Authorities announced they are contemplating a ban on sound barrier breaking in Sunday's air show in which the RCAF planes are to take part.

Florence Chadwick To Retire This Year

DOVER, England (Reuters)—Florence Chadwick, 33, new English channel record holder, announced today she will retire from distance swimming this season.

She said today she will quit after attempting the Straits of Gibraltar, the Dardanelles and the Bosphorus in the next two months.

"When I've made those swims I'll have conquered everything I want to conquer without resorting to stunts," she said. "That's the way I want it to be.

"I consider long-distance swimming a sport. I'm an athlete and I want to stay that way."

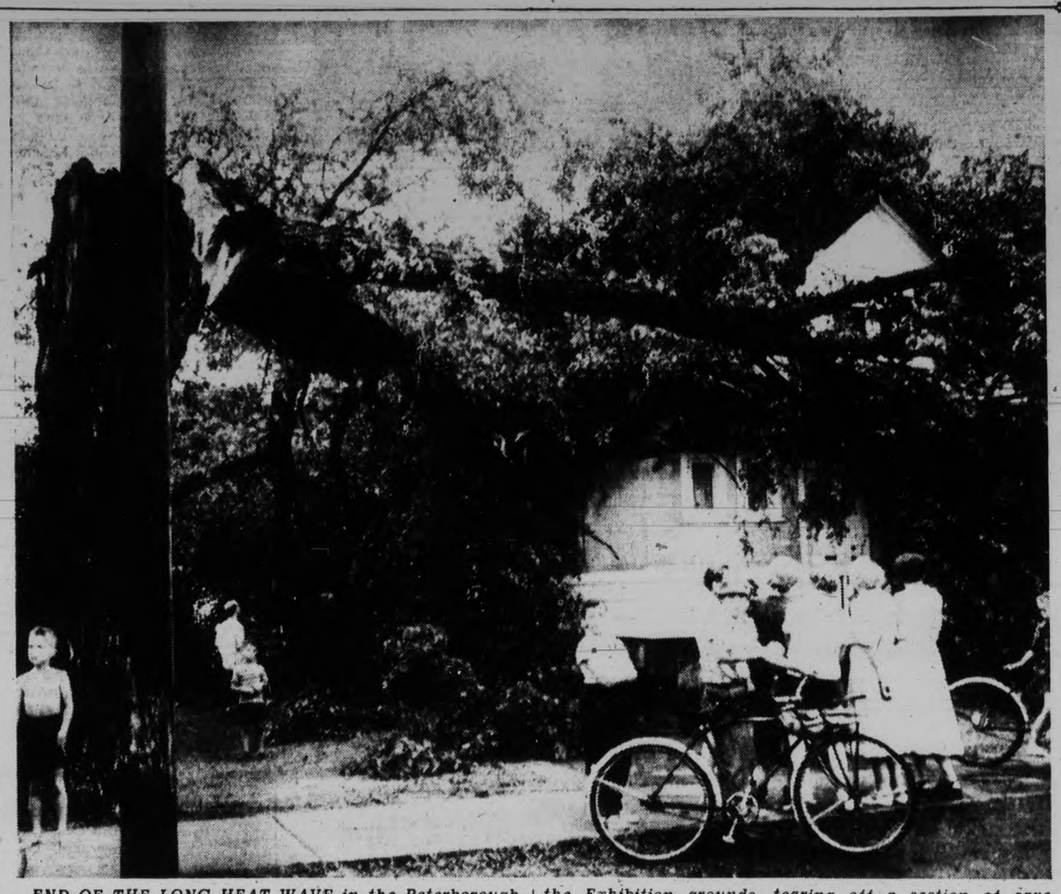
The San Diego athlete swam the 20-mile channel Friday in 14 hours and 43 minutes—an England-to-France record.

Test Pilot Ready To Attempt Record

LONDON (Reuters)—Test pilot Neville Duke, who came within an ace of setting an air speed record Monday, will probably make an official attempt on the world record Sunday.

He made several practice runs in his supersonic Hawker Hunter jet fighter today.

His fastest run so far—722 mph—was recorded while he was warming up on pre-trial run Monday.



END OF THE LONG HEAT WAVE in the Peterborough district came with a sudden storm and driving wind causing considerable property damage. A 50-foot elm tree was broken off 12 feet above the ground and struck the corner of Robert McCuaig's house at 248 Lansdowne St., opposite the Exhibition grounds, tearing off a section of eavestroughing, ripping the facia-board and shingles. Dozens of trees and branches were blown down in the city, cutting off electricity and blocking streets to traffic.

Will Send Eggs Over Falls In Big Barrel

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—Some day next week eight eggs, each encased in foam rubber, are scheduled to go over Niagara Falls in a barrel.

There's a precedent. Two brothers, Frank and Ed Candler of nearby Thorold, have already sent eggs on the cataract trip on two previous occasions. The first time two of 14 eggs were broken when the barrel was recovered, the second time they didn't find the barrel.

The trip is necessary, say the brothers, who designed the barrel, because it may indicate whether a human being could safely make the trip in a similar but larger barrel. If the eggs survive, presumably a human would, too.

Frank Candler looked startled when a reporter asked him if he himself had any ideas of going over the falls.

"I'll just stick to eggs," he said. "I'll be happy if they end up intact."

He's fairly sure they will. The other day he hoisted the barrel to the roof of a barn and pushed it off. None of the eggs broke.

They're individually wrapped, then encased in foam rubber inside an inner steel barrel which in turn is surrounded by foam rubber inside an outer barrel. Both barrels are of heavy steel.

Milk Deliveries Resumed

TORONTO (CP)—A spokesman for 13 of the 14 major dairies in the Toronto area announced that milk deliveries of all companies will be made today but said milk drivers may be from two to four hours late. The announcement was made after an all-night session between the Toronto local of the Milk Drivers' Union (AFL-TLC) and company officials. During the meeting, the company persuaded the drivers not to strike until negotiations are resumed between the union and Labor Minister Daley next Tuesday. In negotiations last Thursday union officials said the men would stay on the job at least over the Labor Day weekend.

Thomas Lees, president of the Toronto local, said a few drivers started the wildcat strike.

"They took things into their own hands," he commented.

Picket lines were set up at Acme Farmers Dairy and Borden's Dairy early this morning. However, union officials persuaded the men to go back to work.

The dairies contend they can grant wage increases sought by the union only by increasing the price of milk from its present 22 cents a quart and by eliminating Wednesday deliveries. The union opposes milkless Wednesdays on the grounds they would eventually lead to loss of jobs of some workers.

Tension Mounts Both Sides Of Italy-Yugoslav Border

ROME (AP) — Tension mounted on both sides of the Italian-Yugoslav border today as the two countries glared at each other across a pile of diplomatic protests involving the bitter Trieste dispute. Belgrade threatened Friday—in its fourth protest in three days—to rush its own tough troops to the Italian border unless Italy halted "provocative" manoeuvres there.

Rome replied Friday night that Italian forces had taken only "precautionary and protective measures." The Italian note, however, did not describe these measures.

With the final word thus far in the seven-day flareup of the old quarrel, Italy scoffed at Yugoslavia's "pretended frontier incidents." Rome said even if the incidents were true they seemed "of very modest nature" for so much hullabaloo.

FEARS NOT DISPELLED

On the other hand, said the Italian foreign ministry, it has heard nothing from Belgrade to dispel Italy's fears that Yugoslavia plans to annex the Yugoslav occupation zone of Trieste by force.

The adriatic frontier region, long disputed between Italy and Yugoslavia, now is an international free territory divided into two zones pending a settlement of its future. British and U. S. troops occupy one section, including the port, and Yugoslavia administers the other.

Projectile Tests Start In '54

OTTAWA (CP)—Regular projectile tests are expected to start early next year at Canada's new $35,000,000 guided missile range in northeastern Alberta, it was learned Friday.

More than 1,000 construction workers have been pushing the job at the remote airfield and campsite through the summer in a race to get the major portion of construction finished before winter. By the end of October, 24 of the 45 main buildings planned are expected to be turned over to the RCAF.

The 4,000-square-mile project is regarded by the air force and defence research board as highly secret and few details have been divulged.

What will be tested will be the type of air-to-air guided missiles fired near here last week for the first time by a Sabre jet fighter.

Wants Prayers To Save Duke

LONGHOPE, England (Reuters)—The rector of this tiny village wants prayers offered to show the Duke of Edinburgh the error of his ways in playing games on Sunday.

Rev. Stephen Edward Pulford also suggests that Archbishop Geoffrey Fisher of Canterbury, head of the Church of England, have a "fatherly talk" with the Duke on the subject.

In his parish magazine, Rev. Pulford says it would be a sorry day for England if the country accepted Sunday sport.

"It is therefore all the more to be regretted that the Duke of Edinburgh should persist in indulging in Sunday sport in defiance of what he must know to be a cause of very real grief to multitudes of his wife's loyal subjects," he says.

"The fact that it may be a good cause or that he may have attended church earlier in the day is no justification for violating the fourth commandment afterwards. It undoubtedly gives a handle to those who are ever seeking excuses for secularizing the Lord's day.

Strengthen Security Plans To Protect Jet Secrets

FARNBOROUGH, England (Reuters)—Elaborate security arrangements will protect the secrets of Britain's latest supersonic jet fighters and atom bombers when they go through their paces at the big annual air show opening here Monday.

Equally stringent safety precautions will be taken to prevent the recurrence of a tragedy like that which marred the 1952 show. Last year a de Havilland 110 fighter broke up in mid-air after crashing the sound barrier, killing pilot, observer and 28 spectators.

Scores of security police will scour the airfield, watching for possible spies trying to photograph secret planes with telescopic long-range cameras or with miniature short-range cameras.

Many of the planes which will fly in the week-long display are in the "hush-hush" class, and are in super-priority production for the RAF.

Other special security guards will watch over three atomic bombers—the Avro triangular-wing Vulcan, the Vickers swept-wing Valiant and the Handley Page crescent-wing Victor. The Victor's makers claim it can fly faster and farther non-stop than any other four-jet bomber, while carrying a big load.

The Society of British Aircraft Constructors, which organizes the show, is determined to keep the display free of serious accidents like the one which claimed the life of test pilot John Derry last year.

All pilots have been forbidden to take off or land in the immediate vicinity of crowds in case an engine cuts out and causes the plane to swing in to the spectators.

Crowd barriers have been moved 100 feet farther back from the runway.

Huge crowds, including 5,000 overseas visitors from 90 countries, will watch demonstrations by all types of modern military and civilian planes.

Dynamite Blast Rips Tracks Near Penticton

PENTICTON, B. C. (CP)—A dynamite blast ripped the Canadian Pacific Railway line three miles from here early today and unofficial reports placed the blame on Sons of Freedom Doukhobors.

The explosion knocked out one rail and several ties, and scattered debris on the roof of a nearby dwelling.

It was the latest incident in a periodic series of track bombings and home-burnings blamed on the radical sect, whose some 2,000 members live mostly in the Kootenay area of interior B. C.

The blast on CPR's Kettle valley line did not disrupt train schedules. A train had passed shortly after midnight. The track was repaired before the first regular westbound passenger train arrived.

Missing Jet Flier Walks Out Of Woods

TOKYO (AP)—A flier missing after Friday's six jet crashes "walked out of the woods" unharmed today as still another U. S. air force Sabre jet crashed in Hokkaido, injuring the pilot.

The Far East air force said the missing man, one of six pilots caught in a violent storm in southwestern Japan Friday, apparently bailed out of his F-86 Sabre over the wild mountains of Kyushu Island.

The Hokkaido crash today involved another Sabre jet. The air force said the pilot made a crash landing at Obihiro on the Northern Island. The plane was badly damaged and the pilot suffered a back injury.

Wind, Rain Ends Heat Wave

Report Heavy Damage In W. Ontario; Hope Fruit Saved

TORONTO (CP)—A blistering 12-day heat wave in central Canada ended Friday night with the arrival of cool air and showers. The Labor Day weekend forecast calls for cloudy and cool weather in most areas today and probably sunny skies Sunday.

Rain, high winds and thunderstorms swept across southern Ontario, singly and in combination, putting an end to the steamy weather that had settled over most of the continent from the Rocky Mountains to the St. Lawrence river.

After day upon day of mid-90 temperatures—in Toronto Sept. 2 the mercury hit 100—the break came swiftly as the cool air moved eastward. The temperature at Windsor plunged in four hours from 90 to 62, while Toronto reported a dip from 90 to 72 in five hours.

DOWN TO 47 DEGREES

At 10 p.m. Friday, White River in northern Ontario had a cool 47 degrees.

In Western Ontario the storms that broke the heat wave ripped roofs off barns, toppled trees and tore down hydro lines while lightning fired several barns containing the season's crops.

A windstorm at Toronto damaged grandstand scenery and blew down decorations at the Canadian National Exhibition, where the scorching weather held down attendance during the first week of the big fair.

More than 20 trees were blown down near Peterborough, one landing on an automobile and another on a house.

A sprinkle of rain in the Delhi district of southwestern Ontario was believed too little to save the drought-threatened $5,000,000 tobacco crop.

HOPE RAIN CONTINUES

Elsewhere, fruit growers and farmers expressed hope the rain would continue long enough to refresh their parched crops. Fruit has been reported ripening rapidly and prematurely.

Heavy rain struck the North Bay district, helping firefighters grappling with numerous forest blazes.

UN Hands Reds List Of PoW's

PANMUNJOM (AP)—The UN command today handed the Communists a list of men known to have been captured and in custody but who have not yet been liberated.

The Reds were told that if "any of these men have not been returned" by theh end of Operation Big Switch Sunday, "we shall ask for an explanation. . . ."

The UN command added: "These persons have been identified as prisoners of war through your own reports, through broadcasts of your radio stations, through the supported statements of our repatriates and from letters these men have mailed while in your camps."

The Reds told the UN at the meeting of the committee for repatriation of prisoners of war today they would "repatriate all the captured personnel in our custody" who want to be sent home by Sunday.

Lansdowne St. Area Hardest Hit; Power Wires Cut

The record heat wave came to a spectacular end in Peterborough about 6:30 p.m. Friday when wind of high velocity struck the city and district bringing down several trees and doing considerable damage. Hydro and telephone wires were cut by falling trees and branches. There was a power shortage for some time in the Ashburnham and northern sections and telephone and electric service was cut in some areas. A car and two houses were also struck by falling trees.

Dozens of trees were reported to have cut hydro wires in rural sections and the electricity was off for from three to three and a half hours in some cases.

The wind was followed by a brief driving rainstorm. Hours later a steady fall of rain began and was still falling this morning. Total rainfall reported at the city filtration plant up to 9 a.m. today was .96 inches. The temperature this morning had fallen to 59 degrees from a high of 91 on Friday.

LANSDOWNE AREA BAD

The fury of the storm in the city appeared to have centered in the southern and eastern sections. On Lansdowne St., a car and a house were struck by falling trees. No injuries were reported.

Ken Anderson, 339 Burnham St., was just driving out of the driveway at the Borden dairy at Sherbourne and Lansdowne Sts. and had headed east when a 50-foot basswood tree snapped off about 20 feet from the ground and fell on the car, carrying hydro wires with it.

Mr. Anderson scrambled out of the door through the mass of foliage and tangle of hot wires but was uninjured. The trunk and right side of the car were battered, the windshield broken and the roof was dented.

A 100-foot elm tree was broken off 12 feet from the ground and struck the south-west corner of a house belonging to Robert McCuaig, 248 Lansdowne St., opposite Exhibition Park. A section of the eavestrough was ripped off but the roof was apparently not penetrated.

The major portion of the tree missed the house, crashing to the ground beside it.

CUTS PHONE SERVICE

The tree which struck Mr. Anderson's car sheared the telephone wire, interrupting service on Lansdowne St. from Sherburne St. east to the river and on the smaller adjacent streets.

Telephone service was also interrupted on a short stretch of Ware St. near the entrance to Little Lake cemetery, when a 35-foot soft maple on the south side of the street split near the ground and a large portion fell across the street, cutting the wires on the opposite side. Both breaks were repaired by 2:30 a.m. today.

A large tree on Crawford's Grove road, near the south end of Monaghan Rd., fell across the telephone feeder line, affecting all rural subscribers as far as Springville.

On Highway 7, about three miles northwest of the city, five

95% Of Buildings Destroyed In 'Quake

ATHENS (AP)—The Greek government said today an official count showed that 95 per cent of the buildings on the three earthquake-devastated Ionian islands have collapsed or are damaged beyond repair.

The islands, Zakinthos, Kefallinia and Ithaca, were rocked last month by a wave of violent tremors that killed an estimated 1,000 persons and injured hundreds of others.

Bush Travel Ban Lifted After Rains

TORONTO (CP)—Rains lashed across the burning forests of Northern Ontario this morning, drenched 2,500 firefighters and 111 fires and prompted the lifting of restrictions on bush travel.

The downpours were a welcome sight to firefighters, battling the worst rash of fires in the province in 25 years. Travel restrictions were lifted in the areas of Sudbury, North Bay and Pembroke.

The hazard is not yet ended, but one forester fighting the 4,250-acre blaze in Gladman township, near North Bay, said the rain gave firefighters "their big chance."

At least five fires raged out of control in the North Bay area before the rains.

FIRES IN CHECK

E. L. Ward, district forester at North Bay, said his men have all fires in check. Wide firebreaks were burned in the paths of the two biggest fires, in Gladman and in McCallum townships.

The McCallum township blaze has destroyed 2,850 acres of white birch stands.

Officials of the lands and forests department warned that unless there is a great deal of rain in the resort areas during the Labor Day week-end, cottage owners with a pile of summer rubbish to burn should wait until later in the fall or even next spring. Otherwise, they said, there is a chance of starting more forest fires.

A department official said the firefighters will not depend on the rain to put out any of the blazes. It will help keep new ones from starting, but in those already blazing the rain often only dampens the tree tops and leaves the fire to burn freely lower down.

A forestry pilot flying over the Gladman township fire reported

National Level Meeting Asked

TIMMINS (CP)—C. H. Millard, Canadian director of the United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL), today appealed for a meeting on a national level between his union and the mining industry.

Mr. Millard in a letter released here asked Premier Leslie Frost of Ontario to use his good offices in bringing about such a meeting. The appeal was made while a violence-marked strike was in progress between a union local and three Timmins district gold mines.

Mr. Millard took note of what he said was the united front the mining industry has presented in denying his union's demands and promised the union would bring no fixed formula to such a meeting.

He said he would telephone Wednesday for Mr. Frost's answer or alternative proposals. This was so a union decision could be made regarding the Timmins situation at the Sept. 10 national policy conference of the steelworkers at Montreal.

Trying To Outscore Russia

Eisenhower Grants Iran $45,000,000

DENVER (AP) — President Eisenhower today granted the new government of Iran $45,000,000 in emergency economic aid in an obvious move to prevent any Iranian alignment with Russia.

The president acted just 10 days after Prime Minister Fazollah Zahedi appealed to him for swift assistance, saying Iran's treasury was empty and that money was needed urgently to enable the country "to emerge from a state of economic and financial chaos."

Last Tuesday Eisenhower made public a reply assuring Zahedi the United States would give "sympathetic consideration" to his appeal.

Today the summer White House issued this statement:

"In response to a request for urgent assistance from the new government of Iran, the president has made available on an emergency basis 45 million dollars which will be used for the immediate economic assistance of Iran in accordance with the procedures of the foreign operations administration under the Mutual Security Act.

"This amount is in addition to existing United States technical assistance and military programs in Iran.

"There is great need for immediate assistance to restore a measure of stability and establish a foundation for greater economic development and improvement in the living standards for all the people of Iran.

"It is hoped that, with our assistance, there will be an increase in the internal stability of Iran which will allow the development of a healthy economy to which an early effective use of Iran's rich resources will contribute."

That was a clear reference to Iranian oil and the dispute with Great Britain which has shut off the supply, despite U.S. efforts to help arrange a settlement.

Shortly after Iranian royalists overthrew the government of Prime Minister Mossadegh Aug. 17 and returned Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlevi to power, the shah said Iran was broke, had to have immediate financial aid and was willing to accept it from any country, including Russia.

A few days later Zahedi appealed to Eisenhower for aid. The promptness with which the president responded underscored the importance the U.S. attaches to keeping Iran and its rich oil deposits out of the Soviet orbit.

Iran now is receiving $23,400,000 in technical assistance in addition to the new grant of $45,000,000 in emergency economic aid.

Hot Election Campaign Winding Up

Resentful Germans Go To Polls During Weekend

BONN, Germany —(AP)— West Germany's national election campaign wound up today as 33,000,000 voters prepared to cast ballots in what looked to the outside world like a contest between Russia and the United States.

To the average German, however, there was no clear-cut east-west choice such as recent Moscow and Washington statements would seem to imply.

The United States, through State Secretary Dulles, gave its blessing Thursday to Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's pro-Western conservative coalition government.

Russia, through the official news agency Tass, called Friday night for the defeat of Adenauer and his program of rearmament in alliance with the West.

German voters who decide the issue in Sunday's parliamentary voting—perhaps the most significant election in postwar Europe—could point out that both parties with any chance of winning are anti-Communist. The opposition Socialists are just as strongly opposed to Moscow as Adenauer's Christian Democrats.

DIFFERENCE IN POLICY

But to the outside world the difference was this:

The triumph of the 77-year-old chancellor's Christian Democrats would commit West Germany to his program of raising German troops for the proposed West European army, a projct the United States supports.

The Socialist victory, however, would bring in a policy of unarmed neutrality in the cold war, which Moscow demands.

For most Germans, however, the main question was: which policy offers the most hope of achieving that all-German dream of reuniting both the Soviet-occupied east zone and West Germany in peace and freedom?

Tass said Friday night that the moment Adenauer achieves his goal of a Western military alliance "it will become impossible to revive the unity of Germany."

Dulles said Adenauer's defeat would be disastrous for the prospects of German unification.

The Socialists jumped on Dulles' statement with such fury that it became the hottest issue of all in the closing days of the campaign.

They accused the American state secretary of "intolerable" interference in German domestic affairs and charged he not only was trying to dictate to German voters but also was attempting to torpedo next month's proposed four-power conference on Germany's future.

Socialist leaders claimed—and some American officials privately conceded this possibility—that German resentment of foreign "dictation" would react against Adenauer rather than for him.

The chancellor's supporters, however, continued to express confidence that Adenauer would triumph.

Audience of One

MIDDLETOWN, Conn. (AP)—Crooner Eddie Fisher is coming to Middletown Thursday to sing for an audience of one—a five-year-old boy who is dying of cancer. Mayor Stephen K. Bailey arranged it after reading a newspaper story about Norris Estes. Five-year-old Norris, too weak to run and play, spends almost all his waking hours watching television or listening to the radio. And in his opinion, the exploits of cowboys and spacemen run a poor second to the voice of Eddie Fisher.

Albion Downs Rival Hotspurs 3-0

LONDON (Reuters)—West Bromwich Albion continued its winning race to head the first Division of the Football Association League, defeating Tottenham Hotspurs, its nearest rival, 3-0 today.

This gives the Albion a clear three-point lead over four teams on the eight-point mark — Tottenham, Wolverhampton, Blackpool and Burnley.

Wolverhampton scored one of its rare wins over Arsenal at Highbury 3-2. Arsenal, league champion which has yet to win a match this season, now is alone at the bottom of the table with two pints. muh, pulled way from the cellar with a 2-1 home win over Aston Villa. Manchester United lost 2-0 to its arch-rival, Manchester City.

Arsenal, Portsmouth and Manchester U have shared five of the last six championships, but their combined point total so far this year is only nine, placing all three among the last half dozen at the bottom of the table.

The fabulous Sunderland aggregation, which has had $300,000 spent on its forward line this year, is keeping them company at the lower levels with three points.

Doncaster Rovers whipped Hull City 4-1 to increase their lead of Division II with 11 points. Second place Everton drew at Bury 2-2 and now are two points behind the Rovers.

Also on the nine mark are West Ham United, which beat its London neighbor, Fulham, 3-1, and Notts Forest, which overcame Rotherham 4-1.

Oldham Athletics, held to a 1-1 tie by Plymouth, F Fulham and Hull now share bottom place, each with three points.

Brighton and Hove Albion dropped its first point of the season in holding Gilingham to a scoreless deadlock in a Division III (southern) fixture. The Brighton crew was the only team of the 92 in the league with a perfect record before today.

Ipswich beat Leyton Orient 3-1 to join Brighton at the top of the southern heap with 11 points each.

Port Vale beat Hartlepool 3-1 to head the northern section with 10 points. Southport also won 4-3 over Scunthorpe United to claim second place with nine points.

telephone poles were sheared off at the base affecting service to Fowler's Corners. Service had been partially restored today.

Only minor breaks in long-distance circuits were reported by the Bell Telephone Co. All major circuits are working today.

HYDRO SERVICE CUT

Rural hydro service was interrupted over a wide area as a result of 25 breaks in the line caused by falling trees and limbs. About 10 poles were broken off.

Most extensive damage to rural hydro lines was on Highway 7, northeast of the city, east of the Chemong turn, cutting off power on Highway 7, north of the city, in Bridgenorth and in the Lake Chemong area.

Several trees fell on the line along Highway 7A, west of Highway 28, and extensive damage was done to the line at the Department of Transport property near Nassau Mills.

STORM GANGS OUT

The rural hydro office has had a gang of 20 men working continuously since the storm and all the major line damage had been repaired by noon today. Power was still cut off to a few isolated users and it was hoped to have these restored by this evening.

Minutes after the storm, gangs of workmen from the Peterborough Utilities Commission and the city parks department were out making repairs.

Power to sections of Ashburnham was cut off for about a hour when a limb fell across the line on Armour Rd. Before it could be repaired, power had to be shut off in the 44,000-volt feeder line, darkening a section of the northern part of the city for about half an hour.

Most of the parks department workmen were busy until midnight, clearing the streets of fallen limbs and trees. All streets were open to traffic by midnight but it is expected it will take a couple of days to clear all the debris.

BRINGS DOWN LIGHT

On Lake St., just east of Aylmer St., a 15-foot branch from a soft maple blew off, 40 feet from the ground, bringing down a street light with it and dragging the pole into the crotch of the tree.

Simcoe St. was blocked at Park St. by a fallen tree and Weller St. was blocked, half-way up the hill near Civic Hospital. A 135 Hunter St., a 30-foot limb fell on the corner of a house, bending the eavestrough. The limb was not completely detached from the tree and a car parked beneath it was not damaged. McDonnell St. at Water St. was also blocked by a falling tree.

A tree fell across the corner of a cottage belonging to Jim Withers, next to Delhaven Park on the west shore of Lake Chemong, doing slight damage. At the other end of the cottage, Mr. Withers had been building an addition, about 12 by 16 feet. The framework was smashed to the ground by the wind.

SKIRTS LINDSAY

The storm skirted the edge of Lindsay where little damage was done. A tree was hurled across the road at Durham St. W. and there was a brief interruption of telephone and Hydro service.

Several trees were uprooted near Oakwood, eight miles south-west of Lindsay. OPP from Lindsay and Peterborough unravelled a twisted mess of telephone and hydro wires at Fowler's Corners.

Property damage was not all that was left in the wake of the storm. In the minds of many people was the question of whether or not it had been a tornado, or at least the skirt of a twister.

When the storm struck, clouds of dust on George St. limited visibility to a few feet. One observer reported he had seen all four wheels of a parked car rise several inches off the ground. The report of a twister at Kendall in Durham county would seem to indicate it was no ordinary windstorm.

Choir Boys Given Books To Read

LEICESTER, Eng. (AP) The Rev. C. H. Whipp said Friday he has decided to face up to a chastening fact: His choir boys are bored by his sermons.

So he asked the congregation of St. James Anglican Church to provide the little angels with books to read while he is preaching.

Balloon House To Be Brought To Canada

VANCOUVER (CP)—The "balloon house" developed in the United States is about to come to Canada.

Eugene Buyan, who will live in it, has to get rid of a conventional four-walled place in San Francisco first. At 43, he is vice-president of a construction company which has been going round the world blowing up over-sized balloons, spraying concrete over them, deflating them and leaving the solid shell standing ready for a family to mov in.

"We won't do actual construction. We will just provide the forms, equipment and know-how," said Mr. Buyan.

"It's not suitable for city houses where everyone wants individuality, but for rural areas, oil fields, boom towns or any place where mass-produced shelter is needed, it's ideal."

He said he would aim at building grain storage facilities, warehouses, industrial and commercial buildings wherever needed.

In his home to be built here next spring there will be balloon plastic forms used for 1,000 feet of living-room, dining room and kitchn. The other 4,000 feet of house will be "square" and of conventional construction.

Tension Mounts

Exchanges between Italy and Yugoslavia over the issue have grown more bitter in the last few days despite expressions of confidence by leaders of both countries that the new flareup would not lead to anything critical. Western diplomats have urged a policy of calm.

Yugoslavia charged this week that Italian engineers were digging trenches and building pillboxes along the border and Italian tanks were massing at Goritza, not far across the frontier from the Yugoslavia village of Okrajaglica where Yugoslav President Tito is to speak Sunday.

Italian fear that Tito would use the occasion to announce annexation of the Yugoslav-controlled zone of Trieste touched off the latest controversy.

Americans, British Claim Distinction Of Having Thought Up Word 'Gimmick'

LONDON (Reuters)— — Who thought up the word "gimmick," the Americans or the British?

The British, two Englishmen said today in letters to The Evening Standard.

The first one claimed that a British advertising writer overheard a Cockey say, "Gimme an idea," and parlayed it into the word "gimmick."

The second one said Britain's Magic Circle organization invented the word to describe tricks done by a magician.

(The 1934 edition of Webster's dictionary says the word is definitely American, derived from "gimcrack," the secret gadget used to control the prize wheel at sideshows.

(The Matthews dictionary of Americanisms says the word was first noticed in a newspaper in the United States in 1928. Originally it meant a small device crookedly used.)

Fear Imports Of U.S. Gas Will Kill Canadian Route

OTTAWA (CP) — The feeling among some federal officials is that imports of United States gas into Toronto would virtually "kill" the economic feasibility of developing an all-Canadian route for Alberta natural gas.

And a federal resources expert says the government will have to make up its mind quickly as to whether it will protect the eastern Canadian market for western gas or else scrap its declared policy of supporting an all-Canadian line.

The move that has stirred federal officials is the decision by the United States federal power commission to allow the Tennessee Gas Transmission Co. of Houston, Tex., to transport natural gas from the southwestern U.S. to the Canadian border for resale in Toronto.

Toronto is considered to be one of the big eastern Canadian markets for natural gas. It may be able to use more than 22 billion cubic feet a year, valued at about $12,000,000.

"Knock out a $12,000,000 eastern market for western gas and you just can't make a profitable thing out of a cross-country line," the official said.

However, officials of the Consumers' Gas Co. at Toronto say they expect first delivery of gas from Texas by November next year.

At best it is not considered likely that an all-Canadian line from Alberta would be in operation before 1956. At the moment, at least three companies are in the race for Alberta approval of their applications for gas export licences.

The big question in the meantime is what position the federal government should take on the American imports. Federal officials feel the government could block imports altogether through a special order-in-council or through an act of Parliament.

Or it could make some agreement to allow the American gas in temporarily until the all-Canadian line reaches eastern Canada.

But it does not seem likely to federal officials that American interests would agree to go to all the expense of building a pipeline into Toronto if that line were to be allowed to operate for a few years only.

The entire situation places the cabinet in a tight spot. It meets Wednesday for its second post-election session and it appears likely that the entire gas issue may be thrashed out then or soon thereafter.

Cheese, Produce And Livestock

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG (CP)—Prices showed a fairly steady undertone in dull trading on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange Friday.

Overseas reports said Japan had taken 12 cargoes of Canadian wheat totalling about 3,700,000 bushels, presumbly under the International Wheat Agreement. Japan also was said to have bought a cargo of barley. Small parcels of barley also went to the United Kingdom.

There was U.S. shipping demand in oats and odd processing orders in flax. U.S. interests appeared on both sides of rye trade. Export loadings of wheat overnight included: Belgium, 700,000 bushels, Switzerland 375,000 and Peru 365,000.

Wheat Export Reaches Peak

WINNIPEG (CP) — The board of grain commissioners for Canada said Friday export of Canadian wheat for the 1952-53 crop year reached a peak.

The actual figure—more than 329,000,000 bushels — was exceeded in the 1928-29 year but changed methods of recording and new definitions of exports make the two figures non-comparable.

The last crop year's total was 304,700,000, eight per cent below the new level.

The United Kingdom topped the importers of Canadian wheat "as usual," said the board statement. She took delivery of 102,000,000 bushels, compared to 108,800,000 the previous year. Other major importers, with the previous year's figures in brackets, were: federal republic of Germany 24,100,000 bushels (15,800,000); United States 22,900,000 (38,700,00); Belgium 2,-00 (11,90,00).

Catches Strange Fish On Beach With Broom

BOURNEMOUTH, England (CP) R. M. Pike today caught a fish with a broom.

Pike was on the beach when he spotted a funny-looking creature ploshing in the waves. He grabbed a broom from a street-cleaner nearby and swept the thing onto the sand.

It turned out to be a semi-tropical sea porcupine which had strayed into the chilly English channel by mistake. It weighed just over a pound and was immediately put on ice so naturalists could later give it the once-over.

PETERBOROUGH UTILITIES COMMISSION

See Helicopter Service Growing In B.C.

VANCOUVER (CP)—British Columbia aviation circles are whirling with the talk of helicopters to solve the transportation problems of a rugged province.

Forecast that rotor-propelled aircraft may be handling the bulk of short-distance air travl in B.C. within five years closely followed an announcement by Canadian Pacific Airlines president Grant McConachie that helicopters soon will be servicing wider and wider aras of the northern bush country.

D. J. McGugan, chairman of the lower mainland regional planning board, in a 41-page report released Friday, urged immediate construction of helicopter terminals in downtown Vancouver for inter-city service and went on to say:

SPECTACULAR DEVELOPMENT

"The most spectacular new development of the air age is surely the helicopter—its possibilitis afford an enthralling subject for speculation, for they could not only bring about a minor revolution in suburban and inter-city transportation, but would also bring with them a number of new problems in city development."

The board said "speedier intercourse could be established between Greater Vancouver and such centres as Victoria, Seattle, Nanaimo and Fraser valley towns."

Recreation areas opened up by helicopter service would include Garibaldi Park and the lakes north of the Fraser river—Pitt, Stave, Alouette and Harrison.

HAVE 5 YEARS

"We have five years in which to make provision for adequate stations for inter-city traffic and it seems likely that ultimately such stations will be as important as railroad stations and bus terminals. A rooftop landing space could be located right in the heart of the downtown area."

Mr. McConachie predicted, in address to the annual convention of Associated Boards of Trade of central B. C., in session at northern Burns lake, that helicopter passenger service for the roadless northland would follow as soon as equipment is perfected and available.

Already, on such heavy industrial jobs as th aluminum project at Kitimat, B. C., the whirling, wingless aircraft are used for packing supplies to mountain-tops, ferrying officials on inspection trips, ambulances and are referred to as "the jeep of the air."

RAINMAKERS—Although these women don't realize it, they were rainmakers. You have to be superstitious to believe that. They were using the umbrellas Friday to keep the hot rays from the sun from melting them away. But it wasn't two hours later that they probably were using them to keep the rain off their heads for a windy electrical storm swept across the district, ripping down hydro and telephone wires, causing barn fires and uprooting trees. It also cooled the air down considerably. Maybe the women should have carried their umbrellas earlier and nipped the heat wave before it started.—(Examiner Staff Photo).

Children Back At School In Record-Breaking Numbers

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Canadian children are returning to school this year in record-breaking numbers.

Most schools open Sept. 8. In some provinces they have already opened their doors for the fall term. New buildings have been erected, but some overcrowding is still anticipated.

There is a general shortage of teachers across Canada and several education departments say they have little hope of obtaining them in time for the term opening. Few curricula changes will be in effect although some provinces have some definite plans. The supply of text books is good, a Canadian Press survey today showed.

POLIO OUTBREAK

The outbreak of polio in Manitoba has held up school openings in Winnipeg until Sept. 14, but rural schools have already started. Although none is seriously overcrowded, several are on the borderline. They are also short of about 450 to 500 teachers.

Ontario will have its biggest year in history with 900,000 pupils enrolled in elementary and secondary schools, an increase of 60,000 over last year. About 170 new schools have been built in the last year and 2,300 new teachers will start their careers. In spite of the teacher shortage, emergency measures have enabled the province to meet the crisis and not one school will have to be closed because of a lack of staff.

Some British Columbia schools will be operated on shifts as 10,000 new students swell the enrolment to a record 214,000. Supply of teachers is tight, but no general shortage is expected. Worst crowding will be in the elementary schools as a result of the province's population growth and in a few years it is expected to swing over to the secondary schools. Curricula changes are planned, but the education department is expected to set up a committee to chart them.

Polio incidence has also set back opening dates in Alberta to Sept. 11. Some congestion is expected in lower primary grades and the brunt of the teacher shortage expected to be more severe than last year when 200 were needed, will fall on the rural schools.

About 1,500 teachers are needed in Saskatchewan, the province's education authorities say, and if they are not available some 400 country schools will be forced to close. Pupils in these schools will have to travel by bus to larger centres. Enrolment is expected to be about 7,000.

Most of New Brunswick's estimated 1,000 to 1,500 increase in pupils will be in rural areas. Construction of new schools amounts to about 50 new classrooms and some 200 new teachers are needed.

Nova Scotia has reorganized some textbooks and is introducing a new series of mathematics text books for elementary grades. More than 150,000 students will enroll, an increase of more than 4,000.

Prince Edward Island's rural schools have already opened and officials say there are some serious problems of overcrowding in early grades.

In Newfoundland, most schools will be crowded. Teacher situation is uncertain, but there was a shortage last year.

Urges Good Relations With Roman Catholics

FORT WILLIAM (CP)—Rt. Rev. F. H. Wilkinson, a bishop of the Church of England in Canada, says the clergy and laity of the Anglican Church must seize every opportunity to establish "goodwill and friendly relations" with members of the Roman Catholic Church.

Bishop Wilkinson, chairman of the committee on Protestant-Roman Catholic relations, told the church's general synod Friday there is "emphatic evidence" that the Catholic Church is opposed to liturgical or ecclesiastical co-operation with Protestants.

He said the Catholic church is not prepared to co-operate "in any more intimate way than that of parallel lines in social work."

The committee blamed the Catholic Church for the elimination of any religious content in such services as those held on Remembrance Day or those in memory of King George VI.

CONSTANT PRESSURE

Provincial governments, the committee said, were under constant pressure from the Catholic Church either to establish separate schools or to give increasing support to those already established.

In the Province of Ontario and now more recently in British Columbia and New Brunswick, it has been necessary to watch this problem with an increasing concern," the committee said.

The committe said that unremitting pressure has been applied by the Catholic Church on the federal government to appoint a Canadian envoy to the Vatican. The opposition of the Inter-Church Committee on Protestant-Roman Catholic Relations and the Canadian Council of Churches, however, has had much influence with the government, it added.

WOULD GIVE WHEAT

A gift of at least 50,000,000 bushels of Canada's wheat crop to the poor and hungry peoples of the world was proposed to the federal government Thursday by church leaders.

The proposal was approved by church delegates meeting here.

The idea was proposed by Canon R. K. Naylor of Montreal, who urged that some of this year's wheat crop be offered to needy countries, either as a gift or on some arrangements whereby payment would be made in part or at a later date regardless of the monetary barriers.

Attend Pharmacology Meet

By BOB JOYCE

MONTREAL (CP)—Some 600 of the 2,200 physiologists who attended the five-day 19th International Physiological Congress today travel to nearby Ste. Ann de Bellevue for a one-day conference of pharmacology.

The meeting is sponsored by the Canadian Physiological Society and the International Pharmacological Committee.

Pharmacology is concerned with the study of the effect of medicinal drugs on living beings.

The congress was officially closed Friday night by Dr. CHarles H. Best, president of the congress and of the newly-formed International Union of Physiological Sciences.

At the plenary session at the University of Montreal, Dr. Best announced the 20th international congress will be held in 1956, probably in Belgium.

SPECIAL CONVOCATION

The session was followed by a special convocation at which Paul-Emile Cardinal Leger, chancellor of the university, conferred honorary doctorates in medical science on Dr. A. D. Adrian of Cambridge, Eng., and Dr. Leon Benet of Paris. Dr. Benet, at present on a French government mission, was not present.

Earlier, standing on the stage in front of the massed flags of the 42 nations represented at the congress, Sir Henry Dale of London, head of Britain's wartime scientific advisory committee, said physiologists had developed "an unclouded spirit of international co-operation," at the congress.

During the day many delegates attended the two congress symposia on the thyroid gland and on the physiology of cold.

At a press conference Friday, Prof. Adrian said the most striking thing at the 19th congress was the development in new techniques made since the last congress in Copenhagen in 1950.

At the same conference, Dr. K. M. Bykov of the Pavlov Institute, Leningrad, leader of the Russian delegation, said he and his colleagues from the Soviet Union were specially interested in results of work being carrid out by Prof. Bugale at Laval University, Quebec. His group also hoped to visit laboratories at the University of Toronto before returning to Europe.

Dr. Bykov said he was well aware of results of research being done in Canada and the United States on the theory of conditioned reflexes, but he was sorry to see the Soviet work on the theory was not well known on this side of the Atlantic. He hoped the International Union of Physiological Scientists would take steps to make results of Canadian and United States research, as well as of Russian research, more widely known.

Asked what work was being done by Soviet physiologists on mental states, Prof. Bykov said Soviet scientists felt that the conditioned reflex theory provided great possibilities for studying material processes taking place in the brain. These processes were the foundation of thought.

He said knowledge gained by Soviet scientists in this field had found application in medicine, and, using conditioned reflex technique, Russian doctors had found a way of reducing high blood pressure. The origin of high blood pressure was being studied in Soviet laboratories in an attempt to find preventative techniques.

Need To Guide Industrial Expansion Now

TORONTO (CP)—The Canadian economy has never been better, but the country's rapid industrial expansion needs to be guided if Canadians want to avoid a frequently prophesied downswing, J. D. Ferguson, president of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, said today.

In a speech prepared for a directors' luncheon at the Canadian National Exhibition on Manufacturers' and Athletic Day, Mr. Ferguson warned that if a downswing does occur, the government, dedicated to the philosophy of full employment, may be forced towards authoritarian measures.

"Even so, it could not conceivably fill the vacuum without hurting the private enterprise system because . . . it is an incontrovertible fact that it is private enterprise, not the government, that makes jobs," he said.

BIGGER BITE

Speaking of the "so-called benefits of the welfare state," Mr. Ferguson said the average man knows that governments can't hand it out without taking it in and the more he gets the bigger will be the federal tax bite on his weekly pay cheque.

If the average taxpayer had to save the amount of money needed to pay his taxes instead of having them taken off "almost painlessly" at the source, "he would not only yelp with pain, but he would also see the benefits of federal experiments in socialism in their proper light."

Heat Wave Nears End In Eastern U.S.

CHICAGO (AP)—The longest and most damaging heat wave in 20 years heared an end in the United States today as cool air and showers headed into the heat-stricken eastern states.

The extensive cool Canadian air mass which started its push into the northern plains Wednesday was expected to cover the entire eastern half of the country by tonight.

There were many hot spots in the east central and eastern states again Friday. The death toll from the hot weather increased to at least 149. Crops, livestock and pasture lands suffered several millions of dollars damage during the prolonged spell of hot weather in areas from the Rockies to the

COOLER WEATHER

Atlantic seaboard.

In Columbus, Ohio, the mercury climbed to 95.4 Friday before arrival of the northerly breezes and showers which cracked the heat wave in Ohio. Early today, the reading was 60 and the forecast was for cooler weather.

Upstate New York had another day of record heat Friday with readings edging close to 100 in many cities. The 97.1 in Syracuse broke the all-time September mark of 97 set in 1931. Rochester's 97 was a record for the date as was Buffalo's 93. It also was 97 in Utica and 95 in Albany. New York City's high was 85.

A Long Time

LILLE, France (Reuters)—Pierre Dubois of the village of Flavy-le-Martel near her ehas received a letter written by his son on Aug. 15, 1914, from the front lines of the First World War. The son, a French army lieutenant, died later from war wounds. The letter was postmarked Aug. 11, 1953, at Troisdorf, Germany. A note on the envelope said it had been found after an air raid in the Second World War.

Don't Like Shirts

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—A bill was introduced Friday in the Uttar Pradesh state legislature to ban sport shirts made of material printed with pictures of movie stars and scantily-clad girls. "Such dresses make young men look effeminate and vulgar, and revolting to the sight," it said. The bill would prohibit "the wearing of indecent dress of public with inscriptions, designs of symbols either printed or woven of any human being, living or dead, in any form or posture."

Last Of Prisoners Being Returned In PoW Exchange

PANMUNJOM (AP)—A record 275 Americans streamed back to freedom today and the Communists promised to return another 110 Sunday, the 33rd and final day of the big Korean war prisoner exchange.

The second and last Communist "bonus" delivery will boost the number of Americans repatriated to 3,596—283 more than the Communists first promised to send back.

Both sides have announced they would complete the exchange Sunday.

The final delivery probably includes a small group of American air force and marine pilots whom the Communists said "confessed" to germ warfare charges.

LAST ON LIST

The Allies said they would turn back on the last day 137 Chinese and 2,255 North Koreans, boosting the total repatriated to 75,797—many more than the 74,000 the UN command first promised to return.

The Reds have returned 30 Canadian prisoners, 12 more than they promised at the beginning of the exchange. Capt. Joseph Liston of Ottawa, senior Canadian officer held by the Reds said after his release Friday that he believed himself to be the last Canadian in Communist captivity.

The Communists also promised to release Sunday one South African, eight British, four Turks and one Japanese.

This will raise to 12,753 the number of Allied PoWs returned, 10 short of the 12,763 the Communists said they would liberate.

But the Reds have since said more than 20 non-Korean and 300 Korean prisoners refused repatriation and will be turned over to the neutral nations repatriation commission for disposition.

Both sides said the final figures would include all prisoners who want to return, including any who had changed their mind at the last minute.

BOTH HOLD BACK

While the Reds held back until the very last airmen they charged spread bacteria ovr North Korea, the UN command was doing the same with the leaders of the bloody Koje Island PoW camp riots.

The UN command would not confirm it officially, but Sunday's delivery presumably will include the riots leaders, including North Korean Col. Lee Hak Koo.

The Communists' most famous prisoner, Maj.-Gen. William F. Dean, three years of Red captivity behind him, arrived in Tokyo Saturday on the first lap of the trip home. Freed Friday, Dean was sent to Tokyo army hospital for a physical check.

The Reds handed back 24 Britons, one Australian, 11 South Koreans, and two South Korean women Red Cross workers Saturday in addition to 175 Americans.

No Cause To Celebrate

When the first Labour Day was observed in New York in 1882, the parading "Knights of Labour" had reason to celebrate. They were asserting the rights of workers to freedom and fairness, to places of dignity and decency under the laws of the land and by virtue of their birthright as individual human beings. Labour has long since legally won the rights and privileges of free men. Craft and real trade unions and the quickened senses of humanitarians and legislators ensured it.

• • •

The bosses of the eighties who ground men under heel have disappeared. The factory owners and autocratic capitalists who rewarded work with poverty and labourers with contempt have been replaced. Labour Day should be a celebration of victories won and freedom gained. Is it? Rather, we suggest Labour Day might more fittingly be celebrated now as a day of mourning for Pyrrhic victories and freedoms tossed overboard. The freedom to strike has been gained, under law, from managers and capitalists, but surrendered by workingmen to union leaders. We have lately witnessed the humiliating appeal of strike-minded Toronto milkmen to American union leaders in Washington, asking permission to strike. The grinding heel of factory bosses has been replaced by the hard fist of union bosses. Even the freedom to select and get a job has been abrogated; the closed shop and union tactics mean that a man must now pander to the union, instead of to management. Is his position thereby any more dignified?

• • •

This Labour Day, Ontario citizens—of whom the majority are working men and women—should be marching in mourning behind a black flag. Have they not lost what the Knights of Labour and their successors gained, and become bound-men to other bosses? Have they not surrendered their heritage and birthrights for a mess of pottage—a shoddy exchange of their rights for some extra pence in the pay-envelope? (Let it not be forgotten that Hitler rose to power on the backs of workingmen.)

• • •

All citizens, factory workers and others, should view the situation in Ontario with concern. Legislation has been enacted to protect the rights and improve the living conditions of workers. These rights have been manipulated by union leaders with few scruples and perverted by gangs of men posing as workers; they have been used to fashion and wield power over others, over the rank and file and over the entire body politic. Strikers flagrantly violate the law in northern mining towns, making threats and carrying weapons in ways which would land others in jail. Private industrial property is occupied or damaged lawlessly. In southern Ontario unionized truckers dictatorially attempt to take control of the highways. Such incidents are numerous in various parts of the Province and the Dominion. Unions usurp the freedom of the working men they are supposed to protect, and their leaders attempt to place themselves above the parliaments of the Province and the land.

• • •

The autocracy of nineteenth century capitalism has been replaced by the demagoguery of twentieth century labour. The financial and industrial princes of eighty years ago have been deposed by labour czars with fabulous salaries, million-dollar palaces, and pretentions to power which shake the very foundations of personal and democratic liberty.

• • •

Perhaps we should not be surprised by this turn of events. It is a historical fact that revolutions always over-reach themselves, and destroy the very liberties which the original revolters set out to gain. Kings are deposed only to be replaced by emperors. Thus a new period or revolt must begin, against the new bosses and the new tyrannies. Has the time not come for Labour to recognize that it is being deprived of its rights by the bosses and tactics which Labour itself sanctioned? The time is certainly at hand for the government and legislature of this Province to assert its parliamentary authority, to enforce the laws of the land, and to help workers and other citizens to preserve the rights whose celebration on Monday is but a hollow gesture.

• • •

It is perhaps significant that the Labour Day parades of recent years have been thin celebrations. Are workers too ashamed of the pass to which their affairs have come to hold up their heads in a parade as Knights of Labour? Are their union leaders craftily trying to avoid an ostentatious show, lest the public fully realize that a Labour Day parade is now a cortege for freedoms lost and parliamentary democracy cut down? The knell is loud over the land.

To Pass Freely

A passport is an official document showing the traveller's identity and commending him to protection in foreign countries. But the request of the Secretary of State for External Affairs which appears on the cover of your passport is not a guarantee that you will be admitted wherever you go "without let or hindrance", or that every country will "afford . . . every assistance and protection" of which you may "stand in need". Many countries require more than a passport. They require a visa.

A visa is merely a notation made in a passport, usually by means of a rubber stamp, to the effect that the passport and other documents of the bearer have been "seen" and found in order. The visa indicates that the bearer qualifies for entry to the country concerned for the purpose stated on the visa.

Visas are nuisances to travellers, and the process of obtaining them often requires more time than the journey itself, in these days of air travel. One goes to a consular or immigration office of the country one intends to visit, presents one's passport and other documents required, may wait in a queue for many hours, and then find that the documents are not in good order. A traveller already abroad may decide that since his train is passing through Belgium, he will stop off and see something of Brussels. But if Belgium requires a visa, the first thing he must see of Brussels is a state office, for his passport itself may be insufficient qualification for him to set foot on the soil of that country.

Canadian travellers have always been better served in these matters than American. Our passports are valid as both Canadian and British documents. The good offices of the Canadian Department of External Affairs and the British Foreign Office have resulted in agreements with many countries whereby Canadian travellers may go about freely, so long as they have a valid passport. At the present time Canadian travellers may visit the following countries without procuring visas: Belgium, Denmark, France, The Federal Republic of Germany, Italy, Liechenstein, Luxembourg, Monaco, Norway, the Netherlands, Sweden and Switzerland. No visa is of course required for visits to Commonwealth countries, nor of Canadian citizens visiting the U.S. The arrangements are reciprocal. In return for concessions granted Canadians, nationals of the other countries concerned have the privilege of entering Canada for temporary purposes with the minimum of delay. In a few instances, visas are required of them, but Canadian offices in Europe issue the visas free.

The diplomatic negotiations which have resulted in abolition of visas have been useful to Canadian troops in Europe—the largest group of Canadian citizens now overseas. As reported in the current issue of the monthly External Affairs, Canadian soldiers and airmen may now visit most countries of Europe on leave or on duty without either passports or visas. Agreements have been reached with nearly all NATO member countries and a few others which permit service personnel to travel freely provided they have in their possession military identity cards and proper movement orders or leave papers.

Off The Roads

The safest advice to give motorists this Labour Day weekend is to stay off the roads altogether. Since, however, there are supposed to be more accidents in the home than on the highway, the advice would have to be qualified to make it really sound. Stay off the roads and stay away from home.

How can that be done? By cottagers and campers already away from home, of course. But camps can take fire and the cottages are by lakes and rivers where swimming and boating accidents happen. Perhaps the only safe harbour this weekend is a hole in the ground. From which, of course, one must pray that a bulldozer will not arrive to excavate for a new house, or a tank pass over on military manoeuvres.

However good our advice may be, it is not altogether practical. School begins on Tuesday. There are several hundred thousand Ontario people taking a last dip in the lake, a last cob of corn from the campfire pot, a last look at their boats, a last round of bridge at their cottage, this weekend.

These several hundred thousand vacationers and cottagers have to get back to the city by nine o'clock Tuesday morning. The chances are that half of them will be on the highways at nine o'clock Monday evening. How safe will that be? Our news reports on Tuesday will tell the score. It will be low if every driver uses his head at the wheel as well as his foot on the accelerator. Skill, common sense and above all patience with the driver ahead, the driver behind, and the driver on the other side of the highway, will get more people back home safely than a road paved with good intentions or the Department of Highways' widest asphalt.

Bridge Fiends

By BON VIVANT

JUST WHY bridge players inveigle me into this game, assuming apparently I am skilled in the intricate moves of their favorite pastime, is known only to themselves. I know very little about bridge. Outside of being aware one holds thirteen cards, mine invariably never higher than tens, that there are four suits, and the object of the game is to bid one of these high enough to be doubled and go down, the whole thing is a closed book. There seem to be counts and things called conventions, but about these I know nothing.

✧ ✧ ✧

THERE are rude souls, who having drawn me as a partner and watched my play, accuse me of "kitchen bridge", whatever that may be? Whenever I am playing a defensive hand I lead out all my aces and other high cards that I'm sure will take tricks. This I gather is wrong. The experts always protect a suit, and look very chagrined when their carefully preserved ace is trumped. This tells me that the person playing the hand knew they had it all the time and went to some pains to capture it.

✧ ✧ ✧

WHAT little I do know about the game I have learned the hard way. Many years go, being partnered with an acknowledged expert, I boosted him into a grand slam in No Trump. I had heard somewhere that a singleton made a hand stronger, and in this case I happened to have one. My partner was quite upset when he went down eight tricks, and gave me a cutting lecture on singletons and No Trump bidding. I can truthfully say I learned about singletons from him.

✧ ✧ ✧

THERE IS ALSO the high-low lead showing a doubleton. I travelled the valley and the shadow learning about this one too. For years I wondered why my partner would lead me a jack and later follow with a two spot. I thought he was crazy and leading from what the experts call "fright."

✧ ✧ ✧

IT WAS after my misunderstanding of such tricky leading permitted our opponents to make a contract which could easily have been set, that I learned about doubletons. The language used in the explanation was inflammatory, and cast distressing reflections upon my mentality. My attempts at a defence were brushed aside, and the imputation I thought my partner was making a lead merely to get the game started, treated as the inane maunderings of a half-wit.

✧ ✧ ✧

A FURTHER problem I have to face in this game is my inability to alibi myself those rare times I do play a hand. I always go down, but I'm not sufficiently conversant with the fine points of the game to say at once: "Partner, I had a count of twenty-seven; with a count of only two in your hand you shouldn't have raised me!" The trouble is I never know the count in my hand, much less that of my partner.

✧ ✧ ✧

IF I draw a hand liberally sprinkled with aces, kings, queens and jacks, I'll bid. Never mind the count, I've got the goods and I know it. This hoggish attitude may be wrong, but when I get a hand I think is worth a flutter I'm prepared to disregard my partner. He may or may not have something, and we might or might not make a slam. I've got all I'm prepared to bid in my own mitt, and I don't want any outside interference.

✧ ✧ ✧

I'M COMPLETELY at sea when the talk turns to the finesse. Just what is a finesse? As nearly as I have been able to follow its intricacies it consists of offering a low card to a high card in the hopes the fellow in between will be dull enough to play a higher card than the one you offer so your still higher card will snatch it from him. When the player upon whom this squeeze is being worked fails to play ball you're in a mess.

✧ ✧ ✧

I DON'T really think the finesse has much to do with the game of bridge. It seems to me it is more of a conversational gambit, and is played in order that my partner, when he goes down, will be able to explain to me how if the finesse had worked he would have made the contract. This all seems very enlightening to the other players, but to me it sounds as though I'm being blamed for not having a lot of cards my more daring confrere hoped I would.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE CROSS-RUFF is another bridge mystery. I understand, vaguely, how it works, but like a lot of other things in this game it means you've got to have certain cards in order to make it come off. I'm never the one who gets these cards. Should, by some mis-chance, an opportunity to cross-ruff occur when I'm playing a hand, some low hound in the opposition is out of the suit I'm ruffing, and trumps higher than I did. This subjects me to censorious looks from my partner, and nasty remarks, like never send a boy to do a man's job.

✧ ✧ ✧

HAVING suffered for years from the critical attitude of those with whom I play, I was pleased a short while ago to become embroiled in a situation, which, through no fault of mine, allowed me to shine. I had been invited by a man I know to visit his club in order that I might pass expert judgement upon the various elixirs offered by the bar. It was while engaged in this pleasant and interesting research that I was dragooned into a bridge game.

✧ ✧ ✧

AT THE OUTSET our opponents suggested we play for the usual. As I generally go all out in the gambling department I took this to mean the usual ten cents a thousand which prevails in my circle. Fortunately my friend and I held all the high cards in the deck with monotonous regularity. After three rubbers we had the opposition down, what careful comp[illegible]n on my part revealed to be a whole c[illegible]

✧ ✧ ✧

I WAS therefore more than a little amazed when the losers pulled out well-filled wallets and began counting out ten dollar bills, eight of them to be exact. Not wishing to appear inexperienced I waited until we were outside, not forgetting to pick up the tens before they blew away to ask my sponsor what we had been playing for. The shock of learning it was 25c a point was almost too much, but I did retain sufficient reason not to rush back and press the winnings upon my victim.

✧ ✧ ✧

NOW when I'm invited to make up a game I casually inquire as to the stakes. They are always a great deal less than 25c a point, so I'm able, in an off-hand way, to remark that at a club where I play once in awhile the usual amount is two bits. This earns me a degree of unwarranted respect, and the better players, who get really reckless and play for a tenth of a cent, refrain from being critical. I like to think they are hesitant about crossing swords with a 25c a point expert, so I enjoy being allowed to play my own uninhibited brand of bridge.

Letters To The Editor

PROLONGING THE LIFE OF IMBECILES

Sir: I read with interest your leader in The Examiner of Sept. 2nd entitled "2,231 Idiots", and have felt for some time past the same apprehension as you, regarding the unhappy existing situation.

The arguments you offer are made repeatedly at our own family discussions and we invariably end as we began with "Can anything be done to remedy this 'mockery of living'?"

As individuals—we cannot act—Parliament appears powerless—actually what party could ever hope to gain power with such a clause in their "statement of policy"?

The thought occurs—could it be the duty of responsible newspapers such as yours—to take the initiative—as you have done editorially, to rouse the people to study this vital question?

It would appear that our doctors and scientists have performed miracles in prolonging life expectancy, but too little thought is given to prolong the usefulness which is necessary unless we are to bankrupt the state with welfare programmes, and the same principle obviously applies to the prolonging the life of imbeciles.

You have given us food for thought in your editorial Mr. Editor, probably others of your readers may have views on this subject and it will be interesting to await further correspondence. Sincerely,

AN INTERESTED OBSERVER

UNFAIR TO LOCAL MANAGERS?

Sir: I have been reading the letters written by store clerks on the Editorial page and must say I certainly agree with them on every count, but would like to see more letters. As for the letter written by "You Lazy You" I very much doubt it was written by a truck driver but by someone who is having a bit of fun—or thinks he is.

Thanks to Tonie Johnston for his letter. It expressed in a few well placed words what many of us are thinking too. Only hope his plan gets full co-operation.

I think it is time the clerks were given a bit of consideration by the public and also a few employers. Where would they be without the clerks? We are human, too, and should have some rights. Don't you agree?

Thanks to the Chamber of Commerce for what they are trying to do. They are trying to keep up with the advanced times, not going back to the Middle Ages.

I also think it rather presumptuous to go to the heads of the various chain stores to get their approval of Friday night opening. Why should someone outside our own city have anything to say as to what hours we open or close? It was very unfair to the local managers as they are in a better position to know the conditions existing here than someone outside our province or city.

ONE OF THE GIRLS

(Ed. Note: This reader has no more reason to doubt that 'You Lazy You' was what he said, than he has to doubt she is 'One of the Girls'.)

MORE PEOPLE, MORE JOBS

Sir: I am a man of sixty, in hard physical condition, good education, considerable experience in running a business. But I cannot get a job, even at a small wage. In a thickly-settled country this would be understandable, but in a land like Canada, of vast size and tiny population. I think it is a sign of bad management on the part of those in government positions who control labour.

Canadians are privileged to occupy the third largest country in the world. In a short while I think they are going to be challenged as to why they are keeping so few people on so much land. Across the Pacific lie China and India, China equal potentially to six Japans, India to another four. These countries are developing at top speed and in a few years' time they will be giants of productiveness as they now are of population. In a short while they are going to demand entry for their countrymen into large, thinly-populated lands like Canada, Australia, Brazil, etc.

Refusal to accede to these demands might mean war, and war against enemies who could lose a million men and never feel it. I think the danger from these teeming Asiatic populations is greater than that from Communism because it may last longer.

I think the people of this country should cut salaries and wages, especially at the higher levels. This would encourage more industries to start up, and attract more immigrants to enter the country. Also why not accept British money for wheat and other food products?

Lastly, I think it high time that Canadians had compulsory military service for their young men. Canada needs more men under arms and also the reserve of trained men that conscription affords. If war broke out now this vast country would be virtually defended by the American draftee and the British conscript. The time is fast coming when those who own the wide open spaces will have to defend them.

Canada needs more jobs so that she can sustain more population. It is a matter of urgency. Yours faithfully,

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

I am the Lord, your Holy One, the creator of Israel, your King. (Isa. 43: 15.)

✧ ✧ ✧

Behold my servant, whom I uphold; mine elect, in whom my soul delighteth; I have put my spirit upon him; he shall bring forth judgement to the Gentiles . . . He shall not fail nor be discouraged, till he have set judgement in the earth: and the isles shall wait for his law . . .

I the Lord have called thee in righteousness, and will hold thine hand, and will keep thee, and give thee for a covenant of the people, for a light of the Gentiles, (Isa. 42: 1, 4, 6.)

✧ ✧ ✧

Many, O Lord my God, are thy wonderful works which thou hast done, and thy thoughts which are to us-ward: they cannot be reckoned up in order unto thee . . . Sacrifice and offering thou didst not desire; mine ears hast thou opened: burnt offering and sin offering hast thou not required.

Then said I, Lo, I come: in the volume of the book it is written of me, I delight to do thy will, O my God: yea, thy law is within my heart. (Ps. 40: 5, 6, 8.)

✧ ✧

Then answered Jesus and said unto them, Verily, verily, I say unto you, The Son can do nothing of himself, but what he seeth the Father do: for what things soever he doeth, these also doeth the Son likewise . . . I can of mine own self do nothing: as I hear, I judge: and my judgement is just; because I seek not mine own will, but the will of the Father which hath sent me. (John 5: 19, 30.)

Land Grants and Settlement In Alnwick Township: Loyalists Preferred, 1792

By MRS. GERALD MARRYAT

Alnwick was one of the townships singled out for gifting to individuals, following a plan for the promotion of settlement adopted with some success by the Council of Lower Canada. (Simcoe Papers, vol. v-pp172-3.)

In 1788, Lord Dorchester, the former Guy Carleton of American revolutionary war fame, then Governor-General of Lower and Upper Canada, divided this province, naming the Nassau district from the River Trent to Long Point on Lake Erie. Township lines were surveyed and Crown Lands had been gifted before the arrival of the newly appointed Lieut. Governor of Upper Canada, John Graves Simcoe. After he was sworn in at Kingston, July 8, 1792, he changed the name from Nassau to the Home District. He also was a veteran of the American War, and he and Dorchester had their friends of war years among the Loyalists who were flocking into Upper Canada.

50 LOYAL FAMILIES

At the first meeting of the Executive Council of Upper Canada at Niagara it was decided to grant the townships of Murray, Haldimand, Hamilton and Hope to individuals on October 6, 1792, on condition that at least 50 loyal families should be settled there in each of them within four years. And Alnwick was granted under similar circumstances on July 24, 1793. But, after less than a year's experience of the system, a resolution was passed announcing that no more townships would be disposed of in that way. (Simcoe, v.-173.)

Under that first arrangement Alnwick had been granted to Joseph Keeler and his associate, Farr, of whom I have discovered nothing except that John, Richard and William Farr petitioned for land with James Keeler August 1, 1797.

KEELER'S FINGER

But Keeler was evidently a name to conjure with and he is so closely associated with the settlement of this district that he might be said to have had a finger in most of the pies cooked up in those early days of land distribution.

The next mention of Alnwick occurs in the Minutes of the Executive Council, meeting at Newark, August 22, 1795, when the Surveyor-General had reported that Hodges and Murdoch, to whom the township of Cramahe had been granted, had not brought any settlers. Therefore, the grant to them had been rescinded and the township declared open.

At the same time, it was ordered that the petition of Joseph Keeler and his associate, Farr, be granted whereby they might resign their claim to Alnwick and be allotted Cramahe instead.

VAST HUNTING GROUND

It should not be forgotten that all that vast territory just across Rice Lake and the Trent River were still the hunting ground of the Indians. Some hardy souls managed to stay for a short time but Keeler found it hard to fulfill his quota of settlers.

Belden's Atlas of the United Counties (1878) names Watkins as the first surveyor of Alnwick, date not given; then Richard Birdsall in 1826 and Hubidge in 1835, but by Order-in-Council, November 9, 1789, every son of a Loyalist of age was to have 200 acres of land and all others who could make clear their claim were promised land in the new townships and Alnwick was parcelled out in that fashion. Belden gave the names of many Crown Grantees among whom were the Grants and Wrights, persons of importance.

The Hon. Alexander Grant, or Commodore Grant, was the senior member of the Executive Council appointed in 1792, and in 1805, when Governor Peter Hunter died at Quebec, he was named Governor until Sir Francis Gore arrived in 1806. His biography may be found on pp 52-66 of D. B. Read's "The Lieutenant - Governors of Upper Canada." His daughters—under their married names of Nichols, Gilkison, Dickson, Duff, Miller, Wood and Richardson—were all prominent.

OLD SQUIRE WRIGHT

The Wrights were also influential. Sergeant Daniel Wright was born in London in 1741; was at the Battle of Quebec; a magistrate for over 30 years; and a Lieut-Colonel of Prince Edward County Militia. "Old Squire Wright" was a man of education and gentlemanly deportment, strictly religious, and never known to smile. Unlike many other retired officers, he did not seek to acquire large tracts of land. He died in April, 1828. (Caniff's "Early Settlement, p. 126.) One grant was made to him of 1,200 acres, as a magistrate, August 30, 1797, at the same time as a grant to a Benjamin Hicks of 200 acres in Alnwick for military service, so presumably Wright's was there too.

Col. Henry Young, who held 200 acres in Alnwick from June 8, 1798, was a Loyalist. (Canniff, p. 127) says of him that he was born in Nottingham, England, and came to New York when 18 years of age, settling at Jamaica, Long Island. He was a gunsmith by trade. Of his four sons and two daughters and their varied services Canniff gives many details. He died in Prince Edward County in 1820.

OTHER GRANTS

Other Crown grantees included: Conrad and Isaac Cole from Prince Edward County each got 200 acres as Loyalist and son of a Loyalist, July 6, 1798. Probably they were related to Daniel Cole, of Adolphustown, who, again according to Canniff, left behind him to mourn his loss eight children, 75 grandchildren, 172 great-grandchildren and no less than 13 great-great-grandchildren. So small wonder if some of them spread over into Alnwick. The original Daniel died (Canniff, pp 644-46) August 5, 1866, aged 105. A native of Long Island, he married Sophia de Long; he was a spy and escaped death miraculously many times; brought in his family in a brigade of batteaux from Sorel.

The Posts were of American origin and Eunice Post was granted 200 acres of land in Alnwick as the daughter of a Loyalist on June 8, 1798, the same day Jacob Shumaker, Moses Carnachan, John Green, Loyalists, got 200 acres and James Hughes 300 acres by Soldiers' Land Board Certificate. Belden names John Canniff, 200 acres, April 12, 1798, as family lands. James Peck, Sr., 300 acres, July 6, 1798, as a guide and pioneer in the war. Cornelius Peck, 200 as a Loyalist. Martin Dunyas (or Duryas or Duryea) 200 acres as a Loyalist. Hulda Harrison also had 200 acres as a Loyalist.

Truman Knappan or Knapper got 200 acres and prayed for the residue of 200 due his late father, to be given to himself and brother David as the only two surviving sons, and also 200 acres each to himself and his brother as the sons of a Loyalist. He was recommended for only 200 acres more.

Frederica Myers got 200 acres as a Loyalist's daughter on the same day and in Alnwick.

MOST WERE LOYALISTS

These are a few of the original grantees in the township. Doubtless there are others, registered at other centres than Newark. But you may find their names on your deeds and add them yourselves.

Most or all of them were Loyalists. They were the first wave — or shock troops — who fought the wilderness and faced the Indians across Rice Lake. They were welded into an unyielding force by inheritance and circumstance and they were as different as chalk from cheese from the next wave of settlers, mostly from the United Kingdom. And if, after the Coronation festivities you have not noticed fundamental variations in the points of view of your Loyalist descended neighbors and their "Old Country" counterparts, you are not very observant yourself, or you are not an old-timer.

Belden starts the list of those who came later to Alnwick with Campbells, Browns and others who came about 1830.

TWELVE-YEAR-OLD Garry Sutherland, grade eight student at Coronation School is shown above with that "back-to-school" look in his eye as he purchases a scribbler, ruler and pencil set from Gerry Hatton. Most of Garry's school supplies are provided by his local school board and it will not be until next year, in grade nine, that he'll be required to start buying his own text-books.

20,000 New Books For Our Schools

Every year, sometime near the end of June, come the cries of happy school children: "No more classes, no more books . . . !"

And inevitably those same children find their cries were in vain. They discover there are more classes and more books in store for them. Indeed, they find books in greater numbers and in more different sizes and shapes than they've ever encountered before.

It evidently doesn't faze them for according to Peterborough's superintendent of schools, K. S. Wightman, elementary students wear out from ten to twelve thousand dollars worth of books a year.

They don't pay for them though . . . at first. But upon reaching grade nine, they suddenly discover texts just don't drop from the heavens; they have price tags on them.

First form doesn't hurt too much because provincial grants have provided enough money to finance one or two books for students. Even then grade nine usually involves an expenditure of up to $12 for textbooks.

It gets dearer as the years go on and by the time a pupil reaches grade 13, he can expect to pay up to twice that much for his texts.

$5 PHYSICS

As a rule, school books aren't too expensive. Although one high school physics text costs five dollars a copy, the schools often supply the book to the students.

Among the higher-priced textbooks is the fifth form history, "North America and the Modern World," an up-to-date volume, revised periodically to give students information on recent world history. It costs $2.75.

Although elementary school students are not required to foot the bill, one of their history books touches the $2.50 mark. In the case of the Peterborough school board, this and other textbooks are ordered from the printer direct in wholesale quantities. Peterborough Board of Education own? "I haven't the faintest idea," began Mr. Wightman, but nevertheless started to figure out a very rough approximation on the basis of 5,000 students.

"Seven or eight thousand readers . . . 3,000 mathematics books . . . 3,000 spellers . . . 3,000 dictionaries . . . 2,000 atlases . . . " The total is a conservative figure, yet staggering; well over 20,000.

Not covered in this figure is the many hundreds or thousands of supplementary reading books in each classroom library.

STANDARD TEXTS

Although, as Mr. Wightman said, "we're a long way from that idea that there's just one book and that's it," texts are pretty well standardized among schools in Peterborough, both elementary and secondary.

Besides being practical from the standpoint of cutting costs in ordering, it saves a lot of heartache when a student transfers from school to school after becoming used to one book or a series of books.

NEW TEXTBOOKS

A new group of texts is scheduled to appear in local schools as the history texts. Dr. Eldon P. Ray, principal of Kenner Collegiate played a prominent part in the production of these books and is one of the principal contributors.

The series is intended for students of grades eight, nine and ten and this year local schools have adopted those books intended for grade eight and nine readers and plan to replace the present grade 10 history with the new book as soon as it appears on the market.

Since the Department of Education began a grants system depending on attendance, each elementary school student in the province has been allowed three dollars toward the cost of books. So the cost of equipping rural and secondary school students for school has been cut considerably.

Except for readers, books in separate elementary schools are for the most part the same as used by public schools; this holds true for the separate and public secondary schools.

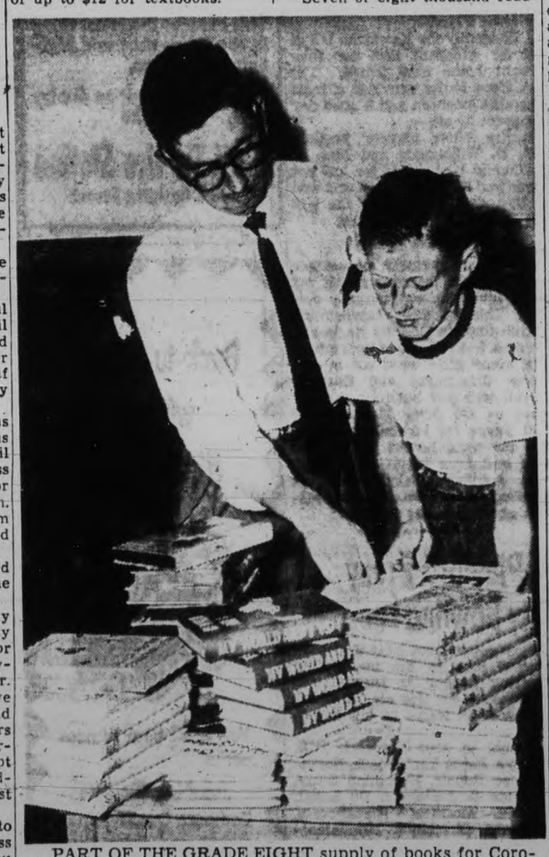
SHOPPING FOR BOOKS

According to a book store operator, about 25 per cent. of his sales are made before the opening of school. Far-seeing students buy early, before the supplies are depleted.

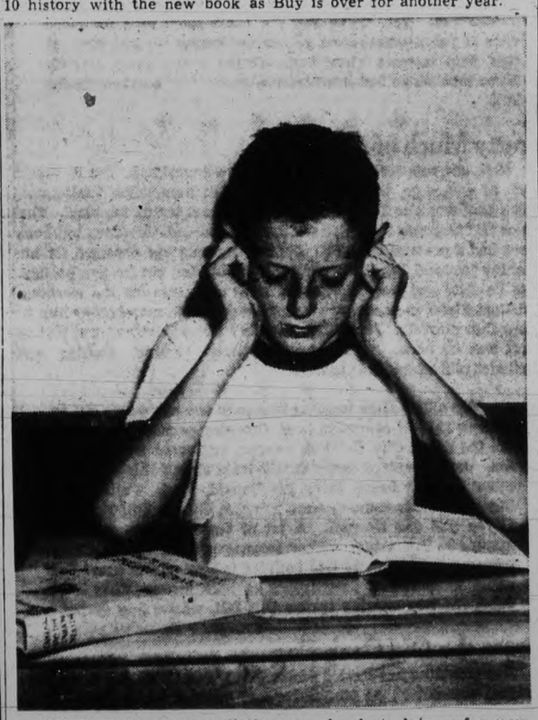
On the opening day of school, a horde of book-hungry youngsters swarms down upon the sales staff which has prepared for the descent beforehand by stacking books in huge piles within easy reach.

The entrance to the store is, of course, blocked by hundreds of bicycles whose owners stack them much like decks of cards in their hurry for literature.

The rush subsides as the day wears on and by its conclusion, the sales staff finds it has survived The Day again. The Big Buy is over for another year.



PART OF THE GRADE EIGHT supply of books for Coronation School is inspected by Garry who admits he'll be glad to go back to school. Principal of the school is A. D. McLeod.



ON THE JOB with a little pre-school studying of a new text-book to be introduced this year. One of the contributors to the book, Dr. E. P. Ray, is principal of Kenner Collegiate. The text is entitled "Canada and the Commonwealth." —(Examiner Staff Photos)

Your Garden:

Good Lawns Created, Not Grown

BY HENRY PREE

Good, bad and indifferent lawns have been the result of an unusual spring and summer. Conditions have been mostly favorable but many gardeners are not satisfied with the texture of their lawns and plan to remake them this autumn.

Very few seem to know the correct procedure and have written or phoned for advice.

To begin with, a successful lawn is the result of good soil well prepared in advance and constant maintenance ever after No lawn will take care of itself no matter how well you may start.

The average home grounds has little topsoil of quality and it is impossible to purchase topsoil that will be satisfactory unless that soil has been built up for the purpose of building a lawn. The fact that the soil comes from a farm or from a pasture or field means nothing.

Four inches of topsoil, if placed on a well-drained subsoil, is the minimum base for a lawn.

Do not expect to change clay or sand into topsoil by merely adding a little peat moss or manure or sowing a crop of soybeans and then plowing it under.

Each inch of topsoil, as we would like it in our gardens and lawns, is the result of 400 years or more of decomposition of organic matter and yet we attempt to create it in one season by adding a little something to just plain soil.

So do not expect a miracle to happen when you sow the grass this autmun. Do the best you can to improve what you have.

A weed-infested lown should be rebuilt if 50% of the area is infested. Weeds are killed but not removed by one of the many weed-o-cides fo rsale at the supply stores. Apply the chemical as directed, usually by adding to water and sprinkling on the weeds. Sometimes a second application of killer is necessary, to prevent weed seeds from contaminating the soil.

It takes plenty of work and nature's aid to keep your lawns in good condition.

Plow or turn over the soil to a depth of six to eight inches, rake out all sticks and stones, spread the best topsoil you can purchase to increase the existing depth to at least four inches, add fertilizer, 4-12-4, 5-10-5 or 6-10-4 mixture at the rate of 25 pounds per 1000 square feet, and rake the whole area smoothly and allow to stand a week or 10 days.

During this time some weeds will show themselves and these should be removed. During this period spread 40 to 50% Chlordane or Dieldrin at the rate of one pound per 1000 square feet over the entire area, rake this in at least three days before sowing seed.

This will grub-proof your lawn for five or seven years and kill the Japanese and other beetle grubs. After a last light raking, sow the best lawn seed you can purchase. Sow creeping bent seed at the rate of three pounds per 1000 square feet and a Kentucky blue grass mixture at the rate of five to seven pounds per 1000 square feet.

Rake lightly again to cover seed and roll with a roller, light enough for a women to push or pull. Young grass should not be cut until it has attained a height of about three inches. Bent lawns require almost daily watering and remember that a new lawn should not be permitted to thoroughly dry out.

Gardening Questions

Q—The tip growth on my spruce tree is browning. Are the small green pineapple-shaped growths responsible

A—The green growths are the homes of a tiny wingless aphid and are the cause of the trouble. Spray now with lindane in hopes of catching some of the insects. More important is to spray on a warm day in early April with a dormant oil solution such as volck or with benezene hexachirode. Pick off and burn the green galls.

Q—The lower leaves of our chrysanthemums die back each year. What is the cure

A—The dying of lower leaves can be prevented by dividing the old clumps each spring. Set out the best outside divisions as individual stems a foot apart.

Never Forgot

"I had an old friend, a retired colonel, who had been in his day one of the greater hunters of big game. One day I was driving with him in his car down a country lane when we came upon what I can only describe as a super cow-pat. The most enormous cow-pat you have ever seen and the Colonel swerving the car to avoid it, remarked quite casually, as if it were the most natural thing in the world, 'Hm—elephants' and sure enough in the quite English lane a mile further on we overtook a travelling circus with an elephant marching behind the caravans."

(John Moore on a BBC program).

A·F·I·E·L·D with NICK NICKELS

We Peterburians are inclined to think that the only exotic trees growing in the city are the two or three "Upsidedown" trees in Confederation Park. They are not too uncommon in Southern Ontario, but druggist Stanley Bogue, Romaine and George Sts., has really got something that should not be in this part of the world. It is called a Ginkgo or Maidenhair Tree (Ginkgo biloba). He has two of them on the south side of his store, facing George St.

Grown in ancient times about temples in China this remarkable tree was considered sacred. It grows there and in other countries of similar climatic conditions to 120 feet high, though Mr. Bogue's are about 25 feet; he planted them 20 years ago.

People who study this sort of thing tell us that the ginkgo tree's growing characteristics have not changed for the past ten million years. They call it the living fossil.

Its leaves are fern leaves, like those on the maidenhair fern, but measure three inches across and are entirely resistant to fumes and soot. The pollen of this tree instead of blowing about or being transferred by insects swims like fern sperms by wriggling through rain or dew. Should the trees be female—and Mr. Bogue won't know about this for another five years—the fruits dangle from stems in the form of small buff-colored plums. The outer husk of the fruit has a foul smell and the silver-white kernel tastes like rancid butter.

With the first frost the leaves of the local trees turn yellow immediately and drop the following day. And at this time Mr. Bogue gets his most public reaction. School children on the prowl for a dozen different leaves for botany studies gather ginkgo leaf specimens and are immediately ticked off by their teachers for including easy-to-find "geranium" leaves in their collections. The kids then bring their teachers to look at the Bogue trees and all get a lesson from their owner on one of the tree oddities of Peterborough.

The ginkgo trees are known to be growing in singles and pairs in Dundas, Western University at London, Niagara and Kingston and are so odd that one authority claims that the sight of them should be as exciting as a crocodile crossing George St.

A Sign of Something

Coming into the city on Highway 28 from Lakefield there are two signs on the west side of the road, 100 feet apart, warning motorists of the 30 m.p.h. speed limit at the city's new boundary extension on the Centre Smith line.

The first sign says: PETERBOROUGH, POPULATION 40,000. The second one reads: PETERBORO, 35,000.

How about a third sign boasting that Peterborough/Peterboro has the fastest changing population of any city in Ontario?

♠ ♠ ♠ ♠

As faithfully as we report the great exodus of city folk to their cottages on May 24 weekend we must bring them back again, come Labour Day, and a sad bit of reporting it is.

Following a good nine weeks of cottage life and fun in the sun it is hard for young and old to tear up their summer roots in the Kawarthas and come back to the ten-month of city life routine once again. And it is just their luck that our gasping heat spell will have burned itself out just as they are ready to come back. It's always the way.

Many mothers have had to bear the heat and come to town for pre-school shopping. Others will take it in their stride later. But whole families will linger lovingly until the last precious minute at All Saints' Rest for the last few swims, the casual meals, a few bursts of water skiing and a quick spot of fishing in favourite spots before the hurly-burly of last minute closing up takes place. Boats to put away; pumping systems to unhook and summer clothing and fun gear to gather in bulging carton boxes.

Though fathers are as reluctant to leave as any member of the family, the responsibility of getting their families home safely in the gigantic traffic crush is theirs. And so they leave their lake with the far-off laughter of a pair of loons ringing in their ears, derisive laughter that suggests convention-bound humans are crazy and good rubbish to them.

♠ ♠ ♠ ♠

Hot weather fishing has been good for those persistent fishermen who would stay long hours on the water. There weren't many prizes reported but those who did have something to report were pleased. Such as:

Mrs. Malcolm Kunselman of Freeport, Pa., who took a 21-pound lunge near Sherman Graham's cottages on Deer Bay.

An American guest at Irwin Inn, Stony Lake, who landed a 19½-pounder right in front of the inn.

Three other Americans—Walter Hudson, John Popsau and Bill Clark—with a 12 and 15-er between them, and H. E. Campbell of Mount Dennis with a 12, all taken in the Mud Lake area of the Trent River.

Rice Lake fishing is still holding up in all classes and resort operators report the best fishing season that they can remember in a long time.

Happy Thoughts Soaked In

The age of dear old Victorian parental relatives is dead, dead. Last weekend I went visiting a summer jobholder of the family at the Lakes; just wanted to say "Hello".

Pulling into the Government wharf I got out of the boat and was greeted by a firm and hearty handshake by said member and two other bronzed and muscular Amazons. The greeting was so firm, in fact, that I was catapulted across the dock, and into the drink amid joyous shrieks from the Amazons and 50 other strangers roundabout. To see Pop wallowing like a porpoise was just killing but the water was so warm that I didn't mind it in the least.

It was so grand that I decided then and there to do nothing else but, if the warm weather holds, for the next two weeks. Be seeing you, then, in this corner on Sept. 26.

Petes Defeat Maitlands In Lacrosse Exhibition

Trotting through a fairly brisk workout on greasy grounds, the Petes' Trailermen took a 10-5 exhibition lacrosse victory over the senior "B" Toronto Maitlands here last night before a few hundred fans. Both teams are awaiting playoffs, Maitland in OLA finals, and Petes in the Mann Cup senior "A" finals, and they arranged home-and-home exhibitions to keep in shape. The next one is Tuesday in Toronto. Petes led 4-0 in the first quarter, 6-1 at the half and 7-3 going into the fourth frame of a listless tussle which the homesters didn't take too seriously. Curly Mason drew the only minor penalty of the game handed out by Referees Harry Wipper and Denny Peterson. Petes were minus Russ Slater (a sore side), Jerry Fitzgerald, Ross Powless and Dootch Vitarelli.

One of the visitors' goals was a presentation from Referee Wipper who awarded it to LeBlond when Don Ashbee—just for fun—romped down and scored on Moon Wootton. At full strength and playing seriously, the Trailermen could probably have taken the game by about 20-2, at least.

A PRESENTATION

Following the fray, Ike Hildebrand received a presentation from the Peterborough Concrete Co., as one of the two high scorers of the local squad during Eastern Canada finals. Jerry Fitzgerald, who has left for his teaching chore in Toronto, will be sent a prize, too. Derry Davies was unable to be on hand for the game, but Ken Croft performed impressively.

Hildebrand got two goals for the winners, singles going to Nip O'Hearn, Red Robinson, Roger Smith, Lou Nickle, Don Ashbee, Rock Batley, Bob Thorpe and Croft. In assists, the latter and Thorpe had three each, and Grant Burns, Batley and Red Robinson one apiece.

Jerry Fewster scored a pair for Toronto, and Rolly LeBlond, Ted Powell and Johnny Bond one apiece. Ron Barton, Ken Simpson and Bill Dancy got an assist each. Teams:

Maitlands: Mitchell, Rawbon, Simpson, Berthelot, P. Powell, T. Powell, Campbell, Barton, Wood, LeBlond, Dancy, Jones, Bass, Fewster and Bond.

Petes: Wootton, O'Hearn, Magee, Mason, Smith, Nickle, Croft, Thorpe, Ashbee, Hildebrand, G. Robinson, R. Robinson, Batley and Burns.

Referees, D. Peterson and H. Wipper.

HE'S A SECRET WEAPON, Coach Bob Thorpe (No. 7, above), whispers as he introduces Ken Croft to the Trailermen lacrosse fans. Weiner has been picked up by the Trailermen for their trip west to the Mann Cup finals. He was a stalwart with the Orillia West Yorks this season and Coach Thorpe expects big things from him in the cup play. Croft took part in the exhibition game Friday night against Toronto Maitlands and helped the Eastern Canada champions take a 10-5 victory. Derry Davies, who is being picked up from the St. Catharines' Athletics, didn't play this game.

Bombers Whip Saskatchewan In 13-6 Triumph

WINNIPEG (CP)—Winnipeg Blue Bombers Friday night kept up their unbeaten streak in the Western Interprovincial Football Union by defeating the winless Saskatchewan Roughriders 13-6.

In 50-degree weather and an intermittent drizzle, all-star quarterback Indian Jack Jacobs, replacing Tommy Thompson, veteran Philadelphia Eagle, pitched Bombers to a 13-0 half-time lead, then staved off a belated Rider aerial attack.

Jacobs, who played all the first half and the last part of the fourth quarter, tossed touchdown passes to Tom Casey and Tommy Ford, and sent a booming kick behind the Rider goal line for a single point on a rouge. Flying wing Bud Korchak converted both majors.

SCORES TOUCHDOWN

Herb Johnson, former West Pointer, scored Riders' touchdown on a pass from quarter Glenn Dobbs. Veteran Joe Aguirre, former Edmonton and Winnipeg player, kicked the convert.

Besides Johnson, Riders were best served by Sully Glasser and End Stan Williams.

Jacobs and Joe Zaleski, former University of Dayton star and a second-year man with Bombers, completed 12 of 22 passes for 201 yards. Dobbs, with some help by his backs, completed 19 of 32 passes for 216 yards. Riders made 17 first downs to Winnipeg's 12 but most were in mid-field. Bombers outrushed Riders 108 yards to 59. Jacobs outkicked Dobbs on a 43-yard average against 37.

Oshawa Merchants, erstwhile diamond opponents of the Petes in Viaduct League and COBL play in better ball seasons, didn't make the Intercounty League playoffs. Four clubs are presently engaged in—of all things—semi-final series of best-of-nine games! Why not make it best-six-of-11 sets? Meanwhile, John Harris' USA pro imports have picked up their final cheques and departed Oshawa. An item in the Brantford paper says: "Scribe George Campbell of Oshawa makes a veiled hint that the Merchants were given the works in the Intercounty League. That's no secret. It is still a long way to Oshawa." Hm, guess those western teams didn't like the hefty hauls to the Motor City. Mayhap, Oshawa will seek revival next year of the old COBL, including Peterborough, Belleville and Kingston.

* * * * * *

Football season up this way opens today with our Orfuns playing in Oshawa. First fixture of the 1953 ORFU intermediate "A" schedule, Toronto Marauders meeting the Ghosts in Cobourg this aft, too. The Ghosts begin the Morrow Park season here next Wednesday evening. Coach Ton Kotowski has been experimenting with his prospects and thinks he has a winning combination for today's opener 'gainst the strengthened Red Raiders. Latter have been coming along the past two seasons and Jack Wedley will field a good squad this autumn. Ghosts have always been tough, and Orfuns won the Eastern Canada title last year. That leaves the Toronto team a question mark at the moment.

Boxla Boys of Yesteryear

Just a reminder that box lacrosse isn't a new post-war sport in Peterborough, a chap drops in a 1937 program booklet for us to see. It brings back memories of a lot of good local intermediate lacrossers we covered well over a decade ago. Officers of the Petes in '37 were: President, Jim Lehane; vice-prexy, Harry Tudhope; secretary, Charlie Carson; treasurer, Doug Miller; manager, Frank Randall; committee, Fred Helson, Pete King, Bob Townsley, Hubert Legros, Harold Bannon, George Mein and Frank Buckland. Official timer was Alex Fitzgerald, while Rowan Chute was playing coach.

* * * * * *

The Auburn players of 1937 included: Red Creighton, Joe Meyette, Doug Miller, Pete King, Ira Dundas, Don Crowe, Jerry and Emmett Creighton, Ossie Sloane, Ford Loucks, Mick Magee, Dutch Pammett, Red Dallin, Buster Whitton, Ned Vitarelli, Andy Anderson and Rowan Chute. Many of these had started out with the Pete's first boxla team of 1932 and one of them, Mick Magee, even saw a little action with the 1953 senior Petes' Trailermen. Yes, we've had the boxla sport here for more than 20 years—apart from an interval during the last war. It was field lacrosse away back till the boxed game started. Since then we've had intermediate, senior "B" and now Senior A".

Pretty Much of a Romp

Well, one supposes it's one way to have a workout. But it wasn't much as games go, that exhibition last e'en here when Trailermen took a 10-5 win o'er Toronto Maitlands without trying too hard. The senior "B" club was no match for the shorthanded "A" crew, but both teams had a practice out of it. Jerry Fitzgerald has departed for his teaching job, and Ike Hildebrand will be pulling out for pro hockey. Ross Powless and Dootch Vitarelli were absentees for the workout, and Russ Slater is nursing an injured side which may bother him in Mann Cup playoffs. Derry Davies didn't make it, either, but Kenny Croft was on deck. Was in on five goals. Orfuns' gridder Joe Berthelot played for the visitors.

The oldest alley bowling league in the city starts out on its long 1953-54 campaign next Thursday evening in Duffus'. It's the men's City Bowling League, beginning its 29th season. Jack Playford heads the 16-team circuit this semester, other officers being Jerry MacDonald, Turk Walton, Bill Stanbury, Dick Ouimet, Herb Frost, I. Haines, Bill Boon, J. Heron and Joe Gaspari. A lot of top trundlers maul the maples in this setup. Other leagues will be re-organizing from now on, also, as this popular indoor winter sport has many hundreds of participants of both sexes. They'll be using the new scoring system this fall, winter and spring.

Alabama Girl Best Water-Skier

TORONTO (CP) — Leah Marie Rawls, 18-year-old United States women's water ski champion from Birmingham, Ala., added the world's trick-riding water-ski championship to her laurels Friday at the Canadian National Exhibition.

Miss Rawls scored 545 points to place well ahead of the 12 other competitors from six countries. She had a 128-point margin over second place Willa Worthington McGuire of Cypress Gardens, Fla.

Samuel Zamudio of Cuernavaca Morelos, Mexico, won two world titles, topping four entries in the veterans' slalom and the veterans' trick-riding.

The men's trick-riding competition was not completed. Only one of nearly 30 contestants had not made his run through the trick course when high winds and rough waters forced postponement until today.

Out At The Kawartha

LADIES' SECTION

Lady golfers were few at the Kawartha on Thursday afternoon as the 18-hole players went to Port Hope to take part in the 2-ball competition sponsored by the golf club. Players from clubs such as Cobourg, Lindsay, Oshawa, and the two from Peterborough participated. Evidently the Kawartha ladies had an excellent day for they brought home nine prizes. The Port Hope ladies provided a most enjoyable luncheon and a good day was spent by all.

In the 9-hole players' section, Mrs. N. Williamson and Mrs. J. Haldimand won points for low net scores and the silver spoon was won by Mrs. Ted Everett and the golf ball by Mrs. Fred Hardwick.

BUSINESS GIRLS

Due to the extremely hot weather only 17 BG's turned out for the men's invitation on Thursday evening. This was most disappointing to both Captain Dorothy Harle and the men, but they could understand why many girls were not in evidence. Jim Inglis and Barbara Siddall won golf balls for the low score as did Betty Metcalfe and Phil Pryde for second low score. For the most honest golfers Bill Way and Joan White were given tees. A delicious salad supper was supplied by the men and those present reported a fine time.

J. Playford Prexy City Bowling Loop

Play commences next Thursday at 9:30 p.m. in the men's City Bowling League at Duffus', the 29th season for this circuit which embraces 16 teams of top trundlers.

Teams in are: Empress, IUE, Payne's, Royal York Foods, Novelty Shoe Repair, Dominion Store, McBride & Anderson, De Laval, Sunoco, McGillis, Blackhorses, Woollens, Cherney's, Monumentals, Fashion-Craft and Calverts.

Jack Playford is president of the loop this year, with Jerry MacDonald vice-president, Turk Walton secretary, Bill Stanbury the treasurer, Dick Ouimet publicity man, and an executive committee of Herb Frost, I. Haines, Bill Boone, Joe Gaspari and J. Heron.

Rochester Takes Doubleheader From Orioles

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

There's no denying it. Rochester Red Wings of this season are far better than the club which finished third last year in the race for the International League pennant.

Including Friday night's double triumph over the fourth-place Baltimore Orioles—10-7 and 11-2—the red-hot, first-place Wings now have won 12 straight games, and 23 out of 25 in their drive from third to top spot.

While the league-leaders were dropping the Orioles, Toronto Maple Leafs, besides enlivening their playoff hopes, gave the Wings a push toward the pennant by pinning a 12-11 defeat on Buffalo Bisons.

As a result, the Herd dropped from a second-place tie with the idle Montreal Royals, to third position—six games back of Rochester. The Royals are 5½ games behind.

GET 31 HITS

The Red Wings shellacked Baltimore pitchers for 31 hits in the two tests, five Orioles hurlers taking part in the opener. Dennis Reeder and Cot Deal, the latter the victor, limited the losers to nine hits in the first, and Octavio Rubert gave up the same number to win the second contest.

Toronto's win over the Bisons advanced the Leafs to within 3½ games of the fourth-place Orioles and a playoff berth. The Leafs sent 14 batsmen to the plate in the fourth to acquire eight runs, matching Buffalo's outburst in the first which netted the same total.

Jack Wallaesa, who was presented with an automobile emblematic of being voted the most popular Buffalo player, crashed his 33rd home run to take over the league lead from Montreal's Rocky Nelson.

In other Friday night games Springfield Cubs swept a doubleheader from Syracuse Chiefs, 4-0 and 5-4.

Sussex Defeats Lancashire Club

LONDON (Reuters)—Sussex defeated Lancashire by an innings and 12 runs in a first-class county cricket match ended Friday. Lancashire scored 152 and 176 against 340 for five declared by Sussex.

A match between Marylebone Cricket Club and Yorkshire was drawn. The MCC scored 362 and 255 for six declared. Yorkshire had 391 for four declared and 184 for seven.

New Plans Approved For Games Stadium

VANCOUVER (CP) — New plans for the long-delayed British Empire Games stadium were approved here Friday and construction will begin at Exhibition Park Tuesday.

City council, Pacific National Exhibition and games officials agreed on the plans—the sixth set presented since the stadium ran into a financial muddle — and awarded the contract to Marwell Construction Co. Ltd., original low bidder. First phase of construction will be an immediate start on grandstand footings.

The new plans call for raising $193,613 above the originally-estimated cost, bringing total price of the 25,000-seat structure to $1,557,613.

Faltering Giants Bow 8-6 To Brooklyn Boys

By BEN PHLEGAR, Associated Press Sports Writer

For the experts one of the biggest disappointments of the 1953 baseball season has been the sad showing of New York Giants. The Giants, who won a host of new friends with their triumphant drive to the pennant in 1951, were picked as a solid third-place entry, with a good chance of nudging Philadelphia out of second.

These judgments were given by experts who watched the clubs during spring training. At their present rate the Giants are going to be lucky to finish as high as fifth. They are 28 games behind league-leading Brooklyn, only 4½ in front of sixth-place Cincinnati, and deteriorating rapidly.

From the start they haven't looked good. Their supporters brushed aside the weak beginning with the excuse that teams managed by Leo Durocher are slow starters more often than not. Echoes of the Giants' victory song, which blared from every corner two years ago, were being heard again in July when the club finally edged into first division.

REAL BREAKDOWN

But with August came the real breakdown. They have won only 13 games since Aug. 1 and they've lost 27, dragging their over-all average from a respectable .543 to a mediocre .478.

Sal Maglie lost his touch, Monte Irvin was hurt, Hank Thompson was hurt, the pitching staff generally went to pieces. Al Worthington, a pitcher the Giants had been warned wasn't ready for the majors, was brought up from Minneapolis in July. He broke in sensationally with two shutouts. Now he's lost six straight.

Worthington started Friday night against the Dodgers. He wasn't charged with the 8-6 loss but only because the Giants managed to tie the contest twice and then kick it away after he had departed.

The New Yorkers committed four glaring errors which gave Brooklyn five unearned runs. The way they played in the field it was of no help that they equalled a major league home run record by hitting three in a row in the fourth inning.

The victory moved Brooklyn 10 games in front of the second-place Milwaukee Braves, who bowed 4-1 to St. Louis Cardinals. Cleveland Indians and Chicago White Sox played a 6-6 tie in 11 innings with rain halting play and St. Louis Browns clubbed Detroit Tigers 14-6. Chicago's twilight-night twin bill at Cincinnati was washed out and the rest of the clubs weren't scheduled.

Stan Musial hit a three-run home in the eighth inning to give the Cardinals their margin of victory over the Braves. Stu Miller allowed seven hits in scoring his seventh triumph.

The Indians wiped out a 5-2 Chicago lead with four runs in the seventh but the White Sox tied it with a run in the eighth. The game was halted with Cleveland at bat and two out in the 11th. The clubs, tied for second in the standings, will play two games tonight to make up.

The Browns' victory over Detroit was their 13th this year. Altogether they've won only 47. A 10-run fifth inning during which Vic Wertz hit a grand-slam home run made it easy for Don Larsen to win his fourth game. Larsen also homered. Bill Hunter racked up four hits in five times, including three doubles, and drove in four runs.

U.S. Players Dominate Walker Cup Golf Play

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.

MARION, Mass. (AP) — U. S. amateur golfers polished up the Walker Cup Friday and got ready to send it back to the vault for two more years as they captured three out of four points in the opening foursomes against Britain.

By dominating this section of the two-day match against Britain, the U.S. forces made it almost certain that they will keep the trophy.

Eight singles matches are to be played today over the breezy seaside Kittansett 6,545-yard course but only a complete form reversal could bring the British players enough points to win.

Only Gerald Micklem and John L. Morgan, a pair of veterans of international competition, managed to salvage a point for the British team.

Micklem, the 43-year-old former British amateur champion, and Morgan, a 35-year-old Welshman, turned in a decisive 4 and 3 victory over Bill Campbell of Huntington, W. Va., and Charley Coe of Oklahoma City.

AMICABLY SETTLED

Soon after the start of the morning round of the 36-hole matches, Jim Jackson of St. Louis, a "rookie" member of the U.S. cup team, discovered he was carrying two more clubs than the 14 allowed by the rules.

That brought a threat of disqualification and almost an international "incident" before it was amicably settled by a two-hole penalty against the U.S. team of Jackson and Gene Littler of San Diego, Calif.

U.S. amateur champion Jack Westland of Everett, Wash., and former British amateur champion Harvie Ward of Atlanta, Ga., shellacked John D. A. Langley and Arthur Perowne, 9 and 8.

Sam Urzetta of Rochester, N.Y., 1950 U.S. champion, and 22-year-old Ken Venturi of San Francisco, the youngest member of the team, whipped Ireland's Joe Carr, current British amateur champion, and Ronald White, 6 and 4.

And Jackson and Littler trimmed Scotland's pair of James C. Wilson and Roy C. MacGregor, 3 and 2.

Polio Cases Dropping In Manitoba

WINNIPEG (CP) — Manitoba, the province that topped the West in polio cases, is showing the way to recovery with a consistent fight against the disease. The number of cases is dropping steadily.

Manitoba suffered a record 1,350 cases including 42 deaths during the current season for the highest total on record in any of the three Prairie provinces. Saskatchewan is second with 453 cases and 28 deaths. Alberta has 428 cases and 25 deaths and British Columbia 317 cases and 10 deaths.

The previous record for the West was held by Saskatchewan which had a case total of 1,223 in 1952 and 90 deaths the same year. The previous peak year in Manitoba was 1941 with 1,001 cases and 30 deaths and 1952 in British Columbia with 595 cases. There is no figure available for the number of deaths in B.C. that year.

Dr. M. R. Elliott, deputy minister of health, said the cases in Manitoba have shown a steady decline in the last two weeks. It is particularly noticeable in Winnipeg and suburbs where the height of the epidemic passed about two weeks ago.

SCHOOLS TO OPEN

Dr. Elliott said there is no reason to postpone the opening of Manitoba schools beyond Sept. 14. The epidemic caused the provincial committee on polio to recommend the delay in opening an estimated 1,800 classrooms. Department of education returns show about 1,630 of these in Greater Winnipeg, the rest in rural schools.

Some rural schools, scheduled to open Aug. 25, were delayed only to Aug. 31. Others opened on time. All schools in the province had been scheduled to open by Sept. 2.

The shortage of nurses at Winnipeg's King George Hospital, a major defence post in the polio fight, is a serious problem, Dr. Elliott said.

There are 210 polio patients at the hospital, including 72 in iron lungs. The total nursing staff is 267. About 15 more nurses are expected on the King George staff by Sept. 15.

LIMITED SUPPLY

The provincial government said a limited supply of gamma globulin will be available from United States sources to commercial drug houses in the province. It has not been determined how the polio preventative serum will be disposed of, but federal government inspectors are now checking it.

It is believed the federal government may distribute it through its own channels without letting it on the market. Manitoba has been getting 50 per cent of the Canadian production of the serum.

Manitoba's polio fight has been carried to the little people. Lemonade stands run by children, bazaars, circuses, sales and house-to-house canvasses have netted the polio fund for the province more than $2,800 to date.

Policeman Jailed

GUELPH (CP) — Cpl. William Hodgson of the Ontario Provincial police here was jailed for 15 days Friday when convicted on a charge of drunk driving. His car was impounded for three months.

"WASHDAY" IN THE STRONG ROOM—Supervising her "laundry" workers, the representative of a British insurance firm watches as bank employees convert a vault of the Bank of Brussels into a drying room for some of the $280 thousand American and British banknotes, recovered from the sunken wreck of the Flying Enterprise, which foundered off Falmouth, England, in January, 1952. The Flying Enterprise was the ship on which Capt. Kurt Carlsen made his heroic, but futile, one-man fight against the sea.

Believe U.S. Army Rocket Now Lying On Face Of Moon

NEW YORK (AP)—Is a U. S. army rocket lying on the cold face of the moon, shot there secretly from earth?

Possibly so, says one science fiction writer queried in a survey of the when and how of space travel.

Army experts in February, 1949, announced they had shot a rocket to an altitude of 250 miles above the White Sands, New Mexico, proving ground, he reminds, adding:

"Since then, there has been a virtual blanket of silence on further tests. I find it difficult to believe that the army stopped with that, and did not send more rockets still higher into space."

He half suspects "they have landed some sort of missile on the moon."

QUOTED IN SURVEY

He is quoted in a survey made by Gerry de la Ree, River Edge, N. J., staff member of the Bergen Evening Record, Hackensack, N. J. De la Ree sought opinions about space exploration prospects from 65 men, including rocket experts, astronomers, physicists, and writers.

The results, he says prove nothing except a general faith that some day a man will break the shackles of earth's gravity, and sail through space.

Predictions as to when humans may shoot a rocket to the moon range from the year 1955 to 2000 or beyond.

About 70 per cent of De la Ree's sources said an unnamed rocket might reach the moon before 1975, and 73 per cent said men might reach the moon or another planet before 1990.

One says we may someday have a Lindbergh of space, risking his life in a crude spaceship to reach a sister planet.

MOON CLOSEST STATION

The moon is the closest way station in space, but the moon is losing lustre as the first target. As a better idea, many favor setting up a space ship or platform above the earth, a satellite whirling around like a man-made moon. It could keep going in a pre-determined orbit, its speed balanced by the pull of earth's gravity.

Shooting a rocket to the moon would be a stunt, a costly one, not likely to be light-heartedly financed by governments or any rich man, they said. Unless you could land on the moon and explore it, it would be better to send a rocket around the moon, taking pictures and gathering other data to be brought home.

Dr. Wernher von Braun, chief of the U. S. guided missiles development division at Redstone arsenal, Huntsville, Ala., said a space station could be built in 10 to 15 years if governments set up a co-ordinated space program now. Freight-carrying rockets could be sent up to build a large station carrying a human crew.

It takes tremendous fuel power to get a rocket going fast enough to escape from earth's gravity. But from the space station the power needed to take-off for the moon or elsewhere would be far less. A rocket could kick off on a pre-figured orbit, turn off its power, and fall free in space toward its goal.

As yet, space is still only inviting the curious and the daring.

Exhibition Takes Battering From Weather

By JIM PEACOCK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—The unpredictable elements remained the main topic of conversation today at the Canadian National Exhibition, despite the many varied displays and competitions taking place at the greatest show of its kind.

Tropical temperatures of above 90 degrees scorched the 320-acre CNE grounds and everyone on them for six straight days.

Friday, seventh day of the CNE, the thermometer bounced to 93 degrees by mid-afternoon. Late afternoon saw the wind blustering suddenly to churn dried earth into blinding dust. Light rain came in the evening.

The damaging wind, though causing no injuries to persons, created some havoc with the nightly aerial show. It halted activities at the waterfront, and set carpenters to work in the grandstand enclosure, repairing damaged stage props.

But it brought relief from the heat.

Today the weather forecast was for a high of 70 degrees with scattered showers.

SHELLS STRIKE CARS

Two empty 20-millimetre shell casings, apparently ejected from the RCN Sea Furies firing from about 600 feet at targets at least a half mile out in Lake Ontario, struck empty cars parked on the lake front.

Five more empty casings fell in the Coronation Park area at the eastern end of the grounds, but these caused no damage. No one was injured.

Lt.-Cmdr. Charles T. McNairn of the RCN, officer in charge of the CNE armed forces display, said it is believed high winds drifted the casings in shore. He said all aircraft taking part in the live-firing display were within the strict safety margins imposed from the start. But additional precautions would be taken to prevent a re-occurrence of this should wind conditions warrant.

MAUNFACTURERS' DAY

Today is Manufacturers' and Athletic Day, and CNE directors, who are admitting children at reduced prices for the third day this year, expect attendance to pick up. Cooler weather, they said, should entice a few more patrons.

Attendance Friday was 146,500, compared with 156,500 on the corresponding day of 1952.

Total for the year is 1,184,500, against the 1952 total for the first seven days of 1,310,000.

St. Andrew's YWA Plan Bake Sale

NORWOOD (ENS)—The Young Women's Auxiliary of St. Andrew's Church met at the home of Mrs. Wilson Small.

Mrs. William Golloher had charge of the meeting and opened it with a meditation and hymn. After a short prayer by Mrs. Golloher, Mrs. Gordon Rothwell and Mrs. R. Duncanson read Scripture passages.

Miss Ruth Davey sang a solo. Mrs. John Rogers read a selection from Glad Tidings. Mrs. J. Burtt) gave the topic, "Education in Africa—Old and New." A hymn was sung, followed by a prayer.

Mrs. C. Cuthbertson took charge of the business part of the meeting. It was decided to hold a bake sale September 12. The meeting closed with a hymn, followed by prayer and the benediction.

Mrs. W. Small, Mrs. E. Spencer and Mrs. J. Rogers served lunch.

Vain Try To Save Son

CORNWALL (CP) — A mother's heroic effort to break the 50-foot fall of her son failed Thursday and the boy, Paul Bourdon, 10, was killed. The boy fell from a tree during a family picnic. Mrs. Lucien Bourdon tried to break his fall and suffered a broken collar bone when her son's body struck her.

Refuse To Reconsider Power Authority Licence

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. federal power commission Friday refused to reconsider its order granting the New York ... to construct and operate the project in the International Rapids section near Massena, N.Y.

In a fourth action it denied the request by Public Power and Water Corp., Trenton, N.J., for rehearing of an order, also issued July 15, denying that company's competing application for a licence to construct a hydro project in the same section of the St. Lawrence.

THREE PETITIONERS

The three petitioners whose rehearing requests on the New York power authority licence were denied are the Central Pennsylvania Coal Producers' Association, the National St. Lawrence Project Conference and the Lake Ontario Land Owners and Beach Protctive Association.

The commission said that the Lake Ontario land owners organization presented no allegations of facts which would show that they were an aggrieved party or that matters set forth in their petition had not been heard, considered and disposed of by the commission's opinion.

In Ottawa, start on the long-delayed St. Lawrence power and seaway project is regarded here as appreciably nearer, and perhaps quite near, as the result of Friday's action.

It goes a long way toward clearing the way for New York state ...

Production Cuts Dominate Industrial Front

By WLATER BREEDE Jr.

NEW YORK (AP)—Cuts in production moved into the foreground on the United States industrial scene this week, but their probable long-range effects were not immediately apparent.

They came at a time when production in most lines was still at or near boom levels—steel production up from the previous week, electric power consumption at an all-time high, carloadings highest since Nov. 15, crude oil output highest since December.

More direct in its immediate impact on U.S. economy was the weather.

The prolonged heat wave got most of the blame for sending auto production down to a 13-week low—off 10.6 per cent from last week's output—and for keeping people out of department stores. Retail trade this week slipped below the year-ago volume.

The most talked-about cuts stemmed from a post-Korean change of pace in the defence production program.

Government defence planners cancelled orders for $750,000,000 worth of military planes and slowed down their buying program for the arms stockpile.

The aircraft cut had immediate repercussions in plants making B-47 bombers; Boeing said it is laying off "several hundred" employees at its Wichita, Kas., plant.

In civilian lines, there were cuts this week in farm equipment manufacturing and oil.

International Harvester trimmed its steel-producing operations because of a slowdown in its farm equipment plants.

Mounting stocks of gasoline prompted Sinclair Refining Co. to slash its September refining operations by 20,000 barrels a day—a reduction of five per cent. Phillips Petroleum Co. ordered a three-per-cent cut; other refiners were expected to follow suit. Present gasoline stocks of about 143,000,000 barrels are considered abnormally high.

Auto production slumped this week for a variety of reasons. One was the heat which encouraged absenteeism. Others included unbalanced materials inventories, parts shortages and preliminary tooling up for 1954 models.

The recent $50,000,000 fire at General Motors' transmission plant continued to slow output of cars using hydra-matic.

Won't Consider Arab Complaint

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The UN security council refused Thursday to consider an Asian-Arab complaint that the French-Moroccan situation threatens world peace

Only five of the council's 11 countries voted for inscribing the question on the agenda for debate. Five voted against it and one abstained.

Seven affirmative votes were needed for approval.

Otonabee Cuts Interest On 'Phone Debentures

KEENE (ENS)—Otonabee township council voted Wednesday to reduce the interest rate of the telephone system debentures from five per cent to four and three quarters per cent. Bylaw 1143 effects the change.

A permit was granted for operation of a motel on Highway 7 at Lot 27, Concession 9, three miles east of Downer's Corners.

Other business included: a permit to RCSS 16 school board to erect a school at lot 24, concession 12; an interim payment to Peterborough and Norwood district high school boards of at least 30 per cent of their levies; William Davidson was named sheep valuator; Roy MacFarlane was appointed acting road superintendent.

Acounts totalling $217.35 were ordered paid, and road accounts of $1,869.62 were approved for payment. The clerk was instructed to advertise for tenders for repairing the township hall.

Too Much Control In Health Scheme

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—Dr. Charles Burns, president of the Canadian Medical Association, says he believes in organization of a national health scheme but objects to "the contagious desire to control and regiment."

He told the 28th annual convention of the Newfoundland branch here Thursday that doctors are the logical ones to consult in setting up such a plan. Doctors, he said, should challenge any drastic changes proposed to govern medical practice in Canada.

St. Andrew's WMS Plan Quilting Party

WESTWOOD (ENS)—Mrs. C. Brackenridge opened the meeting of St. Andrew's United Church Women's Missionary Society at the home of Mrs. J. S. Sargent, with a hymn and prayer.

A quilting party was planned for September 10 at the home of Mrs. Stephen Elmhirst.

Mrs. John Davidson took charge of the program and introduced the new text book "Where'er the Sun" by Samuel Moffat.

Using a map of the world, Mrs. Davidson asked the members in imagination to "follow the sun" to the many lands in which the Christian church is established.

Mrs. Davidson also held a Biblical quiz on birds.

Following a hymn and the benediction the hostess served refreshments.

Doesn't Advise Fluoridation

MONTREAL (CP)—Fluoridation, which has won wide acceptance as a preventative of tooth decay in children, received a setback Friday at the 19th International Physiological Congress.

Dr. T. Gordonoff of Bern, Switzrland, said fluoridation of drinking water tends to aggravate thyroid conditions in people afflicted with goitre.

Dr. Gordonoff said he has already recommended to Swiss health authorities that they stop fluoridation. Hesadi he bases his findings on extensive experiments with rats having known thyroid conditions.

The experiments showed that the rats' thyroid metabolism decreased anywhere from 30 to 40 per cent after being subjected to fluoridated water.

Fruit Warehouse Burns

RUTHVEN, Ont. (CP) — The Sunni-Land fruit warehouse was gutted by fire Thursday causing an estimated $50,000 worth of damage. A quantity of boxes, onions and farm machinery were lost. Heat from the burning building was so intense firemen couldn't approach it.

Steadier Tone During Week On Stock Market

By GORDON MacKINNON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

A steadier tone marked this week's activity on the Toronto stock exchange. However, the record heat wave put a damper on trading and daily volumes shrank to around the 2,000,000-share level.

At Montreal, papers led the markets' third consecutive weekly decline. Early in the week, New York trading centres slumped. Groupings then rallied around motors for several sessions of moderate advance.

With Toronto indexes brushing two-year lows at week's end, professional opinions varied concerning the market's next move. Optimists glowed to Trade Minister Howe's statements Wednesday that:

1. Canada's gross national product (total output of finished goods and services) in 1953 will climb about $1,000,000,000 above last year's $23,000,000,000, on the basis of latest estimates;

2. Capital expenditures are running nine per cent ahead of last year's record pace;

3. Retail sales show an increase of six per cent, compard with the same 1952 period.

LESS ROSY

The outlook appears slightly less rosy to the Bank of Commerce. In a recent commercial letter, the bank acknowledges the "gratifying progress" cited by Mr. Howe yet warns that Canada's economy is hanging in "uncertain balance." The uncertainty is due, in large measure, to international tension, the bank says. Too, the large grain carryover, plus the prospect of the third bumper crop in a row, add up to storage and transportation headaches later this year, the bank said.

Toronto industrials were the market's chief losers, dropping another two points on the exchange's index. Western oils halted two weks of unbroken decline as selected issues, such as Royalite, Pacific and Peace River, went ahead on the week.

Golds faded narrowly. Base metals finished the week about where they started. During the week zinc prices slipped a quarter-cent to 10¼ cents—a four-year low.

ON EASIER SIDE

On the Toronto bond market this week, dealers reported prices on the easier side for the second week. Government issues were the most sharply affected.

From Friday to Friday, Toronto indexes showed industrials down 2.27 at 306.25, golds down .99 at 75.02, base metals down .17 at 147.23 and western oils up .15 at 94.68.

Montreal averages had banks down .23 at 34.33, utilities down .3 at 94.6, industrials down .36 at 182.6, combined down 2.5 at 153.3, papers down 10.00 at 714.10 and golds down 1.72 at 54.05.

In New York, the Associated Press average of 60 stocks slipped 80 cents to $103.80.

Voyles Fires Tiger-Cat Quarterback

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The firing of quarterback Bob Celeri from Hamilton Tiger-Cats of the Big Four circuit has burst like a bombshell over the Canadian football scene and given fans plenty to talk about on the busy Labor Day week-end.

Coach Carl Voyles announced Celeri's dismissal Friday as his club was preparing for the Labor Day clash with Toronto Argonauts. He said the ex-Dallas Texan failed to measure up in the passing department.

Voyles will replace Celeri with Stan Heath, an American signal-caller recently cut loose by Calgary Stampeders of the Western Interprovincial Football Union.

While Hamilton fans ponder Voyles' move, the Argonauts nurse troubles of their own. Football writers say they have lost their will to win.

ATTITUDE POOR

Argos won their home opener last week against Montreal Alouettes, but lost Wednesday to the Als. Argo coach Frank Clair said his team played Wednesday as though "they didn't care whether they won or not."

In Montreal, coach Peahead Walker predicts he'll have his Als "up" again today for a game in Ottawa with the Rough Riders.

Rough Rider coach Clem Crowe is crying the blues. He figures his team, which bowed to Hamilton in the league start this season, hasn't got a chance against the Montrealers. But Walker thinks Crowe is playing the wolf in sheep's clothing.

Edmonton Eskimos, 1952 Western Canada champions, play twice this week-end, moving into Calgary today and entertaining Stampeders Monday at home. Much of the sting is missing from Edmonton's attack, however, with Rollie Prather, the former Kansas State end, out with a dislocated elbow.

INJURIES HEAVY

Coach Darrel Royal says minor injuries may cripple his club, but he is confident Esks can at least gain a split with the Stamps. Winnipeg Blue Bombers whipped Saskatchewan Roughriders 13-6 Friday night and Monday move into Regina for a return clash.

Coach Frank Filchock's club has an injury problem. The Winnipeg outfit is in good shape. Missing from Regina practice have been half Bob Marlow, former Alabama star; tackle John Prechek, former University of Washington player, and centre Mel Beckett of Indiana University, a Green Bay draft choice.

Only other games scheduled during the week-end are in the four-team Ontario Rugby Football Union.

Kitchener - Waterloo Greenshirts meet Balmy Beach at Toronto today while the defending champion Sarnia Imperials move against Brantford Redskins. Monday, Balmy Beach plays at Sarnia.

SAFE AT HOME—Dodger Catcher Roy Campanella (39) uses every muscle to catch the ball in time, but the Milwaukee Braves' Johnny Logan is safe at home on Eddie Mathews' double to left centre field. This was in the first inning of the game at Brooklyn that eventually saw the Dodgers lose 6-1.

Kitchener Family Wins Trophy

FONTHILL (CP) — The Allen Shirk family of Kitchener Friday scored the lowest gross aggregate of 344 at the Father and Son Golf Association tournament at the Lookout Point Golf and Country Club here.

The Shirks, comprising the father Allan, and his sons, Don, Grant and Keith, were awarded the N.A. Timmins Trophy for the 18-hole event.

Lowest net aggregate in the Rankin Trophy contest was posted by the Dave Morland family of North Bay with 289. They placed second in the gross aggregate with 345.

The C. R. Warren family of Toronto was second with a score of 293 in the low net contest and the Shirks were third with 295.

Gord Taylor and his sosn, all of Toronto, were third in the gross aggregate with 351.

Conn Smythe, his two sons and son-in-law, of Toronto had a gross of 356 and a net of 296.

Scotch Harbor Wins Illinois Stakes

DUQUOIN, Ill. (AP) — Scotch Harbor, owned by Castleton Farms of Lexington, Ky., overcame a bad break at the start to win the Scotch Pal Stakes for 17 class trotters Friday.

It was the final day for grand circuit racing at the Duquoin State Fair.

The big brown speedster, with Delvin Miller in the sulky, came from last place to win the first heat. He won the second mile handily.

K. D. Owens' Candy Man was second on the first trip with Nancy Dear from Good Time Stables of Goshen, N.Y., trailing the winner the second time around.

Dies From Burns Following Explosion

SPOKANE, Wash. (CP)—Mrs. Laura 'bell Scott, 69, wife of Harry Scott, public relations officer for Sicks' Breweries in Calgary, died in a Spokane hospital Thursday night, less then three days after she and her husband were severely burned in a motel explosion near Spokane.

Condition of Mr. Scott, former sports editor of the Albertan who also has worked on a newspaper at Fort William, was critical Friday.

Port Perry Wins

BETHANY (ENS). — In the first game of the finals in the North Durham League the weaterman and the team from Port Perry combined to turn on a blast of heat that proved too much for the Bethany boys. It was the Ports' game all the way, with McTaggart on the mound and Griffin receiving. Mark had two homers, with Healey, Hayes, Gibson and Christie coming through with some heavy slugging as they counted up 12 runs as against Bethany's two.

Edmunds and Rowan shared the Bethany mound. Both infield and outfield players seemed to be having a Mexican siesta instead of playing ball. They had more errors in the one game than in all the rest of the season, with the exception of Will Rowan, who pulled down two from the clouds. Jackson with a single is credited with the two runs brought in.

The teams:

Bethany—R. Reynolds, H. Ryley. C. Rowan, Edmunds, W. Reynolds, Jackson, B. Ryley, McGill, Pomeroy, W. Rowan

Port Perry — Gibson, Mark,

RAY-OFF—Here's the pay-off play for Alouettes. Jolting Joe Scott is downed behind the line for his touchdown in the third quarter. Jack Carpenter is the Argo player holding him. Ted Toogood (89) and Jack Gray move away. Alouettes won the game by a score of 15-7.

Sees Los Angeles In National Loop

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The Sporting News, in a copyrighted story, Friday put the finger on Los Angeles as an eventual National League city.

Writing under a Los Angeles dateline, J. G. Taylor Spink, publisher of the baseball weekly, said the earliest date for the expansion of the National League would appear to be five years away.

The story cites two incidents to support its prediction of the promotion of the current Pacific Coast League city to major league status:

1. In 1947, the Sporting News reports, the National League revised its constitution to provide for an expansion to a 10-team circuit. This was done, the Sporting News states, without concurring action by the American League.

2. Los Angeles Angels, the PCL club owned by P. K. Wrigley—who also owns the Chicago National League franchise—have informed the nearby Hollywood club they will not renew Hollywood's permit to operate in the Angels' territory after 1958, the Sporting News said.

Introduction of Los Angeles and other west coast cities to major league baseball has been mentioned off and on for some time. Most recently the reports had the American League moving west, particularly during the search for a new home by Bill Veeck, owner of St. Louis Browns.

Ontario, B.C. Athletes Leading At Track Meet

By JACK SULLIVAN

TORONTO (CP) — The two-day Canadian inter-provincial track and field championships, staged in a circus-like setting at the Canadian National Exhibition grandstand, enter their final stages today with Ontario and British Columbia athletes far in the lead for the honors.

The first Canada-wide track meet staged in more than 15 years, held with the aim of improving the country's showing in international competition, it has attracted athletes from every province except Prince Edward Island. Some competitors and officials have criticized the stage setting but all agree that the idea of the championships will revive interest in the sport across the country.

The athletes have competition for spectator interest from trained animal acts, clowns and other side shows from the infield stage of the CNE. Starts of the distance races are held on the backstretch of the quarter-mile track, out of view of spectators and some officials. Nevertheless things have gone smoothly.

In Friday's competition, British Columbia took six championships, Ontario five and Manitoba won the other, a surprise victory in the women's 220-yard sprint for Winnipeg's Dorothy Kozak over Leanor MacKenzie of Vancouver and Toronto.

Miss Kozak won it by about two feet over the west coast star, a member of Canada's British Empire Games team in 1950 and of the country's Olympic team last year.

HEAT TOOK TOLL

The meet was staged in 95-degree heat and it took its toll as only three of seven provinces entered in the gruelling mile relay met the starter's gun. British Columbia won on a tremendous last-quarter dash by 17-year-old Terry Tobacco of Victoria, considered one of the country's most promising quarter-milers. Quebec was second and Nova Scotia third.

Other B.C. victories were taken by Olympic and B.E. Games competitor Bill Parnell in the mile, Bruce Springbett in the 100-yard sprint, Alice Whitty in the high jump, Doug Clement in the men's 440-yard race and John Pavelich in the men's 16-lb. shot put. Fred Ruish of Niagara Falls was third in the shot put.

Ron Miller of Toronto, who competed in the 1952 Olympics, started Ontario on its winning spree with victory in the pole vault. He made only 12 feet six inches, more than a foot off his own Canadian native record. In other field events Bob McLaughlin of Toronto won the men's hop, step and jump and Jo Brenan of Hamilton took the women's shot put.

Gary Douglas of Windsor, Ont., was the only entrant in the men's 440-yard low hurdles and Gwen Hobbins of Toronto took the honors in the women's 80-metre hurdles.

Goes To Sleep On Highway, Gets $50 Fine

LINDSAY (ENS)—Walter Dix, Omemee, who narrowly missed being killed when he fell in the middle of Highway 7 near Reaboro, Thursday night was fined the maximum $50 and 2.50 costs or 30 days when he appeared in police court Friday. Dix was charged after Julius Bodroghy, Toronto, was forced to swerve his car to avoid striking his prostrate body in the east lane of the highway. Bodroghy told the court his front wheel missed Dix's head by about three inches as his car skidded past, then veered into the east ditch, causing damage of some $350.

Bodroghy told the court he went back to where Dix was lying after crawling from his car and found the accused still sleeping. He dragged him off the highway and the OPP was called.

Constable Jim Hall of the Lindsay OPP told the court he arrived at the scene a few minutes later. The skid marks from Bodroghy's heavy car, came within three inches of where Dix's head had been.

Dix, said the Constable was "very drunk" and "completely out". The accused who works for a farmer at Omemee, said he had been in Lindsay most of the evening and couldn't remember anything about going to sleep on the highway.

Magistrate Gee, in imposing the maximum fine, at the suggestion of Lorne Jordan, Q.C. Crown Attorney said "It's not often we hand out maximum fines in this court, but this time, I think you deserved it."

Canada Suffers Worst Golf Defeat

TORONTO (CP) — Canada suffered its worst defeat Friday in the 30-year history of the United States-Canada international seniors' golf team match when the Canadian team scored 18½ points to the U.S. side's 62½.

Playing at the Toronto Golf Club, the U.S. team, which built up a 19-8 lead in Thursday's foursomes, did even better in the singles to score 43½ points to the Canadians' 10½. There were 18 men on each team.

F. D. Ross of Hartford, Conn., and P. S. Jarboe of Weston, Mass., each with 73 on the par-71 course, had lowest scores. Andy Wilson of Burlington, Canadian senior champion, was low Canadian with 74.

ROSEWALL WINS MARATHON

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP)—Second-seeded Tony Trabert of Cincinnati subdued Budge Patty of Los Angeles 6-4, 6-4, 6-2, and Australia's Ken Rosewall outlasted Sven Davidson of Sweden in a marathon match 6-0, 8-10, 2-6, 6-0, 11-9 Friday to gain the semi-finals of the U.S. tennis singles championships.

Trabert's expected and systematic triumph over the 1950 Wimbledon champion came as a letdown after the stirring Rosewall-Davidson duel.

The semi-final bracket is to be completed today when top-seeded Vic Seixas of Philadelphia meets Denmark's Kurt Nielsen and 39-year-old Gardnar Mulloy of Coral Gables, Fla., faces young Lewis Hoad of Australia.

Seixas is favored to add the U.S. crown to the Wimbledon championship he won by beating Nielsen in straight sets.

With such prime favorites as Maureen Connolly, Margaret Osborne Dupont and Doris Hart surviving, the women's division is in the quarter-finals.

Mrs. Jean Rinkel of England advanced to the quarter-finals by beating Mrs. Baba Madden Lewis of Newtonville, Mass., 4-6, 6-0, 6-4.

Britain And Australia Press For Review Of Tariff Agreements

By SUSAN STRANGE

LONDON (OFNS)—Britain will join with Australia in pressing for a review of GATT (General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade) when the parties to the agreement meet at Geneva on September 17. The British-Australian move will be directed chiefly towards revision of the GATT rule which not only forbids a country to increase its tariffs, but also forbids it to lower a tariff in favour of one country or group of countries without lowering it for all.

This no-new-preference rule, as it is called, has chiefly affected Britain and other Commonwealth countries. They have been bound by GATT not to intensify the Imperial Preference system set up by the Ottawa agreements of 1932.

Now, both the British and Australian governments feel the time may come when world trade conditions might make it necessary to encourage tarde within the Commonwealth by a mutual exchange of lower preferential tariffs. In both countries there is a strong body of "Empire-minded" opinion in the Conservative Government Parties—inspired and sustained in Britain by Lord Beaverbrook — which has been steadily campaigning against GATT. The argument of the two delegations at Geneva will attack the General Agreement as a makeshift affair which, by accident, has been frozen into a permanent international code of trade rules by the refusal of the American Senate to ratify the Havana Charter.

ITO IS DEAD

The Havana Charter would have set up a United Nations International Trade Organisation, and replaced the temporary GATT agreement. Now that the International Trade Organisation is dead, it will be argued, GATT should be re-designed to fit the altered circumstances.

The question of whether GATT should be reviewed—and, by implication, whether Commonwealth countries should be free to increase Imperial Preference if they wish—is likely to cause an open split between members of the Commonwealth. India and Pakistan will almost certainly oppose Britain and Australia. Neither has any real interest in maintaining higher tariffs against, say, German manufactures than against British; while their own exports derive little or no advantage from the preferences offered by Britain in return.

The specious argument that the Commonwealth should be allowed to do what Customs unions such as Benelux (Economic grouping of Belgium-Luxembourg and The Netherlands) are allowed by GATT to do, does not impress them, since they have no desire to see the Commonwealth develop into, or resemble, a Customs union. This basic rift in Commonwealth economic policies is plain if one re-reads the joint communique issued after the Commonwealth Economic Conference. This said that a British proposal to press for a revision of the GATT no-new-preference rule was opposed by some Commonwealth governments on the ground that it would obstruct progress towards freer multilateral international trade. As a result, it was decided not to take any concerted Commonwealth action on the issue.

At Geneva, too, it would be surprising if the British-Australian campaign led to any immediate changes in the GATT system. Under a Republican administration, America is certain to be even more bitter in its opposition to Britain's Imperial Preferences than its Democratic predecessor. And while the Eisenhower administration is still in the process of making up its mind on the fundamentals of American foreign economic policy, most other governments would be reluctant to make any overt move to rock the boat.

It is even possible that Britain is agitating for revision of GATT more to show the Americans what would be the likely alternative if they refuse to cooperate with the Commonwealth Economic Plan for partial sterling convertibility and a more stable dollar-sterling balance in the world, than because she hopes any real consequences will follow from the Geneva meeting of the parties to the general agreement.

Of more immediate importance to the British Government is the promised Commonwealth support on another issue—the protection of British farmers against Continental competition.

The Commonwealth conference agreed that member Governments would cooperate with Britain, in an approach to GATT to meet particular difficulties arising from the United Kingdom tariff. The difficulties referred to are those which have made useless the pre-war tariffs against imported vegetables such as lettuce and tomatoes. Unlike most British tariffs, which are imposed on a percentage basis, according to value, these were fixed at a specific rate on a given volume or weight of imports in order to give British growers effective protection except when home supplies were exceedingly low and prices exceedingly hight.

OUT OF DATE

These specific tariffs, calculated on the basis of pre-war prices, are now hopelessly out-of-date and to GATT, which forbids any increase of tariff, they would have been brough into line with the rise in the prices.

The Government, torn between the housewife who demands cheap vegetables, and the home producer who demands a reasonable return other concessions on European exto an on-and-off system of import quotas and bans on imports, which has resulted in arbitrary price fluctuations and general confusion for producers on both sides of the English Channel. What the Government, under considerable pressure from the National Farmers' Union now wants is the right to negotiate agreements providing for new specific tariffs with those European governments chiefy affected—the Dutch for example—in return for other occasions on European exports to Britain.

With Commonwealth backing, and on the understanding that the new arrangement would be made by friendly negotiation with those concerned, Britain may stand a reasonable chance of getting her point of view accepted at Geneva.

Urge Scientific Liaison Officers

MONTREAL (CP)—One of Canada's top scientists today called for the training of special liaison officers to keep teachers and research workers in different fields of science up-to-date on developments.

Dr. Charles H. Best of Toronto, newly-elected pres[illegible] specialists working in different branches of science.

The field was so broad that specially-trained liaison officers were rapidly become a necessity.

He suggested universities should consider training personnel who would be experts in more than one branch of science.

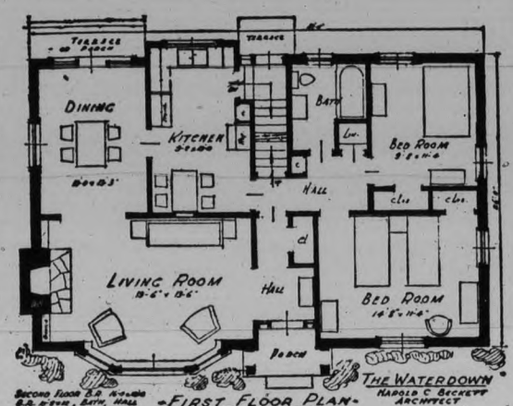
He said the University of Toronto already found it necessary to provide liaison officers to maintain contact between physiology and surgery and physiology and pediatrics.

Beaten And Robbed Elderly Man Dies

BRIDGEWATER, N. S. (CP)—Seaforth Zwicker, one of three elderly persons robbed and beaten by two men last Aug. 19, died in hospital Thursday night.

Mr. Zwicker, 70, died a few hours after the crown proscutor asked postponement of the sentencing of Robert and Bruce Lowe of nearby Lower Cornwall.

Mr. Zwicker and two elderly ladies were beaten at his home and robbed of about $800. The Lowe brothers were arrested three days later.



"THE WATERDOWN"—This is an excellent example of a ranch style bungalow. The width of 42 feet makes it suitable for a 60 foot property. Rooms are spacious and halls are arranged for the best circulation. The second floor provides space for two additional bedrooms and bath. Exterior is in modern colonial with brick, stone and siding. This is another in the series on practical home planning by Harold C. Beckett, Architect, 52 Chatham St., Windsor, Ontario.

Find Neo-Nazis In Two Forms, Scorn Democracy

There are two kinds of Nazis in West Germany—the frontal attackers and the "Unterwanderers," Ernest S. Pisko writes in The Christian Science Monitor.

The frontal attackers have the slogan "Back to Hitler" emblazoned on their banners. Their barely camouflaged guns are trained on every single democratic institution, especially Parliament.

SCORN PARLIAMENT

Their opinion of parliamentary democracy was tersely expressed in a recent issue of Der Weg (The Way), one of the leading Nazi magazines which is published in Argentina and smuggled into West Germany in large numbers. "The parliamentary system," wrote a certain Henri Lebre in an article entitled "The Nonsense of Parliamentarism," "represents hypocrisy and cheating. It gives freedom only to the nation's worst elements."

Thirty years ago, Hitler could have used identical words. In this fact lies the weakness of the frontal attackers' method—it is too reminiscent of Hitler and what he brought about. It may impress those comparatively few Germans who do not need to be convinced, but it hardly appeals to the much larger group of Germans who have been looking for more rational means to restore their self-respect so deeply hurt by the collapse of 1945.

This is where the "Unterwanderers" (infiltrators) come in. They assume the protective coloring of an unobjectionable patriotism or work through persons of known nationalist views but without an embarrassing Nazi record. They do not say openly, "See, how much better it was under Hitler!" but they use such emotion-charged issues as the "German soldier's honor" or responsibility for the defeat or the war-criminal question to lure people over to their side.

They already have succeeded in forcing nearly all the other parties to fall in with their demand for the release of all war criminals. This demand can be heard in every possible form, ranging from crude demagoguery to seemingly dispassionate scholarliness.

On the lower end of the scale is former Panzer Gen. Hermann B. Ramcke who last October, declared that the Americans were the real war criminals. On the other end is August von Knieriem, chief attorney of the I. G. Dye Trust and author of the book "Nurnberg."

In his book Herr von Knieriem contended that the Third Reich was no "criminal state" because it "comprised wide functions that were exercised in a normal and correct manner."

This is almost like saying that Gestapo Chief Heinrich Himmler could not be held responsible for the gas chambers of Auschwitz because he was known to be kind to dogs and canaries.

An extensive review, published in the widely read Frankfurter Allgemeine Zeitung on May 12, quoted from the book's preface a statement by Pope Innocent I who, in 414 A.D., had argued that "one cannot proceed against a people (for its crimes)" and had asked that the past be left to a higher judge. Apparently neither the author nor the reviewer saw that this attitude was adopted by the western powers several years ago.

Nowadays, nobody speaks of a "collective guilt" of the German people. The war criminals still in prison have been sentenced because they were proved to have participated in specific criminal [illegible] by the [illegible] in [illegible] recently when Chancellor Konrad Adenaeur paid a visit to the war-criminal prison at Werl. The weekly Aufwarts, organ of the German trade union youth, compared the chancellor's visit to "Germany's loss of a battle."

By now it no longer is a judicial issue what happens to the war criminals. These people — altogether a few hundred— have become pawns in a political struggle. The cry for their release is not to serve the cause of justice but the cause of a deliberate distortion of history, similar to the circulation of the "stab-in-the-back" myth after World War I, according to which the Kaiser's army remained undefeated in the field but was betrayed by revolt on the home front.

Should the clamor for release of the war criminals succeed, it will be easy to persuade the masses that the freeing of these men was not an act of clemency but an admission by the western powers that no war crimes were committed.

This is the keystone in the new myth building. Once the ugly spot of "mass murder in the first degree" has been removed from the Nazi record, rewritting of the entire history of the years 1933-45 will offer few serious problems.

Wallpaper Can Minimize Less Attractive Detail

Not only is wallpaper a most practical means of wall and ceiling decoration, but it can also be used effectively to emphasize good design—and minimize less attractive architectural detail. Here are a number of problems that are found in many homes and suggestions as to the use of wallpaper for their correction:

IF A ROOM IS TOO NARROW —Long narrow rooms are improved with a subtle two-toned paper on the long walls and bold patterned paper on the short walls. This seems to bring the distant walls closer into the room, thereby squaring it off.

MAKING SMALL ROOMS APPEAR LARGER — Small rooms can be made to appear larger by using light-colored wallpaper or by using stripes horizontally around the room. Cool colors, such as blues, greens and soft greys also seem to make the room expand in size.

MAKING THE LARGE ROOM APPEAR SMALLER — Overly large rooms appear smaller and more livable when papered with warm colors such as pink, rose or apricot. Large or boldly outlined patterns also have the same effect.

WHEN CEILINGS ARE TOO HIGH — Borders may be used to make the room seem lower, using them either at chair-rail height or at the junction of the wall and ceiling. Horizontal stripes have the same effect or the ceiling may be papered in a bold overall pattern in contrast to a more subtle patterned paper on the sidewalls.

WHEN CEILINGS ARE TOO LOW — Panels of scenic wallpaper combined with simple all-over or moontone patterns will make a room seem higher. Vertical stripes or papers in column effects will accomplish this. The ceiling will also seem to recede if papered with cool soft colors.

CORRECTING THE "TOO SQUARE" ROOM — Two different shades or papers of contrasting patterns for the sidewalls will help to relieve the "squareness" of a room. Stress horizontal lines on one side of the room, vertical lines on the other.

IF ROOMS ARE TOO DARK— Halls and rooms with an insufficient number of windows may be lighted considerably by the use of papers in warm light colors, such as yellow, cream or white.

ELIMINATING ARCHITECTURAL DEFECTS — Small all-over patterned paper has the facility of "covering up" uneven or roughly patched walls. Closet doors, particularly if they are the flush type, may be made less conspicuous by papering directly over them.

INEXPENSIVE FLOOR COVERING — As a floor covering for rooms which do not receive heavy traffic, wallpaper can be used to add an unusual note. The surface must be smooth and paper applied with butt points. Several coats of clear lacquer followed by a generous coating of wax, will provide a wearing surface. This idea may also be used as an inexpensive but attractive rug border.

DRESSING UP CABINET TOPS — Built-in furniture may be made more attractive by the addition of wallpaper-finished tops. Lacquer or varnish will provide protection or a sheet of plate glass would be even better. Cabinet fronts, too, can have wallpaper finish for added decoration.

Envious Eyes

TONBRIDGE, England (CP)—Dozens of villages in east Kent are petitioning for electricity service. Big power cables carrying electricity to the cities pass through some villages till using oil lamps.

Soviet Hoping Britain To Return Child

LONDON (Reuters)—The Soviet, which recently permitted Russian-born Mrs. Clara Hall to leave the country and join her British husband in Canada, has indicated it would like Britain to reciprocate.

The British foreign office today confirmed that Russia is pressing for a 13-year-old girl, found in a Nazi slave labor camp and adopted by a British family, to be sent to Russia.

Though the girl knows no Russian and lives like an average English child, she is claimed to be the daughter of a Russian woman, identified as a Mrs. Sebsentova.

The child, Elena, has not seen her mother since she was a year old. She probably has never seen her father.

Inquiries showed that she was a "ward-in-chancery," which meant she could not leave Britain without the permission of justice officials.

The foreign office cannot send her back to Russia without the approval of the British high court, over which it has no jurisdiction or influence whatsoever.

To get her back, Mrs. Sebsentova must make a legal application and might even have to make a personal appearance in the high court. The Russian embassy here could, however, make the application on her behalf.

Making Study Of New System

MONTREAL (CP)—A Yale physiologist reported today on experiments with laboratory animals that may help unlock the secrets of one of the body's least-known systems.

Dr. John H. Heller said in an interview at the 19th International Physiological Congress that the system, ddiscovered about 30 years ago, is the reticulo-endothelial system, or RES.

RES cells are found throughout the body, especially in the liver and spleen.

Scientists say RES seems to play a critical role in maintaining good health. It may provide the key to treating many serious diseases, including cancer and heart disease.

Dr. Heller said he and his colleagues at Yale have stimulated production of RES in mice, rats and other laboratory animals to learn if stimulation helps the body put up a strong fight against disease. Research was continuing.

Report Bob Kesten In London, England

TORONTO (CP)—A city paper says today Bob Kesten, Toronto radio personality against whom two theft warrants have been issued here, is in London, England.

In a London dispatch the newspaper quotes Kesten as saying he plans to tour northern England to make recorded programs for use in Canada.

Two warrants charging theft of a total of $1,136 have been issued against Kesten. The paper says he arrived in London last week-end and that he plans to return to a London apartment in 10 days. The story does not say whether he plans to return to Canada.

4 People Injured In Rail Accident

LONDON (Reuters)—Four persons were injured today when the rear end of a passenger train broke loose as it was entering an east London rail station at Bethnal Green.

The injured were in the front car of the split-off section, which rammed into a steel pillar.

Find It Better To Be Hot Than Cold, Experts Say

MONTREAL (CP)—Delegats to the 19th International Physiological Congress, sweating out one of the hottest weeks in Montreal's history, were told Friday it's better to be hot than to be cold.

Prof. E. F. DuBois of Cornell Medical College, Ithaca, N.Y., said experiments show man adapts himself better to heat than to cold.

Speaking at a symposium on the physiology of cold, Prof. DuBois said humans in temperate and tropical countries are blessed by their ability to get rid of large amounts of heat by sweating.

But sweating in the Arctic, where water freezes quickly, is a different matter. There it is a menace rather than an aid, he said.

MUST KEEP WARM

In fact, because man hasn't a furry skin he has to bundle himself up in awkward clothing, both to keep warm and to protect himself.

Dr. O. G. Edholm of the National Institute for Medical Research, London, said cold leads to a fall in the rate of blood flow, a drop in blood-pressure in the arteries and slowing down of the heart.

Dr. Edholm also confirmed what everybody knows—that fat men don't feel the cold as quickly as thin men. Not only does the fat provide built-in insulation, but there is mor skin tissue to lose heat before interior body temperatures are affected.

Brush Up On Easy-To-Paint Furniture

Painted furniture in the home has regained its 18th century popularity. It is being used for color accent in living rooms as well as kitchens and bedrooms. And with this renaissance a new busines[illegible] It [illegible] are [illegible] sturdy woods, and are ideal for painting. Economy is their obvious feature.

Along with these developments have come new paints, such as flat enamels made from synthetic alkyd resins, that are practically fool-proof in an amateur's hands. The alkyds dry to a hard finish that can be rubbed to a fine, dull lustre with new and harder sandpapers.

Let's say you have purchased a pair of unfinished wooden chairs for your living room and want to do the finest possible job of painting them with an alkyd paint. Here's how you would go [illegible] with a fine production-type sandpaper to remove any dirt or abrasions picked up in transit.

(Production sandpapers coated with synthetic abrasives were originaly developed for industrial use and are now becoming available in paint stores. They are much harder and longer lasting than garnet and flint sandpapers).

Next apply a coating of enamel undercoat or wood primer. Turn the chairs upside down on a table, do the bottoms and legs first, then turn them [illegible] paint the backs. [illegible] dercoats are usu[illegible] them with a

When the under coat has dried thoroughly (at least 24 hours), sand all surfaces lightly with a very fine production-type sandpaper. Then apply the finish coat of flat alkyd enamel with a good nylon-bristled brush.

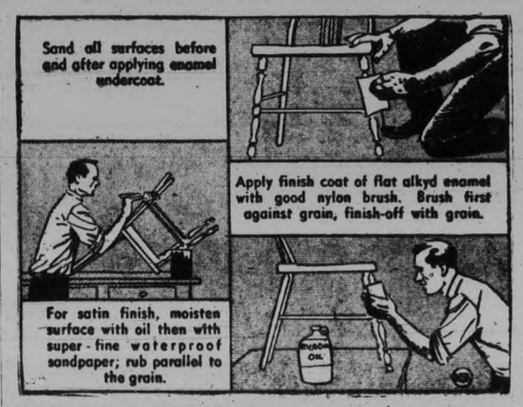
Brush first across the grain. Finish off with the grain, using very little paint on the brush. This latter operation is known as "tipping off" to professionals. It smooths out the paint film, eliminates brush marks and uneven places.

Alkyd enamels are so easy to apply that brush marks, laps, sags and streaks are seldom a problem. The alkyds generally cover in a single coat.

Because they dry to a much harder finish than conventional enamels, it is best to use on them a waterproof sandpaper with a synthetic abrasive, silicon carbide.

Fit a super-fine grade of the paper to a sanding block, preferably one made of soft rubber, curved on one side, flat on the other. Moisten the painted surface with rubbing oil, then rub parallel to the grain — cleaning the surface often with a rag — until it is free of irregularities.

The chairs will have a satin finish when wiped clean.



Painting unfinished furniture at home has regained much of its old-time popularity. It is easy and can save you plenty of money

Holland Plans Super Dikes To Block Future Disaster

By NELS SILS

THE HAGUE (AP)—Racing the menace of Autumn storms, the Dutch are straining every muscle to re-establish their damaged flood defences while planning a long-term program.

Reconstruction miracles have been wrought since the disaster of February 1, but even at best the people of southwestern Netherlands know that their lands and their lives will not be really safe until 1970 at the earliest.

Here is what they hope to complete before the end of September:

1. Close three enormous breaches in dikes on one island.

2. Strengthen the most vulnerable dikes on the 700-mile southern system that was breached in some 450 places by the North Sea.

3. Complete a new alarm and evacuation system for use in possible future emergencies.

In addition, they are faced with three more immediate problems:

1. The return of some 40,000 evacuees who are displaced persons in their own country. About 60,000 have gone back already.

2. Sweetening of the salted soil so that it can be cultivated normally.

3. Rebuilding the farms and restoring their livestock.

The 664,000 people in the stricken area and a government commission of 12 top experts realize there can be no peace with the waters until the remaining gaps in the North Sea coast have been closed permanently—a 20-year project which has been called the most gigantic of the kind ever undertaken.

LAND RECOVERED

Nine-tenths of the 400,000 acres flooded in February have now been recovered. Still under water are 35,000 acres of excellent land on the island of Schouwen-Duiveland, problem child of the engineers, and 3,000 on the island of South Beveland.

A tenth of the country was struck February 1 by a fatal coincidence of Spring tide and high wind. Loss of human life ran to 1,797, livestock deaths to nearly 50,000, and property and production losses to 400 million dollars. American aid will cover about a quarter of total reconstruction costs.

To meet the immediate crisis, projects in the Zuyderzee area, where Holland is gaining new land, were postponed to concentrate men and materials where most needed.

New methods were used to strengthen the dikes and raise them in some cases three feet above old levels. Clay-sand mixtures topped with concrete and asphalt were used instead of clay alone. About 65 big holes and 385 smaller ones were plugged. But there are still three gaps on Schouwen-Duiveland, which is cut virtually in three parts. Engineers hope to close them by the end of September but it will then take weeks of pumping to drain the fields. If they fail to meet the deadline, Schouwen - Duiveland may well be lost.

Water rose 15 feet high there submerging most of 16 villages and drowning 530 people. [illegible] one breach 1,500 feet [illegible] dike, two miles long, around the trouble spot, to stave the sea off long enough to make practical the reconstruction of the old dike.

The first treatment of the soil after the sea has retreated is with gypsum. Barley is the first crop sown; it helps prepare the land for other crops. The average harvest of the area reclaimed last Spring is 20 to 40 per cent. of normal. Five years may pass before the land can be cultivated normally.

But this current activity is child's play to what must be done in the next 20 years to make The Netherlands "a safe place to live in," as one of the top engineers, H. A. Dobbitz, intimated.

As soon as the first emergency has been met, the government named a commission of 12 outstanding experts, headed by August Maris, to make their country safe and report to the government how they want to do it.

CLOSE OFF ARMS

The chief mehod proposed is closing off four southern arms of the sea. The fifth of these arms was closed in 1950; its dam stood up to the February floods.

The commission has told the government it will take some time before it can determine on a course of action. Others outside the commission have made up their minds that shortening the coast by closing off the sea is the only real means to protect the area. Additional suggested solutions would be strengthening and raising present dikes still further.

Aside from the overall safety, closing off the sea would provide additional fresh water, establish some more new land, and set up better connections between the islands and the mainland.

Once the sea arms have been dammed, the outlets of the Maas and Rhine rivers will be blocked and their fresh water led to large basins between the islands.

Over the past thousand years, the sea has clawed at Holland from the north and from the south. It swallowed much land until about 1600 when stronger dikes were built. From then until 1932, land was both gained and lost. In 1932 checked by the Zuiderzee dam which transformed the Zuiderzee into a fresh water basin called Ysel Lake. The southern claw was the one that threatened the heart of the country last February.

3 More Polio Deaths

EDMONTON (CP) — Alberta's polio epidemic showed little sign of slackening Friday as three new fatalities were reported, boosting the unofficial death toll since the start of 1953 to 25, one less than was reported at the corresponding date last year. The number of cases shot up to 428, well above the 364 cases reported at Sept. 4, 1952.

First Woman In Cabinet Of Conservatives

LONDON (AP)—The Conservative party's first woman cabinet minister is a 64-year-old Scot whose schoolmistress appearance and horn-rimmed glasses hide a twinkle in the eye.

Florence Horsbrugh's life has been one of service. Prime Minister Churchill brought her into the cabinet Thursday; the honor is another notable milestone in a public career of almost four decades. She is minister of education.

For her work in canteens and national kitchens in 1916-1918 she was awarded the MBE (Member of the British Empire). The Second World War found her actively helping the blitzed and evacuated families of Britain. She herself was injured in the air raids of 1944.

She first went to Parliament in 1931 from Dunee. She became in 1936 the first woman in Britain's history to make the reply to the throne speech at opening of Parliament. She became the Conservative party's first parliamentary secretary in the health ministry in 1939.

She founded the highly successful London Hostels Associations for the youth of this area; while a junior minister in 1940 she helped Parliament pass the Old Age Pensioners and Widows Act.

60 Students Have Qualified

OTTAWA (CP)—Sixty students to date have qualified for advanced studies this fall under new legislation benefiting children of service men who lost their lives due tow artime service, the veterans affairs department announced today. The average age is 19.

Between 250 and 300 students are expected to qualify by Oct. 1 for financial aid and tuition beyond the secondary-school level, the department said.

The new legislation, passed at the last session of parliament, came into effect July 1. It provides a $25 monthly allowance and payment of tuition fees for four years.

Fathers of 15 of the students served in the First World War. The fathers of some 11,500 pensioned children were killed or died as a result of service in the Second World War. Most of them—more than 7,500—will be graduating from secondary schools between 1956 and 1962.

Search Mountain Caves For Holy Scripts Hidden By Hebrews From Romans

By FRANCIS OFNER
in Tel-Aviv (OFNS)

Around the Dead Sea in Israel, this summer, Professor Nelson Glueck, president of the Hebrew Union College of Cincinnati, O., is searching in the salt mountains of the Sodom-Engedi-Beersheba area for holy scripts which might have been hidden there by Hebrew sages fleeing from Roman conquerors. The only places his team of six explorers will not be visiting are the goat-infested caves, many of which are ridden with sub-tropical diseases. These grottoes are out of bounds even to Israel soldiers, who are allowed to enter them only in course of military action.

The search for these manuscripts began six years ago, in the last days of the British Mandate, after Arab shepherds found ancient scrolls in a cave near the northern shore of the Dead Sea, today held by the Arab Jordan Kingdom. That find turned out to be the most important discovery of Biblical manuscripts of recent times, bringing to light a group of Hebrew texts of the Old Testament, some 1,100 years older than any such text previously known.

SOME FOUND IN 1947

Although several other important documents have been found in nearby caves since 1947, no systematic searches were made in Israel until this summer. Caves around Massada, the last Jewish fortress against the Romans, which fell in 72 AD, will be a particular goal for the archaeologists—some of whom believe that Massada's defenders, after having withstood the Roman siege for three years, may have hidden some Scrolls of the Law before committing suicide when they realized they could hold out no longer.

Professor Glueck is also looking for old Bedouin tracks, because, he says, they usually correspond to ancient roads, and so give a clue to main centres of the past. The few springs in the area, such as En-Gedi, are also of great archaeological interest. It was near En-Gedi that Professor Benjamin Mazhar, rector of the Jerusalem Hebrew University, last year found early Iron-age pottery, about 3,000 years old. Professor Glueck knows he may have to speed up his work, as modern settlements developing at Sodom, En-Gedi and other places threaten ancient sites.

Whatever may be found by Professor Glueck's expedition, it will form part of his third book of a trilogy.

The first two books were "The Other Side of the Jordan" and "The River Jordan"; this one will be "The Western Side of the Jordan." The first two were the product of nearly twenty years of archaeological research, mainly in the Jordan Kingdom — a country which, as a Jew, Professor Glueck cannot enter since Arab-Jewish trouble began in 1947.

Among Glueck's most important discoveries are about five hundred sites, once inhabited by the Nabataeans, an Arab tribe inhabiting the desert areas between the Red Sea and the River Euphrates some 2,000 years ago. Professor Glueck discovered that the Nabataeans, although living mainly from trade between Arabia and India on one side and the Mediterranean countries on the other, were also intensively settled on land, "making the desert bloom." The water engineers of the Nabataeans were, says Glueck, "the best so far known in history." With the help of terraces, dams and cisterns they caught every drop of rain in this water-hungry area.

Professor Glueck's better-known discoveries include King Solomon's copper mines, near Aqaba-Eilath, where modern Israelis are today opening up mining industries. Now this year's investigations are likely to bring more knowledge about the past of this barren and forbidding area—where the Patriarch Abraham wandered in Biblical days, and the wife of Lot turned to a pillar of salt.

Electric Shock Fatal

WALLACEBURG (CP)—One hydro worker was killed and another severely burned Friday when 2,250 volts of electricity passed through their bodies.

Archie Stewart died in Chatham Hospital despite efforts to save him. Jay Fairbanks suffered burns to his right hand and foot and was reported to be in fair condition. The men were pulling in a new line with an old wire when the wire broke and whippd up to an 8,000-volt line.

Protest Order Allowing Liquor Sold To Forces

WASHINGTON (AP) — Temperance forces arose Friday against a new army order permitting liquor to be sold at United States officers' and non-commissioned officers' messes for the first time in more than 50 years.

Clayton M. Wallace, executiv director of the National Temperance League, Inc., said the order may result in "tragic messes," and that his organization will consider asking Congress to make a change.

The president of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, Mrs. D. Leigh Colvin, predicted in Evanston, Ill., that the new army policy will bring a storm of protest from mothers.

With commanders instructed to "encourage abstinence, enforce moderation and punish over-indulgence," liquor now may be sold by the drink or by the bottle to commissioned and non-commissioned officers over the age of 21.

The air force announced it is putting th same system in effect at all its bases in the United States and its territories.

Actor John Carradine Jailed For Contempt

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actor John Carradine, 47, was jailed early today on a contempt warrant charging he owes his former wife $11,000 in alimony payments.

Carradine, arrested after his performance last night in a Hollywood theatre, said he had settled matters two years ago with his ex-wife, now Mrs. Gordon Bennett, 42, of Oakland.

Carradine is now married to actress Sonia Sorel.

May Close Parts Of Abbey Because Repairs Needed

LONDON (Reuters) — Parts of Westminster Abbey may have to be closed to the public unless immediate repairs are made to the stones of the centuries-old building.

Archdeacon Dr. Adam Fox, treasurer of the Abbey, made a special plea to the women of Britain to aid the £1,000,000 ($2,800,000) appeal launched by Prime Minister Churchill last January.

Fox said that only $840,000 has been raised and the Abbey still is in "grave danger."

"Much of the more serious damage is in the higher parts of the building," he said. "Here the stone is rotting and crumbling away. Many of the pinnacles which lent the exterior such grace and height are rapidly becoming unsafe. If they are left much longer without attention they will fall."

CAUSED BY CHEMICALS

The archdeacon said most of the damage to the Abbey has been caused in the last 100 years by soot and chemical impurities poured into the air by the city's industries.

The 900-year-old Abbey, the scene of coronations since William the Conqueror, contains many relics of Britain's history and is the burial ground of many of its kings. Poets, Warriors and statesmen lie entombed within it as well.

The "save the Abbey" appeal, was launched Jan. 30, but was given second place when the disastrous floods hit Britain early in February. It later was eclipsed by the Coronation, but now is being revived.

Tests With Antibiotics In Surgery Reduce Operations, Chances of Infection

By RICHARD KLEINER

NEW YORK (NEA). — If the present trend continues, there'll be a new motto posted on the walls of every operating room: "Reach For an Antibiotic Instead of a Knife."

Over the last few years, surgeons have quietly been experimenting with antibiotics — the same wonder drugs your family doctor gives you for a bad cold. And, because of their ferocious ability to fight bacteria, these modern medical miracles have made two important contributions to surgery.

First, they've done away with some few operations completely. These are infections that surgeons used to have to cut out. Now they can be licked by antibiotics.

Secondly, they've made surgery safer. One of the great dangers of going under the knife is that an infection sets in. "Complications," the obituary used to read. Today the surgeon can control most of these infections with antibiotics.

❖ ❖ ❖

The drugs used in all this work are the now-familiar names—penecillin, streptomycin, aureomycin, terramycin, and chloromycetin. The newest wrinkle is [illegible] your doctor notices that your child's tonsils are badly infected during the summer, he will try to postpone the operation. There is a belief that it is unwise to take tonsils out during the polio season. Antibiotics, by controlling the infection, allow such a postponement without danger.

Many doctors say that a tonsillectomy can be postponed indefinitely, by using antibotics. But there is no unaniminity of medical opinion on that score.

With appendectomies, it's the same story. Some say an infected appendix can be brought under control by antibiotics, meaning the operation is unnecessary. Others disagree violently. But they all agree on one thing: a ruptured appendix isn't the surgical scourge it once was.

CONTROL GERMS

When an infected appendix bursts, it spews germs all around the abdominal cavity. This condition, peritonitis, was almost always fatal. Antibiotics are a pretty good control of peritonitis.

Antibiotics have made other operations less severe. One instance involves diabetics who, as they grow older, often suffer from poor circulation. This is particularly true in the extremities, like the toes and fingers. Infection sometimes [illegible] of poor [illegible] Any structural de[illegible] a perforated ulcer, must still be repaired by surgery.

LESSEN DANGERS

Many research reports by surgeons indicate that antibiotics have done more to lessen the dangers of the operating table than anything since the discoveries of anaesthesia and antiseptics. That would make them the greatest surgical advance in about a century.

The classic example of no-longer-needed surgery is the mastoid operaion. An infection of the mastoid bone in the ear formerly required a delicate operation. Many children had to go through it, and it left an ugly hollow behind the ear.

Nowadays, antibiotics clear up a mastoid infection quickly. In most hospitals, the operation is no longer performed.

A similar happy fate may be in store for infections in other parts of the body—in the tonsils and appendix, for example. This question is still up in the air, with a controversy raging in medical circles. But there is agreement, according to medical research, that antibiotics permit the operation to be postponed.

This is especially important in the case of tonsillectomies. If it may still be necessary to amputate a toe or a finger, but in the pre-antibiotics age surgeons would cut off a leg or arm to prevent the infection from spreading.

SINGLE OPERATION

With some afflictions, antibiotics may mean only one operation, against a series. In osteomyelitis, an infection of the bone marrow, surgeons used to cut out the affected area, bit by bit, in a lengthy series of operations. It was too dangerous to cut it all out at once, since the operation itself might spread the infections. Today, one operation for osteomyelitis is the rule, because the infection danger has been reduced by antibiotics.

Any surgery on the colon, such as a cancer removal, was formerly considered quite dangerous. That region of the intestines is full of bacteria, which could easily spread and infect the rest of the body. But the mortality rate is down appreciably; surgeons today sterilize the large intestine with antibiotics both before and after an operation.

Other surgery — ranging from major operations on the heart to minor work on the surface—have been made easier by antibiotics. The much-publicized new operations on the heart valve, to re-

Worker Priests Are Found Among Ordinary Workmen

By HAROLD KING

PARIS (Reuters)—A unique religious movement is being developed in France inside the Roman Catholic church may have a far-reaching effect on the social and political attitude of the next working-class generation.

This movement is that of the "worker priests," officially known as "the mission of Paris."

The worker-priests are fully-ordained priests who work, incognito, as ordinary workmen in factories or other places where a large number of employees are concentrated. Their mission is to influence the working class by example and behavior instead of preaching or evangelizing.

They do an ordinary day's work in the factory or behind the wheel of a transport truck or carrying vegetables or fruit in the Paris market. They live in the very poor quarters of the city or the Communist belt of the suburbs. They make friends with the poorest and most abandoned in their district, and they say mass, which any neighbors or local friends are welcome to attend, on the dining table of their lodgings.

The movement started during the German occupation when many priests were taken prisoner and deported for forced labor by the Germans.

Thrown into intimate daily association with other men in unhappy and cruel conditions, some of them returned with a strong feeling that some new approach was needed to get the message of the church to the workers.

In March, 1943, in the midst of the German occupation of France, a priest called Father Godin submitted a report to the then Archbishop of Paris, Cardinal Suhard, which asserted that in existing circumstances the proletariat "was not ripe to become Christian" and that if by a miracle the entire working class were suddenly converted, the existing situation would not permit it to remain within the church.

Sanction was given for a small number of priests to enter the new mission field of worker-priests in Paris and some provincial centres.

The movement is still small. Today, there are 90 worker-priests in France. The 25 working in Paris have all been parish priests. The total number of priests in France is 51,000.

Christian Life Not Easy Contains Many Hazards

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D.D.

Saint Paul, as Saint Peter is reported as saying (II Peter 3:16), wrote "some things hard to understand."

He wrote, also, a great deal that is simple, clear and beautiful, with the greatest perfection of expression and style, such as I Corinthians 13, Ephesians 3 and many other passages.

And, if some passages are obscure or massive in their exposition and argument, he wrote also a great deal that is deep in perception and thought, but that becomes clear enough in its insight and practical wisdom when one meditates upon it.

Such passages, I think, are those in which Paul mentions money and possessions. He writes about the Christians "as poor, yet making many rich" (II Corinthians 6:10); "as having nothing, yet possessing all things."

James, too, writes (James 2:5) of the early Christians as "poor in this world's goods, rich in faith."

Paul writes of "the unsearchable riches of Christ" (Ephesians 3:8). In the most remarkable passage of all (Ephesians 21:23) he sets forth the fact and doctrine of the Christian's wealth: "Therefore let no man glory in men. For all things are yours; whether Paul, or Apollos, or Cephas, or the world, or life, or death, or things present, or things to come; all are yours; and ye are Christ's; and Christ is God's."

I can imagine a cynic or scoffer saying that that sort of wealth won't do you much good in paying the doctor and the hospital when you're sick, and in meeting all the hard-pressed situations that call for hard cash and legal tender.

All that is true, and no one was more aware of it than Paul. He was a sound, practical economist in the ordinary things of daily life and need.

And, what is more to the point, he was a great originator of organized relief, gathering funds from the better-to-do Christians in successful trades for the relief of their poorer brethren, especially in the church at Jerusalem, where the poverty of Christians seems to have been acute.

No true Christian can ignore the social problems of poverty and need, or minimize the ways and means of solving it. There is no blessedness about poverty.

It has been my observation that those who sound the blessings of poverty are either usually those who have never themselves known want, or those who, whatever their motives, are apt to be parasites depending upon others.

The true note of the Old Testament was that of abundance, of hills dropping fatness; and Christianity ever abolished that worthy economy.

But the Christian's wealth of which Paul wrote was real, even if it was not material. The reality and the evidence of it are on every hand. It was a pagan who wrote, "Cleon hath a thousand acres, but the landscape I." A song says, with some truth, that "the best things in life are free."

And the free grace of God is the freest, richest thing of all. What Paul wrote stands as a supreme invitation and a supreme fact.

TO VISIT CITY

Gerald F. G. Hughes, Canadian Trade Commissioner at Beirut, Lebanon, whose territory includes Iraq and Syria, will visit Peterborough on September 18, James Fraser, manager of the Chamber of Commerce, announced today. Mr. Hughes is on a tour of Canadian industrial centres, and while in Peterborough will discuss trade with his country.

Officers Signed Letter To Save Lives

FREEDOM VILLAGE, Korea (AP)—A United States army major said today he and 37 other officers signed an anti-American Communist letter in 1950 because if they had refused some would have died "as sure as there is a God in Heaven. . . ."

Maj. Newton Lantron, 39, of Mesa, Ariz., said so far as he knows, "no American had any part in writing the letter. It was written by the Communists and handed to us to sign."

The letter, signed by the 38 American officers, was read by Russia's Jacob Malik to the United Nations.

Lantron said he remembered that the letter criticized the United States but he cannot remember just what it said.

Of the 38 who signed, only 13 are still alive, Lantron said.

Two were shot and the others died from starvation and lack of medical care, he said.

HEAVILY GUARDED

Lantron said the 38 officers who signed the anti-American letter were herded together at Pyongyang "and guards with tommy-guns lined up ahead of us."

"The Communists held an election to determine which of us were to read what they had written—but the guns were levelled at the group," he said.

Lantron added that in addition to threatening to shoot the officers, the North Koreans threatened "to turn the Korean civilians loose on us."

He shuddered as he told of watching Korean civilians torture South Koreans and Americans.

"Some of the things they did were awful," he said.

WIDESPREAD PROPERTY DAMAGE was caused in Peterborough and district early Friday evening as the long heat wave was brought to a spectacular end by a violent wind and electrical storm that brought scores of trees and limbs crashing to the ground, interrupting electrical and telephone service and blocking traffic. A car (top, left) belonging to Ken Anderson, 339 Burnham St., was caught by a falling tree as he was driving east on Lansdowne St. near Sherburne St. Typical of the many road blocks created by falling trees is the one (top, right) at McDonnell and Water Sts. Most serious was the fire caused by a lightning bolt which destroyed the barn and its valuable contents, belonging to Harold Heard, on the 4th concession of Smith township, about three miles north of Peterborough. The bottom photo shows the blazing barn shortly after it collapsed, with the contents still burning.—(Examiner Staff Photos)

Storm's Lightning Causes Smith Barn Fire; Stock, Crops Destroyed

1,000 Bushels of Grain Consumed By Flames, 36 Pigs, Threshing Machine Lost By Farmer After Thunderbolt Strikes

Fire caused by a lightning bolt during the storm early Friday evening destroyed a barn and its contents about three miles north of Peterborough. The large L-shaped barn was the property of Harold Heard, on the 4th concession of Smith township. Thirty-six pigs, seven calves one to nine months old, and 50 chickens perished in the blaze. Also destroyed were 75 tons of hay, 400 bushels of wheat, 650 bushels of oats, a milking machine and motor, a wagon with its load of oats, all Mr. Heard's property, as well as a threshing machine and separator which had been stored there following the day's threshing.

The amount of property loss has not yet been determined. The barn and its contents were partly covered by insurance. Firemen succeeded in saving a nearby driving shed which was several times threatened by the blaze.

A gang of men had been threshing at the farm that day and had just sat down to supper when the lightning bolt struck the north-west corner of the barn with a loud crack. In a few minutes the entire barn had burst into flames.

PHONE FIREMEN

The alarm was telephoned in to the fire department substation by a neighbor, Mrs. Lee. A pumper and five men responded from the substation and another pumper, with three men, including Capt. Frank Shearer, went from the main city fire hall but the barn was a blazing inferno on their arrival.

Fortunately, the wind was from the west and so the farm house, which stands about 150 yards south of the barn, was not in danger. But there was danger from embers to a neighboring farm.

Mr. Heard's cattle were taken to the barn of his next door neighbor, Edison Kimball, for milking, and other stock saved from the fire were cared for by other neighbors.

Mr. and Mrs. Heard have lived at the farm for four or five years. They have two children, Neil, three years old, and Dianne, a year old.

Girl, 16 Months Drowns In Well Harwood Home

COBOURG (ENS) — The Rice Lake district was saddened yesterday afternoon by the tragic death of little 16-months-old Carol Anne Grattan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Trevor Grattan who reside on the county road between Gore's Landing and Harwood. The youngster was toddling about the farmyard and fell through a small hole in the cover over the well and drowned.

Mrs. Grattan missed the child between noon and one o'clock and started to search for the tot. An impulse took her to the well where there was a small hole in the cover. She lifted up the cover and peering into the shallow well saw something white in the clear water of 10-foot depth.

A neighbor, Charlie Burrison, and his son, Osler, went down into the well and brought out the child. The two Burrisons and another neighbor, George Eadie, applied artificial respiration for an hour and three-quarters but were unable to revive the youngster.

CAROL GRATTAN

No inquest will be held. The fatality was investigated by Provincial Constable Frank Clough of Cobourg.

Lightning Fires Metal Bed In Farm Home

WARKWORTH (ENS)—Lightning hit the home of Merville Pratt, four miles west of Warkworth early Friday evening when a severe wind storm swept this district.

The lightning bolt struck a hydro wire and followed it to the two-storey house, going through the bricks into a bedroom in the northwest section of the house. It hit a metal bed, setting fire to the mattress and other bedding.

Mr. Pratt called the Warkworth fire brigade. However, a neighbor, James McVety, arrived at the Pratt home minutes after the lightning hit and the two men soon had the fire under control.

In dense smoke caused by the burning mattress, the two men worked with fire extinguishers to douse the flames. By the time the fire was out a large crowd of neighbors had gathered to help.

Dr. J. F. Jolliffe of Warkworth made a quick trip to the Pratt home, also arriving before the brigade. He answered the call to help Mrs. Pratt who is an invalid.

Small Tornado Damages Cars, Houses Near Kendal

COBOURG (ENS)—A small tornado raked the village of Kendall, about 10 miles northeast of Newcastle, travelling east. At the end of the village it turned around and swept back through the main street, leaving a quarter-mile swath of destruction between 5:30 and 5:50 p.m. Friday.

After it left the village it veered south and ripped the roofs off at least three barns.

Left behind was a village in shambles with trees, hydro poles, TV aerials and chimneys toppled over. At least three houses were damaged by trees and one car was smashed.

Two trees hit the home of Mrs. Joseph Martinell, 76-year-old widow. As she was preparing supper one tree crashed on top of her back kitchen almost flattening it, and another caved in the verandah at the front of the house.

At the home of Allan Stevens, a large elm crashed into the side verandah and punched a ragged hole in the roof of the house.

ONE CAR SMASHED

At least one car was smashed by a toppling tree.

Several barns lost part of their roofs. One of the unlucky farmers was Harvey Carscadden who has a farm about a quarter mile south of the main street. Part of his barn roof was torn off.

Mrs. Carscadden's view of the storm was terrible. I thought the whole village was going to blow away."

SEES TREES FALLING

She said she looked out a side window and saw the neighbor's trees blowing over. "I thought our trees would come down so I took the children across the street to safety," Mrs. Mercer said. "We could hardly see anything when the storm hit, it was so sudden."

North of the village there was no damage done. Most of Kendal's 125 residents were up most of the night clearing away debris.

Warden of Durham-Northumberland counties and reeve of Clarke township in which the village is located was expected to visit the village to see for himself the damage done.

Blame Revolt On Freedom Given Women

COLOMBO, Ceylon (AP)—Male resentment over new freedoms for women was said today to have been one of the reasons for the reported overthrow of the government of the Maldive Islands.

Reports reaching here Friday from the Coral group 460 miles southwest of Ceylon said President Amin Didi had been imprisoned and the government taken over by his cousins, Ibrahim Didi and Mohammed Ali Didi.

These reports blamed the crisis on a food shortage following a bad fishing season. The islands export dried fish in trade for rice.

Maldive fishermen, said here, however, there also has been trouble over women's rights. The islanders are Moslems. Wives appeared without veils this year for the first time since the islanders' [illegible] years, were proclaimed a republic last January.

Burned Lawns Will Survive Say Experts

You gardeners who lose sleep over your brown lawns; take heed of the words of one of the country's best gardeners. Don't worry.

If the heat wave has extracted the nice green color from your lawn and replaced it with a sort of dirty brown, there's every chance it will make a good comeback before the end of the month.

This encouraging statement was attributed to probably Canada's leading authority on Nice Lawns, Edward Wood, chief horticulturist of the Federal District Commission. Under his care and control come the grassy expanses of Ottawa parkways including those along the driveways and parks, on parliament hill and many acres in Hull.

NO DOUBT

Mr. Wood said there is "no question" about the now burned lawns making a comeback before the end of the year. All they need is a few good rains and some cool, moist nights.

As for the farmlands, Dr. T. M. Stevenson, chief of the forage plants division at the Ottawa Experimental Farm, expressed similar [illegible] as clover, alfalfa and brome grass which can produce additional growth at this time of the year."

One of the pasture damage results has been the decreasing milk production on farms where cows have been depending on pasture only.

Lloyd Hill of Niagara Falls said last Monday that he had been retained to take Sanders out of the barrel in the lower river after the jump.

There were 12 deaths in 316 cases during the same period last year.

Baxter Will Stress Wheat Problem

WINNIPEG (CP)—Beverley Baxter, British member of Parliament, said Friday he will bring Western Canada's wheat problems directly before the British government when he returns home.

Addressing the Canadian Club of Winnipeg, he said he would bring the wheat situation here to the attention of his government because it is a shame "the fruits of the earth should go unplucked when there are so many mouths to feed."

School Life Not What It Used To Be Chemistry Result

The modern school house is a far cry from that of the "hickory stick" era. Central heating and even air conditioning have replaced the old wood stove. Special lighting protects young eyes from strain. Classroom walls are painted in soft shades scientifically chosen for the psychological effect on young temperaments. Even the glare from the window glass has been toned down.

Like so many of the improvements of modern life, all these are the result of the chemist's work. Chemical science is continuously searching for new and better ways of making things.

Modern schools now have window shades that let in sunlight and do not crack in heat or cold, dustless chalk and plastic pencil cases. Sanitary facilities in schools today are sometimes better than in the children's homes and it is no longer necessary to break the ice on the well to get drinking water in winter.

Our ancestors may have scratched their lessons on slate but not today's youngsters. They ask mother for a nickel for a new scribbler and write with a rubber-tipped pencil which is a development of modern chemistry from its eraser tip and shiny lacquer to its carefully blended graphite "lead."

Paper is another school-room item vastly improved by chemical science. It is tougher, and whiter and does not tear as easily. Modern ink stains can be washed from school clothes and even ink spots on paper can be removed by chemical solutions.

Schoolbags made of leather tanned by a chemical process were an expensive item seldom purchased in grandfather's day. They are still available but "Fabrikoid" satchels that can be made to look like leather are long-wearing and very different from the old coated fabric ones that used to chip off. School books are also covered in this modern plastic-coated material.

Today's youngsters also have every chance to be much healthier than former generations. Routine medical and dental examinations have become an accepted part of Canadian school life. The X-ray film is a product of the chemical industry.

Schoolyard romps are as energetic as ever but today's children are less likely to have to wear patches on their clothes. The chemists and the textile manufacturers have been working together for a long time to develop fabrics with maximum wearing qualities.

Children's clothing has become less bulky as a result. It is also lighter and warmer than ever before with the introduction of tough synthetic fabrics. The hard-wearing, easy-to-care for qualities of nylon, for instance, are a real boon to mothers. Nylon snowsuits and windbreakers are wind and waterproof while tricot shirts and blouses are easily washed and need little or no ironing.

For rainy days there are plastic "slickers" and rubbers which fold up so compactly they can be tucked into school bags when the rain stops. All these improvements are the result of painstaking research by chemists who, not so long ago, themselves trudged off to school.

A GLOBE in your home or a map on the wall can be put to real advantage when your children are of school age.

Maps Are Fun, Kindle Interest In Geography

By NANCY CLEAVER

A new school year is starting, and it might well be marked in a home where there are children by investing in a map such as the new map of Canada (50c Dept. of Mines and Technical Surveys, Ottawa).

Did you ever wonder who drew the first map? No one really knows. Perhaps a cave man took a pointed stick and sketched on the ground a rough drawing for his mate to see where he had gone on his last hunting expedition. Maybe a fighter scratched on a soft stone a picture to show where he thought the enemy of the clan were hiding. In days of peace and in times of war, from the dawn of history, maps have played a vital part.

MAPS IN 2,500 BC

The earliest maps which are in existence were scratched on clay tablets by Babylonian merchants around 2500 BC to show their estates. In the 5th Century BC the Greeks drew the world which they knew around the Mediterranean on bronze plates. It was the Greeks who first conceived the idea that the world was not flat but a sphere. Later this was doubted by the conquering Romans. Around 240 BC the Greek mathematicians had succeeded in measuring the earth's circumference almost correctly, and a hundred years later one of their scholars, Crates of Mallos, built a huge global map.

The Romans, unfortunately were less scientific. But they were practical soldiers and they drew maps to show their conquests. Their network of roads made an impressive map. These roads were constructed into the lands overcome by Alexander the Great. On their maps the Romans depicted the earth as a flat disc surrounded by water.

In the Middle Ages, it was the Church which kept the light of learning burning. Most of the maps which scholars drew with great care, illustrated Biblical histories or commentaries. Many of them were most ornate and picturesque.

In the middle of the thirteenth century, one Englishman, Mathew Paris, worked on a map of his homeland for the use of travellers. Three centuries later, Elizabethan England was the first country to conduct a survey and publish a National Atlas.

How To Give A Little Girl Her First Home Permanent

Nowadays the Cereal Set's hairdos are as varied as their Mammas' — thanks to the reliability, ease and success of children's permanents, given at home. It's a pity for any little girl who wants curls not to have them. Gone are the days when straight stringy hair must be braided or Dutch cut. Many a small head of once unmanageable hair is now wavy and manageable. And many a small heart has its dearest wish.

So, mothers—don't be timid. If you're about to use a permanent for the first time, just follow these helpful hints.

First, avoid guesswork by choosing a home permanent specially made for the texture of children's hair—with a gentle waving lotion and fixed timing. (The newest children's permanent on the market has the shortest waving time, and even comes with an animated toy, to hold the child's attention while back curls are rolled.)

Second, read directions carefully. Even experienced home permanent users should do this. Remember, manufacturers spend fortunes getting directions just right.

Third, follow directions. Have the hair clean and shaped. Use the proper amount for each curl. Don't shorten the waving time—manufacturers know what gives best results. If they say thirty minutes, that's what they mean. Start timing from the minute hair is rolled and in its plastic turban. An alarm clock or kitchen timer will help.

Don't worry about having the curls look professional when they're rolled. If you keep the hair smooth, and rolled the full width of the curler . . . and if you follow directions and don't hasten the timing, you'll be all right.

In fact you'll find you really have some professional skill. You can roll short hair to the scalp, all over the head, for an all-over curl. Or you can get a little "bounce" in the hair ends by rolling only one twist above the place where you want the hair to curl.

And don't be afraid to wash and brush frequently, once the permanent is in. It will only make the curl prettier and easier to handle.

You'll be delighted with your first job—and so will the lucky child.

Mr., Mrs. T. H. Squire Hold Diamond Wed. Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Herbert Squire, 684 Water St., celebrating their diamond wedding anniversary today received a telegram of congratulations from Queen Elizabeth II.

The anniversary was celebrated with a dinner held in the Sunday school building of the George St. United Church with members of the Women's Association serving. More than 50 guests were present coming from Albany, New York, Kingston, Montreal, St. Thomas, Toronto, Hamilton, Havelock, Norwood and Glencove.

Three members of the original wedding party attended the affair, the bridesmaid Mrs. John Elliott (Alice), a flower girl, Mrs. Fleda Lyle and Mrs. Archie Dunkin, formerly Anne Elliott, the bride's sister.

Also present for the festivities are daughters, Mrs. W. R. Howson (Vera) and Mrs. P. S. Wright (Mary), both of Toronto and only son T. Earl Squire of McCreary, Manitoba. One granddaughter, Mrs. Douglas Welland (Margaret) who attended PCI for a year and is now living in Scarboro, was also present with her three children, the only great grandchildren of the 60-year-wed couple. They are six-year-old Ann, four-year-old Beth and one-year-old Pam.

The only grandson, Lt. Allen Squire, was unable to attend as he is sailing with the RCN in the Panama Canal region.

Mrs. Squire was born Margaret Jane Elliott, in September, 1871, in Norwood, youngest daughter of Isabel Howson and John Elliott. Mr. Squire was born in December, 1870, near Wolverhampton, in Staffordshire, England, the youngest son of Mary Lane and Joseph Squire. He came to Canada in 1886 with three of his brothers. A miller by trade, he owned and operated many flour and grist mills throughout Ontario, finally settling in Peterborough about 25 years ago.

The Rev. W. J. Buchanan married the couple at the home of the bride's parents September 6, 1893 and before retiring in Peterborough, they made their home in various places including, Lonsboro, Smiths Falls, Queensboro and Mount Bridges.

Today Mrs. Squire was wearing a mauve cashmere dress, the same shade as her wedding dress 60 years ago. A white orchid, given to her by her son, Earl, completed the ensemble.

The couple said they are more in love with life and each other than ever and retain an active interest in all that is going on about them. Mrs. Squire can recall names, dates and even initials of people and events more than half a century ago, with ease. With three members of her original wedding group, Mrs. Squire took part in the reception ceremonies.

DOROTHY DIX:

High School Student Seeks To Drop Boisterous Friend

DEAR MISS DIX: I'm the youngest of five children, and have been brought up by wonderful parents in an atmosphere of love and kindness. I'm a high-school sophomore, active in school and church societies. My problem is a girl friend whom I have known since first grade. She used to be very nice but has gotten in with the wrong crowd and has become very boisterous in her speech and manners. I just don't enjoy her company any more. I have been taught never to be rude or careless of others' feelings, and that I must be considerate at all times. How can I apply these teachings, and drop my friend?

BEWILDERED

SET THE FRIEND RIGHT

ANSWER: The people who taught these fine precepts should be the ones to advise you now—namely, your parents. The situation in which you find yourself will recur many times during your lifetime, and always must be handled with finesse. The kindest course would be to set the girl right on her conduct. Many young girls adopt loud speech, and sometimes rowdy ways, because they think such actions are "smart." They're soon disillusioned, and almost always would appreciate being set straight. Now is the time for you to pass on to someone else the principles you learned from your parents.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I'm a young married woman of 18, and have beeen married over a year. My husband enlisted shortly after our marriage. Last week, when he was home on furlough, he asked for a divorce. I have been true to him always and love him deeply; he's also been wonderful to me. He says there's no one else; he just wants to be free.

HAZEL N.

ANSWER: You two should take your problem to a clergyman, or family counsellor, who will help you get settled on the road to a happy future. Your young husband's decision is apparently nothing more or less than the inability to make up his mind that the time has come to face responsibilities. There's nothing to be gained by trying to run away from them; a new set always shows up. The best thing is for him to learn to accept the obligations he has voluntarily incurred, and to make his marriage successful. You seem willing to do your share of co-operating; be patient until he shows the same wisdom.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: My husband and I were divorced a year ago, and I have our three children. Recently I met a nice young man and we have fallen in love, but I don't think he'll get along with the youngsters. He's very nervous, and they are lively boys.

ALBERTA

ANSWER: You really have something to worry about, lady, but nothing compared to what you'll face if you are ever foolish enough to become serious over the young man. Nervousness and another man's peppy youngsters just don't mix.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: Some time ago you had a piece about folks playing their radios too loudly. Could you repeat it for the benefit of my neighbors whose radios blare all day so no one can get a minute's rest? MRS. W. J.

ANSWER: Very few people are so disagreeable that they won't heed a neighbor's tactful request to turn down a radio. Most folks, however, really don't realize that their entertainment is being purveyed so loudly. They may think a radio is tuned quite low, but from the outside it has more volume. I'm sure the folks who are unwittingly annoying you will co-operate and tune down the offending noise-makers.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: My cousin Doris is coming to visit me. I'm going with a boy and it wouldn't be fair of me to go off and leave her when I go out with him. Would it be proper for me to ask him to bring one of his friends as an escort for Doris?

P. D.

ANSWER: Just explain the situation to the young man, and I'm sure he will appreciate your dilemma and do what he can to help out. It would be very nice if he would arrange a double date.

NECTAR MILK SHAKE

Surprise your school-going youngsters with a nectar milk-shake in their lunch box thermos. Combine equal parts well-chilled milk and apricot whole fruit nectar, and shake well. If you like, add a spoonful or two of ice-cream for extra thickness.

Budget Conscious

...ly budget...
one suit to take to school this fall, which, with those you already have on hand, will make a total of two to four.

You will want to pay from $60 to $80 for this suit and make it a "good" one. Though tweeds are a strong favorite, many girls think tweed suits look too much like sportswear and so prefer dressier flannels, gabardines and worsteds.

FITTED SUITS

Though fitted suits are as good as ever, there is a decided trend toward box jackets this fall, but with a cut-away look to reveal small waistlines. Most college girls do not own fur coaots and if they do they are in the budget range of sheared racoon, muskrat, and beaver.

The college girls have demanded, and are getting more blazers and more classic and tailored extra jackets, not of the "fancy" variety which they deplore.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

QUESTION: We were served Shrimp Rarebit the other night at a friend's home and my husband asked me to ask you how to make it. He liked it very much and so did I. Would this be good for children of 8 and 10? I hope you have the recipe. Madie.

ANSWER: I allowed—even persuaded my youngsters to eat everything going at that age. They loved all of the deep-sea foods and still do. They are good for them. Because she has been eating seafood all her life Marianne is looking forward to her visit to Mystic, Conn. where they promise to fill her up on lobster, shrimp and soft-shell crab.

SHRIMP RAREBIT

(This method may be used for lobster too).

Two tablespoons butter, 1 tablespoon chopped green onion or chives, 1½ cups drained can shrimp or fresh cooked shrimp from which you have cleaned out the black vein, ¼ green pepper chopped or cut into strips, ¼ of a canned pimiento chopped or cut in strips, ½ lb. process cheese, ½ cup whole milk or undiluted evaporated milk or thin cream, ½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, 1 teaspoon prepared mustard, shake of cayenne, buttered toast. Melt butter and add the onion and shrimp and cover and heat over very low burner for 5 minutes. then add pepper and pimiento. In top of double boiler melt the cheese which has been cut up, then stir in the milk or cream until smooth, then add the Worcestershire sauce and mustard and cayenne. When this is smooth and heated through, arrange the shrimps on the buttered toast and pour cheese sauce over. Serve very hot.

QUESTION: When you have the space would you print the recipes for Piccalilli and Corn Relish. We like the Corn Relish with roast lamb almost as much as Mint Sauce. Do try it sometimes if you have not done so already. Keep up the good work Mary and I hope you have or are having a good holiday. You deserve it. Tiny.

ANSWER: Thank you Tiny. When I type the last line of this column we are leaving for a cottage on a little lake for 2½ weeks for some concentrated loafing.

PICCALILLI

Chop the prepared vegtables, mix with the salt and let stand overnight. Drain and press out as much liquid as possible. Mix vinegar and sugar, add spice bag, and cook slowly for about 30 minutes until vegetables become transparent. Remove spice bag and pack in hot stelilized jars and seal.

CORN RELISH

Eight cups corn cut from cob, preferably Golden Bantam, 4 cups finely shredded cabbage, 2 cups chopped red pepper, 2 cups chopped green pepper, 1 cup sugar, 1 tablespoon dry mustard, 2 tablespoons salt, 1 tablespoon celery seed, 4 cups vinegar. Boil corn on cob 2 minutes, then cut off. Mix all ingredients and cook 20 minutes. Pour into hot, sterilized jars and seal.

"Football Stew" Popular For Fall

A popular supper or lunch with youngsters is called "Football Stew." The dish includes some of their favorite foods and the name does the rest. To make it bake cooked large lima beans in layers with canned tomatoes, sliced onions and small balls formed from hamburger. eB sure to place a layer of hamburger balls on top so it'll be a real "Football Stew." The hamburger browns nicely and the juices dripping through the limas flavor the dish.

City Man May Face Charge After Collision

The accident occurred when McCann attempted to pass the car ahead of him while travelling north on Water St. He said he was temporarily blinded by the lights of the Cravotta car. Another accident occurred about an hour later just north of the filtration plant when cars driven by Ivan Calder, R.R. 1, Warsaw and Orville Fowler, 1681 Keele St., Toronto, collided. Jim Nichols, 64 Dunlop St., one of three hitch-hikers picked up by the Fowler car, received a cut upper lip.

Both cars were travelling north on Water in a line of traffic when the car directly ahead of Calder's suddenly slowed down. Calder managed to slow down, but was struck by the Fowler car directly behind. Constable W. A. Scott estimated the damage to the Fowler car at $200, and the car driven by Calder at $100.

Two other accidents were reported Friday. CBC Venture Into Television Pares Surplus Report Shows

OTTAWA (CP) — The CBC's seven-month-old venture into television broadcasting pared the publicly-owned corporation's net surplus to $376,000 in the 1952-53 fiscal year, the CBC annual report showed today.

The television service's operating loss of $2,563,118 in the year ended March 31 was offset by an operating surplus in radio broadcasting of $2,939,478. Surplus the previous year was $3,322,000.

The infant television service earned commercial revenues of $518,380 in its seven months of broadcasting. Capital outlay, financed largely through government loans, totalled $1,875,934. Most of this went to complete television production centres at Montreal and Toronto.

Operating expenditures for television totalled $3,148,615 compared with $369,225 in the previous fiscal year before the television service began to broadcast.

DOWN SLIGHTLY

In radio broadcasting, the corporation's income was down slightly despite a $57,282 rise in commercial revenues to $2,513,714. Income from the now-defunct radio licence fee dropped to $5,725,000 from $5,841,300 the previous year.

Total income on radio broadcasting, including the $6,250,000 statutory grant which the CBC receives annually from Parliament, dipped to $14,773,856 from $14,813,500 the previous year.

Radio expenditures rose to $11,389,133 from $10,674,415 in the previous fiscal year, leaving a surplus before depreciation of $3,384,722 in the year ended March 31, 1953, compared with $4,139,182 in the previous fiscal year.

Television income totalled $585,496 and expenditure $2,914,882 leaving a deficit of $2,329,386 before depreciation. Programs cost $1,854,589, the biggest single item on the expenditure side.

The corporation's consolidated statement of revenue and expenditure in radio and television broadcasting showed total income at $15,359,353 and total expenditure at $14,304,016 with a surplus of $1,055,336 bfore depreciation.

INTERNATIONAL SERVICE

In a separate statement on the CBC international service the report showed operating expenditures of $2,040,715, higher by $103,158 than the previous year. Earned revenue on the service rose to $157,119 from $116,102 the previous year.

Capital expenditures dropped to $91,838 from $176,731 leaving the amount the CBC may recover from the government $1,975,434 for the 1952-53 fiscal year compared with $1,998,186 th previous fiscal year.

The report said assets worth $239,946 were written off during the fiscal year, the principal item being the Vercheres, Que. transmitter which was destroyed by fire.

Fixed assets totalled $10,656,455.

The report by A. D. Dunton, CBC chairman, said the inauguration of television was the outstanding development of the year. In sound broadcasting major developments were extension of the French-language network to Ontario, Saskatchewan and Alberta and establishment of the CBC symphony orchestra.

The report noted that another $2,000,000 loan was made by the government for the television service bringing to $8,000,000 the loans authorizd by Parliament for this purpose since 1949.

Peron Given Gifts

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — President Peron received gifts Friday from President Mohammed Naguib of Egypt. They were brought by Americo Barrios, director of the semi-official morning newspaper Democracia, who was a guest at Egypt's first anniversary celebration of the coup that overthrew King Farouk. Among the gifts were a 17th century Circassian saber, an ebony mace from the Sudan, an 18th century Egyptian dagger, and an ancient rifle.

Armless Youth, 23, Completes Device For Projecting Pictures From Records

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP) Armless and suffering from a crippling spinal condition, 23-year-old Raymond Sageloly has just completed a device for projecting pictures from records.

Raymond, who was born without arms, works entirely with his feet, preparing drawings, assembling the intricate parts and soldering wires into position.

The invention, which he calls reco-vision, is the transmission of a picture cut in a phonograph record, projected through a specially-designed tube on to a glass screen. His object is to present a picture of the singer or instrumentalist, a landscape suggested by the music, or an advertisement of the firm sponsoring the record.

Whether or not the invention proves to be a commercial proposition, it has focused attention on Raymond's battle against great physical handicap.

Born in Blind River, it seemed as though he would never be able to walk, but his dexterity in picking up pins and coins with his feet amazed his mother. At four he managed to walk but then he was stricken with meningitis which aggravated the spinal condition and crippled his legs. He was 12 years old before he was fit to attend school at Sault Ste. Mari where the family had taken up residence.

PRIZE-WINNING MODEL

During the intervening years he had developed his feet so that he could make models of houses and machines with matchsticks and wire. The model of an airplane netted him $10, first prize in a competition.

Raymond completed three years in secondary school and is still studying. He is also tackling engineering with special reference to radio and television.

In the last year he has constructed five radio sets, every joint soldered with precision. The soldering iron, held with his right foot, is steady as he works. Using both feet, he sorts out the tangle of wires.

The young man would like to instruct other handicapped people in radio mechanics and demonstrate the facility with which he has overcome his handicap. Above all, he would like to work in a radio laboratory as an assistant, or have his own work-bench in order to earn money to help his family.

Living in an apartment with his aging parents, Raymond has taught himself to be useful in a variety of ways. He writes a good, legible "hand," peels potatoes, cooks simple meals, plays both piano and guitar and can shoot a rifle and pistol with accuracy.

His father, Peter Sageloly, is an employee of the Algoma Steel Company.

Cathay or China and other parts of the Far East by Marco Polo's voyages. His new discoveries were shown in an atlas issued in 1375. It was the sailing men who were convinced that the old Greek idea of a spherical world was correct. In the sixteenth century Johann Schoner became famous for his wooden globes with paper "gores" appliqued on their surface.

The discovery of line engraving in copper gave a great impetus to map drawing and first Italy and later the Netherlands took the lead in the production and distribution of maps.

There was no standard mile until late in the eighteenth century. The different countries could not agree on the position of the meridian. Even the English who first placed it in the Azores, moved it to St. Paul's, London and later to Greenwich—(where it remained).

There are a vast number of maps of our earth's surface with its over fifty million square miles of land and twice as much water.

Reuther Blasts Dulles Speech

BONN, Germany (AP)—The German Socialist party said today it had received a message from CIO President Walter Reuther criticizing U.S. state secretary Dulles' recent statement supporting the re-election bid of West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer.

"I am in complete agreement with your protest against the unjustified intervention of Dulles in the German election campaign," party spokesmen quoted the U.S. labor union chief as saying in a cable.

"We believe that only the German people have the right to choose their own government in a democratic fashion without any unasked advice."

Dulles said Thursday night that the defeat of Adenauer's pro-western government in Sunday's German national election would cause confusion and delay solution of the HOW'D YOU LIKE TO own a craft that doubles as a highway penthouse and a luxury yacht? It can be done at a minimum cost providing you have the patience, know-how and are willing to work. That's exactly what Mr. and Mrs. Omar Bolt, of Plainville, Kan., did when they started their amphibious home in 1951. Because new parts were prohibitive in cost, Bolt started assembling material years ago while in South Carolina. Looking back, he recalls that probably every junk yard from 'way south of the Mason-Dixon line to Plainville is represented in his finished product. Among the many features of the 20-foot-long craft are its automatic electric system for lights and cooking; an electric ventilating system for hot weather and heating system for cold, plus an awning-covered back stoop. The ship-trailer can carry 12 passengers, and cruises at 10 to 12 land miles an hour. The Southern Belle conforms to all road and navigation laws.

camera and eighty thousand photographs. Just imagine the task of fitting all these pictures together to make a gigantis map of Pakistan's mountains and valleys!

How great is the variety of maps in today's world! In Israel, where the rainfall is so scanty, their map of dew fall is most important. Daily maps of weather conditions in other parts of the world are studied by experts to guide them in their weather forecasts. Geologists find maps indispensable in searching for new mineral finds. How many millions of holiday travellers pour over road maps to plan their trip each vacation!

Learning about maps can be great fun. They are a fascinating part of our modern life. Their collection provides an absorbing hobby for many people—and in the story of the art of map making is found one of the most interesting records of the growth of knowledge and civilization. A good map on a wall adds greatly to the atmosphere of a living room or den. It can be mounted on heavy cardboard or framed like a picture. A map or a globe in a child's room can kindle his interest in geography. Good maps, like good books, should form part of the furnishings of a real home. Are there any on your walls?

One Man Killed

ASHTON, Ont. (CP)—Clare Hunsberry of Vineland, Ont., was killed and Clifford O'Dell of Jordan Station critically injured early today when their loaded fruit truck overturned into a ditch near here.

The truck, driven by O'Dell, 26, apparently went out of control on a stretch of highway near this town 25 miles southwest of Ottawa. It sheared off a telephone pole and pinned both men in the overturned cab.

Hunsberry, about 60, was killed instantly. O'Dell, suffering a compound skull fracture, was released from the crumpled cab after three tow trucks righted the truck. He was taken to hospital at nearby Almonte.

No decision was announced about an inquest.

Weighty Topics Discussed At Coffee Hour

The courts of Ontario, which know all about the law but have hardly begun to grasp the inner processes of our society, have entered a solemn caveat against the morning coffee hour, notes Bruce Hutchinson in The Winnipeg Free Press. This caveat—holding that an employee cannot claim workmen's compensation for injury suffered while he is drinking his morning coffee — no doubt is sound law, but it will do no good. The coffee hour all over America has gone far beyond the control of the courts.

BASIC ECONOMY

It is too much, I suppose, to expect the courts to understand that the coffee hour is the foundation of the North American economy and unquestionably is responsible for our high standard of living. It is much more than that. It is the central mystery of our life.

Not being a coffee drinker, having vainly tried to cure my aversion to the stuff, I do not pretend to understand that mystery. As a result, I am forever barred, as by an iron door, from the fellowship of human kind. I cannot speak their language. I shall never know what is happening around me. I have abandoned any hope of getting on in the world.

But I do know — I can tell by their look of concentration, by their radiant air of dedication to a high purpose, by their earnest murmurings in a secret tongue—that the morning coffee drinkers have not left their offices to escape work, as the Ontario courts seem to imagine. No, it is over the coffee that the real work of the nation is done, the great plans made, the bargains struck and the whole mighty machine of commerce steered on its course.

MINDS AT WORK

Indeed, it is only over the coffee that the better minds of North America can think at all, and their hours in the office are purely incidental, a kind of empty ritual, a ceremonial flourish to impress foreigners and tea drinkers like myself.

The foreigners and the courts will hardly suspect this central fact of our system for the coffee drinkers, who manage our affairs at their daily conferences, are too wise to reveal their power and they deceive the innocent outsider with a diabolical cunning.

It is not for us outlanders and underlings to complain merely because we seem to work longer hours than our betters. We cannot comprehend, we can only revere in decent silence, that higher drudgery, those unbearable tortures of the mind which bring the coffee drinkers back to the office limp and prostrate, only to pick up their hats, resume their selfless task at luncheon and to complete it over more coffee in the afternoon while the rest of us draw our wages for dawdling comfortably through the day.

THE BRIMMING CUP

Not for us to complain when the system works, when the economy, borne on stronger shoulders than ours, continually grows in wealth as less visible and more secret labor is applied to it, when we idlers, who contribute nothing but our useless physical presence (an indifferent ornament), are still granted our full share of the dividends of other men's genius. At one remove, though we cannot taste it, we drink the brimming cup of mystery.

Like all dictatorships, this one may go too far. Its slaves may rise, worms turn. One of these days the rest of us, with patient experiment, may learn to drink coffee, we may shoulder our way up to the counter, even learn the language and venture an opinion on our own fate.

Then come the revolution, with no one left in the office to perform the outward motions of work and fool the foreigner. But that kind of useless work being obsolete, I suppose it will make no difference. The real work, the real revolution, the emancipation of mankind will be safe so long as coffee beans grow in Brazil and the pristcraft can find a cracked cup to worship.

Dean Questioned For 68 Hours

FREEDOM VILLAGE (AP) — Maj.-Gen. William F. Dean, white-haired and thin after more than three years in Communist prisons, today rode a Russian-built jeep back to freedom and to a heart-warming welcome by the first Americans he had seen since his capture.

Dean, who won the Medal of Honor fighting beside his men in the streets of Taejon, had aged 10 years in appearance. He came back wearing a dust-covered blue cotton suit, brown sneakers, yellow shirt, a red tie and a wry grin.

He said he had not seen another American since July 21, 1950.

"It is certainly good to see so many fellow citizens," Dean said warmly. "You all look better to me than I do to you, I'm sure."

TELLS OF CAPTURE

At this processing centre the tanned old soldier told of his capture in the midst of the confusion of the war's dark early days . . . of sleepless days . . . 68 hours once—of questioning during which he wore out relays of Red interpreters . . . of the terrible isolation of more than three years.

Much of the time, he said, the Communists gave him nothing to read and no pencils or paper. He spent his lonely days working mathematical problems in his head.

Dean did not lose his dry wit. It cracked frequently as he talked with reporters.

The general was greeted by high-ranking officers and fighting men. He beamed as the cheers rang out.

IN LAST AMBULANCE

He arrived in the last ambulance to come from Panmunjom and after routine processing was flown to the evacuation hospital at Seoul. The air force said Dean probably would be flown to Tokyo Saturday.

The 54-year-old general, a veteran of almost 30 years in the army, said he wandered a month through Korea trying to reach American lines. For 20 days he went without food. Then came his capture, long marches and hours of questioning.

The Communists used several teams of interrogators but only two interpreters, he said.

"The first time they questioned me 68 hours," Dean said. "I think the interpreters just wore out."

"The next time it was only 44 hours. The third go was 32 hours."

"I was very thin at the time. It hurt me to sit down. I sat on my hands until they puffed up.

"They were going to punish me as a 'war criminal' for my activities as military governor of South Korea."

IN SOUTH KOREA

Dean said he met several Communists whom he had seen earlier in various positions in South Korea.

Dean said he became separated from the men of the 24th division [illegible] themselves home guards, Dean said.

By Aug. 25 he had worked his way as far south as Chinhaue, about 30 miles below Taejon. There he met a Korean civilian who promised to help him return to American lines.

But when they reached the point where they were supposed to meet American troops, a group of Koreans started shooting.

A Korean grabbed his arm and "before I was able to get my hands free about 20 Koreans were on me."

That night in a jail Dean's feet were swollen so he took off his boots.

"That gave them the idea," he added wryly. "They took the boots.

HAD NO SOLES

"The next day when we were marching north they gave me Korean rubber shoes but there were no soles on them. It was a terrible mistake taking my boots off."

The general's wife heard the news of his release while driving from Berkeley, Calif., to the home of their daughter in Monterey, about 130 miles to the south.

She stopped at an undisclosed retreat and telephoned her daughter, Mrs. Robert Williams, who quoted her as saying:

"The news hit me like a bombshell. I'm overwhelmed. What I need now is eight hours sleep. I don't want any pictures taken until dad gets home. Then they can take them until they're black in the face. He's the hero, not I."

The general said he was shuttled around to a number of Korean cities and villages during his captivity.

Last June 16, Dean was returned to the Pyongyang area. He reached Kaesong Aug. 5.

LIVED LIKE PLUTOCRAT

"There I lived like a plutocrat," Dean said. "I had the same quarters the 7th division had as an outpost when I commanded the 7th (during the occupation). It was a beautiful place.

"There was a waterfall and they had a Chinese cook for me," he said.

Dean said the Reds fed him tea, meat, bread and butter—"all I wanted." The Reds also insisted that he drink vodka before dinner each day.

He said he was in the custody of Koreans the entire time. His guards were three to nine Koreans, each equivalent to a master sergeant.

"The only English they could speak was what they learned from me," he said.

"I was addressed for three years as 'you.'"

Wasteful Ways Under Fire

WHITBY (CP) — Rev. J. R. Mutchmor, secretary of the United Church of Canada board of evangelism and social service, said Friday, North America's wasteful ways in the face of the world's tragedy and need trouble her people at home and mislead her friends abroad.

"The plain fact is we just don't seem to care," he told delegates to a United Church evangelism conference. The best weapon to wage war on communism in the Far East was not the atomic bomb but wheat.

He said the stumbling blocks to peace are the clash of race, religion and culture, rising natisms, Marxist-Leninist communism, fascism and North American materialism.

LIVING COSTS RISE — The consumer price index, a barometer of living costs, rose by three-tenths of a point during July to 115.7 from 115.4, the Bureau of Statistics reports. It was the third consecutive monthly jump, powered by price boosts mainly in items other than food. The peak of 118.2 was reached in December, 1951, with 1949 prices equalling 100. The dotted line shows the United States consumer index which advanced to a record high of 114.7 in mid-July of the 1947-49 average. These indices measure percentage changes in each country but should not be used to compare actual levels of prices between the two countries.

Report Nimitz Resigns As Administrator

NEW DELHI (AP)— A Foreign office spokesman said today the Indian government has been informed that U.S. Admiral Chester W. Nimitz has resigned as plebiscite administrator for disputed Kashmir — a "name only" post for the past two years.

At his home in Berkeley, Calif., Nimitz refused to confirm or deny the report. He said, however, that an announcement could be expected from UN headquarters in New York within the next few days.

According to the report received in New Delhi, the Indian spokesman said, Nimitz's resignation had been submitted to UN secretary-general Dag Hammarskjold. The spokesman refused to name the source of his information.

HAD NO NOTICE

A UN official in New York said Thursday night, however, that Hammarskjold had not received any notice of resignation from the Second World War naval hero.

U.S. embassy sources in New Delhi said that Nimitz has been trying to resign the post "for nearly a year." They added that his move had no connection with recent Indian-Pakistan talks on the future of the Himalayan state, a source of friction and even shooting between the two nations since Britain freed them in 1947.

Nimitz was named by the UN in March, 1949, to run a plebiscite to determine the future nationality of the Kashmir people but India and Pakistan were unable to agree on terms for conducting the poll. The two countries had occupied separate parts of the state.

UN sources said the admiral left UN headquarters two years ago, discontinued his salary and returned to his old California home. They quoted him as saying he would serve if he could be helpful and would retire if not needed.

6—In Memoriam

BERTRAND — In loving memory of Mr. Frank Bertrand, who passed away four years ago today.
Gone, dear father, gone to rest.
Away from sorrow, care and pain,
May you rest in peace, dear father,
Until we meet again.
—Ever remembered by Sam and Muriel.

JAMES—In loving memory of a dear father, John James, who passed away eight years ago.
Gone is the face we loved so dear,
Silent is the voice we loved to hear,
Too far away to see,
Too far away to reach,
Too not too far for us to reach,
Sweet to remember him who once was here.
And who, though absent, is just as dear.
—Always remembered by daughter, Mrs. W. Wilson, Adaline St.

LONSBERRY—In loving memory of a dear husband, Lorne Lonsberry, who passed away Sept. 5, 1949.
Oh, what would I give to clasp his hand
His dear kind face to see,
To hear his voice, to see his smile
That meant so much to me.
His spirit has fled his suffering o'er
At the fireside he will join us no more.
—Ever remembered by wife Ethel.

LONSBERRY—In memory of a dear father, Lorne Lonsberry, who passed away four years ago today.
Gone, dear father, gone forever,
How we miss your smiling face,
But you left us to remember
None on earth can take your place.
A happy home we once enjoyed,
How sweet the memory still!
But death has left a loneliness
The world can never fill.
—Ever remembered by daughters, sons-in-law and grandchildren

WHITNALL — In loving memory of Philip Whitnall who passed away September 5, 1946.
—Sadly missed by son, Philip and daughter-in-law Ida.

Rows 8 Hours Every Day, Goes Nowhere

VANCOUVER (CP) — There's a fellow plying the waters of the False Creek channel in a 12-foot rowboat eight hours a day with no place in particular to go.

However, there is a purpose in Pat Hernon's toil: His job is to fish from the creek any workman who is unlucky enough to fall from th new Granville bridge. The bridge will connect the downtown business area with southern residential districts.

So far he hasn't had to rescue any workmen, but he has retrieved a number of aluminum hats.

SAFETY REGULATIONS

The 39-year-old Irishman is engaged in his unusual job with Dominion Bridge Company in compliance with workmen's compensation board and union safety regulations regarding construction over water.

Pat's job isn't as soft as it might seem. He has to keep a close watch on the bridge for falling objects, since even a rivet, weighing more than a pound, could scuttle him promptly.

The bridge, begun last March, is 60 per cent completed.

WMS Discuss Theme Of New Study Book

NORWOOD (ENS). — The United Church Women's Missionary Society met in the Presbyterian Church, with Mrs. John Starke presiding.

Following a hymn, Mrs. John Gardner offered prayer. Mrs. Starke read a letter from Miss Greta Clark, thanking the members for their kindness and hospitality during her recent visit.

Mrs. A. M. Weir took charge of the devotional period. She read part of the Dutch oratorio, "The Song of Unity," and the prayer of the Jacobite liturgy.

Miss M. A. Carter read several selections of Scripture, followed by prayer by Mrs. Weir.

Miss Lilian Elliott gave a talk about the theme of the study for this year, "The Life and Task of the Church Around the World," and the study book, "Where'er the Sun."

The benediction followed a hymn.

Super Express Will Travel At 200 M.P.H.

By EDO KOENIG

COLOGNE, West Germany — (Reuters) — The "Flying Train" designed by Swedish industrialist Axel L. Wennergren to transport passengers and freight cheaply at speeds up to 200 miles an hour along a single elevated rail, is ready for commercial application.

SET TO RUN NEXT YEAR

Officials of his research society here told me that negotiations are alrealy under way with several countries and the first prototype train designed for industrial use will "fly" along its "beamway" next year.

Exactly where and when this will be was not disclosed but a possible site is the Ruhr, where German industrialists are considering the idea of a beamway connection between the Rhine River port of Dortmund and an adjacent steel plant to carry ores brought to Dortmund by ship.

The final word on this project, however, may be decided by "strategic considerations," which have received growing emphasis in the research work since the first model train, about one third of its future size, was unveiled at the Fuehlingen Heath testing grounds, near Cologne, on October 8 last year.

These considerations, which officials of the Alweg Company, so called from Wenner-Gren's initials,, are most reluctant to discuss, have caused them to take special precautionary measures to prevent construction secrets from leaking out to unauthorized persons.

A few employees, it is understood, have been dismissed on suspicion of spying for "an unknown power."

Millions of dollars have been invested in the research work. A staff of about 350 is employed, including Swedes, Americans and other nationalities.

What was once only the Alweg train has now been developed into a complete Alweg system, fully equipped with new assembly, terminal clearance, wayside switching, bulk cargo handling, automatic train control and automatic ticketing and waybill issuing devices.

The system includes new electric accounting, computing and memory-wheel instruments which permit drastic reductions in clerical staffs.

Many of these additional devices were developed in the United States, where Wenner-Gren formed the Alweg Transit Company, a sister firm of the Cologne Alweg Research Company.

Various types of coaches, all clasped round the elevated rail, have been or are being developed. Passenger coaches will be about 51 feet long. Their luggage compartments, kitchens and toilets will be placed in the overlapping "side pockets."

For freight service, three main types of cars are being planned —one for package freight, and an all-purpose flat car which looks like a truck trailor.

Each can carry up to 40 tons of goods, according to present estimates.

Like all Alweg cars, they will be built of aluminum.

Almost all cars are to be equipped with separate flange wheels so that they can be pulled off the beamway and put on to ordinary rail tracks. Some will also be built to continue their journey on ordinary roads to facilitate cheap terminal-to-door delivery.

The first Alweg trains are expected to run at average speeds of more than 150 miles an hour, but later the engineers hope to reach at least 210 miles an hour. The light-metal trains will be built on aero-dynamic principles as will the single rail elevated beamway on which they run.

A new safety system has been developed which Alweg engineers claim will virtually eliminate the possibility of collisions. Derailing is regarded as "almost impossble."

SAFE PATH FOR TRAIN

An "emergency headway control" feels ahead of each train with invisible rays and stops it well in front of obstacles. It also prevents successive trains from coming too close to each other.

Engineers though leery of revealing "secrets" stress these general advantages which, they say, the Alweg system has over conventional railways:

1. Alweg trains can negotiate gradients of at least 15 per cent. The steepest gradient in the United States for conventional railways is 5.89 per cent. and in Germany four per cent.

2. They do not bother passengers with the "rocking" and "nodding" motion of the usual systems.

3. They need not slow down for curves, but glide into them like airplanes without reducing speed.

4. The beamway requires much less ground space than other railway systems.

5. Alweg trains are not pulled by one head engine. Each car has its own propelling motors in its boogies, the "saddles" which are clasped over the rail just like the entire train and which really carry the whole Alweg car. There are no open slots between cars. total air drag is reduced to about half of that of ordinary trains.

6. Installation costs are five times lower than for subway trains and half those for ordinary surface railway systems. Maintenance costs, especially for the beamsway, will also be lower.

7. Alweg trains can carry cargo up to four times faster than ordinary trains with about the same amount of energy. For example, Alweg trains need only slightly more energy to maintain 200 miles an hour than ordinary trains running at 50 miles an hour.

On long distance traffic up to 1,000 miles, they say, Alweg trains could become, both in cost and in speed, serious competitors of the commercial air lines.

HOT SPOT—Mrs. Virginia Abbatacola waits for a cool breeze to fan her to sleep as she lies on top of the family auto in Chicago. Meanwhile, thousands of Chicagoans — like other Americans east of the Rocky Mountains—were seeking relief from a record-breaking heat wave.

Trade Will Be Major Topic In New House of Commons

OTTAWA—One topic which all political parties are agreed is to be the subject of lengthy and vigorous debate in the House of Commons at the coming session of Parliament is that of trade. The present position in which this country finds itself in the matter of selling goods to other countries is such as to literally force the topic to the floor of Commons.

There is more than just a hint in the latest trade figures that Canada is going to have a whacking adverse balance of trade by the time the year is over. At the end of the first half of the year the trade deficit stood at just more than $200 million. This is comparable to the surplus of $171.5 million in the same period of last year. Of course it has to be remembered that in 1951 the first six months showed a deficit of $340 million.

Big swings in trade have always been a feature of Canadian operations. While they are watched carefully and no one is too happy about them, they do not cause much concern. That has been the case in the past.

The present instance of adverse balance of trade is somewhat different. In 1947 when the flood of imports was causing a severe drain on the foreign exchange funds of the country the Canadian doolar was at a fixed value. It was the government, and through it the taxpayers who had to pay for the fluctuations in exchange.

DOLLAR IS FREE

Today the situation is that the dollar is free. Normally with such a heavy adverse balance of trade one would expect the Canadian dollar to drop in value vis a vis the U.S. dollar and the pound. Instead, it has remained steadily at a premium. This is mainly due to a tremendous influx of American dollars seeking a nice comfortable investment haven. Much of it too is risk capital seeking a substantial gain in a country that has no capital gains tax.

This inflow is quite likely to continue for some time as Canada expands. The Labrador development and the Northern British Columbia expansion, as well as the impending St. Lawrence seaway, all require vast sums. They are likely to appeal to American investors. The result will most likely be a steady flow of dollars that will more than compensate for any adverse trade balance of reasonable proportions. And the experts here find nothing unreasonable in the present situation.

Should the situation become worse, and that is always possible, the danger signal will come from the value of the Canadian dollar. The prevailing belief is that any real drop in our dollar value would have the effect of cutting down on imports and increasing exports by reason of the fact that the depreciation would increase the cost of imported goods and decrease the price of exports.

None of the experts is willing, however, to say where the danger point would be that would call for further steps. It might be when the dollar reached 95 cents against the United States dollar.

DEPENDS ON PATTERN

Or it might be when the Canadian dollar went down to 98 cents. Much would depend on the pattern. There are two steps the government could take, both of which have been used in the past, namely pegging the Canadian dollar and imposing severe import restrictions. In the present instance the government, if it had to, would use these two plans, only in reverse. The import controls would come first.

While the powers that be scoff at the idea of any controls being imposed nevertheless it is quite clear that they have not forgotten the technique and on more than one occasion in recent weeks have taken out and dusted off the old control orders.

There are a couple of good rumors going the rounds of Parliamentary corridors these summer days. One concerns a senior member of the Cabinet. According to the story, Prime Minister St. Laurent suggested that the minister might like to go to the quieter portfolio of public works. The suggestion was not received with enthusiasm. In fact, it was turned down flat. It will be interesting to see just what happens when Cabinet meets on September 9 when the Prime Minister is expected to announce the cabinet changes.

The other story is about the top men of the Conservative party. The present head of the Asociation is George Nowlan from Nova Scotia. Now it so happens that Mr. Nowlan is the lone Conservative to be returned from that province. He is having quite a time answering the executive committee as to what happened to the organization in the last federal election.

There is also a move on foot to bring in young George Hees from Toronto Broadview. This young man only in his second parliament has made quite a name for himself both in the House and in the last campaign. This move to make George Hees president of the Association is the sort of move that would appeal to the younger Conservatives. The problem will be to sell it to the elder statesmen of the party. It is far from impossible.

Quebec Union To Meet On Labor Day

ST. GEORGES De BEAUCE, — Que. —(CP)—Quebec's Union of Electors, crusading Social Credit booster which eschews political activity, holds its annual convention Labor Day weekend in this small town, 40 miles south of Quebec City.

The group, which seceded in 1949 from the national Social Credit party, led by Solon Low, claims 100,000 members in Quebec province.

Established in 1934 under the name of Social Credit League, it became the Union of Electors when its members entered the provincial political arena with a number of candidates in the general election of 1944.

PROPAGANDA GROUP

But since 1948, when all its 90 candidates were defeated in the general provincial election, the union has stopped active politics to become strictly a propaganda group for Social Credit ehtories.

For the three-day convention opening today, the 2,000-odd delegates are asked to bring their own provisions. The only convention-wide meal at this picnic-type meeting will be a "family lunch" Monday, at nearby East Broughton Station.

Louis Even of Montreal, director general of the Union, and one of its founders, is scheduled to deliver four speeches.

J. Ernest Gregoire, former mayor of Quebec City and a former economics professor at Laval University, will speak once. He is a co-founder of the group.

The Union of Electors claims it has no money-making ambitions, but that its one aim is to spread Social Credit ideas throughout Quebec.

Actor's Arrest Comedy Of Errors

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Shakespearian actor John Carradine was released from jail Friday and some Hollywood observers termed his night's incarceration "a comedy of errors."

Others thought it might be more aptly described as "much ado about nothing."

It was all because of an old alimony dispute. Carradine said he thought everything was settled. His former wife said "I had nothing to do with it."

But all's well that ends well, and the actor was released without bail pending a hearing Oct. 2.

DEPUTIES WAITING

Two sheriff's deputies were waiting for the lanky 47-year-old actor when he walked off the stage Thursday night following a performance at a Hollywood theatre. The jailing was on the basis of a warrant issued seven years ago by judge Charles S. Burnell, who has since died.

Carradine claims that he settled matters two years ago with his ex-wife, Ardanella.

Satisfied Customers In Lindsay's Court

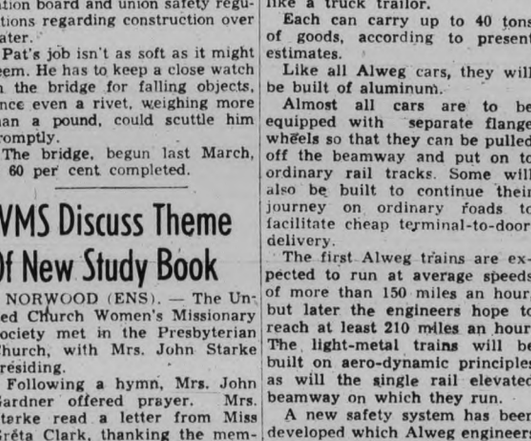
LINDSAY (ENS)—"It's nice to have satisfied customers" commented Magistrate Gee in police court here Friday, as he released two men, William Schwabe, of Hamilton and Charles Shannon of Kingston after they had served several days on a vagrancy charge. The men were remanded last week when Crown Attorney Lorne Jordan asked for time to confirm their records.

Shannon, when asked by Magistrate Gee how he liked the "county boarding house" commented that the fare had been good, but he wished to get out of Lindsay.

The men, after being dismissed by magistrate, bowed their way out of the courtroom voicing no-fuse thanks.

Conscience Catcher Upsets

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Someone in this border area has a clear conscience. The customs and excise department in Ottawa received 48 cents in stamps in an envelope postmarked Walkerville. An unsigned note said: "Duty on goods imported into Canada from the United States."



POINTS OF TROUBLE—As the German elections near, 1,500 Communists are reported to have crossed into West Germany to engage in street brawls with anti-Communists in an effort to disrupt the September 6 voting. At least 5,000 East Germans at Marienborn are preparing to invade West Germany. At Coburg, angry West Germans have surrounded police wagons to fight with Communists who were under police custody. The West German government has alerted its entire police force and members of anti-Communist youth groups to protect places against any election day violence.

National Health Insurance Aim Of TLC

OTTAWA (CP)—Percy R. Bengough, president of the 580,000-member Trades and Labor Congress, said in a Labor Day message Friday that a major objective of the TLC is "health insurance on a broad national scale."

The TLC "is hopeful that Parliament when it assembles later this year will establish a special committee to consider this matter and before which we may place our views."

"In our opinion, this measure is long overdue and should not be delayed any further."

A. R. Mosher, president of the 370,000-member Canadian Congress of Labor, said in a similar Labor Day message that despite any possible cutbacks in defence production "there is no justification for any lack of employment at good incomes for Canadian citizens.

"Obviously nothing but our failure to use our collective intelligence in handling our affairs would permit our nation to suffer a serious economic setback," Mr. Mosher said.

LISTS OBJECTIVES

Mr. Bengough listed these TLC objectives besides health insurance:

1. Unemployment insurance benefits to workers who become unemployed through illness. He said the TLC will renew its request for this at the next session of Parliament.

2. Lower age limits and higher monthly payments for old age pensions "in order that this existing part of our Canadian social security provisions can be brought into line with today's costs and living standards."

3. Uniform labor relations laws throughout the Dominion and all 10 of the provinces."

Mr. Bengough aimed a blow at the "trained acrobats of the Kremlin's international communism." He said there are those "trained outside our trade unions to encourage members of the unions in the belief that the only way to make gains is through always being ready to 'man the batricades.'

"Our experience and common sense are both in opposition to this approach. . ."

GAINING STATUS

Mr. Mosher said Canada is gaining an enviable status in the world because of her productive capacity, resources and willingness to assume the burden of defence necessary to preserve freedom.

"We are therefore justified in hoping and expecting that the world is becoming a better place in which to live, and that the evils of injustice, poverty and distress which have plagued the human race almost from the beginning of time are being abolished."

He said the outlook for employment appears to be favorable and "there are good reasons for believing that our economic and industrial progress will continue."

He praised the law passed by Parliament earlier this year outlawing discrimination on grounds of race, color, creed and religion in all employment under federal jurisdiction.

CCC Delegates To Vote On Many Issues

MONTREAL (CP)—Delegates to the Canadian Chamber of Commerce annual meeting in Edmonton Sept. 14-17 will vote on a variety of national issues ranging from taxation to communism.

Resolutions have been arriving at national headquarters here from chamber branches across the country for consideration at the annual meeting.

The issue of communism in Canada is contained in a resolution from the Dorval, Que., chamber. It urges the federal government to enact legislation to outlaw communism and Communist organizations in Canada.

The resolution objects to the Labor Progressive party having been allowed "radio time and other democratic privileges during the (federal) election campaign."

TAXATION CLAIMS

On taxation, Vancouver's chamber asks that charitable donations in excess of the amount permitted for a tax year should be claimable against the taxable income of the previous year or the next succeeding five years.

The Toronto chamber says further steps should be taken by the government to eliminate double taxation of corporate earnings.

A complete review of the entire sales tax structure is urged by the Edmonton chamber "with a view to removing anomalies and undue complexities in order to provide simplicity and certainty to business administration and to ensure equity of tax distribution."

The Brandon chamber asks the meeting to study the "burdensome trend in government" whereby private business must collect a variety of taxes and provide an increased volume of statistical information for the government.

In addition, the meeting will review the chamber's general policy on such questions as immigration, trade, public finance and taxation, freedom of enterprise and natural resources.

Put President Under Arrest

COLOMBOA, Ceylon (Reuters)—Amir Amin Didi, the first president of the Maldives Island republic—the world's youngest country—has resigned and today was reported under house arrest.

The political volcano erupted only eight months after the natives of the palm-studded cluster of 2,000 coral atolls in th Indian ocean set out on the road to democratic self-rule.

The 42-year-old Didi resigned Monday as president after mass demonstrations by hungry Maldive Islanders who demanded more to eat.

The food crisis began last June when tropical storms whipped the little islands 400 miles west of Ceylon, and kept the natives from putting out to sea to catch fish. This brought on a near famine.

P. B. Umichy, newly-appointed Maldivian envoy to Ceylon, said today he had collected 1,400 bags of flour which will be rushed to the disaffected islanders as soon as possible.

20TH CENTURY "MAN WITHOUT A COUNTRY"—Michael Patrick O'Brien, today's "man without a country," has a change in scenery in Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, but he's still without a country to call his own. Previously he made some 110 consecutive trips between Hong Kong and Macao on a ferry boat; authorities refused to admit him at either port, because his papers weren't in order. Now O'Brien is a passenger aboard the French liner Bretagne, and appears to be in for another series of cruises. Brazilian authorities refuse to admit him even though he has a visa from Brazil's Hong Kong consulate. They say O'Brien is an "undesirable," and now he's confined to the ship which sails between Genoa, Italy, and Buenos Aires.

Greek Ship To Carry Aid From Canada

TORONTO—When the Greek relief ship Nea Hellas sails from Halifax on September 11, it will carry a $21,000 shipment from The Canadian Red Cross Society, Dr. W. S. Stanbury, National Commissioner of the Society stated today.

The Assistant Commissioner, Stefan Bjarnason has just returned from Greece with first hand information on the needs there. In some areas the entire population was sheltered beneath tents. Blankets therefore were a necessity.

Listing some of the items which would be going forward on the relief ship, Dr. Stanbury pointed out that the value of the effort of Red Cross Women's Work groups was increasingly emphasized in the field of International Relief.

900 layettes valued at more than $7,000; 1,665 pairs of shoes worth $5,000; 2,000 blankets valued at $8,800 will be included in the September 11 shipment. A total of $57,000 has been expended to date by Canadian Red Cross for relief in the Greek disaster.

Sharp Increase In Production

OTTAWA (CP)—Sharp gains in Canada's industrial production in June and during the first six months of 1953 were reported today by the bureau of statistics.

The bureau said the index of industrial production for June rose to 257.0; a gain of 7.8 per cent over the same month a year ago. For the first half of the year production was up 9.6 per cent over the corresponding period last year.

The gains extended over most sections of industry, with major increases recorded by the mining, electric power and manufacturing industries.

Manufacturing production was up 10.2 per cent in the half-year period.

The bureau said the supply of a large number of commodities showed an increase for the half-year period as a result of higher domestic production and a greater volume of imports. Exports of many durable commodities also were down in the six-month period.

May Do Training In North Africa

WASHINGTON (AP) — North Africa may provide training sites this winter for U. S. B47s if weather and the iron curtain cramp them in Europe.

This was disclosed as the greatest transatlantic transfer of jet bombers every attempted, involving two medium bombardment wings of 45 B47s each, got under way.

The big six-jet planes, capable of carrying the atom bomb and fitted with secret electronic devices, must be kept, by official orders, at least 300 miles from the iron curtain. That is less than half an hour's flight for them.

One squadron of B-47s of the 305th wing flew from Madill Air Force Base, Tampa, Fla., to Limestone Air Force Base, Me., Thursday.

Today the squadron takes off for England at about the same time that a squadron of the 306th wing, now in the United Kingdom, sets out to fly nonstop to Tampa.

Terry Moore Not Worried On Marilyn's Competition

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Terry Moore predicts no further challenge from Marilyn Monroe.

Terry, who competes quite handily with Marilyn in the sex appeal league, once said that the two could work happily under the same roof.

The shapely Miss Moore explained that her particular brand of sex flourishes best outdoors while Marilyn's was strictly the boudoir variety.

But that was before Monroe went to Canada to make her first outdoor film "River of No Return."

Terry buttonholed me this week and her first words were:

"What did I tell you? They get Marilyn outdoors and the first thing she does is fall in a river, tear a couple of ligaments and hold up production for 10 days. And comes home on crutches, yet. Zanuck won't let her off the lot after this.

"I've fallen off horses, crawled through snake - infested jungles, doused myself in the ocean and never even lost a fingernail."

OUTDOORS AGAIN

Terry is working outdoors again with Ty Power in "King of the Khyber Rifles."

One of the more fascinating pastimes in Hollywood is watching the plight of the gossip columnists trying to keep up with Terry's romances.

Her recent boy friends have ranged from Howard Hughes and Nicky Hilton to pro golfer Al Besselink and navy Lieut. Ray Nielsen a young doctor.

Her first husband was Glenn Davis, the pro football player.

What does she want in a man? Money? Looks?

"Money is unimportant. What does money do but give you independence? The next time I marry it will be in the Temple (the Church of Jesus Christ of Later-Day Saints) where it is 'until death do us part.'
